HAUPTMANN'S COUNSEL TO CHARGE 4 PERSONS WITH KIDNAP-SLAYING OF LINDBERGHS' BABY

GUARD MOBILIZING FOR STRIKE DUTY IN ROSSVILLE AREA

Hosiery Mill Plans To Reopen Monday and Judge Porter Wires Governor Request for State Troops.

TRUCKS ORDERED FOR TRANSPORT

Adjutant-General's 'Flying Squadron' Among Units Expected To Move Tonight or Monday.

ROSSVILLE, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Fear of violence in the hosiery mill strike here, tonight found national guardsmen being mobilized to move into Rossville as the Richmond mill planned to open Monday with new workers replacing those who fail to return to their machines.

This small town is at the border of Tennessee and Georgia and this was one factor which led Superior Judge Claude Porter to request Governor Eugene Talmadge to provide national guardsmen.

Advertisements appeared in Chattanooga (Tenn.) papers today for workers to replace former employes in the Richmond plant. The advertisements were for boarders, knitters and inexperienced persons.

Officials of the mills said they planned to resume full operations in the main plant, but the Arrowhead mill, which is the full-fashioned unit on the Tennessee side of the state line, will remain closed. The Arrowhead plant has been shut down since before the recent wage reduction was posted. It was this cut that led to the strike in the main plant.

Sending of troops to Rossville has been [illegible] several days, ever since Sheriff [illegible] Keown, of Walker county, had described the situation as "grave" and charged night riders were intimidating workers by calling at their homes.

Sheriff Keown joined with the mayor of Rossville previously in asking for troops and Governor Talmadge informed them he would not dispatch guardsmen until Judge Porter requested them.

Telegram to Governor.

The judge today made his request in the following telegram to the governor:

"Situation in Rossville has become progressively more serious. Richmond Hosiery Mill advises me it will open Monday employing new help to take the place of any absentees.

"Under these conditions I believe violence beyond ability of civil authorities to control will occur. Proximity of state line makes situation more grave than otherwise would exist.

"To avoid violence and prevent personal injury and destruction of property I recommend that state troops be placed at Rossville before the opening Monday."

Governor Talmadge, at the state capitol in Atlanta, said he had received the message from Judge Porter, but declined comment.

Mill Picketed.

Pickets have been at the mill daily and their spokesmen said only a few workers were entering the mill, which has sought to run even with a skeleton force.

The men were called out last week by textile union officials in a wage dispute with the mill.

U.S. Bars 9 Magazines And Books as Obscene

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Nine books and magazines, most of them dealing with birth control, were barred from entry into the United States today by James H. Moyle, commissioner of customs, on the ground they were obscene.

Two other books seized by the collector of customs at New York—"The Rhythm of Sterility and Fertility in Women" by Leo J. Latz, published by Latz Foundation of Chicago, and "What Is Constructive Birth Control?" published in London—were given an official o. k.

The disputed periodicals were taken from Mrs. Hazel Moore, whose address was not given, September 24, 1934, and forwarded to Washington for review.

VITAL PROBLEMS AWAIT ASSEMBLY GONG JANUARY 14

Talmadge Program Practically Sure of Speedy Adoption; Other Issues Face Long Fights.

The Georgia legislature will convene in biennial session a week from Monday in what is expected to be the most important assembly in years, with the Talmadge program almost certain of speedy adoption and long and hotly contested fights in the offing on tax reform and prohibition repeal.

A concentrated effort to reduce to a minimum if not entirely eliminate state ad valorem taxes is to be launched at a meeting in Macon Tuesday when large holders of real estate will meet to map a plan for relief of their burdens, the plan to be laid before the legislature along with the hodgepodge of other ideas of exemptions, sales taxes and other reform movements.

The prohibition repeal movement, while widespread, thus far is leaderless, all opponents of the dry law seemingly waiting for the session before trying to organize, while prohibitionists appear agreed that there will be a referendum and have centered their fight on having it under a county unit basis, admittedly hoping for this as their only chance of keeping the dry law on the books. They feel that the small rural counties are still dry and have enough unit votes to keep the nearly 30-year-old law in force. The wets are combatting this with the claim that a county unit vote referendum is unconstitutional and are centering their efforts on having repeal by county option. There are various plans for control after repeal but none seems to be agreed on. Probably two dozen repeal plans will be offered. Which, if any, will be accepted remains to be seen.

Talmadge Bills First.

Leaders of the assembly have determined that first and foremost will

Ledbetter Sentenced For Ride-Rob Holdup

G. H. Ledbetter pleaded guilty Saturday before Judge G. H. Howard and was given 9 to 12 years for the ride-and-rob holdup of H. H. Hall, of 1686 Bankhead avenue, November 12. Sherman McArthur, indicted with Ledbetter, pleaded guilty in November and was given 10 to 12 years.

Hall suffered a serious slash on the face with a knife when he resisted the two men as they jumped on his car, but in scuffling with Ledbetter wounded the latter with his own gun. The bandits took Hall's automobile and $3 in money.

Alabama Pays Tribute to Conquering Heroes

More than 10,000 Alabama football followers thronged the station at Tuscaloosa Saturday morning to welcome the conquering Crimson heroes on their return home from a great victory over Stanford in the annual Rose Bowl football classic at Pasadena, Cal. Above are some members of the Crimson Tide team on the platform at the station during the welcome ceremonies. Roosevelt's Son Pays $10 Fine for Speeding

ORANGE, Conn., Jan. 5.—(UP) Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the president and a student at Harvard, stood before the bar of justice tonight and "took his medicine"—ten dollars' worth—for speeding 70 miles an hour on a Connecticut highway.

Scheduled to appear next Monday, after a postponement requested by his mother, the first lady, he voluntarily made the trip from Cambridge today "to get it over with."

STATE OUT OF RED, AUDITORS' REPORT FOR YEAR REVEALS

Georgia Finances Show Greatest Balance in History With Obligations Lowest in Years.

Georgia finished the year 1934 with the greatest balance in its financial history, $6,697,860, on hand January 1, and its obligations reduced to $4,068,108, lower than they have been in many years, State Auditor Tom Wisdom reported to Governor Talmadge Saturday.

The governor smiled broadly as he received the annual financial statement and declared that all departments of the state government carrying out his program of economy, together with the office of Comptroller General William B. Harrison, with the state revenue commission, which collect the taxes, were responsible for the splendid showing.

In discussing the situation, Governor Talmadge said that the auditor's report bore out in detail statements made by The Constitution in an exclusive survey of state finances two days before the end of the year.

"Never before in our history have we had such a balance," the state auditor reported. "We held expenses down to a minimum and our tax collections exceeded our anticipations."

In addition to building up the balance to a point where it exceeds the obligations, even though the funds on hand cannot be used to meet the obligations without action by the legislature, the governor and others associated with him wiped out a current cash deficit of $1,316,232 during the year, this action reducing the deficit to its present figure. This was a school loan which was paid out of current revenues.

Although allocated funds cannot be used to pay general fund obligations, which compose the present deficit, the legislature is expected to divert $2,000,000 from the state highway department to apply on the amounts due school teachers and Confederate pensioners. Governor Talmadge is back of the plan. He has pledged himself to rid the state of all of its obligations during the next two years but has not revealed what plan he will pursue to wipe out the $2,068,000 debt which will remain when the diverted fund is obtained.

Monies on Hand.

The report of the state auditor showed that there was on hand January 1 $878,113 in general fund revenues, $834,561 of which was due departments under the appropriations act and $43,552 of which was a cash surplus. There are some who believe that this remains with the departments, some of which have drawn on it since the first day of the new year.

THURSDAY IS SET FOR ACCUSATION BY DEFENSE AID

Prosecution Protests Plan To Withhold Identity of 2 Men, 2 Women Until State Completes Its Reconstruction of Crime.

BETTY GOW HINTED AS ONE OF QUARTET

Complete Alibi Will Be Established for Prisoner, Defense Attorney Declares in Statement.

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—The announcement of Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, that he would name four persons next week as the "actual kidnapers" of the Lindbergh baby evoked from Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr., tonight a challenge to name the persons immediately.

Reilly, in New York for the weekend recess of the Hauptmann trial on a charge of murdering Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., announced he would disclose the names of the four persons probably about Thursday.

Hauptmann, he said, was not one of them. He would not comment when asked directly if Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, was one of the four he intended to name.

"If Mr. Reilly knows any other persons connected with this case, as a member of the bar and as an officer of the court, he should disclose their identity to the prosecution authorities of Hunterdon county immediately" Hauck said.

"The state authorities are not attempting to persecute Hauptmann, but as far as the evidence thus far uncovered discloses he, and he alone, committed the crime."

Delay Not Understandable.

Hauck stated further that if Reilly can produce the persons he believes are actually the kidnapers, he cannot understand why the defense attorney desires to wait until the prosecution advances its case further.

He added he was glad to hear that the defense intends to put Hauptmann on the stand, and indicated cross-examination would be thorough.

Dr. John F. Condon, the Bronx pedagog who offered to contact the kidnaper and whose aid was enlisted by Colonel Lindbergh, probably will take the witness stand Tuesday to tell of his negotiations over the $50,000 ransom money, Attorney-General David T. Wilentz said.

Condon, a retired school teacher who advertised his notes to the kidnaper under the name of "Jafsie," a combination of his initials, will go to Trenton Sunday night for a conference with prosecution counsel, Wilentz said.

Quiz Condon Tuesday.

"We will put him on the stand Tuesday if the defense does not consume too much time in cross-examination," he said.

The state will produce early a

MAYOR WILL BEGIN 9TH YEAR MONDAY

Council, To Hold Two Sessions, Awaiting Committee Assignments.

The 1934 municipal political year will pass into history at two council meetings Monday and Mayor James L. Key will begin his ninth year as mayor of Atlanta—the longest record of service in the city's annals.

An anxious city council Saturday awaited 1935 committee assignments, but with less trepidation than in former years. Key, a grizzled veteran of more local political battles than any living man, has decided for the new year to divide committee appointments—in a word, abolish the "lookout committee" he established four years ago when he became mayor.

Key's inaugural address also is destined to command considerable interest if he touches on many matters which it is known he is considering.

Recommendations that the city establish a city liquor dispensary and divert all profits to the city treasury in order to avoid substantial pay reductions for employes and to provide funds for erection of a new city auditorium; acceptance of intangible securities and bank accounts for assessment purposes at 15 per cent and 3 per cent respectively, of their face value; consolidation of Atlanta and Fulton county school systems; continued economy in governmental operation and other matters will be given attention in the address.

Few Changes Anticipated.

Few committee changes are anticipated for the new year, but Key has announced publicly only one 1935 assignment—that of Councilman Aubrey Milam, of the eighth ward, as chairman of the finance committee.

Three new faces will be seen in the 1935 council. John W. Ball Jr. will succeed Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward; C. M. (Mac) Bolen will succeed Councilman Lester Brewer of the tenth ward, and former Alderman Alvin L. Richards, of the thirteenth, will succeed Councilman H. Parks Rusk, of the thirteenth.

The 1934 council, which meets for the last time at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the city hall, will consider several important matters prior to the reorganization session Monday night.

Important Matters.

Among them will be the following:

1. A resolution by Councilman Max M. Cuba, of the second ward, which reiterates council's stand against operation of a curb market at Washington street and Trinity avenue, but which asks selection of a committee of three to seek $100,000 for establishment of an adequate curb market here.

2. Proposal by Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the second ward, that the city name a committee of five to consider what measures the state should take to control liquor sales in the event of repeal of the state dry laws. The measure also empowers the council group to increase membership to 15 for the fifth congressional district and recommends that the other nine Georgia districts to do likewise in order that the findings may be of value to the Georgia assembly.

3. Election of C. W. Hester, teller at the Mitchell street branch of the Citizens & Southern National bank, to succeed Ed L. Almand, resigned third ward councilman.

4. Election of Louis Geffen, to suc-

F. D. R. Asks $880,000,000 To End Dole, Launch Works

20-Point Program Is Expected To Be Submitted Piecemeal From White House During Coming Week.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—With majority leaders already having pledged approval by their followers, congress will tackle immediately next week an $880,000,00 appropriation to taper off the dole and then turn at once to a work relief program embracing more than four times that amount.

Conferees of President Roosevelt disclosed this line-up today as the lead for a 20-point program to be submitted piecemeal from the White House. Work will be started immediately after receipt on Monday of what they described as an $8,000,000,000 budget message.

These same leaders predicted that congress would approve the relief measures without undue delay and with probably only slight change.

Probably on Monday Mr. Roosevelt is to send his request for the $880,000,000 emergency relief appropriation designed to taper off direct handouts by next November. Later in the week he is scheduled to transmit a special message calling for the creation of a new setup to handle some $4,000,000,000 in carrying out his work-relief program until private industry absorbs some 3,500,000 employables and for the return of around 1,500,000 unemployables to local relief.

LONG ANNOUNCES OIL COMPROMISE

Agrees To Rebate Tax and Standard Agrees To Use State Crude.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long said here tonight that the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana controversy over his refiners' tax which threatened to result in the laying off of 1,000 oil workers had been "compromised" and that only approval by the New York office of the company was awaited for final settlement.

Long said the "compromise" provided for a rebate to the Standard Oil of 4 cents of the 5-cent per barrel tax on all Louisiana oil and foreign oil refined for a period of 90 days to four months while the company switches over from the use of foreign oil to Louisiana-produced crude.

Long said the compromise provided for the use by the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana of 80 per cent Louisiana crude and 20 per cent foreign crude in their refining business.

After the 90-day period the state will rebate the 4 cents per gallon on Louisiana crude only.

Long said that J. C. Hilton, of New Orleans, president of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, was in his room and agreed to the compromise and that the approval by the head office of the company in New York was awaited.

The senator declared that if the compromise on rebate could not be carried out without a legislative act the legislature would be called into session and enabling legislation enacted.

He said the oil debate of the com-

CITY TAX VALUES INCREASE SHOWN

Milam Plans Revision of Budget Anticipation To Match Gain.

Increase in Atlanta's taxable properties for the first time since 1931, as disclosed Saturday in the 1934 digest of city tax assessors, caused Councilman Aubrey Milam, who will head the 1935 finance committee of council, to ask Mayor James L. Key to reconvene the budget commission for the purpose of revising its anticipations for the new year.

At the same time Milam issued a statement regarding the fine financial showing the city has made for the year, and promising that city records will be revised in order that the fiscal condition of the city may be more nearly known in the future.

His statement was precipitated because several weeks ago he issued a memorandum on 1935 finances, which showed a decrease of $20,000,000 in taxable valuations. The figures had been furnished him by J. C. Little, senior tax assessor.

"I feel that the budget commission can well revise its figures in view of the report of assessors," Milam said. "I conferred with Mayor James L. Key and he agreed to assemble the budget commission about Thursday before the meeting on the finance committee Friday to begin a study of a 1935 budget. Our revenue estimates are too low, in view of the assessors statement."

Net Gain Shown.

Total taxable property for 1934, according to the assessors report Saturday, was $349,089,771, an increase of $19,738,752 over 1933 in personal property valuations, and a loss of $10,603,985 on real estate, but showing a net gain of $9,134,587 for the year.

Personal property for 1934 was

BANDIT IS SOUGHT IN THREE HOLDUPS

Two Other Robbery Attempts Made by Negro Netting Loot of $77.

A lone negro bandit, armed with a nickel-plated pistol, is thought by police to have been the perpetrator of three filling station holdups within an hour and a half Saturday night which netted the marauder $77.74.

S. C. Monfort, operator of a filling station at the corner of Spring street and West Peachtree place, was the first victim, losing only $10 to the bandit when he overlooked $20 hidden in the cash drawer under a cigar box. Shortly afterward, A. A. Duke, operator of a filling station at Courtland street and Auburn avenue, lost $32.74 to an armed negro bandit.

The third holdup occurred at a filling station at 383 West Peachtree street, operated by W. J. Murphy, who was robbed of $35. Only a general description of the negro could be obtained but this tallied in each case, as did the description of the revolver carried by the bandit.

A negro answering the same description as the filling station bandit, including the nickel-plated revolver, also attempted to hold up the L. P. Cobb Furniture Company at 271 Marietta street, and the Campbell Jewelry Company at 221 Marietta street. Cobb, refusing the order of the holdup man to throw up his hands, drew a pistol and fired three times at the negro. The negro took two shots at Cobb before fleeing, empty-handed.

Entering the Campbell Jewelry store, the negro attempted to shoot C. R. Campbell, the owner, and Campbell also refused to obey his

Insull Must Stand Trial Again Monday

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Samuel Insull must go on trial again it appeared today, this time in criminal court on charges of embezzling $66,000 from the Middle West Utilities Company.

He will appear Monday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in criminal court for the setting of a trial date.

Prosecution of the case will be handled by Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora, Earle Hurley and William J. Lancaster.

The state is ready for trial but it is expected Judge Harrington will grant a continuance because of the absence of Floyd Thompson, Insull's attorney.

Insull is charged with embezzling $66,000 from the company and transferring it to a brokerage account maintained by his brother, Martin.

11 Jailed in DeKalb, $2,000 Loot Seized

Eleven negroes were arrested and $2,000 worth of loot believed stolen by burglars from Druid Hill homes was recovered Saturday night by DeKalb county officers.

Chief W. O. Parker and his men worked several days in breaking up what they called an organized gang of negro burglars. The loot recovered was clothing and jewelry, which is being held at the DeKalb jail for identification by owners. In addition to this amount, the officers said one of the negroes had pawn tickets on goods for which he received between $1,000 and $1,500.

The negroes confessed 12 burglaries, the last of which they said occurred December 27. They gave the names of Charlie Johnson, 900 Spencer street; Susie Eagle, 441 Irwin street; Wallace Jones, 80 1-2 Jackson street; Tom Ponders (who had the pawn tickets), his wife, Idonia Panders; Annie Lou Scott and Ruby Baker, all of 395 1-2 Old Wheat street; Joe Watts, 94 Jackson street; Willie Crann, 630 Pulliam, and Roosevelt Williams and Rezzie Swain, of a Houston street address.

Navy Seeks To Seize All Ships for War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The navy, with new, fleet-strengthening ships under construction, sought today to further multiply the sea force upon which it might call in time or war by asking the right to conscript all private vessels for naval auxiliaries.

Secretary Swanson wrote Chairman Vinson, democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee, that "the prompt procurement for use as naval auxiliaries of a large number of privately-owned or operated ships at the outset of war, or when a national emergency is imminent, is essential to the national defense."

The government could take over only a limited number of ships under present law. These include those having mail contracts, those purchased, leased or chartered from the United States shipping board, and those which obtained federal construction loans which have not been paid.

AERIAL 'INVASION' OF SOUTH PLANNED

Hundred Fully Equipped Planes To Participate in Maneuvers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A swarm of nearly 100 fighting planes will wing southward at dawn on Monday for a month's aerial invasion of the gulf coast states that will make aeronautical history.

"For the first time in the history of military aviation, an aerial armada will take the air prepared to carry out mimic warfare in the skies under as near actual war conditions as possible," said Major B. Q. Jones, small, dynamic commander of the second wing of the newly-organized general headquarters air force.

"When we hop off from Langley Field we will be nearly 100 strong—bombers, pursuit fighters, and cargo planes—and we will carry our own camp equipment, supplies and fuel for four week's sky maneuvers over 5,000 miles of terrain.

"Over Atlanta, Miami, Tampa, Tallahassee and Montgomery—or in the skies somewhere in the vicinity of those cities—we will stage prearranged tactical aerial maneuvers. Two or three of those 'dog fights,' however, will not be prearranged. Half of the planes will be designated as the 'red' wing and the other half as the 'white' wing and told to go to it!

To Photograph Hits.

"Then they'll go into action just as though they were over No-Man's Land or in enemy skies. They'll be up against it to fight their way out of any swarm of enemy planes that may come zooming down on them."

Major Jones explained that while the planes would not fire real bullets in the mimic sky battles they would carry camera guns and every hit would be photographically registered.

"It will be a real test," he said, "to see how quickly a large aerial unit can concentrate in an emergency, what is necessary for a sustained flight into enemy country, and what happens when some of the boys meet the other fellows."

The second wing, commanded by Jones, is composed of the second bombardment group (20th, 49th, and 96th bombardment squadrons), 8th pursuit group (33rd, 35th, 36th and 37th pursuit squadrons), 19th airship squadron, and 58th and 59th service squadrons.

At Atlanta in February.

Major Willis H. Hale commands the bombers, Captain Albert M. Guidera, the fighting planes, and Captain Clarence B. Lober the lighter-than-air squadron.

Since the flight will be as far as 1,000 miles from the base of the planes some of the supplies will be transported by motor equipment.

While the actual location of the planes on definite dates will depend on the development and status of the assumed tactical situations the approximate time of concentration at each city will be as follows:

Miami, January 10, 11, 12; Tampa, January 13.16; Tallahassee, January 17-20; Mobile, January 22, 23; New Orleans, January 25, 26, 27; Maxwell Field, January 29-31; Fort Benning, February 1; Atlanta, February 3-5.

"Disappearing House" Mystery Cleared Up

The mystery of the disappearing house which stood in the rear of 184 Ellis street, N. W., was cleared up Saturday night when Radio Patrolmen Eugene Head and F. A. Turner traced portions of the house to eight near-by negro dwellings.

In one house, according to Head, a negro woman, nursing a broken ankle, was supervising the actions of two negro boys whom she had employed to bring her allotment of the house to her home. The house has gradually been disappearing for the last two days, or since announcement was made of an impending cold wave, according to Head.

Public utility revenues were made up of $20,925,352 and $78,814,464 from the regular digest. Real estate valuations were arrived at by assessing public utilities at $9,293,443 and other real estate, independent of utilities, at $240,056,512.

Street taxes for 1934 were $97,806. In 1933, they were $84,495, and registered a gain of $13,311 for 1934.

On the basis of assessments and valuations released Saturday, the city will get $5,547,991.31 in 1934, as against the estimated revenue of $5,538,000, carried in the finance sheet, thus showing a gain of $9,991.31 over anticipations.

A total of $213,838.75 was assessed for 1934 as against $214,628.50 for 1933, registering a loss of $789.75.

Statement by Little.

Little issued the following statement regarding the assessments and the condition of his office:

"For the year 1933, 41 per cent of the names (taxpayers) on our current digest were in default, or went to fi. fa. October 15, representing 27 per cent of the total amount of tax levied. In 1934, only 27 per cent of the total number of names (taxpayers) recorded on the digest were in default or went to fi. fa. on October 15, representing 22 per cent of the total amount of the total tax levied. It will be noted that there is a reduction of 14 per cent in the number of accounts going to fi. fa. with a 5 per cent reduction in the actual amount of tax levied as compared with 1933, indicating that the number of small taxpayers going to fi. fa. has reduced in a greater proportion than the larger taxpayers.

"In 1934, $280,505.75 less in fi. fas. was issued than in 1933 on our current digest, another indication of improved conditions enabling taxpayers to meet their taxes before going to default.

"We have added to the digest of 1934, 5,159 names more than in 1933."

On the basis of the 1934 digest report, the budget commission has cut 1935 revenues about $300,000 less than will be received, and Milam is insisting that the commission meet and revise its figures before the finance committee attempts to make up a 1935 budget.

Text of Milam's statement regarding the accuracy of his previous memorandum follows:

Milam Statement.

"A few weeks ago I sought in a memorandum to members of general council to simplify as much as possible the city's financial condition and its prospects for another year. In doing so I used in good faith figures submitted by the comptroller's office, which in turn had been furnished him by the heads of all revenue departments of the city. Estimates furnished by the tax assessors' office, and based on the best information then available to them, indicated a shortage in the 1934 budget committee's estimate of twenty millions in taxable values, or a revenue shortage of around three hundred thousand dollars.

"To the agreeable surprise of all concerned, it now develops that the original estimate of taxable values was reached last year, and instead of increasing the deficit there will probably be a slight reduction. No one is happier over this than I, nor is any one more anxious to furnish council with dependable information. In a conference with the assessors I was told that current records will be kept which should prevent a recurrence of such widely inaccurate estimates in the future. This is vitally necessary, as in the absence of such information we might just as easily over-anticipate expenditures.

"That the city not only lived within its budget last year, but even made a slight reduction in its deficit is gratifying, and by such methods only can it remain in a sound condition. In light of these developments and in order to estimate more intelligently next year's budget, the mayor has agreed to call a meeting of the budget committee Thursday afternoon, January 10, at 3 o'clock, for such revision as may be warranted. A meeting of the finance committee will be called Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock to expresss the sincerity of my desire that all statements regarding the city's finances be truthful, and to say they will always be disclosed fully, frankly and freely if I have sense enough to do it."

James Sledd, of Decatur (left), and W. D. Lewis, of Augusta, named Georgia candidates for Rhodes scholarship awards in the competition held Saturday, are shown above in the lower picture. The Georgia contestants and the judges are seen at the top in the committee room of the Citizens & Southern bank, where the contest was held. They are, reading from left to right, front row: Judges: R. P. Brooks, Allen Post, Robert Alston, chairman of the committee; Hervey Cleckley and J. M. Richards; second row, contestants; J. J. Flynt Jr., Robert Stephens, Wagner Alexander, Sidney Weinstein, Meldrin Thompson, James Sledd and Albert Saye; third row, contestants: W. F. Quillian, George Cuttino, J. W. Combs Jr., W. L. Brady, Woolvin L. Patten, James Tolbert and W. D. Lewis. Staff photo.

W. D. Lewis, of Augusta, and Jimmy Sledd, of Decatur, Saturday were named Georgia candidates for Rhodes scholarships following the competition held in the Citizens & Southern Bank building.

The two youths will enter the district competition Monday morning at the Biltmore hotel when two candidates from each of the six states in the third, or southern, district gather to decide who will win the four scholarships to Oxford University in England.

The scholarships are for two years, with a possible third year if the student makes good in the university there and wants to continue his studies.

A committee, composed of Robert Ashton, chairman; Dr. R. P. Brooks, Alston, chairman; Dr. R. P. Brooks, M. Richards, sat in session all day Saturday interviewing each of the 15 candidates separately. They rendered their decision late in the afternoon.

W. D. Lewis, whose home is in Augusta, will return to that city tonight, where he will stay until the trials Monday. Jimmy Sledd, of course, will return to his home in Decatur.

The candidates who will gather Monday at the Biltmore are from the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee.

W. D. Lewis is a senior at Harvard University, where he will get his degree this June, and Jimmy Sledd is a junior at Emory University.

The other students who competed in the trials here were W. L. Brady, Atlanta; D. W. Smith, Atlanta; R. G. Stephens, Atlanta; Albert Saye, Macon; J. J. Flynt Jr., Griffin; J. W. Alexander, Jefferson; J. W. Combs Jr., Covington; George Cuttino, Newnan; Sidney Weinstein, Macon, Woolvin L. Patten, Macon; James Tolbert, Columbus; Meldrin Thomson Jr., Macon, and William Quillian Jr., of Nashville, entered from Emory University.

TENNESSEE SOLONS TO STUDY SALES TAX

Measure Is Listed as One of Foremost at Monday's Session.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(AP) A sales tax looms as the most important proposal that will come before the 75-day biennial session of the Tennessee legislature, opening Monday.

Liquor legislation has assumed a position far down the list due to Governor Hill McAlister's expressed determination to resist any effort to permit nothing stronger than 3.2 beer.

While the governor has remained silent on his attitude towards a sales tax, it was the major topic of conversation among legislators. A 3 per cent levy on gross receipts was estimated to yield between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000 annually.

Those favoring such a proposal point to the fact that Tennessee will be called upon to contribute about $2,500,000 a year for relief. Up to the present the federal government has borne the major part of the relief burden in the state.

Revenue from a sales levy, under one plan receiving consideration, would be used for relief, for aiding the anemic general fund and possibly for matching the federal aid fund, with a third at least going to the counties for school purposes.

The consensus was that if a sales tax is enacted and part of it allocated to the counties, the counties should be required to make a proportionate cut in their local levies, particularly the one on property.

OUT-OF-STATE STUDENTS ARE SELECED IN FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Cadet Lieutenant George R. Smith, of the United States Military Academy, and Mack Goode, of Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Conn., today were selected as Florida's representatives in the district examination for Rhodes scholarships at Atlanta.

Smith, whose home is Coronado Beach, Fla., and Goode, who lives at Tallahassee, will be examined with representatives of five other southern states at Atlanta tomorrow, when four Rhodes scholars to Oxford University, in England, will be named.

Winners of the scholarships will enter Oxford at the beginning of the fall, 1935 term.

Others who were examined here today by the Florida board of selection were: Edward H. Harrison, of Pensacola, University of Florida; Lionel W. Nelson, of Lakeland, Southern College; James Tillman Pearson, Miami, University of Miami; Leonard Roth, of Lakeland, Rollins College; William Winkler, Voigt, of St. Petersburg, University of Florida.

come the Talmadge program, calling for enactment of the $3 auto tag, approval of the governor's removal of the old public service commission, diversion of accrued highway funds and other measures to pay past-due salaries to school teachers and past-due Confederate pensions as well as wipe out other state obligations of long standing, provide a constitutional amendment fixing the term of governor at four years instead of two and provide for the office of lieutenant governor.

The governor also is committed to establishment of a state highway police system, equipped with radio and capable of functioning as a police system to augment local authorities in time of need and also to arrange so that the state can write its own insurance. He already has put the self-insuring plan into use, pending approval by the legislature.

There are some reports that the governor also will ask the legislature to combine the departments of forestry and geological development with the department of game and fish into a new department of conservation and that he will favor, if not directly ask for, a law putting the department of entomology back into the department of agriculture. The latter was given credence Saturday when Representative T. V. Williams, of Coffee county, an out-and-out Talmadge man, announced he had prepared a bill abolishing the department of entomology as it is now set up and creating an entomology division in the department of agriculture. Whether this will be done seems up to Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder, who has kept his views on the matter closely guarded.

To Form Organization.

The announcement by the real estate leaders that they planned to lay a concrete program before the legislature came Saturday. At Macon Tuesday the Georgia Real Estate Taxpayers' Association is to be organized.

The movement is sponsored by the Georgia Real Estate Board and leading property owners throughout the state, and the Macon meeting will be attended by delegations from practically every city in Georgia, according to A. S. Hopkins, executive vice president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board.

The program of the new association provides for the submission to the voters of the state of a proposition to eliminate ad valorem taxes, leaving it up to the legislature to provide substitute revenues.

R. C. Mizell, Atlanta real estate broker, will call the meeting at Macon, to be held in the Dempsey hotel, to order. He will introduce R. C. Neely Jr., Waynesboro businessman, who in turn will present T. P. Saffold, prominent Savannah property owner. Kenmore Burns Sr., will welcome the visitors to Macon, and W. T. Anderson, Macon publisher, will outline the aims of the organization.

Election of officers of the new association and the outlining of future plans will comprise the remaining business on the program, Mr. Hopkins announced.

Twelve "Key" Cities.

Working secretly, sponsors of the movement have organized the entire state. Twelve "key" cities have been designated, from which county organizations will be formed to bring pressure to bear upon the legislature to call an election to submit the proposition to the voters. The "key" cities are Atlanta, Rome, Gainesville, Athens, Augusta, Macon, Columbus, Albany, Valdosta, Waycross, Brunswick and Savannah.

Among Atlantans who will attend the Macon meeting are Frank Carter, B. M. Grant, A. B. Cates, Ben Jones, Horace Fincher, F. H. Robinson, Hugh Richardson, R. K. Raub, Walter Candler, John Stewart, G. M. Stout, Morris Ewing and Mr. Hopkins.

There seems to be no accord among the leaders of the house of representatives where all finance matters must be launched on the tax situation.

Speaker E. D. Rivers, who is unopposed for re-election, is a sales tax advocate. Speaker Pro Tem. Ellis G. Arnall, also unopposed for re-election, is against the sales tax. Yet on practically every other matter they are in complete accord. Representative John Spivey, of Emanuel county, slated to be chairman of the house ways and means committee, has maintained a strict silence regarding taxation.

Governor Silent.

Governor Talmadge has been silent on taxation, preferring to let the legislature have its say first.

Then there are those who think the entire taxing plan should be revamped from start to finish. They say that a sales tax has a part in such a plan, but most of these folks say the sales tax should not be as heavy as the five per cent Speaker Rivers proposes.

There is still another group which insists that homesteads should be exempted from all taxation up to $2,500 or $5,000. Others say such exemptions would bankrupt most of the counties of the state. Still the clamor continues for relief of the taxpayer.

Some say that relief will be found for the property tax payer only when the school problem is solved. They say school taxes are responsible for most of the tax burden. There has been talk that a concerted movement would be made in the legislature for the state to take over entirely the operation of the school system, relieving the counties and local sub-divisions of this responsibility. Local bond issues and debts complicate the issue somewhat.

Revenue Problem.

The source of revenue for such a state-wide school system is another problem—and another issue. Advocates of the plan say that although the state would have to assume a greater part of the job of collecting revenue, it would not have to collect as much, since they claim the state-wide control of schools would save money.

These are but a few of the issues the legislature will meet. In addition to its bills of state-wide import, there will be the usual flood of local bills, affecting only certain municipalities and counties of the state.

Out of this conglomeration of bills, it will decide which ones pass, which ones die.

But political observers are saying that there will doubtless be many changes in state governmental operations before the session is ended.

Under the constitution as amended the assembly meets the second Monday in January, holds a 10-day organization meeting and then can either follow immediately with the 60-day session or have it in July. No one has said anything about going home until July and everyone is taking for granted that the entire session will be under way once the gavels are sounded January 14.

Walker's Ex-Wife Takes Job at Night Club

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The former first lady of New York city, Janet Allen Walker, is giving a helping hand today to the business her dapper ex-husband, "Jimmy" Walker, did much to make popular—night clubs.

While the former mayor (now married to the one-time show girl, Betty Compton) has turned from night clubs to literature—he is writing a weekly column for a London newspaper—the former Mrs. Walker is assisting in the details connected with Bill Dwyer's Palm Island Club.

The club is just a short distance from the palace-mansion of Al Capone, the one-time public enemy No. 1 now serving a prison sentence for income tax frauds.

The management of the club was quite emphatic today in stating that Mrs. Walker, a former vaudeville performer, is not a hostess. She has been assisting "in arranging various details about the club."

Laundress Entertains Town's "Best People"

FALLS CITY, Neb., Jan. 5.—(AP) Hard work wins.

Mrs. Irene Collier for 30 years bent over a washtub doing the washing for the prominent families of Falls City. Then she had a party.

Those who came included a former congressman, John H. Moorehead, bankers, doctors and all of the best-known residents of the town.

The occasion was a little fire. In it the $7,000 mortgage on her home went up in smoke.

FORGED ROAD CHECKS FOUND IN TENNESSEE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Commissioner H. S. Walters today warned that forged state highway department checks were being circulated in Tennessee.

He said 10 checks, of $25 and $27.50 denominations, had been cashed by a Chattanooga firm. They did not bear the signature of either Walters or Assistant Commissioner O. F. Goetz.

DEKALB COLLECTIONS 66 PER CENT OF TOTAL

Commissioner Also Reports Interest Rate Cut for County Warrants.

The healthy condition of the finances of DeKalb county were reflected in the announcement Saturday that 66 per cent of the 1934 county taxes had been collected and that a reduction from 7 to 6 per cent had been made in the interest rates for DeKalb county warrants.

The collection of the DeKalb county taxes, according to Homer Howard, tax commissioner, is the best in five years. He reported that county tax collections through December 20 totaled $286,046.72, whereas total anticipated revenues were $434,572.43. Of the anticipated state revenues of $135,214.78, a total of $84,101.32 already has been collected, he stated.

During the past week, which in normal years is a poor one for tax collections because of the usual holiday aftermath, more than $15,000 was collected, Mr. Howard said.

The one per cent reduction in the interest rate for DeKalb county warrants was announced by County Commissioner C. A. Matthews, who stated the reduction was the first in 20 years. All warrants issued by DeKalb county can be cashed at the First National bank, county depository, at face value, he said.

Alabama Train Wreck Kills 1 and Injures 2

ANNISTON, Ala., Jan. 5.—(AP)—One trainman was killed and two others were injured, one seriously, this afternoon as a Birmingham to Atlanta Southern railway freight train was wrecked by a cave-in of a fill near Edwardsville, 15 miles east of here.

Homer Collier, of Birmingham, a brakeman, was crushed to death in the wreckage as the engine and seven cars went over an embankment.

William Strange, engineer, of Birmingham, was severely scalded and hospital attendants here said his condition was grave.

The third member of the crew injured was Jack McWhorter, fireman, but his condition was not considered serious.

Officials of the Southern railway in Birmingham said passenger traffic would be routed via Rome, Ga., to Atlanta until the roadway is restored, which it was anticipated would take about 24 hours.

TRAMMELL WOULD BAN ARMY, NAVAL PHOTOS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Senator Trammell, democrat, Florida, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, has introduced in the senate a bill to make a federal offense of unpermitted photographing or sketching of military or naval equipment.

The measure would require permission of the commanding officer of any military post or station or ship before pictures or sketches could be made. These protographs or drawings are to be submitted for censorship. Violation of the act would entail a fine up to $1,000, a year imprisonment, or both.

The bill was introduced yesterday, a few days after the arrest and subsequent release of a Japanese naval officer after he had snapped pictures of St. Petersburg (Fla.) harbors.

TIE-UP OF FUNDS OF ORLEANS ASKED

Petition for Injunction Follows Charges of Illegal Expenditures.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A petition asking for an injunction to tie up funds of the city of New Orleans was filed in civil district court today on behalf of Governor O. K. Allen and Attorney-General Gaston L. Porterie.

Simultaneously another petition was filed in the state supreme court that an outside judge be appointed to preside over the hearing on the civil court petition for injunction.

The petition which was made against the mayor and the commission council charged that unlawful and unconstitutional debts had been contracted by the city and that the books of the city were in such shape that it was impossible to determine which debts were legal and illegal.

Injunction Sought.

The petition asked for a temporary injunction and concurso to prevent further payment of city funds towards indebtedness except funds for the bonded indebtedness of the city.

The petition claimed that the city owed $6,280,612.36 as of August 31, 1934.

In asking for an outside judge to preside at the hearing on the petition the administration, mastered by Senator Huey P. Long, sought to escape a judge who had been elected on a ticket of the city administration and obtain one that had been elected by the state administration.

Illegal Borrowing Charged.

The petition charged that the city administration had illegally borrowed money from local banks and diverted money intended to pay bonded indebtedness to other purposes. It alleged that irregularities began in 1930.

During the past three or four years Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, first a political ally of Senator Long and then his fiercest political foe, has been at the helm of the city government.

Long as the dictator is now striving to overthrow the Walmsley administration and annex New Orleans to his political machine.

Senator Long said the suit was designed to throw the city's books into court to "find out how much the city owes and who they owe."

He said the city's books were in "miserable shape," that the city "kept two sets of books, one set says one thing and the other set says another thing."

Millions in Arrears.

"The city is four to five million dollars in arrears," he said, "and we can't tell what it is."

He said an open hearing on the injunction would be held in court and in his opinion the procedure which the court should follow would not tie up salaries of policemen, firemen or school teachers.

"That certainly would not be my idea," Long declared.

Long charged in his statement that the city had "misused" $2,000,000 of the highway road building.

The senator said he expected to go to Washington tonight.

Long said that the legal counsel for the state administration had informed him that the suit did not affect running accounts of the city but applied to "just open accounts and bank debts."

D. S. C. IS AGAIN SOUGHT FOR ATLANTA VETERAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—For the second time within two years Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, has introduced in the house a bill to allow the distinguished service cross for service in the World War to Private Lewis Hazard, 635 Bonaventure avenue, Atlanta. The measure just presented by Mr. Ramspeck was referred to the committee on military affairs of which Representative John McSwain, of South Carolina, is chairman.

Specifically the bill authorizes the war department to confer upon Private Hazard the distinguished service cross for conspicuous gallantry in action as a member of Company C, 109th machine gun battalion, 28th division, United States army on August 10, 1918, at Fismes, France.

RAW COTTON INDUSTRY TO GET CODE HEARING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today called a hearing on a proposed code for the raw cotton industry to be held in Washington January 23.

The code would seek to regulate the buying, selling, trading in or marketing of cotton after it is ginned and would include cotton textile mills.

THE DOCTOR AND HIS PUBLIC

...Some of the Things You Expect of Your Doctor

It is not a matter of making a purchase of a service or merchandise, when you deal with your Doctor. The average person expects much more from his physician than from almost any other individual with whom he deals.

Naturally, the physician is expected to be thoroughly educated and informed on modern medical practice. He is expected to have every facility for diagnosis, with an office equipped to conveniently and efficiently meet any need or emergency.

The Doctor is expected to arrange his social, business and domestic affairs so that he can be reached any minute, and to have modern motor facilities at his disposal in order to answer your call without delay.

He is expected, even by the free clinic patient, to be well-groomed, well-dressed and appear prosperous and professional.

The average Doctor spends most of his time, energy and money trying to meet these expectations. He is usually studying, buying and working to better serve his patients.

Your doctor wants to keep you well — Lane wants to help!

HAUPTMANN AID TO ACCUSE FOUR

Reilly Sets Next Thursday as Day for Naming 'Actual Kidnapers.'

woman witness, a friend of the Hauptmann family who will testify, prosecutors said, that she examined the $400 radio that Hauptmann bought in May, 1932, shortly after the kidnaping.

The radio also will be brought into court.

The woman will testify, it was said, that she and Mrs. Anna Hauptmann found a large roll of bills when they opened the radio.

When she turned to Mrs. Hauptmann in surprise for an explanation, she was told:

"Just some money my husband made in the stock market and put there for safekeeping. He thinks it's safer than banks."

State authorities have been investigating reports that three defense handwriting experts have been preparing notes in handwriting similar to Hauptmann's in an effort to show it is easily duplicated, it was learned.

Theory of "Gang."

The state still believes the defense will try to prove that a gang kidnaped the child and then tried to make Hauptmann the scapegoat. State police have shadowed the handwriting experts.

Reilly gave no hint of the identities of the four persons he said were guilty. He made his announcement at a special press conference in his Brooklyn, N. Y., offices. He said:

"On next Thursday I shall name four persons.

"Two of those I shall name are women. Two are men.

"Neither of the men I shall name is Bruno Hauptmann."

Johnson "Mentioned."

The florid Brooklyn lawyer declined to say whom he would name. To a specific question as to Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, he declined to make answer. He did, however, mention "Red" Johnson, who is no longer in this country, as follows.

"Miss Gow was on more or less friendly terms with Red Johnson, who was around Englewood (where the Lindberghs spent part of their time). He was examined at the time of the crime. However, I do not want to see him."

The lawyer commented, in passing, that Miss Gow "showed no hysteria, crying, or the usual symptoms a woman would normally show when a child to which she was closely attached is stolen. She was cold."

Reilly's Statement.

Reilly said:

"We intend to use three groups of witnesses to free Hauptmann. One group will establish a complete alibi. A second will involve handwriting experts. The third will be made up of fingerprint experts.

"I have felt all along that Hauptmann would get off. From the beginning I have believed that there was more than one person in this crime, yet the indictment names Hauptmann exclusively.

"All the surrounding circumstances indicate that Colonel Lindbergh and his wife were imposed upo by some one in the household. Yesterday, for example, it was brought out in the testimony that the baby was unaccustomed to strangers and that no one had access to the child except those connected with the household."

Reilly expressed satisfaction with the results of his long cross-examination yesterday of Colonel Lindbergh. He said the flyer was "a perfect witness for our side."

Hauptmann to Appear.

Hauptmann himself will be the first witness when the defense gets its chance, Reilly said. The prisoner, pale as a ghost now and lean-faced almost to the point of emaciation, has been studying at odd moments to improve his English. While he has been in America more than 10 years, he speaks with a pronounced accent and is sometimes difficult to understand.

Hauptmann who has been tight-lipped during all the weeks he has been in custody, had one comment to make after listening for hours to the examination and cross-examination of Colonel Lindbergh.

"It is terrible to kill a baby," Hauptmann told Reilly. "Whoever did it is a terrible person."

Reilly said Hauptmann was "terribly moved" by the recital of the sorrow that visited the Sourland hills home of the Lindberghs the night of March 1, 1932.

"He is cheerful, though," Reilly added, "because he knows he is innocent."

Importance of Ladder.

One of the important pieces of evidence in the state's case is the ladder found outside the Lindbergh home the night of the kidnaping. It has bolstered the theory that a kidnaper climbed to a nursery window, took the baby from his crib, and descended.

Asked about the ladder today, Reilly said it was "just scenery," implying that it may have been placed where it was found to turn suspicion away from the actual means of kidnaping. "It was more or less a plant," he added.

At Tauton, Mass., Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations which led to the payment of $50,000 in ransom money, declined to say whether he would identify Hauptmann as the man to whom he paid over the money. He said he is holding his opinion of the identity "in abeyance."

Reilly said he will introduce fingerprint experts, all of whom will testify that the ransom notes were not written by Hauptmann. One is a specialist in Teutonic handwriting.

Town Is Deserted.

Except for the jury—which is restricted over the holiday to walks and conversation Hauptman is about the only interested party in the trial who has not left town. Hauptmann was perturbed today when they gave him a newspaper with most of the news torn out. He is allowed one paper a day of his own choosing, but all references to his own case are deleted.

Hauptmann was not advised today of his mother's comments on the trial as given to an Associated Press writer in Kamenz, Germany. Reasserting her conviction that her son is innocent, Frau Hauptmann said she thought his arrest was the work of "enemies who want to destroy his life because they envy his happy marriage."

Two theories, one already sharply outlined by evidence, and the other still vague and hastily sketched—give the Hauptmann jury totally different pictures of how the Lindbergh child was kidnaped.

Single-Handed Criminal.

In the state's hypothesis Hauptmann is the arch criminal who single-handed abducted and murdered the baby, taking the child from its nursery crib down the kidnap ladder and away to the spot near Mt. Rose where he buried the little body in a shallow grave.

The German ex-convict plays an entirely different role in the indicated defense reconstruction of the case. He is the innocent victim of circumstances being tried for a crime which was committed by two men and two women who perpetrated the kidnaping by carrying the baby down the stairs through the house and out a ground-floor door.

The state has already painstakingly presented the initial evidence on which it relies to prove its contention Hauptman climbed up to the nursery window, stole the baby, took it down the ladder, and then fled.

Ladder Is Important.

The expertly-fashioned kidnap ladder has not yet been produced in court but Colonel Lindbergh and Charles Williamson, of the Hopewell police, have been described how they found the abandoned ladder a short distance from the house.

Both, too, have told of seeing the imprints of the ends of the ladder made in the soft clay soil under the southeast window of the nursery, and of the footprints around those impressions. Williamson also recalled how the footprints led from that spot under the window to the abandoned ladder.

The shutters of the kidnap window were open, they agreed, but the window itself had been carefully closed—a point which the defense stressed repeatedly in its cross-examination of the two witnesses.

Defense Charges "Inside."

The defense theory, sensational but still only briefly indicated, will be based on the charge that a group of four persons, some or all of them closely connected with the Lindbergh or Morrow households, did the crime.

Still unnamed is the shadowy ghost of the Hauptmann case, Isador Fisch, the consumptive business partner of the defendant who died in Germany early in 1934. Fisch is Hauptmann's explanation for the ransom money found in his possession. "Fisch gave it to me," is the alien's stubbornly reiterated contention.

Whether any of these characters named by the defense will be listed in the kidnap band of plotters Reilly says he will name next week is a matter for speculation. There is strong belief in some quarters that the tubercular Fisch, Violet Sharpe and Ollie Whateley, all dead, will figure prominently in the defense construction of the four-person kidnap theory.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr. of Hunterdon county, said today he expects Betty Gow, who goes on the stand Monday, to stand up under Reilly's cross-examination as well as Colonel Lindbergh did.

FAITH IN HAUPTMANN REITERATED BY MOTHER

KAMENZ, Germany, Jan. 5.—(AP) Bruno Hauptmann's aged mother, Frau Pauline Hauptmann, wept unrestrainedly today as she reiterated her faith in her son's innocence of the charge of kidnaping Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's baby, crying "no, it can not be true."

"There's no rest for me in the world," the septuagenarian woman exclaimed, sobbing and wringing her hands. "Oh, Lord, why must such disaster come over us?"

"Every night I spend praying," she said, "that the Almighty may change my Bruno's terrible fate."

"Cheer up my boy in his prison cell," she added, while tears rolled down her furrowed cheeks, "by telling him I'm praying for him every night."

Kamenz townfolks, who knew Bruno Hauptmann in his youth, were avidly reading newspaper reports of the Flemington trial.

There was little inclination to discuss the case, however.

"We are sick and tired of talking about the matter," was the reply many persons, Hauptmann's former friends and acquaintances, gave to questions.

CAROLINAN RESIGNS FROM PAROLE BOARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Resignation of Irvin B. Tucker, of North Carolina, from the United States board of parole was announced tonight by Attorney-General Homer Cummings.

Tucker, who has been a member of the board for five years, withdrew to resume the practice of law.

District Governors of Rotary in Southeast Open Two-Day Conference in Atlanta Today

Here are important figures in Rotary International, who are gathered in Atlanta for a conference of southeastern district governors, which begins today at the Biltmore hotel. Front row, left to right, are Algernon Blair, of Montgomery, an International director; Philip Lovejoy, of Chicago, assistant secretary of Rotary International, and Joel Chandler (Jake) Harris Jr., the president of the Atlanta Rotary Club. Back row, left to right, are Zebulon Judd, of Auburn, district governor of Alabama, and Joe Duckworth, of Tuscaloosa, a former Alabama district governor. They will attend executive sessions today, preparatory to general conferences Monday. Photo by Turner Heirs.

District governors of Rotary International, representing eight southeastern states, Saturday were gathering in Atlanta for a two-day conference which will open at noon today with a dinner and executive session at the Biltmore hotel.

The governors, seven in number, will confer with Philip C. Lovejoy, of Chicago, first assistant international secretary, and Algernon Blair, of Montgomery, Ala., international director of Rotary.

The governors are Zebulon Judd, of Auburn, Ala., twenty-sixth district; B. E. Bigger, of Hannibal, Mo., fourteenth district; Edwin B. McOuen, of Savannah, Ga., sixty-ninth district; B. W. Brooks, Belzoni, Miss., sixteenth district; Thomas M. Callahan, Lafayette, La., seventeenth district; Earl G. Thatcher, Vero Beach, Fla., thirty-ninth district, and William P. Cooper, Shelbyville, Tenn., fifty-second district.

In addition, three past district governors, Ed Landers, of Macon; Joseph Duckworth, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and John Henley, of Birmingham, also are to attend the sessions, it was announced.

Mr. Blair will preside at the executive session today at the Biltmore, according to Joel Chandler (Jake) Harris Jr., president of the Atlanta Rotary Club. The visitors will be guests of the Atlanta club at a luncheon meeting Monday noon at the Capital City Club, at which Mr. Lovejoy will be the principal speaker.

Frank M. Spratlin is the chairman in charge of the committee of the local club to welcome and entertain the visiting district governors and Rotary International officials.

Lindbergh Attorney Visits 'Jafsie' Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Colonel Henry Breckinridge, attorney for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and one of those closely associated with the ransom negotiations for the Lindbergh baby in 1932, visited the home of Dr. J. F. Condon (Jafsie) tonight and remained there for some time.

The elderly Bronx educator paid $50,000 on behalf of Colonel Lindbergh on the night he made his famous journey to a Bronx cemetery.

Some mystery was attached to Colonel Breckinridge's visit. The lawyer said he had no statement to make.

Dr. Condon was not believed to be at his home. His close friend, Al Reich, the former heavyweight boxer, said he did not know when Dr. Condon, who has been in Taunton, Mass., would return.

LONG ANNOUNCES OIL COMPROMISE

promise applied to all oil refining companies operating in the state of Louisiana.

MASS MEET OF OIL WORKERS HEARS OF SETTLEMENT

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 5.—(AP) Several hours before a thousand dismissed employes of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana's plant and sympathizers were scheduled to meet here tonight and protest Senator Long's new taxation on the company, the senator announced from New Orleans that a "fair and impartial" settlement had been reached between the employers and himself.

The employes, about a third of those at the big plant, had been given notice that they were dismissed, effective Monday morning, on the company's claim that the plant must curtail its operations if Long's 5-cent-a-barrel tax on refiner's oil goes into effect Wednesday with the latest batch of his dictatorial laws.

After Long's conference with the employes' representatives, Long said, the settlement was "agreed to unanimously by us" and "everybody is satisfied. The fight is now between the employes and the Standard Oil." At last reports the company officials refused to comment.

While these representatives were conferring with Long in New Orleans, businessmen of Baton Rouge were prevailing upon Governor O. K. Allen to call a session of the legislature for Sunday night or Monday to repeal the tax because of the hardships Baton Rouge would be subjected to if the 1,000 men are laid off by the company.

LEN B. GUILLEBEAU AND T. J. METHVIN JOIN IN LAW FIRM

Formation of the law partnership of Len B. Guillebeau and Thomas J. Methvin, prominent Atlanta attorneys, for the general practice of law, was announced Saturday. The new law firm will maintain offices in the William-Oliver building.

T. J. METHVIN. L. B. GUILLEBEAU.

A practicing attorney for 21 years and an Atlantan since the World War, Mr. Guillebeau is a well-known lawyer here. He was born in Lincolnton, Ga., and educated at Locust Grove Institute and Mercer University.

Mr. Methvin, one of the city's younger attorneys, has already established an enviable reputation in legal circles. Born in Georgetown, Ga., he attended the Emory University Academy, the University of Georgia and the Southern Law school. He has been practicing law five years, having been solicitor of Quitman county court for four years.

Atlanta and Decatur Schools Open Monday

Atlanta and Decatur public schools will reopen Monday after an extension of the Christmas holiday season because of the prevalence of influenza throughout the city.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, announced Saturday that health officials had advised him that the danger of an epidemic appers to have subsided and that it would be safe for students to resume their classes.

The reopening had been scheduled for last Wednesday, but was postponed when the public health committee of the Fulton County Medical Society recommended it.

ARMS PLOT BARED ON MEXICAN LINE

Five Truck Loads Are Reported En Route to Aid Revolution.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A plot to smuggle arms into Lower California was disclosed by police here today as federal agents and officers throughout southern California sought to intercept five truck loads of arms, machine guns and ammunition reportedly intended for a revolutionary plot in Old Mexico.

One suspect, whose name officers refused to disclose, was held here.

The shipment of arms and ammunition, which, it was disclosed, had been gathered guardedly in Los Angeles for months, was reported to have started toward the border late last night. Police said the shipment was supposed to contain 300 machine guns and several hundred rifles in addition to large quantities of ammunition.

The Mexican army was reported by the sheriff's office at El Centro to have doubled its guard along the border to prevent the shipment from reaching the alleged plotters.

Sheriff George Campbell, of Imperial county, had a large force of men on the highways in an attempt to intercept the shipment.

United States District Attorney Pierson M. Hall, who was directing interrogation of the suspect held here, would not comment on the case. The man was ordered held incommunicado.

Federal agents also declined to discuss the case, but from other sources it was learned that the alleged plot has been fostered here by exiled residents of Mexico.

The Latin-American quarter of Los Angeles, which possesses the largest Mexican population of any city in the United States, has been the scene of revolutionary plottings previously.

Several years ago, Adolfo De La Huerta, former president of Mexico and now a music teacher in Los Angeles, was charged with violating the neutrality laws by engaging in an alleged plot to overthrow the Mexican federal government. The charge was dismissed.

General Enrique Estrada, former Mexican secretary of war, was convicted of an arms smuggling plot here some time later.

There are any number of former officials of the Mexican government, forced to leave Mexico because of the activity against constituted authorities, now living here.

In addition to the political exiles, there are many who have been forced to leave that country during the religious strife.

The present number of Mexicans here is between 100,000 and 150,000.

MEXICO, D. F., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Nothing was known today concerning the supposed rebel movement in Lower California, revealed in Los Angeles accounts of machine guns and ammunition headed toward the border.

Reports at the war department showed that the country was generally quiet with the exception of a few local difficulties and occasional clashes of armed groups with federal troops.

EXTENSIVE SEARCH CENTERS AT CALEXICO

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A fleet of trucks and motor cars believed to be speeding from the United States into Mexico with 120 machine guns and ammunition for revolutionary plotters was hunted strenuously by officers on both sides of the border tonight.

Instructions to stop the gun-running caravan "at all costs" were delivered to guards on both sides of the international line. Guard forces were doubled both in American and Mexican territory.

Reports that 300 additional machine guns were stored in a huge Los Angeles warehouse, presumably awaiting movement into revolutionary hands south of the boundary, sent detectives there on a hunt for the place.

Two men were held in Los Angeles after assertedly telling police the arms and ammunition had been collected and secreted there over a period of several months. The police said the arrest of "the big chief" of the suspected plot was imminent.

While the Mexican capital reported no knowledge of a border plot, advices from Vera Cruz, on the east coast of that country, said 200 peasants had attempted to capture police headquarters at Los Tuxtlas and that several were wounded when gendarmes fired upon them.

MARIETTA MAN HELD BY MEMPHIS POLICE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(UP) Police said tonight they were holding for Georgia authorities a man giving his name as Park Sanders, 39, Marietta, Ga., who admitted escaping the chain gang at Reidsville, Ga., November 14, 1933, while serving a nine-year sentence for assault with intent to murder his wife.

Sanders, who was found under a bed at a Memphis residence by officers, had been living here three months.

Reidsville officers will come here tomorrow to return him, police said.

Kidnaping Suspicion Turned Upon Scores of Witnesses

By DALE HARRISON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—The baby murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann has turned, in three short days, into a trial not of the chalk-faced German carpenter alone but of many others—men and women, persons alive and persons dead.

That is the now apparent strategy of Edward J. Reilly, the shrewd Brooklyn lawyer who is directing the attempt to save Hauptmann from the chair. With double-edged questions, Reilly has waved the pointing finger (sometimes subtly, sometimes boldly) in the direction of various persons whose names have long been familiar in the "Lindbergh case," as well as some whose names have not.

Who are those concerning whom Reilly is seeking more light?

There is, for one, "Red" Johnson.

There is Ollie Whateley, the butler for the Charles A. Lindberghs at the time the Lindbergh boy-baby was kidnaped and murdered nearly three years ago.

Whateley is dead. His widow, the Landbergh's housekeeper, arises spiritedly to defend her husband's name.

Police on Trial.

There is the shy, doe-like Betty Gow, and Violet Sharpe, the maid who committed suicide while the inquiry was at its height, no one knows why. And there is the New Jersey state police force. It, also, is on trial. And the venerable Dr. John F. Condon.

One more: "Swede" Anderson. Who is "Swede" Anderson, an aviator who held a stick on the early airmail planes and "had trouble" with Colonel Lindbergh?

These persons, and some others, are finding themselves unexpectedly "on trial" as the case of the people of the state of New Jersey versus Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder of a baby moves steadily along. For instance, "Red" Johnson.

Bottle Raises Question.

There was a time that Johnson found a questioning finger pointed at him. He was a friend of Betty Gow, the baby's nurse. He had driven an automobile into New England the night of the kidnaping. In the car was found a milk bottle. To feed a baby? Police wondered, and they questioned him. The milk, they found, was for "Red" himself, he being in the habit (it was explained) of drinking milk during the night.

Finally they let him go, with the understanding that he get out of the country, he having entered illegally, they said. So "Red" Johnson, once considered a "hot lead" in the case, departed.

Today his name is back in the records. Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, injected Johnson into yesterday's trial session. Lindbergh was testifying, and Reilly asked him:

Inuendo Used.

"Isn't it true, colonel, that the prosecution has brought Betty Gow back from Europe as a witness here, but has made no effort to bring "Red" Johnson back?"

The colonel did not know. The implication was clear enough. Reilly mentioned the milk bottle and the fact that Johnson had been questioned concerning his friendship for Miss Gow and his whereabouts the night of the abduction.

Nothing much was said about the mysterious "Swede" Anderson. Reilly introduced his name to the case when he asked Colonel Lindbergh:

"Did you ever know an aviator known as 'Swede' Anderson?"

The colonel replied: "I do not recall such a person, at least by that name."

Previous Knowledge Hinted.

Reilly: "Isn't it true that there was bad blood between you and this 'Swede' Anderson, and that he had made threats against you,"

The colonel renewed his denial of ever having known such a person.

The unspoken implication beneath this line of questioning was that there were several persons who might conceivably have had some knowledge, before or after the fact, of the tragedy.

Reilly's questioning is suave, unhurried but earnest. He lets his voice rise to drive home a point, then drops that particular line of interrogation, seemingly satisfied not to pursue the insinuated suspicion farther.

In so far as Dr. John F. Condon was concerned, however, Reilly pushed the questioning determinedly. Dr. Condon was the "Jafsie" of the ransome negotiations. It was he who handed over $50,000 to a mysterious "John" in a Bronx cemetery—the money that led finally to Hauptmann's arrest.

Condon Unknown Then.

Reilly brought out that Condon was unknown to Lindbergh at the time of the murder, but that Condon had gone to the trouble (on his own responsibility) of advertising in the Bronx Home News that he would act as intermediary if the kidnapers wanted him to. He received an answer to his advertisement, and the answer was marked with the same strange symbol that was used on the note which was left on the window sill of the Lindbergh home the night of the kidnaping.

Reilly: "Did it ever occur to you, Colonel, that the master mind of the kidnapers might insert an advertisement offering to act as intermediary, and that he then could answer his own advertisement and carry on negotiations with himself, thus getting the ransom money?"

Colonel Lindbergh smiled and said that every possible angle had been considered, but that he had finally become convinced of Dr. Condon's full reliability.

Condon Is Theosophist.

Reilly: "Have you ever studied symbols, Colonel, and do you know that they are a part of theosophy?"

Colonel Lindbergh said he had given the symbols "much thought" but had no special knowledge of them.

Reilly: "And do you not know that Dr. Condon was a student and teacher of these matters in which symbols play a part?"

The colonel smiled much of the time that this line of questioning went on.

Reilly wanted to know if Ollie Whateley, the butler, had not been overly friendly with Violet Sharpe, the maid employed at the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, of Englewood. Here the questioning suggested that Whateley and Miss Sharpe carried on an affair and when late yesterday Mrs. Whateley was called to the stand, one of the first things she did was to state that during all the years she and her husband had worked for the Lindberghs her husband had never gone out without her; and that any such friendship between Whateley and Miss Sharpe as the defense implied was impossible.

Sharpe in Light.

The Jersey state police, too, are finding themselves on trial. The defense is operating on the assumption that there exists an antipathy among New Jersey farm folk to the blue uniformed policemen who have warred on speeders and otherwise irked many persons. Anything unfavorable to the state police is psychologically favorable to the defense, Reilly feels.

Why did Violet Sharpe commit suicide at the Morrow home while policemen waited below stairs to renew their questioning of her? Reilly apparently intends to make much of Violet Sharpe before the case is through.

STATE OUT OF RED, AUDITORS' REPORT FOR YEAR REVEALS

Others believe that it should revert to the general treasury for application on past due debts. It probably will go to the departments except the cash surplus unless the legislature decides otherwise.

The balance included a total of $5,819,747 on hand in allocated funds of which $4,754,461 was credited to the highway department. The highway fund contained the $2,000,000 the board has saved by direction of the governor and which he hopes to divert for the teachers and Confederate pensioners. Both the auditor and the governor pointed out that the other funds credited to the highway department may or may not be contracted for as that depatrment has a number of projects under way on which it is paying as the work is completed. However, the fact remains that the money is on hand.

The report of the auditor showed the following funds on hand in the general fund and the agencies to which they were due:

Detailed Report.

$1,140, department of agriculture; $2,275, audit department; $3,850, comptroller-general; $254,490, regular education fund; $1,750, entomology department; $1,750, forestry and geology department; $1,640, governor for office maintenance; $350, governor for supervisor of purchases; $3,038, governor for buildings and grounds; $6,902, governor for publishing notices; $966, governor for acts, journals and codes; $1,570, governor for insurance fund; $5,000, governor for reward fund; $350, department of commerce and labor; $525, board of control administrative; $700, public welfare department; $8,225, Alto sanitarium; $525, Soldiers' home; $1,225, training school for girls; $2,625, school for deaf; $2,275, school for mental defectives; $1,330, academy for blind; $43,236; Milledgeville hospital; $1,225, training school for boys; $1,050, department of law; $666, library for court reports; $350, library for maintenance; $350, library commission; $2,111, military department; $239, riot fund; $1,050, prison commission office; $3,150, Milledgeville prison farm; $1,775, Tattnall county farm; $4,375, department of health; $2,975, revenue commission; $14,504, cigar and cigaret tax division; $3,187, motor vehicle division; $936, secretary of state, general; $13,762, secretary of state for examining boards; $951, secretary of state for securities commission; $914, state treasurer for maintenance; $45,822, interest on fixed debt; $178,596, interest on current loan; $3,939, supreme court; $7,600, court of appeals; $3,460, superior court; $1,586, legislative expense; regents of university system, $146,250; $875, veterans' service office; $43,552, cash surplus.

The following allocated funds were reported on hand:

$3,228, banking department; $43,118, education equalization fund; $52,218, special education equalization fund; $27,618, game and fish department; $4,754,561, highway department; $4,598, workmen's compensation office; $25,080, public service commission; $282,053, income tax reserve fund; $13,762, secretary of state for examining boards; $951, secretary of state for securities commission; $165,500, principal public debt; $427,000, Western and Atlantic rental discounts; $3,350, land title fund; $78,704, pensions.

Total Obligations.

The total obligations are distributed thusly:

$531,600 for pensions; $2,756,183 for common schools; $145,715, eleemosynary institutions; $629,176, university system; $5,448, Milledgeville prison farm.

With an increase of nearly $2,000,000 in gasoline tax income and nearly $700,000 in income tax payments total receipts for the year were $26,552,264 as compared with 1933 when receipts totaled $23,781,047. At the same time total expenditures were pared down from $22,791,616 in 1933 to $21,402,446 in 1934.

The following table shows the receipts for the two years:

Property tax	$4,770,539.56	$4,429,885.66
Fuel oil and kerosene tax	12,601,349.00	14,501,518.95
Motor vehicle license tax	1,083,039.05	1,190,236.48
Occupation and franchise tax	1,034,834.90	1,046,423.92
Income tax	1,082,673.52	1,765,999.61
Cigar and Cigarette tax	924,661.71	1,022,942.26
Poll tax	257,143.34	268,000.29
Sales tax	10,279.93	88,673.49
Inheritance tax	142,495.04	114,754.41
Insurance Premium tax	741,711.27	749,867.06
Rents W. & A. railroad	540,000.00	540,000.00
Agricultural fees	181,811.56	222,683.32
Miscellaneous fees and earnings of agencies	510,506.80	611,279.02

	1933.	1934.
For administrative and collecting agencies	$657,146.26	$624,476.51
For service and regulation agencies	845,457.75	701,567.38
For educational agencies	7,221,500.32	7,265,069.52
For state institutional agencies	1,394,791.25	1,330,623.03
Legislative and Judicial agencies	532,126.71	355,350.27
Debt service	959,956.53	889,546.64
Highway agencies	10,039,648.68	9,229,389.20
Confederate Pensions	1,080,988.96	1,066,383.80

It will be noted from the table that the only increased expenditures were for educational purposes.

Immediately after receiving the report the governor began a close study of it, revealing that he planned to use much of it in discussing state finances with the legislature. What effect it will have on his plan of action remains to be seen.

CAUSEWAY RULED NO STATE PROJECT

Taking Over of Brunswick-St. Simons Bridge Is Held Illegal.

The state highway department can not take over the causeway between Brunswick and St. Simons Island, Attorney Manning J. Yeomans ruled Saturday.

There has been considerable agitation in Brunswick and Glynn county to have the state take over the causeway as a part of the road system and assume some $250,000 of debts remaining.

In announcing his ruling, the attorney-general said:

"The constitution of this state provides in substance as follows:

"'The state shall not assume or pay the debts of any county, city or political subdivision of this state or of any corporation.'"

This, he said, covered the proposed taking over of the causeway by the highway department.

The ruling was requested by the legislator from Glynn county in order to plan for the introduction of a bill in the coming session of the general assembly to make possible the transaction.

The causeway was built a number of years ago between the mainland and the island—a noted Georgia resort. It is being paid for from tolls collected from those who use it.

3 Young Burglars Routed by Atlantans

Three young negro burglars, whom he found ransacking his home at 619 Bonaventure avenue, N. E., early Saturday night turned on Russell McGregor, but fled after he had shown no disposition to retreat but had pummeled them with his fists.

One of the negroes, McGregor told police, had picked up his 16-gauge shotgun, which was loaded, and leveled it at him and attempted to fire it, but did not know how to release the safety. The three burglars, who, according to McGregor ranged in ages between 14 and 15 years, escaped, their only loot being the shotgun.

GUARD MOBILIZING FOR STRIKE DUTY IN ROSSVILLE AREA

head of the Georgia national guard, in Atlanta declined to discuss plans, but it was known a fleet of guard trucks at Savannah and Swainsboro had been ordered to be ready to move to various points and pick up guardsmen for duty here.

"Troop movements and military matters must, as a matter of necessity, be kept secret," the adjutant general said. "I am sorry I am in no position to discuss the situation at this time."

Included in the troop outfits is Camp's "Flying Squadron," which played so prominent a part in Georgia's strike situation during the national textile walkout last year.

It was the squadron which raced about over the state and took charge of situations when it appeared trouble was brewing. On one occasion the squadron arrested a number of strikers and they were brought to a military camp here and detained until the situation cleared.

Atlanta Rendezvous.

Atlanta was indicated as the rendezvous for troops with movement into the strike area before daybreak Monday aboard a fleet of trucks from Savannah and Swainsboro. National guardsmen at these points previously had been warned to stand ready for transport duty.

In addition, it was understood, the service company at Macon, Company B at Barnesville, would be called upon to lend the special Atlanta unit a hand in controlling the situation. The Atlanta unit has had special instruction in the use of tear gas and carries machine guns as a part of its equipment.

80 MACON GUARDSMEN PREPARED TO MOBILIZE

MACON, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Approximately 80 local national guardsmen tonight prepared to mobilize at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow and to move silently out of Macon in closed trucks at 2 a. m. en route to the scene of textile strike disorders in Rossville in north Georgia.

The local guardsmen, members of the service company, 121st infantry, were to be joined in Jackson and Barnesville by other companies.

Major Usher T. Winslett, of the 121st infantry, was to be joined here late tonight by Colonel James A. Pope, of Dublin, commanding officer in charge of the expedition.

Company A was to join the local forces in Jackson and Company B in Barnesville. Captain Carl F. Chapman is commanding officer of the service company.

Each of the three moving companies was ordered out by General Lindley Camp, of the Georgia national guard, through Colonel Pope.

Early in the week, with news of a strike scare growing rife, service company was mobilized late one night and ordered to stand by in readiness for additional emergency calls. They were called to duty last fall at the time of the general textile strike.

BANDIT IS SOUGHT IN THREE HOLDUPS

orders. The pistol failed to fire, and the bandit was again forced to leave without any loot.

All the holdups and attempts occurred within a period of an hour and a half, according to reports received at the police station. The lone negro gunman began his operations at 6:10 o'clock Saturday night at the filling station on Courtland street, and left a trail of holdups along Marietta, Spring and West Peachtree streets. The last robbery reported was the West Peachtree street filling station, shortly before 7:50 o'clock. Police believe that the bandit was traveling on foot.

WIFE OF PROMOTER ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Bessie Barrett, wife of Charley Barrett, widely known American Legion boxing promoter, was shot and seriously wounded here today. Police investigating the case stated that Barrett told them the shooting was accidental. The woman was taken to a local infirmary, where it was said the wound was dangerous.

Jury Which Is Trying Hauptmann for Kidnaping

Here is the complete jury in the box at Hunterdon county courthouse, Flemington, N. J., January 4, just before the third day of the Hauptmann trial got under way. Left to right, front row: Charles Walton, foreman; Mrs. Ethel Stockton, Charles F. Snyder, Mrs. Verna Snyder, Mrs. Rosie Pill, Phillip Hockenbury. Rear row, left to right: Robert Cravatt, Elmer Smith, Mrs. May F. Brelsford, George Voorhees, Liscom C. Case and Howard V. Biggs. (Associated Press photo.)

Only Key Favors Shake-Up In Atlanta Police Division

Councilmen and Legislators Express Opposition to Most of Proposals of Fulton Grand Jury.

Although Mayor James L. Key Saturday favored establishment of a commissioner of public safety in line with recommendations of the Fulton county grand jury, stiff opposition to the proposal developed from members of the Fulton county delegation in the Georgia assembly and leaders of all council factions.

There appeared little likelihood that the proposal will gain enough friends to assure its adoption.

The grand jury recommended that a commissioner of police be named by the mayor and responsible solely to the mayor, that civil service be abolished in the police department, that the precinct system be instituted here, and that state drivers' and liability insurance be made mandatory for automobile operators.

Mayor Key asserted that the grand jury recommendations did not go far enough. He pointed out that he favored a commissioner of public safety several years ago to take charge of the police and fire departments, but that nothing had been done. He did not comment on other proposals contained in the grand jury recommendations.

Committee Opposes Plan.

Every member of the police committee opposed the plan. All asserted that it would not be for the best interests of the department and expressed doubt that the service would be improved. Several of them pointed out the danger of impairing the efficiency of the department.

G. Everett Millican, senator from the thirty-fifth Georgia (Fulton county) district, said he had given the recommendations no study and was not prepared to make any statement regarding them.

Bond Almand, representative from Fulton: "In my opinion, any change in the set-up of the Atlanta police department should lie with city council. A state drivers' license, as recommended by the grand jury, has been under consideration for some time, and we hope to see a passage of this bill during the coming session of legislature. Compulsory liability insurance, however, is a more difficult problem."

R. L. Ramsey, Fulton representative: "Atlanta's police and detective departments under a capable commissioner, with full authority, and entirely removed from politics, should be effective in dealing with crime. It will give centralized power to these departments and should work for their efficiency. I am not in favor of the grand jury's recommendation for the abolition of civil service requirements in the police department, but it must be understood that any comment I make at this time is without reading or consideration of the report of the grand jury as this report was given out only late Friday afternoon.

"As for compulsory state drivers' license, I sincerely hope that we shall see the passage of this bill as well as a bill calling for compulsory liability insurance. The former, I believe, has more chance of success, but they are both highly beneficial, and should be passed."

Opposes Civil Service Ban.

W. B. Hartsfield, Fulton representative: "I wish to be quoted as being heartily against the abolition of the civil service system in the Atlanta police department, as recommended by the grand jury Friday. I have not had time to give the report any consideration, but I favor the recommendation for a compulsory state drivers' license and believe that this bill has a good chance for passage during the coming session of legislature. Compulsory liability insurance would be a beneficial measure, but I am afraid that it will not have so good a chance in the legislature."

Anderman Frank C. Reynolds, mayor pro tem.: "Running the police department is a matter for the city to handle and is none of the county's affair. Atlanta needs no precinct division because its radio police can cover the city adequately. I'm sure council will not give the matter any consideration."

John A. White, fourth ward councilman: "I am heartily in favor of any measure or change which will help in curbing crime in Atlanta, but the mechanical setup of a police and detective department is a question to be decided by experts in that field. The Atlanta police department has been doing commendable work, but the tremendous amount of criminal offenses shows that a thorough study by experts is greatly needed."

Milam Against Proposal.

Aubrey Milam, police committee member: "Atlanta is not yet large enough to need a setup of precincts. The Atlanta police force has made a good record in 1934 and energetic and efficient application of the present system should be adequate to combat crime in Atlanta. Radio equipped police cars give the city a widespread coverage with quick contact with the scene of crime. A police commissioner is all right but not necessary.

"I think that by all means the power of pardoning criminals should lie with the prison commission, and no pardons should be granted without the consideration and consent of the commission. I do not favor the abolition of civil service in the police department. The purpose of civil service is to secure the best man for the job. The system has proved workable and beneficial for the federal government, and it would be hard for us to improve upon it."

"Judicial" Change Needed.

James E. Bowden, fifth ward alderman: "I agree that a change is needed in our effort to cope with crime, but the change I should like to see enacted is of a judicial rather than executive nature. In my opinion another judge should be added to the two now serving on the municipal bench in order that a night court may be instituted to keep the jail clear, to speed up justice and to eliminate evasion of penalty through 'pull' of some friend who holds a city office.

"Immediate trial following speeding, reckless driving, disorderly conduct and such offenses would not give the offender time to look for some 'friend' to soften the charges against him or to influense his release. In addition, this step would eliminate the housing and feeding of many occupants of the city jail and would eliminate the necessity of transient offenders spending unnecessary time waiting for trial. I am heartily in favor of compulsory liability insurance and state drivers' licenses as recommended by the grand jury."

Sturdivant Hits Plan.

Chief T. O. Sturdivant, of the police department, hit the recommendations in the following statement:

"We tried out the police precinct idea years ago by detailing men to the engine houses scattered over the city, and while it worked all right for a while, it became antiquated with the advent of the radio squad car.

"We can have quicker communication with the cruising policemen than in the old days of the precinct policemen.

"The proposal for a police commissioner has been broached time and again. I do not believe that the people would like for the civil service to be thrown out."

Police Committeeman Farris A. Mitchell, while believing that "some change should be made," said:

"I cannot say that I approve of the one-man idea."

Bridges Not in Favor.

Chairman G. Dan Bridges, of the police committee, said:

"I do not believe that the proposal would improve things. We had a civilian police commission years ago and the department is doing better work right now.

"I cannot bring myself to favor abolition of the civil service. In fact, I am not so favorably impressed by the whole plan, as the records show that police efficiency was better in 1934 than in the whole history of the city.

"Chief Sturdivant and Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole are working well together, and we are well pleased with the way things are going, although we need more men."

Lyle Praises Force.

Committeeman George B. Lyle:

"So far as I am concerned, I am enthusiastic over the outlook for police work this year, and I believe that while things are going right we should let well enough alone.

"The department is functioning better today than ever before. The fingerprint department is open all the time, and the department has just closed the best year it ever had.

"I don't care whether you set up a one-man or a five-man commission, it all depends on the personnel. If you get the men, it will work fine. If you get the wrong man or the wrong five men, you've got trouble.

"The department is working in peace and harmony now, and the trouble is not in the arresting officers, but in the fact that the criminals are turned loose after they are caught, and in the long delays in our court system."

"Idea Not Possible."

Committeeman Howard Haire:

"The grand jury's idea would be splendid under a commission form of government, but is not possible or feasible under the present form of city government. The town is not large enough to extend police facilities in the form of precinct stations.

"Our real need is more men. Give the chief and the committee enough policemen to handle the town and the city will get the protection it needs."

MRS. ANNA RICHARDSON TO ADDRESS ADV. CLUB

The Atlanta Advertising Club will be host Thursday, January 14, to Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, director, good citizenship bureau of the Woman's Home Companion, who will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Richardson will tell her audience "What Women Think About Advertising," a topic of vital interest to all those whose business success depends upon the good will of the consumer.

ANNA STEESE RICHARDSON.

Mrs. Richardson began her career as a writer and lecturer in 1895 as a reporter on the Nonpareil, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, at the modest salary of $5 a week. She rose rapidly, serving for several years thereafter as a feature writer for newspapers, first with the Omaha Daily News and then the New York World.

Since 1903 she has been connected with the Woman's Home Companion. In 1912 she inaugurated the Better Babies Bureau, whose influence quickly spread all over the country, setting new standards of infant care and feeding, and creating the popular sentiment which brought about the demand for the United States Children's Bureau and many of today's activities for children and child welfare.

She performed notably during the World War both here and abroad, starting "Soldiers All" in support of the various societies which were doing relief work for the allies.

After the nineteenth amendment enfranchising women was passed, she organized the Good Citizenship Bureau of the Woman's Home Companion, which she is now director, for the purpose of aiding women to meet their new civic responsibilities.

Her visit to Atlanta is the result of the tremendous demand among advertising clubs from all parts of the country whose delegates heard her at the thirteenth annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America held in New York last June. She is making a complete circuit of the country on which she will address advertising clubs in 28 cities.

Arrangements for her meeting in Atlanta were made by Robert E. Martin, program chairman of the Atlanta Advertising Club; Oscar R. Strauss Jr., of Rich's, Inc., president of the club, will preside.

BLAZE IS MASTERED IN DOCKED VESSEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Fire broke out in a cargo hold of the Cunard-White Star Liner Georgic today but was brought under control after land and sea fire companies poured water into the liner as it lay at its berth at the Chelsea piers at the foot of West 14th Street.

The blaze started in a cargo of cotton in one of the vessel's holds. The fire was reported under control about an hour and a half after its discovery.

1935 FAIR DATES GIVEN BY BENTON

Southeastern To Hold Forth at Lakewood Sept. 29-Oct. 6.

The same corresponding dates which proved "lucky numbers" for the 1933 and 1934 Southeastern fairs will again be in vogue at Lakewood in 1935, with President Mike Benton announcing September 20 to October 6, inclusive, as the elongated week for Dixie's greatest exposition.

This automatically places Southeastern Fair in a strategic and keystone position in an unofficial southern circuit with Alabama State Fair at Birmingham preceding and Mississippi State Fair at Jackson following. Likewise Atlanta along with Tampa and Dallas, Texas, have the only Dixie "expo's" which run for a tenure over six days.

Concurrent with the date announcement came word of three important deals closed for the 1935 Southeastern Fair—the signing of the Royal American Shows for the carnival, the retention of Goodman Concession Company for the midway and the re-employment of Southern Speedways for American Automobile Association for the auto races.

Following visits to five carnival companies before and after the 1934 fair, it was not difficult for President Benton to recommend Royal American Shows, which boast of being "The World's Largest Midway" and have no challenge as being the best illuminated carnival in the business. Carl Sedlmayr, E. C. Velare and C. J. Velare, of this organiation, have an enviable position and reputation in the show world. The Royal American Shows were feateured at the 1933 fair, the year the "Southeastern" made such a leap to the front, when Benton served his first year as president.

Max Goodman is almost an institution at Atlanta as well as in the fair world. In a business which is subjected to much censure, Goodman has an international reputation for integrity with his midway concessions. Of the 20 fairs at Lakewood, Goodman Concession Company has been awarded the contract 13 times and during Benton's presidency there has been no complaint emanating from the Goodman method of handling his concessions.

Goodman plays only the major fairs of the country, which is likewise true of the Royal American Shows, who broke records last year at the 24 fairs where the carnival was contracted.

The Southeastern Fair is a member of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, the Association of Agricultural and Industrial Fairs of the Southeast and the Georgia State Fairs' Association.

Benton is president of the Southeastern organiation, which will meet January 24-25 at Winterhaven, Fla., concurrent with the Winterhaven Orange Festival. Benton, Secretary Virgil Meigs and Director of Publicity Bill Breitenstein will attend the sessions and also the Florida State Fair-Gasparilla at Tampa the following week.

Post Office Reports Gains for December

A gain of more than 12 1-2 per cent in postal receipts for December, 1934, over the same period a year ago was reported Saturday by Postmaster Lon Livingston. Total revenue for last month amounted to $412,507.39, as compared with $366,447.51 for December, 1933, or a gain of $46,059.88, indicating a substantial improvement in general business condition, the postmaster said.

Cancellations of first class mail at the Atlanta postoffice totaled 9,697,884 for December, 1934, a gain of 713,533 letters or other first class mail matter over a year ago, when the total figured 8,984,351. The percentage of gain is almost 8 per cent.

ATLANTA RESERVISTS SENT TO ACTIVE DUTY

Atlanta physicians, surgeons, dentists and veterinarians holding commissions in the reserve corps will meet in the Academy of Medicine at 7:30, Wednesday evening, the reserve headquarters announced. Instruction in "Combat Orders," with Colonel John A. Clark, surgeon for the fourth corps area as instructor, will be given.

Major Frank Alexander Fraser, Atlanta, who is commissioned in the finance department reserve, was ordered to active duty training for 14 days at Jacksonville, effective January 7, while Captain Erasmus Hardin Strickland, 322nd infantry, was detailed to duty with the civilian conservation corps for six months, beginning January 8, and directed to report to the commanding officer, District "B" at Fort McPherson.

Three enlisted men on duty with the organized reserves at fourth corps area headquarters were promoted. They are Master Sergeant Glenn Harr, promoted from technical sergeant; Technical Sergeant Bascom M. Harrison, from staff sergeant, and Staff Sergeant Troy E. Weems, from sergeant.

Colonel William L. Reed, in charge of the reserve officers' training corps in the fourth corps area, was ordered to make the annual inspection of R. O. T. C. units at Academy of Richmond County, Augusta; The Citadel, Charleston; Porter Military Academy, Charleston; Benedictine school, Savannah; University of Florida, Gainesville; Florida Military Academy, St. Petersburg; Lanier High school, Macon; Georgia Military College, Milledgeville; Gordon Institute, Barnesville; R. E. Lee Institute, Thomaston, and Griffin High school, Griffin.

Captain Frederick William Hausman, military intelligence reserve, was ordered to six months' duty with the civilian conservation corps at Fort McPherson, beginning January 10.

BETTER HOUSING CAMPAIGN HUGE SUCCESS IN ATLANTA

Making Store Rentable

A new store front, in many instances possible at surprisingly low cost, can transform a business location from a liability to an asset. The improvement shown here, for example, rendered rentable a vacant store.

Noise Affects Nerves.

Tired, jangled nerves after a day at the office are usually the result of too much noise. By treating office walls and ceilings with sound deadening material this can be reduced to a minimum.

Wash Stone Walls.

Before painting, wash moss-covered stone or brick with water to which has been added 2 per cent by volume of carbolic acid and follow up with the application of plain water with a stiff brush. The growth should come off easily under this treatment.

Owners, Industry and Labor All Benefited

The Better Housing Campaign now under way for several months in Atlanta and all over the country in co-operation with the federal housing administration is already proved a huge success. Over $25,000,000 has been authorized in loans and every person is benefited.

The property owner is enabled to secure greater comfort and convenience while at the same time enhancing the value of his property through repair and modernization. Manufacturers and dealers of building material are furnished an additional market while labor is provided with thousands upon thousands of jobs that would not be open at this time except for the building activity stimulated by the federal housing act.

In direct benefit labor gets the lion's share of the huge money being spent. The larger part of labor's share going to residents of the community in which the work is done. They get 44 cents out of every dollar.

Factory, mill and dealer labor get 21 cents out of every dollar spent in this work. Labor at sources of material, such as mines and forests get 7 cents and transportation labor 4 cents, making a total to labor of all types of 76 cents. The remaining 24 cents goes to building supply dealers, to manufacturers, for raw material and for transportation.

But indirectly every man, woman and child benefits from the 76 per cent, representing $19,000,000 being paid to labor because this money circulates rapidly and aids every line of business in the community on the road back to prosperity.

Property Owners Modernize, Then Resell Homes at Profit

Many liabilities have been turned into valuable assets through modernization. The actual examples that follow are typical of hundreds of such cases.

A shrewd Michigan investor bought a dilapidated shack with practically no visible possibilities. But he remodeled it into a comfortable small home for a total cost of $801.40, and made $2,899 on a resale.

In New Jersey, there was a relatively new Colonial house of poor architecture. At a cost of $6,600, which included two new wings, a new chimney, shutters and landscaping of the grounds, the value of the house was increased $13,200. The owner of this house made $6,600.

Another Michigan resident had a small house of Victorian vintage, completely equipped with the shapeless front porch and endless rows of "gingerbread" characteristic of the period. The cost of modernizing was only $920.91, but the increase in value was $2,000.

In New York state there was a proud old rambling house in a fine location. It was bought for $6,000, remodeled into a three-family apartment house for $7,000 and sold 10 days after the completion of the remodeling for $16,800—an 18 per cent profit.

With federal housing administration loans up to $2,000 being made by financial houses for property improvement, many home owners should be inspired by the success of those who have already modernized, and improve their buildings for the comfort of their families and to their own profit.

Owners Convert Unused Space In Old Homes Into Bathrooms

The most striking contrast between the houses built 15 or 20 years ago and the house of today is in the ratio of rooms to conveniences. Years ago a lot of rooms, and large rooms, were considered essential. Today the family wants comfort and conveniences, and plenty of both.

Thousands of the older houses that line the elm shaded avenues in cities and suburbs have excess capacity, according to present-day standards. Because they are soundly built and well-located, few are ready to be scrapped. Many owners are converting the rooms that are not needed into usable space. Often it is an extra bathroom or two that is urgently required in the older houses.

There are various spaces which may be successfully converted into bathrooms. Sometimes an unused hall end or a large clothes closet will be ample in size to accommodate the necessary plumbing fixtures. Often if there isn't room for a tub, a shower stall will suffice, and will meet with the enthusiastic approval of the younger generation.

Bedrooms, too, may be converted into bathrooms. Many of the older houses have huge bedrooms with so much room to spare that space enough for a bathroom and clothes closet may be obtained. Then, too, sometimes an entire bedroom can be used as a combination bathroom and dressing-room, with an ingenious use of tag ends of space for wardrobes and closets.

DANGER SPOTS

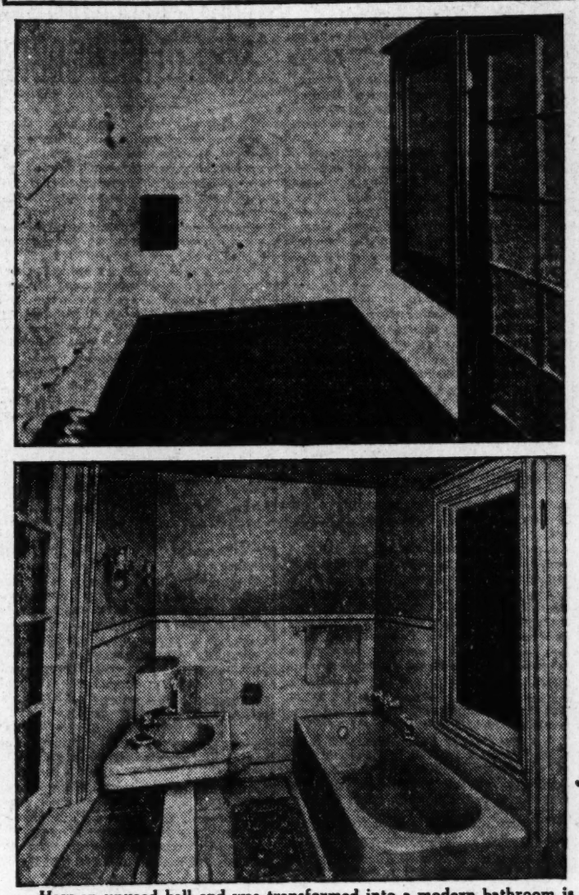

1. Does Rain Reach Your Wall Paper? Perhaps there are loose shingles. Perhaps there is broken or missing slate, tile or other roofing material.

2. It May Be the Rafters that need inspection. Perhaps the frame of your house is resting on rotted beams.

3. Does Your Porch Roof Leak? Canvas or metal decks over porches and bay windows may need repairing, or painting.

4. The Trouble May Be Flashings—at some point on the roof.

Bathroom Built in Hall

How an unused hall end was transformed into a modern bathroom is illustrated in above pictures. The upper photo shows the space before the bathroom was installed, while below is the same area after work was completed.

Basement Playroom.

Are you crowded for space in your home? Why not solve the problem by partitioning off a corner of your basement for a play-room or turning the attic into a guest room.

Replace Sash Cords.

Replace your sash weight cords. It may be that that is the reason the old window is so hard to open.

3,531 Underworld Characters Were Convicted in Fiscal Year

Cummings' Report Covers Period Before Dillinger, Floyd and Nelson Were Wiped Out by Federal Agents.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Uncle Sam's efforts against the underworld were recounted in unromantic statistics today by Attorney-General Cummings, who informed congress that the government obtained 3,531 convictions in the fiscal year ended last June 30.

Cummings' annual report covered the period before Dillinger, Floyd and Nelson were wiped out and so made no mention of those spectacular exploits. The department, however, said it was at work building a co-ordinated, nation-wide crime-fighting machine to press the attack against men of that type.

Justice officials heard with much interest President Roosevelt's pronouncement in his message yesterday that he would consult congress on "the strengthening of our facilities for the prevention, detection and treatment of crime and criminals."

A far-flung arrangement for the co-operation of federal, state and local authorities was represented as the goal of the administration.

Large Task.

The task is called large. The justice department regards as "most reliable," a calculation by Professor Thorsten Sellin, of the University of Pennsylvania, that "in 1933 there were probably a minimum of 1,300,000 serious crimes known to the police of this country."

To accelerate the campaign started last year when congress widened the powers of the justice department, Cummings plans to shortly establish a crime institute—a national center to co-ordinate activities against evildoers.

Cummings, in his report today, made no suggestions to congress except the creation of two more federal judgeships in the southern district of California and the same number in the southern district of New York. He said there was "serious congestion" in courts there.

However, it is understood that some officers in the department feel that laws to stiffen regulations of the firearms traffic, and to require ex-convicts to register their movements would be of assistance.

Cold Statistics.

Cold statistics were used by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the division of investigation, to recount in Cummings' report the grim combat with gangland.

For the year ending June 30, he reported 11 life sentences and other sentences aggregating 5,073 years.

Suspended sentences totalled 1,012 years and probationary sentences 2,501 years.

Fines imposed on federal offenders added up to $772,938 and property recovered was valued at $1,116,619. The division located 928 fugitives.

A decrease in the number of persons under federal supervision was noted by Sanford Bates, director of the prison bureau. In 1933 there were 55,060 persons under supervision; the 1934 figure is 42,122.

Prisoners Decline.

The total federal prisoners in penitentiaries, jails, reformatories, camps and hospitals in 1934 was 15,812 as contrasted with 20,778 in 1933. The remainder under supervision had parole or probationary status.

Practically all of the assistant attorneys-general noted an increase in work during the fiscal year.

In January the tax division was organized and placed under Assistant Attorney-General Frank J. Wideman. The division considered 4,738 cases.

The ledger showed that the department handled 126,314 cases and collecte a total of $10,247,464 from fines, fees and the sale of prison-made goods. Expenditures were $31,184,213.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BODY PLANS CONFERENCES

The Georgia Sunday School Association, Mrs. J. J. Simpson, superintendent, is sponsoring a two-week conference tour, beginning January 6, and extending through Jauary 20, it is anounced. These conferences will hold afternoon and night sessions. These conferences will be held for the benefit of all the Sunday school workers in the county of all denominations and Sunday school problems will be discussed at these conferences, the leaders state.

The first meeting will be held in Long county Sunday, January 6, at the Ludowici Methodist church.

The Montgomery County Sunday School Association will hold a conference at the Uvalda Methodist church Tuesday, January 8, for the benefit of the workers of this association. On Wednesday, January 9, the conference will be held in the Rockwell Baptist church, McRae, in Telfair county, for the benefit of the Telfair County Sunday School Association. This will be an afternoon and night meeting.

January 10 the conference will be held in the Douglas Baptist church, Douglas, for the benefit of the Coffee County Sunday School Association. The McIntosh County Association will meet in the Darien Methodist church Friday, January 11, for afternoon and night meetings.

The Camden County Association will hold its annual convention at the Woodbine Methodist church Sunday, January 13. This will be an all-day meeting with Mrs. J. O. Dyal, president, presiding.

Conferences will be held the week of January 14 at the following points: Monday, January 14, at Patterson Baptist church, Pierce county; Tuesday, Waycross; Wednesday, Hoboken; Thursday, Blackshear; Friday, Vidalia; Saturday and Sunday, Manassas in Tattnall county.

The workers for these conferences are: Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. W. B. Shipp, of Cordele, children's leader, and Rev. J. Russell Young, pastor of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church in Atlanta, who will be in charge of the young people's and adult's conferences.

Yeggs' Equipment Is Found in DeKalb

Tanks of acetylene oxygen and torches, hose and other equipment which police state is the property of two men arrested Friday in a garage while loading similar equipment, was discovered Saturday afternoon in DeKalb county, according to DeKalb Chief of Police W. O. Parker.

The safe-blowing equipment, Parker said, was found in a thicket three miles east of Tucker, off the Lawrenceville highway, by a boy and a girl. When shown pictures of the two men arrested Friday and who gave their names as George Henry and James Morgan, both of Chicago, the children, according to Chief Parker, immediately identified the men as two men who came to the farmhouse Friday about noon and demanded to know what had become of the equipment.

The children, whom Chief Parker would not name, said the two men had been seen frequently in the community.

Local Legion Maps Membership Drive

A special membership drive, concentrating on World War veterans who favor immediate cash payment of the bonus, will be launched at a meeting of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, to be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at 18 1-2 Auburn avenue.

The drive has been arranged by Kenneth R. Murrell, commander of the post, and will be in charge of R. E. Stowers, chairman of the membership committee. It is planned to continue the campaign throughout January.

During December thousands of circulars were sent out to Fulton county World War veterans to ascertain their attitude on immediate payment of adjusted service certificates. Nearly all veterans responding favored such payment and Atlanta post workers will center their efforts in enlisting these ex-service men in the Legion's campaign to force congressional action.

All workers who will participate in the January campaign, as well as those who took part in the former membership campaign, will attend Monday night's meeting, according to Chairman Stowers.

Billion Dollars Needed For HOLC Applications

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Home Owners Loan Corporation will need at least another billion dollars to care for the applications for loans filed with it prior to last November.

This was disclosed today in a study of the work done by the corporation up to December 27 which showed it had received 1,282,136 formal applications of which 400,000 have not yet been passed upon. The legal department has not yet received 361,045 of the applications for study.

Chairman John M. Fahey, while feeling that private lenders should take hold and that the corporation has removed most of the danger of small home owners losing their properties, was described as favoring an additional borrowing power of at least one billion dollars to complete the corporation's work.

S. S. TRAINING SCHOOL TEACHERS ANNOUNCED

Teachers and speakers for the first of four quarterly training schools for Baptist Sunday school workers, to open Monday evening at the First Baptist church and continue through Friday, were announced Saturday by the Rev. William Howard Faust, president of the convention under whose auspices the school is being held.

Dr. Harold Ingraham, of Nashville, will teach the "Building a Standard Sunday School" class, while Dr. T. W. Tippett, newly elected Sunday school secretary of Georgia Baptists, will teach "The Book We Teach." Dr. Ellis Fuller will speak at 7:45 o'clock Monday night between classes; Dr. E. E. Steele, of Oakland City, Tuesday evening; Dr. Ingraham, Wednesday night; Dr. A. J. Moncrief, of Decatur, Thursday night, and Dr. M. A. Cooper, of West End, Friday evening.

These schools have been arranged by Mrs. G. L. Braden for the benefit of the pastors, superintendents, teachers, officers and members of the 75 Baptist Sunday schools in Atlanta.

Fulton Tower Full; Overflow Impends

Crowded conditions at Fulton tower are presenting a serious problem, according to Chief Jailer R. M. Holland, who said Saturday that with the week-end crop of arrests which will probably bring the jail population to about 450, it will be necessary to install cots in the corridors to take care of additional prisoners. The number of inmates Saturday reached the high level of 415 and Holland said some of the prisoners are sleeping two on a single bunk at the present time.

Four extra guards were recently added to the jail force to remain until alterations on the tower have been completed. At this time the first and second floors of the south wing and the fourth floor of the north wing have been torn out for remodeling, and in the consequent crowding 80 prisoners are being housed in one wing which is designed to care for 50.

Sixth District Trade Back in Regular Pace

Trade in the Sixth Federal Reserve district last week was characterized by a turn toward normal. There was no marked change, and large retail stores settled down to a post-holiday business.

Banks in the Atlanta area reported weekly clearings slightly lower than the previous week, due to New Year's Day.

In Birmingham prices on pig iron remained the same as the previous week, $14.50, but prospects were in view for increased production within the month.

Steel was scheduled to advance to 33 1-2 per cent production from 27 1-2 per cent this week and last week.

STURDIVANT LAUDS POLICE WHO TOOK NEGRO BURGLARS

Two Atlanta patrolmen, E. T. Payne and H. L. Sexton, Saturday were presented with letters of commendation from Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant for bravery displayed in capturing two negro burglary suspects early Saturday morning.

The two negroes, who gave their names as Roy Smith, alias Roy Overton, and Durand Robinson, resisted arrest and engaged the policemen in a hand-to-hand encounter when they were discovered in the grocery store operated by Isaac Goldstein, at 477 Connally street, S. E., according to police reports.

Smith, alias Overton, rushed Patrolman Payne, hitting him on the hand and arm with an iron bar before Payne was able to defend himself. The negro was subdued when Payne fired three shots which struck the negro in the neck and shoulders.

The other negro, Robinson, according to police reports, was shot once in the shoulder.

Georgia Bar Maps Drive To Purge Profession's Ranks

Meeting Launching Move Called in Atlanta for January 17; U. S. Bar Head To Speak Here.

Georgia's legal profession Saturday moved to stamp out the "indiscriminate" lawyer and to prescribe methods of administering justice at the least possible cost.

Graham Wright, of Rome, president of the Georgia Bar Association, has called a state-wide conference of association members, justices of the supreme court, judges of the superior and inferior courts, leaders of the house and senate of the general assembly, and members of circuit bar associations, to meet in Atlanta on January 17 at 6:30 p. m. at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Aninvitation was sent to Governor Talmadge, and especially to lawyer members of the legislature, which convenes January 14.

It was explained the conference is in line with recommendations made by the American Bar Association, and United States Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings. They are to coordinate bar activities and to improve judicial procedure and enforcement of criminal law.

Only recently Attorney-General Cummings opened a public campaign against what he called the "lawyer-criminal."

To Clean Ranks.

Frank Carter, president of the Atlanta Bar Association, which will be host at the conference together with the Atlanta Lawyers' Club and the Georgia bar, said he thought the public "looks to the lawyers" to clean the profession's ranks of the "indiscriminate" attorney.

Principal speaker at the conference, which is designated as a mid-winter meeting of the Georgia bar, will be Scott M. Loftin, of Jacksonville, president of the American Bar Association. His subject was announced as "The National Progr.m of the American Bar Association."

Sponsors of the conference said they had two ideas in view:

1. Incorporation of all lawyers in Georgia as a self-governing organization to be known as "The Georgia Bar," by act of the legislature.

2. Creation of a judicial council to prescribe rules relating to pleading, practice and procedure in the courts. This also by act of the legislature.

600 in Association.

Members of the legal profession in Georgia are not now organized, although about 600 are members of the Georgia Bar Association. This constitutes about 80 per cent of the lawyers in the state, Carter said. There is no legal requirement for membership in the association; but at the last session of the legislature an act was created requiring all graduates from schools of law, as well as nongraduates, to stand and pass the state bar examination before being admitted to practice in this state.

The proposed "the Georgia Bar" would be authorized to fix and determine qualifications for admission to practice, examine applicants, prescribe and administer rules of professional conduct, define causes and grounds for suspension of license, for disbarment. It would likewise act as a court to try and discipline or disbar members.

The proposed "judicial council" would be composed of the chief justice of the state supreme court, the chairman of the judiciary committee of the house and senate, another justice of the supreme court, a judge of the court of appeals, two trial judges, five lawyers in active practice and three laymen.

Duties of Council.

The council, its expenses defrayed by the state, would study and suggest rules for admission to the bar, and otherwise dove-tailing with the state bar. Its other functions would be to study cost of courts and offer methods of administering justice and report to the legislature with recommendations for effecting economies.

At the dedication of the new department of justice building in Washington last fall, Loftin said the national bar program was "the first serious endeavor . . . to counteract the impression held by some that the bar as a whole is an obstructive and destructive force standing in the way of progress, preventing the enforcement of law and advising clients of ways and means by which they may escape penalties of their acts." He enlisted the aid of all bar organizations in effecting the program.

Loftin was born in Montgomery, Ala., September 14, 1878, was admitted to the bar in Florida in 1899, attended school in Pensacola, Fla., and studied law at Washington and Lee University.

In announcing the conference, Wright invited several widely known Georgians to speak on the program, including:

Hatton Lovejoy, of LaGrange, former president of the Georgia Bar Association and chairman of the association's committee on judicial reform. His subject was listed as, "A Judicial Council and Legislative Cooperation."

Harley Fleetwood Lawson, of Hawkinsville, former president of the Georgia Bar Association. His subject was listed as "Bar Organization."

E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland, speaker of the house of representatives, whose subject was listed as "Legislative Cooperation."

FRED WOOD BURRUSS FUNERAL RITES TODAY

Fred Wood Burruss, well-known Atlantan, who was vice president of the Burruss Engineering Company, died Saturday morning at his residence at 337 Moreland avenue, N. E. He was 58 years of age and had been ill a month.

Mr. Burruss came to Atlanta in 1895 from his birthplace at Carrollton, Ill., and had resided here since.

He was a practicing lawyer for years, being a former member of the Atlanta Bar Association, and for a time was editor of a trade magazine, The Oil Miller and Cotton Ginner.

He has been connected with the Burruss Engineering Company for years as sales manager and vice president. Mr. Burruss was an active member of the Central Presbyterian church.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill and Dr. S. R. Oglesby will officiate. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Miss Mary Kate Burruss and Miss Edwina Burruss; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burruss, and a sister, Miss Mary R. Burruss, all of Atlanta.

Women Voters Plan To Attend Inaugural

Members of the Georgia League of Women Voters plan to attend the inauguration of Governor Eugene Talmadge here on January 16.

The league's state board is to meet on the morning of January 15. On that day the board will give a luncheon honoring Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, former state president, and presidents of local leagues.

In the afternoon the league will give a reception for state legislators and their wives. A presentation of legislative measures advocated by the league will be given at the reception.

After the governor's inauguration, the women plan to attend the governor's reception at the executive mansion.

Crash Injuries Fatal To Cincinnati Woman

Injuries she received New Year's Day when her automobile collided head-on with another car near Cartersville, resulted early Saturday in the death at Grady hospital of Mrs. Anna Linn, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Linn, who was returning to her home following a visit with friends in Atlanta during the holidays, was taken to Grady hospital, where her injuries were described as a fractured arm and knee.

Hospital authorities were endeavoring to communicate with members of her family Saturday.

DEATH OF NUDE MAN BAFFLES K. C. POLICE

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Seemingly without significant clues, police struggled tonight to solve the mysterious death of a young man found bound, stabbed, beaten and without clothing in his locked hotel room.

The youth died today after telling police he "fell in the tub."

There was not one stitch of clothing in his room. Police reported after a minute search that they had discovered only a necktie label, an unsmoked cigaret, four small fingerprints stained in blood on a lampshade and a hairpin.

Roland T. Owen, of Los Angeles, was the name he registered under at the hotel Tuesday. He was without baggage. Los Angeles police said they were unable to identify him.

FHA SEEKS EXEMPTION IN GEORGIA BANK LOANS

Legislators Asked To Support Proposed Amendment to Georgia Code.

Members of the Georgia legislature, which convenes on January 14, have been asked by John W. Millsaps, director for this region of the federal housing administration, to support a proposed amendment to that section of the Georgia code prescribing restrictions upon real estate loans made by commercial banks.

Director Millsaps in his letter to the legislators points out that this amendment is desired solely that Georgians may secure the greatest possible benefits under Title 2 of the federal housing act, which provides for government insurance of home mortgages.

The present law of Georgia prohibits state banks engaged in commercial business from lending on real estate, either as an investment, for its purchase or improvement more than 50 per cent of its market value and provides other restrictions and conditions to govern such loans.

The amendment sought by the federal housing administration merely exempts from these restrictions mortgage loans insured under the federal housing act. Under the act the government insures mortgages made by banks, either on present homes or for the construction of new dwellings, up to 80 per cent of the total value of the property.

In connection with the proposed amendment to the Georgia law, President Franklin D. Roosevelt on December 17 wrote to Governor Eugene Talmadge asking his co-operation in the enactment of the needed legislation.

URBAN LEAGUE WEEKLY BULLETIN

By REGINALD A. JOHNSON.
Atlanta School of Social Work.

From a recent release comes the following statement on the fine work done by the Atlanta School of Social Work:

"Attaining graduate standing simultaneously with a record student enrollement of 101, which is twice as large as that of last year and five times as large as it was eight years ago when the present director took charge, the Atlanta School of Social Work enters into what is probably the greatest year of its history. On the recommendation of Director Forrester B. Washington at a regular meeting of the board of trustees last Friday it was voted to put the school on a graduate basis by accepting hereafter no student who did not possess a bachelor's degree.

"These changes, while appearing revolutionary and radical, are the result of the progressive improvements which the present director has made in the school from year to year since he took charge in 1927. In the latter year the school had less than 20 students and was housed in a portion of one floor of an office building on Auburn avenue.

"In the course of eight years the director has increased the student body from year to year until it has reached its highest enrollment of 101 full time students for the 1934-35 fall and winter session. If the summer session is taken into account, and it is a part of the official 1934-35 school year, there have been 202 full time students enrolled for the year."

Since 1927 the curriculum has been changed from a one-year to a two-year course, and the budget has been doubled.

Since 1929 the Atlanta School of Social Work has been a member of the American Association of Schools of Social Work. During the past year it was one of the few schools of social work in this country to train FERA students who were selected for social training.

New Negro Business.

Under the direction of Major R. R. Wright, president of the Citizens & Southern Bank & Trust Co., of Philadelphia, there has recently been organized in that city the Haitian Coffee and Products Trading Corporation, which has as its purpose the introduction of Haitian coffee into America.

This company, which is completely owned and controlled by negroes, was organized through the co-operation of Stenio Vincent, president of the Haitian republic, and Cincoleon C. Brutus, secretary of commerce and president of the Haitian Board of Trade.

African Art.

There has recently been introduced into America by George S. Schuyler, of New York city, native African art and handicraft. This unique business has as its effect that of bringing to America genuine native workmanship from Nigeria, Dahomey, Abyssinia, Liberia and other parts of Africa, including such things as ivory bracelets and necklaces, baskets, native cloth, floor mats and rugs, ostrich, egret and marabou feathers and many other products that seldom leave their native land.

TWO TEXANS SEEK HELP IN LOCATING LOST GEORGIA KIN

From Texas two appeals for assistance in locating lost relatives came Saturday to The Constitution, one from an 84-year-old woman who fears she may be the only surviving member of a once populous family, the other from a girl seeking trace of aunts and uncles.

Mrs. J. H. Griffin, 807 West avenue, Ennis, Texas, desires to hear from the children or grandchildren of Rufus and Martha McSwain Ford, who lived in or near Atlanta 30 years ago, and also the children of Mollie McSwain Bennett, who were Georgia residents. It is Mrs. Griffin's hope to locate her cousins.

Miss Luvia Anderson, of Longview, Texas, is seeking to locate an aunt, Mrs. George Thomas, who was Dolly Clark before her marriage, and her uncle, Charles Clark. Both reside in Georgia or Alabama, Miss Anderson said in her letter.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD BY DEBATING LEAGUE

At the annual meeting of the Pentagonal Debating League held Saturday at Morehouse College, various methods of stimulating and increasing interest in debating at the various schools represented in the league were discussed. Representatives were present from Knoxville College, Johnson C. Smith University, Morehouse College, Shaw University and Talladega College.

According to the plan of the Pentagonal League, each school has two teams—one representing the affirmative and one the negative. The affirmative team remains at home, while the negative team travels. The teams meet on the same date and debate the same subject. At the meeting held Saturday the schedule for this year was announced. The question, "Resolved: That the Nations Should Agree to Prevent the International Shipment of Arms and Munitions," will be debated by the teams in the Pentagonal League on April 12.

Bookkeepers Are Coming Into Own In New Crime Detection Methods

By CLIFF FLIGG.

Bookkeeping and the compilation of statistical information have never been closely allied with fingerprinting and other scientific sleuthing in modern crime detection, but the men who wear the eye-shades and bend their backs over figures and volumes of facts are coming into their own as detectives.

Correctly compiled records and statistics, according to Oscar H. Pendley, secretary to Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant, will, in many cases, play a major role in the analysis of a crime and the subsequent apprehension and conviction of the criminal.

Yeggs, better known locally as safe blowers or cracksmen, have their trademarks, according to Secretary Pendley. One yegg, well known by local police, invariably drills the holes for the "soup" or nitro-glycerin in the same location and at the same angle on every safe he cracks. He uses the right amount of "soup" to the drop, and can blow a safe door without disturbing the papers inside. Atlanta detectives, particularly the men assigned to safe-cracking jobs, can tell at a glance whether the safe was blown by Bill, Henry, Birmingham, or some unknown yegg, Pendley said.

Same True of Bandits.

The same is true, in a modified degree, of holdup men. Usually, the moment all facts are told the detectives by the victims, the detectives are able to associate the holdup with a companion job. Burglaries, too, are conducted according to plans or habits adopted by the criminal, particularly if he is a professional.

Even the flimflam artists and con men have their trademarks, as do the lowly footpads, the dips, or pickpockets, and others who ply their nefarious trades on the public outside the law.

Through a system of uniform reporting of crime and the compilation of facts which is being installed by the Atlanta police department, and which will be worked in co-operation with the United States department of justice, impetus is expected to be added to the progress of crime detection by the local authorities.

Atlanta's record for crime detection in fact has been an impressive one, but arrests balanced against crimes, as shown by cold figures in the reports, would indicate without elaboration that the contrary was true, according to Secretary Pendley.

Only One Arrest Shown.

As an example he cited the case of one negro who was identified by 16 victims and who was convicted for the crimes in 16 cases and is now serving a 45-year sentence on the chain gang. Yet, it was brought out, the record shows 16 crimes and but one arrest. In other cases, a holdup man has been caught and convicted. He confesses or is convicted of several holdups which are shown on the record and yet the same record shows only one arrest.

Under the new system of reporting and recording the crimes, those cases which bear similar trademarks will be grouped together and when the suspect is arrested he will not only be confronted by the facts of the one or two crimes which have proven to be his undoing, but will be questioned in connection with all cases which police believe were branded with his so-called trademark.

If, for instance, detectives sent out on a safe-blowing case should notice that the hole was drilled in a certain spot and at a particular angle on the safe door, instead of making a mental note that Bill So-and-So had pulled the job, their report on the investigation would be filed with other reports of jobs which the detectives believed bore Bill's trademark. When Bill's foot slipped, or a friend equealed, and Bill was caught some night as he was sweating away before the steel door of a safe, the detectives would question him on his entire file of reports instead of being content to call the case finished when they had identified him with one or two jobs.

Record Will Look Better.

The crime record will look better from an angle of arrests and convictions, as in the case of Bill, the hapless yegg, whose file at detective headquarters contained six reports of safe-crackings which bore his trademark, the record will reveal that through the arrest and conviction of Bill, six safe-blowing jobs were cleared up.

The uniform system of crime reporting will have other healthy results, Mr. Pendley said. Each city in the United States of more than 100,000 population, and many cities with only as many as 50,000 inhabitants, will keep uniform reports, submitting the reports at specified intervals to Washington, where they will be printed and distributed to all police chiefs. In that way, according to Pendley, a chief of police can compare the record of his homicide squad, for instance, to that of another city of similar size and crime potentialties. He might have been of the opinion that his homicide squad was on their toes and making a splendid record, but will find that, compared to the record of homicide squads in other cities his men are far down on the lists.

HIGHER FREIGHT RATES ADVOCATED BY I. C. C.

Increase in Traffic Charges Must Come If Wages Are Maintained.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A hint that the railroads must have more traffic or higher freight and passenger rates was given by the interstate commerce commission today in its annual report to congress.

The ability of the carriers to bear increases in wages which occurred January 1 and July 1 last and to come on April 1 "will depend," the commission said, "in large part on the further revival of traffic."

The commission then said that "the freight rates, however, are somewhat below the level of those of the prosperous year 1926, so often referred to as a year having a desirable level for commodity prices, and passenger fares average considerably lower than those of 1926 while wages are to be restored to a level higher than that of 1926, since there was an upward tendency in wages between 1926 and February 1, 1932, when the 10 per cent cut in employes compensation was made. The cost of coal used by railways was 19.1 per cent higher in July, 1934, than in July, 1933, but 13.2 per cent lower than in July, 1926."

The commission has before it an application of the railroads for an increase in freight rates on most commodities.

The commission withheld its usual grist of recommendations to congress awaiting reports on various studies being made by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

The commission reported authorization for abandonment of 154 stretches of railroad having a mileage of 2,514.

De Priest's Successor Lauds Spirit Of Reception by Southern Solons

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Representative Mitchell, of Illinois, says he is more than pleased with the way he has been received by his colleagues as the new negro member of congress.

"If the courtesy I have been shown were any better," he said laughingly today, "I'd think it was a frame-up."

Beating out Representative De Priest, fellow Chicagoan, who for several years was the only negro member, Mitchell has been the object of considerable interest, particularly because he is a democrat. De Priest was a republican.

But, he says, the democrats, those from below the Mason-Dixon line and all, have "made me feel at home." To illustrate, Mitchell related that the first day an Alabama member—Mitchell was born in Alabama—"took a seat beside me and told me I could count on the help of the state's delegation if I needed it, and that they were proud of my record."

Similar reception came from a Mississippi member, he added, and one of his Illinois colleagues took him over to the republican side and introduced him all around.

Well spoken and neatly attired, the Chicagoan gave every evidence of wanting to go about the business of being a legislator without any special attention directed to him. He has attended the caucuses of the Illinois delegation, was on hand for the general democratic caucus and voted when his name was called for four roll calls Thursday.

He has had nothing to say on the question of negroes eating in the house restaurant. De Priest fought spectacularly last session to get void a ruling barring negroes from being served in the public dining room, but Mitchell has given no signs of wishing to revive the issue.

ARCHIBALD HENDERSON TO SPEAK JANUARY 14

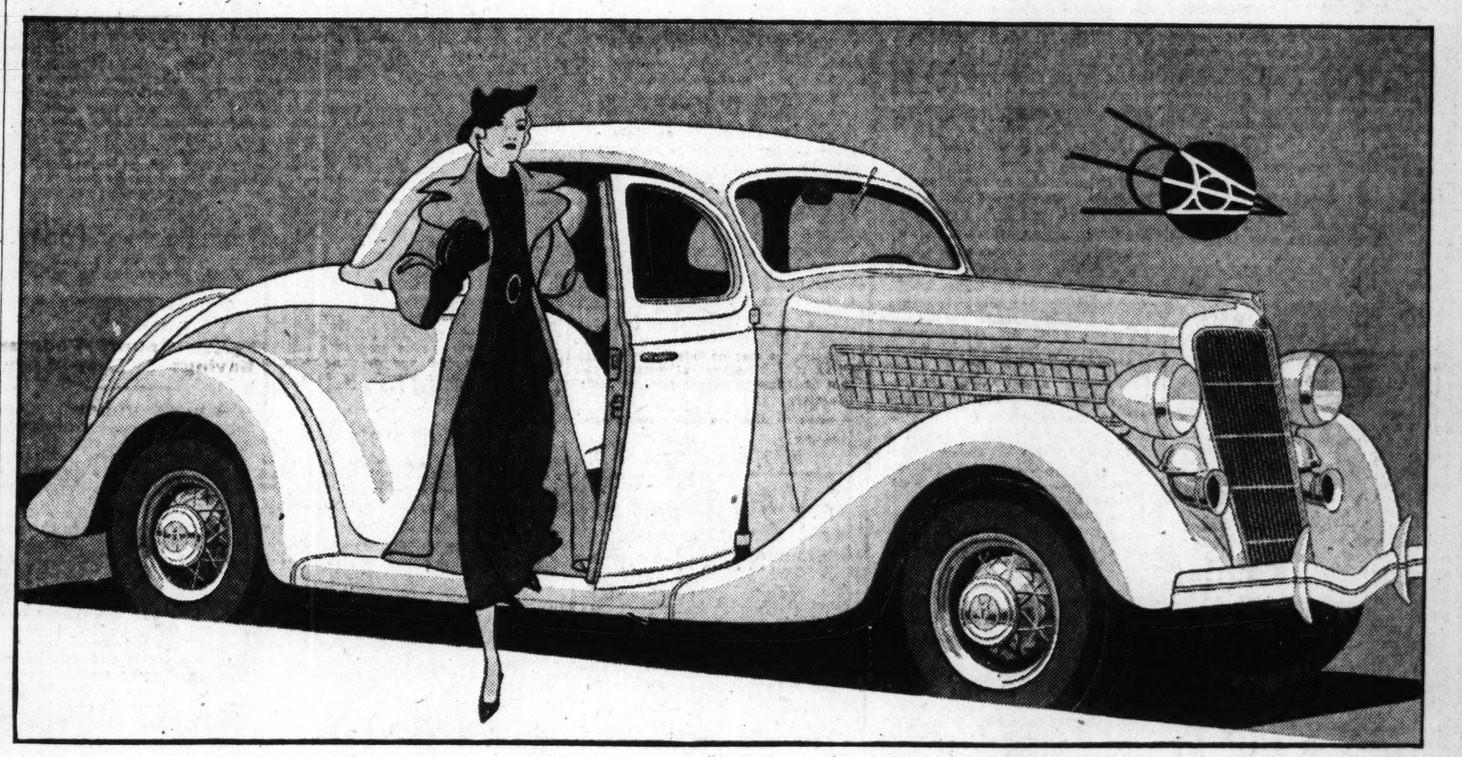

A distinguished educator and literary critic and a nationally famous scientist will appear on January programs to be presented in the Glenn Memorial auditorium under the Student Lecture Association of Emory University, it was announced Saturday by Dr. R. H. McLean, association faculty advisor.

Archibald Henderson, noted as an educator, critic and historian, will be presented in the auditorium Monday evening, January 14, at 8:15 o'clock, speaking on "Bernard Shaw, Playboy and Prophet." Dr. Henderson is the author of a biography on Shaw that is ranked as a masterpiece.

A demonstration and explanation of liquid air and low temperature will be given Friday afternoon, January 18, at 4 o'clock in the auditorium by Elliot James and his assistants. More than 1,000,000 persons witnessed James' demonstration at a Century of Progress in Chicago in 1933 and 1934.

FORD V-8 FOR 1935

A Distinctive, Modern Car for the Woman Motorist

To the power, speed and brilliant performance of the Ford V-8, there have been added a new beauty, a new luxury—and a marvelous riding ease.

The Ford V-8 has always been a favorite with men. You've heard the men in your family talk about it. "That's a great car," they have said. "Eighty miles an hour when you want it, a smooth, powerful engine, swift pick-up and the ability to 'take it' all day long."

But the New Ford V-8 is a car in which women, too, can take a still keener pride and delight. A more beautiful car, with modern style in every line and appointment.

A "FRONT-SEAT RIDE" FOR BACK-SEAT PASSENGERS

In the New 1935 Ford V-8 you ride nearer the center of the car. You ride on longer, more flexible springs. All weight is distributed to give Center-Poise. The back seat is restful and relaxing—the ride becomes a smooth and flowing glide on any kind of road.

THE ROOMIEST, MOST COMFORTABLE FORD EVER BUILT AND THE EASIEST TO DRIVE

The New Ford is a bigger car than any previous Ford. It has wider doors and is lower—easier to step in and out. Front seats are 4 to 5½ inches wider. New, larger space is provided behind the rear seat for suitcases and bags, thus avoiding crowding of passengers.

New features make the Ford V-8 still easier for women to drive. There is a new soft clutch which requires less foot pressure. The brakes also require less pressure, although they are more powerful and stop the car more quickly and smoothly than ever before. New steering mechanism makes the car easier to handle.

STYLE THAT WOMEN WILL ADMIRE

A glance will tell you that the New Ford is just about the handsomest car you have ever seen. Its lines are modern, graceful, without being freakish. Its colors are new and attractive. It is a car that women will stop to admire as readily as they do a new gown.

LUXURIOUS APPOINTMENTS

Modern ideas in design and coloring are seen in the car interiors. New upholstery with narrow piping and pillowed seats; hardware in tones to match upholstery; a new, more convenient and very modern instrument panel; curved gear shift lever which adds to the comfort of passengers in the front seat; double sun visors; doors which are hinged in front and swing forward; Clear-Vision Ventilation—these are some of the features which make these new cars so distinctive.

FORD V-8 RELIABILITY AND SAFETY

Every Ford V-8 for 1935 has Safety Glass all around—in doors and windows—at no additional cost. Every car has welded all-steel body. And, of course, every Ford has the powerful and reliable V-8 engine which makes the car such a satisfaction to drive as well as economical to operate.

Ours the "Better 'Ole."

EUROPEAN JOURNEY. By Philip Gibbs: pp. 342. New York. Doubleday, Doran & Co. $3.

"One hundred per cent American, that's what I've become!" exclaimed a well-known Atlanta businessman, at a New Year's gathering. "I used to believe we had a lot to learn from Europe and that life abroad was preferable, in a number of points, to life in the United States. But, whatever our faults and drawbacks as a people may be, we have only to look at Europe now to be happy that we live here."

I asked this gentleman if he had read "European Journey," his remark bringing Philip Gibbs' book to my mind. He had not but he was "going to." Said I, "You will find it congenial to your present mood, for, while Gibbs, being English, makes no comparisons with American life, he sums up his impressions of the European scene in words that will confirm your sentiments."

Since we like to have our sentiments confirmed, "European Journey" will probably be the next book on Mr. "Hundred Percenter's" list.

If Gibbs' book seems a bit superficial and impressionistic, at least its author makes no claim to profundity. He begins in these words: "The idea of this book was to make a journey through central Europe 20 years after the beginning of a war whose consequences are still unsettled and unpaid. My mission was not to interview statesmen and politicians, or the new rulers of the human tribes—one knows in advance what they will say—but to get into touch with the common folk whose lives are unrecorded and whose ideas are unexpressed."

Two very distinct impressions take hold of the reader even before he scans the 12-page summary which closes the book. One is the unusually intelligent viewpoint of most of the "common folk" who made Sir Philip's survey possible by their friendly responses to endless quizzing. The other is the horror of war possibility and the burning desire for peace in the breasts of all the nerve-wracked, anxiety-ridden lower middle-class peoples of France and central Europe. Indeed, so strong are these two outstanding impressions that any humane person closes this book with sensations of sympathy and pity and with a shamefaced conviction that Uncle Sam's people are not half grateful enough for their blessings.

In spite of the charming style of "European Journey," its attractive illustrations and its human quality, it is a depressing book, in that it shows up so clearly the hollow pretentions and appalling selfishness of most of those men in Europe who have been looked to for leadership. It also shows the plain people everywhere thoroughly disillusioned, many of them cynical and the majority derisive of those high-sounding phrases which were thought noble 20 years ago. True, this widespread mental attitude should make for hopefulness because it contains the germs of a revolt against false prophets who have misled the people and paved the way for their exploiters.

That which is innately evil creates dismay but the perception of a good ideal sunk into futility makes one despair. An example of the latter is seen in the chapter on Geneva. In this lovely city, lately become a symbol of the world's striving for peace, the author of "European Journey" stood and watched laborers at work on the Palace of Nations for the housing of the League. When one of these workmen was addressed, he said:

"We are not building a palace for the League!"

"For what, then?" asked the visitors.

"A new hospital for the wounded of the next war."

And the author further describes this sardonic workman:

"He spat on the ground and looked at me with blue laughing eyes, but his words had raised the hair on my scalp. It was a bitter and frightful phrase."

A younger man joined in the conversation:

"I know what I am helping to build—it is a barracks we are building. It will be ready for the Germans when they march this way."

The author hardly needs to add that these sons of toil were "very bitter" in their jocularity.

Again, in Geneva, a woman selling papers in a kiosk exclaims:

"The League of Nations! Ah, monsieur, what a downfall of hopes. What a dreadful failure to confess to all those millions of people who have been hoping against hope that they would give peace to Europe . . . They will arrange nothing except to increase their military strength. Year after year I had hoped that we had finished with bloodshed and the sacrifice of young manhood. Now I do not hope so much. The world is too wicked . . . Greed and egoism, monsieur. That is what prevents peace between the nations."

In distress, the reader asks, "And will the youth of the world permit the awful denouement of war?"

To this Sir Philip Gibbs answers that even if youth decides to do something about it, it seems quite likely it will do the wrong things, "in different colored shirts, with different war cries, with new hatreds, with new intolerance toward their fellows."

And American youth, what of them, one wonders? —J. C. H.

For Mystery Lovers.

MURDER CALLING. By David Whitelaw. New York: Claude Kendall. $2.

WHITE PYTHON. By Mark Channing. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co. $2.

To find two unusually disturbing detective stories released in one month is surprising; to find two with themes so contrasting is gratifying. "Murder Calling" is one of the few detective stories issued with an English background in which Scotland Yard has no part, and the traditional sleuth's viewpoint of a wholly absorbing murder is entirely absent. The story is designed to present a crime interesting only in that it is the focal point for the movements of the characters, whose reactions to the events subsequent to the first murder form the main source of interest.

In this day of realism "White Python" brings us a world totally different, a world so amazingly unreal that to become a witness of the strange ceremonies of underground worshipers in the lamasery of Tibet, of the supernatural beauty of the legendary subterranean lake, of the frenzied dance of the naked pagan high priestess, consort of the python, is to cause us to wonder that a form of serpent worship was at one time so extensively practiced by man that it spread over the entire world.

"Murder Calling" and "White Python" are vastly entertaining, fascinatingly improbable yarns for lovers of mystery and adventure.

Preparing for Repatriation

Map of the Saar Basin, reproduced from "The Saar Struggle," by permission of the Macmillan Company, New York.

Readin' 'n' 'Ritin'

Timely and informative is "The Saar Struggle" by Michael T. Florinsky, published by the Macmillan Company ($2). The agreement between France and Germany as to the amount to be paid by the latter for Saar Basin mines was arrived at after the publication of Dr. Florinsky's book. But this fact does not invalidate the importance and value of the Columbia professor's account of conditions in that troubled valley. Dr. Florinsky believes, as do those who have watched developments, that the plebiscite set for next Sunday will result in the return of the Saar Basin to Germany. The voters in the Saar have also the alternative of voting to join France or to establish permanently government under the League of Nations, as at present.

It is important to recall, as Dr. Florinsky does, the situation which drew the Saar Basin into the economic orbit of France, and created a danger spot which held the possibility of another Alsace-Lorraine. Early in 1919, Clemenceau took the position that France should receive special reparations for the destruction of her coal mines in the Basin of the Nord and the Pas-de-Calais. France insisted that these reparations should consist of a surrender to her of not only the legal titles to the Saar mines but of the Saar Basin territory, which has an area of about 1,500 square miles. At the same time, Clemenceau asserted that there were 150,000 Frenchmen living in the Saar Basin, whereas the number, according to the 1910 census, was less than 400.

President Wilson and Lloyd George joined in resisting the demand of the French for the control of the Saar, which had never been mentioned as one of the war aims of the Allies. It had been, however, the subject of a secret agreement between France and Tsarist Russia. Lloyd George asserted that there "must not be created another Alsace-Lorraine." President Wilson was in perfect agreement with George's viewpoint. It was at this time that the peace conference delegates and the newspaper correspondents heard sensational news: The rumor spread that President Wilson had ordered the George Washington to Brest and was preparing to return to America. This was on April 7, when the president had become annoyed by the insistent demands of Clemenceau and his colleagues. Two days later, Clemenceau accepted a compromise proposal, and "the new state (the Saar) received a constitutional charter," with the League in control.

The constitution of the new state was drafted in ten hours, the work being completed at 3 a. m., April 10. It was given sanction of the Council of Four later that same morning. Three important provisions received scant attention from the Council of Four. The first provided that after a period of five years, the Saar Basin would be subjected to the French customs regime. The second was the stipulation that "no prohibition or restriction shall be imposed upon the circulation of French money in the Saar Basin." (Germany objected to this, but in the end it benefited the Saar miners, for when inflation destroyed the mark they were receiving francs in payment of wages.) The third important provision in the constitution reads: "The League of Nations shall decide on the sovereignty under which the territory is to be placed, taking into account the wishes of the inhabitants as expressed in the voting." Dr. Florinsky believes that the wording of this chapter makes it clear that "the framers of the treaty admitted the possibility of tearing to pieces the Saar Basin, and even the maintenance of a League government in such communes as might vote in favor of the existing regime."

Fortunately for the inhabitants of the Saar Basin, there is no doubt concerning the wish of the vast majority to rejoin Germany. The vote would have been at least 95 per cent in favor of Germany had the election been held before the Hitler regime went on its rampage. The Jewish vote is negligible (0.5%), but Roman Catholics represent 72.6 per cent of the population. The Catholic voters will find "two natures struggling within them"—loyalty to Germany, which is their Fatherland despite the ascendancy of Hitler, and a reverence for and faith in their church which has been the target of oppressive measures enforced by Hitler. It has been estimated that 80 per cent of the Catholics will vote for repatriation.

The French are realists, therefore when a month ago they reached an agreement with Germany concerning the price to be paid by the latter for the Saar mines, it was obvious they expected the plebiscite to favor a return to the Fatherland. In the accord, arranged under the auspices of the League of Nations, Germany agrees to pay 900,000,000 francs ($59,400,000) and 11,000,000 tons of coal for the mines and private credits in the Saar Basin. As important as the agreement on the money arrangements is Germany's pledge that "the inhabitants of the Saar shall have equal rights regardless of language, race or religion."

Let's Go Bibliophile

Just what is a first edition? Why do people collect first editions? These are some of the questions which every collector or bookman is asked many times. Most people are inclined to regard the collector of first editions as a species of unconfined lunatic. To the average person the first edition of a book has no apparent advantage over any other edition, unless of course the book itself is a curiosity and is so interesting that any edition would be desired.

To answer the first question. A first edition is the first run through the press, whether one, or five thousand copies be printed, if during that run, the press is stopped for any reason, all copies printed up to that time are first issues. These first issues are the copies most eagerly sought by the confirmed collector. Bear in mind that most books do not have issue points.

To try to answer the second question—why do people collect first editions?—first comes the factor of the love of the book as it was originally issued and second, the speculative of investment interest. Of course book collecting is a hobby with most persons and we do not usually look to our hobbies for profit. However, in the case of books, there is a peculiar and lasting satisfaction in assembling a collection of books which will increase in value with the years.

What Think Students?

THE RELATIONS OF LEARNING. A Series of Addresses on University Education in a Changing World. By William Bennett Bizzell. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press.

Dr. William Bennett Bizzell has been president of the University of Oklahoma since 1925. This volume includes his inaugural address, 10 addresses delivered to the students of that institution at successive opening convocations, an address delivered at the honors day exercises of Iowa State College last May, and an article which appeared in the University of Chicago magazine for March, 1934.

The addresses are typical, though none the less admirable, examples of the things university and college presidents find it necessary and desirable to say to their students. The author would probably be the last to claim for them any great originality either in thought or in expression. There is no closely knit exposition of a well-rounded educational philosophy. Many of the problems, at times significant, at times trivial, that education in a democracy presents to institutions of higher learning are suggested, but they are dealt with only in the most general way. The title and the foreword suggest that it is the purpose of the volume "to relate the various aspects of learning to the shifting social, political, economic and educational situations through which the country has been passing." It is true that at times certain aspects of the current scene constitute the text of an address; in other addresses certain lessons are drawn from recent or contemporary events. But there is little indication of any profound effect of these events either on the author's thought about education or on the practices of his own or other educational institutions.

There are exhortations to seriousness of purpose and to hard work; reminders of the responsibility that educational opportunity lays upon its beneficiaries; warnings against the dangers and the distractions of college life. There are apt quotations whose sources range from Plato to Walter Pitkin and Dr. Frank Crane. There is of necessity quite a bit of repetition and some apparent inconsistency. There is an occasional slip, the most marked of which is the reference to "Carl Pierson."

It is not derogatory to say that hundreds of such addresses are delivered in college auditoriums every year. Wholesome advice, wise counsel, friendly exhortation and encouragement, gentle warning, have their place and serve their purpose. The busy university or college president has regrettably little time for personal contact with individual students. Such messages as these associate themselves with the personality of the man who utters them. The alumni and friends of the University of Oklahoma should find pride and satisfaction in the preservation of these utterances of their president in this permanent form.

One often wonders, however, what the undergraduates who listen to addresses of this kind really think of them. What do our students really think of, us and our words and our ways, anyhow? Not only the professional educator but the layman who ventures on occasion to address college audiences may well ponder such a question. Perhaps if we really knew we'd talk less—or try, when we did talk, to go a bit further and on certain points essay to commit ourselves more definitely. "So what?" seems an apt rejoinder to many of the generalizations that we find it easy to make in educational addresses.

The volume is, in format and typography, a beautiful example of the bookmaker's art—a credit to the press that produced it.

They Lived Happily.

YOUTH IN LOVE. By Walter Marquiss. New York: The Macaulay Company. $2.

But for a happy ending which cramps the author's philosophy, "Youth in Love," apparently a first novel by Walter Marquiss, would be an exceptional story. Even so it is a brightly kaleidoscopic picture of young persons subjected to the anguishes and beatitudes of love, torn between the sane views of their rearing and the modernistic ones of Greenwich Village. The story moves rapidly, new developments in every chapter, and not one couple, but several are involved.

The action moves from a Greenwich Village penthouse to a cabin in the Catskills, from New York streets to Long Island beaches, and it all takes place during the vacation period.

All these young people, with some elderly ones looking on as advisers, are involved, each in his or her peculiar fashion. Some find their vents in old-fashioned marriage, others without benefit of clergy, accompanied by tragedy. Charlotte Evans, who came from a small town in Illinois, but becomes a figure in certain metropolitan circles, falls in love with a married man, and is torn between her desires to the end.

Free of morbidity the book makes one feel not only the beauty but the tragedies of a group of normal young persons in love. "Youth in Love" has more depth than its first few pages would indicate. —S. A. H.

Novel of Clipper Days

SHIPMATES. By Isabel Hopestill Carter, 319 pp., New York; William R. Scott, $2.50.

"Shipmates," by Isabel Hopestill Carter, must be regarded as having one of two objectives. Either it is an attempt to add to our permanent sailing ship literature, or it is not so assuming and has as its goal merely the telling of a pleasant story. If the first supposition is true then the book is, to this reviewer, a failure, but if the second view holds true it may be said to fall short of success.

Briefly the story is this: Elizabeth Sparrow, a young New England school teacher of "fifty or sixty years ago," is subject to occasional fits of wanderlust. In one of these moods she forgoes the pleasure of marriage to her comfortable and respectable lover, David Birdge, for the more precarious existence as wife of Jim Brown, sea captain. Elizabeth sails with Jim, sees strange parts of the globe with him and bears his children—four of them—in fair weather and foul. After ten years of this life Jim is lost in a storm and Elizabeth placidly and philosophically resumes her job as teacher.

The most remarkable thing about the book is that it scatters 110,000 words over 319 pages without once rising to an emotional or dramatic peak. More than anything else the whole story reads like the transposed diary of an unimaginative and unemotional woman. And it borders on farce when Miss Carter attempts to achieve romance. The unfortunate result is a bit of sentimentality.

The book, quite frankly, leads one to believe that Miss Carter might divert her powers to another line of writing. Because she gave the conversational oddities of the children greater relative importance than the climax of the action, and seemed to enjoy doing it, one suspects that he talents may lie in the field of children's books.

There are always agreeable things to be said for any book, and this one is no exception. If the reader can apply his own imagination to the material at hand he may enjoy an evening of light entertainment.

The subject itself is a grand one. Those were the days when case-hardened, glory-seeking New England captains drove their crews and their sharp-bowed clipper ships to new records through storms and calms. Those were the days, too, when our merchant marine was made up of men who renounced the more superficial pleasures for the savage exultation of doing battle with the ineluctable elements—surging tides, battering waves, shrieking winds. A grand subject, but—the suspicion remains that Isabel Carter's talents are not suited to a theme so mature.

HAROLD HEMRICK.

Sixty Years of Service.

THROUGH TWO GENERATIONS. By Horace Mellard Du Bose. 100 pp. New York: Fleming H. Revell Company. $1.50.

Bishop (emeritus) Horace Mellard Du Bose, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, gives a vivid and captivating account of his ministry "Through Two Generations." His memories of fascinating years in American history cover the period from the beginning of that melancholy strife, the War Between the States, to the national climax of this day. Sixty years of great service to two generations!

This background of the bishop's life shows positive and purposeful living; how a goodly heritage, early careful educational preparation and good health developed a growing capacity for larger responsibilities, and also the ability to work without a sense of strain—a unified personality motivated by the principles and purposes of Jesus Christ. The life of the bishop reads like a romance. Every minister will be richer for having read this volume. It is the inspiration of such a book that is needed today to keep our Christian leaders true to the task of "bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Jesus Christ."

The bishop describes in picturesque fashion many of the great personalities he met during his long and useful career. Of Samuel P. Jones, he says: "He has not been equaled in a thousand years. He was Savonarola, John Huss and Peter the Hermit rolled into one."

On his ninetieth birthday Chauncey Depew said: "Ninety years old—and glad of it." He was on cordial terms with life. Dr. Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, celebrated his ninetieth year with a new book carrying great essays and addresses all written after he was 80 years old. And another great leader, Bishop Du Bose, in his seventy-sixth year writes this scholarly interpretation of the life and thought contemporaneous with his own years. One paragraph taken from the last chapter is illustrative of his outlook on life:

"One hundred and fifty-six times I have crossed the American continent as a gospel preacher. In collateral devotion, I have sailed the seven seas and tracked the two hemispheres. Never once have I suffered an accident of any nature. Only once have I been seriously ill. I love this beautiful world; I love God in Christ Jesus; I love all men, and I have a perfect hope for the eternal future. If this is old age, it is a happy state."

—HERMAN L. TURNER.

Three Poets of Today.

BRIEF PROCESSION. By Ann Lloyd, New York: pp. 106. G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.50.

SONGS OF TRIUMPH. By Josephine Turck Baker: pp. 96. New York: Brentano's. $1.

THE CARDINAL FLOWER. By Therese Lindsay: pp. 76. Dallas: The Kaleidograph Press. $1.50.

"Brief Procession" is Ann Lloyd's second book of verse, her first, "Antiques and Amber," having appeared in 1928. For the most part these poems are imbued with the characteristics of the old regime—sentimentality, melancholy and an effusion of musical words. The author's fancy roams from "Lapis Lazuli" and "Night-Blooming Cereus" to "Crossing the Atlantic" and "Night Mail," but the dominant motive is an appreciation of the beauties of nature. Some of these short lyrics, such as "Remembering a Lovely Lady" and "Spring in Arlington," unpretentious in thought and wording, are worth while. Their charm and sincerity are not smothered under a conscious artistry striving for eloquence and alliteration. Unfortunately most of Mrs. Lloyd's poetry is of a sugary vintage and is likely to have a cloying effect on the reader. The following lines are typical:

I saw a crimson leaf today—
An ember blown from creeping fires.
But it congeals my heart to say,
"I saw a crimson leaf today."
And tense on the needled ground
We listened to the murmurous monotone
Played by the wind on lost and lofty strings.

Josephine Turck Baker is known in the dramatic field as the author of "Madame de Stael," but most of her efforts have been devoted to writing textbooks on the practical use of our language. In the introduction to "Songs of Triumph" she defines poetry as "the magical expression in words of the singing or the crying of the soul in its deep, emotional experiences." For those who believe the term is better left undefined, her definition will be as good (or as bad) as most. Although it may be doubtful whether Mrs. Baker herself is gifted with "a magical expression in words," certainly there is in these poems an earnest display of energy and emotion and a joy in living.

I ask not why I live,
Nor whence I come, nor whither go
It is enough for me that I do live.

The most noteworthy of the songs are dedicated to patriotism; to the youth of America living and to the spirit, undying, of the young men who fell in the great war.

While interest in the poetry of Therese Lindsay is confined chiefly to her fellow Texans, some of the verse in "The Cardinal Flower" is bound to have a universal appeal. In such lines as these, describing winter sunshine, we find a freshness and a mutual feeling:

No single feather-freighted grass stalk moves.
So tangible the flood of golden light
One fain would cup the glory in his hands!

—ALLISON ADAMS.

Kindliness and Beauty.

PATTERNS OF WOLFPEN. By Harlan Hatcher. Indianapolis. Bobbs-Merrill Company. $2.50.

In 1785, Saul Pattern came into Kentucky from Virginia, and striding through the woods along the Big Sandy and Gannon creek, saw a huge pinnacle of rock overlooking the valley. He climbed to its top, and standing spellbound at the marvelous panorama of virgin country before him, said, "God Almighty, what a place for a man to live in!"

In less than seven pages of prelude to the book, "Patterns of Wolpen," the reader is given a sweeping view of Big Sandy valley, surrounded by the blue peaks of the Cumberland, a brief history of the early settlers, their encounters with the Indians and their rugged pioneering until Saul Pattern, in 1796, felt life to be reasonably safe, and came back to the chosen spot of Wolfpen with his wife and children. He brought with him a Virginia patent for four thousand acres of land.

The story opens on a spring afternoon a hundred years later, with Cynthia, sensitive, imaginative young daughter of Sparrel Pattern, sitting on a high ledge watching her father and brothers convert the old water-wheeled mill to steam power. Four generations of Patterns had carried on the family tradition, loving the land, serving their neighbors, living a life of tranquillity and harmony.

But with the present generation, the world arrives, intruding itself on the quiet beauty of these people's lives. Ready money seems more necessary to these Patterns than to their forefathers. Jesse, one brother, wishes to read law, and the gentle mother, Julia, dreams of a year at the institute for her only daughter, Cynthia. So timber land is sold, and industry enters the peaceful hills, bringing with it ugliness, disease and violent death.

But it also brings love and a new life to Cynthia, for the young surveyor returns to claim her as his wife. As a bride she leaves the old homestead and Jane, her brother Jasper's new wife, takes up the simple duties of a landowner's helpmate, prepared to carry on the family tradition, but with many changes.

Harlan Hatcher, instructor of English at Ohio State University, has portrayed the rich, leisurely, yet full life of these hill people with quiet dignity and calm beauty of language that creates in the reader an unusual feeling of repose, almost at times, an envy of the self-sufficient, gracious lives of the dwellers of Wolfpen. The reader is made aware of the existence of a type of people not often met in literature, settlers of the beautiful, isolated Kentucky mountains and valleys who had the fine, native American culture that has existed since Revolutionary days. No feuds and brawls, no stills, no broad dialect or superficial sentimentality, but simple, kindly men and women, facing the rising tide of industrialism.

—RUTH HINMAN CARTER.

Literary Driftwood

While in the production of "Sequoia," the forthcoming film based on the book, "Malibu," by Vance Joseph Hoyt, the directors found it necessary to raise many wild animals. It appears that, in typical Hollywood fashion, the last scenes were shot first, so that when the earlier part of the continuity was taken up, the animals had grown too large. To retain at least an age consistency, new batches of infant deer, lions, etc., were put on a bottle diet and rushed into production.

"I once discussed prayer with Mary Austin," recalls Cornelia Stratton Parker, in her "Wanderer's Circle" (Houghton Mifflin Company): "Was it true, I asked her, that she really believed one could gain anything one prayed for? It was true. But, she explained, one mustn't be too explicit. For instance, women were forever asking her if they prayed for husbands would they come by husbands? If a woman prayed the right way for a husband, she certainly would get one, Mary claimed. The trouble was that, instead of praying merely for a husband, a woman was all too apt to get down on her knees and ask God for a tall, dark, handsome man, preferably in the legal profession."

Only one error of history or fact in "One Stayed at Welcome," a romance of early Minnesota, was pointed out to Maud Hart Lovelace, during a recent thirty-day trip through the northwest. To prove that she and Delos Lovelace, who collaborated on the novel, were incorrect in their description of a dish made of prairie chicken, friends in Minneapolis gave her a dinner featuring the prairie chicken. She was unable to discover any of the white meat which she had described so vividly in the story, because the prairie chicken is wholly dark. The official seal of accuracy has been placed on the novel by the Minnesota Historical Society.

ATLANTA MUSIC NOTES

by Mozelle Horton

Sincere greetings for a happy New Year! A bit late, perhaps, but the first opportunity I have had to tell how much joy in every way, and of course musically, I am wishing for my readers.

And speaking musically, the New Year has received a good send-off with four days of opera by the San Carlo Opera Company. And there are so many other interesting attractions coming soon. Now that opera is over attention will be directed toward the two symphony concerts to be presented by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conductor, in the city auditorium on Thursday, January 31.

Matinee Program.

The program of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra for the children's matinee offers "Prelude" to "Die Meistersingers," Wagner; "Allegro" from "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," serenade for string orchestra, by Mozart; "Allegro Moderato" (first movement), from the "Unfinished Symphony," Schubert; "Country Gardens," Grainger; "The White Knight," from the Suite, "Through the Looking Glass," Deems Taylor; "Dance of the Comedians," from "The Bartered Bride," Smetana, and the tone poem, "Finlandia," Sibelius.

Evening Program.

The evening program of the orchestra includes the Overture to "Leonore," No. 3, Beethoven; "Symphony No. 4, in E minor," Brahms; "Moto Perpetuo," Paganini-Ormandy; "Der Rosenkavalier" Waltzes, Strauss, and three pieces from "The Damnation of Faust," Berlioz.

Atlanta Music Club.

The Atlanta Music Club will have its first meeting of the new year on Wednesday morning, at 10:45 o'clock, in the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium. Mrs. Harold McKenzie is president of the club, and Mrs. Charles

MRS. CHARLES DOWMAN.

Dowman will be chairman for the morning, having as her topic of study "The Symphony." Enrico Leide will give a brief discussion of the various instruments of the symphony orchestra, and Mrs. Dowman will sketch briefly the symphony—its history, construction, giving an analysis with particular reference to the Brahms E minor, No. 4. Following the discussion Mrs. Dowman and Irene Leftwitch will play a two-piano arrangement of the entire Brahms E minor Symphony, playing each of the four movements in their entirety. This program will be one of particular interest to music lovers, because it will give them an opportunity to analyze and refresh in their minds this Brahms symphony before they hear the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra play it here on January 31.

Thursday Club.

The Thursday Morning Music Club, Mary Douglas, president, will meet at 11 o'clock Thursday at 770 Virginia circle, with Mildred Bourne and Louise Brown as hostesses. Margie Griffith, in charge of the program for the morning, will outline the lives and characteristics of the music of Cesar Franck, Grieg, Tschaikowsky and Delius. Lenus Daniell will play compositions of these composers on the piano, Bertha Patterson on the violin, accompanied by Ruby Head Lewis, and Jessie Richardson and Sarah Horne will sing, accompanied by Bonita Crowe.

College Park Club.

The College Park Music Club, Eloise Olds, president, will hold its January meeting Wednesday at 3 o'clock at the College Park Woman's Club auditorium. Dixie Stephens, program chairman for the afternoon, will present the first of a series of programs on the correlated arts. Helen Knox Spain, state corresponding secretary of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, will give an interesting talk on the "Classical Period," with illustrative piano and vocal numbers by Mozelle Horton Young and Haskell Boyter. Mr. Boyter is a prominent baritone. As this is an outstanding program of the year, all members are urged to be present. Membership cards are transferable.

Executive Board.

The College Park Music Club executive board was entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. L. Jacobs, with Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. John Routso hostesses. Those present were: Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Routso, Eloise Olds, president; Mrs. J. H. Howard, Mrs. T. H. Porch, Mrs. W. S. Northcutt, Mrs. Fred Shaefer, Mrs. W. W. Bateman, Mrs. H. G. Mathews, Mrs. S. D. Truitt, Mrs. D. M. Hicks and Mrs. S. R. Young.

Reports were given by the various chairmen. After the business was completed refreshments were served.

Piano Recital.

Lenus Daniell will present Margaret Wilson in a piano recital Saturday, January 12, at 7:15 o'clock at the home of Margaret's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Wilson, at 1324 Lucile avenue, S. W. The occasion will honor Margaret's eleventh birthday.

Henry Anderson Hall, reader, and pupil of Anne Bowie, will assist on the program.

Musical Arts Trio.

On Sunday afternoon, January 6, at 5 o'clock, Glenn Memorial Methodist church, in the regular vesper service, will present the Musical Arts Trio: Geraldine Edgar Siegler, violinist; Priscilla Warren Loemker, cellist; Isabel Mawha Bryan, pianist.

The Atlanta Constitution said about the trio on one occasion:

"The Atlanta Arts Trio played to a capacity house at the Woman's Club where they scored a veritable triumph. The trio gave a performance of rare beauty marked by fine phrasing, sensitive interpretation and insight, with a magnificent tone and flawless ensemble. They were heard to the greatest advantage in a masterful performance of the Cesar Frank Trio in C sharp minor Opus 1. Atlanta is particularly forunate in the possession of three such gifted artists who seem to be peculiarly en rapport and who have, by some happy circumstance become residents of the south and still more happily found each other."

Fayetteville Musicale.

The most outstanding event of the Christmas season at Fayetteville was the musical program given by the Fayetteville Music Club at the home of the president, Louise Hollingsworth, on Thursday evening, December 27. "An Evening with Chopin" was enjoyed by about 60 guests. After a few introductory remarks made by the president, welcoming the guests and giving a resume of the club's history, the following program was rendered:

"A Sketch of Chopin's Life," Mildred Stell.

Piano solos: "Prelude in E minor," Nimrod Brewer; "Butterfly Etude," Carol Arnold; saxophone solo: "Nocturne in E flat," Lester Dickson Jr., accompanied by Mrs. L. C. Dickson; piano solos: "Valse in A flat," Mrs. L. G. Perry; "Military Polonaise in A," Ambrose Burch; vocal solos: "Maiden's Wish" (Chopin), Alfred Mathes; "Bacchanal" (Chopin), Alfred Mathes, accompanied by Carol Arnold; piano solos: "Fantasie Impromptu," Louise Hollingsworth, and "Scherzo in B flat minor," Griff Perry.

Before each selection the performer gave a description of the form of composition he was to play.

The whole lower floor of the home was thrown together and beautifully decorated, every detail carrying out the Christmas colors. During the social hour the guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. This was the first public performance of the club as a whole, it being yet in its infancy—only five months old.

GLAZIER IS PRESIDENT OF MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

W. A. Glazier was elected president of the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church of College Park at a special business meeting held last week. Officers were named for the first six months of 1935.

Mrs. L. O. Freeman and Dr. W. C. Carlton are teacher and assistant teacher, respectively, while Dr. William M. Sentell is pastor of the church.

Other officers elected included M. C. Padget, first vice president; M. M. Hammock, second vice president; Ralp Wiggins, third vice president; J. E. Hamilton, secretary; L. M. Noland, treasurer; Harry Edmondson, chorister; Mrs. O. B. Oliver, pianist, and W. L. Wynn, reporter.

ARCADE ASSOCIATION TO MEET ON THURSDAY

The annual meeting of the Arcade Co-operative Association will be held Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Arcade cafeteria. At this meeting officers for 1935 will be elected.

Following the service of the dinner an attractive entertainment program will be put on under the direction of Miss Margaret Waite, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The Arcade Co-operative Association is a part of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association.

The 1934 officers of the Arcade Co-operative association are: Luther Alverson, president; L. G. Fulton, first vice president; G. E. Porter, second vice president; Margaret Waite, treasurer, and L. L. Austin, executive secretary.

METHODIST REVIVAL WILL BE CONTINUED

Revival services being held at the Grant Park Methodist church will be continued through Sunday, January 13, the Rev. B. F. Fraser, pastor, announced Saturday. The services are being conducted each evening at 7:30 o'clock with an 11 o'clock service both Sunday mornings.

The Rev. H. J. Penn, a member of the board of education of Atlanta, and pastor of the Maddox Park Methodist church, is conducting the services. The Rev. V. G. Osepoff and his wife, refugees from Russia since the revolution, have charge of the music.

HEARST PREDICTS REVOLT IN U. S. S. R.

Wealthy Publisher Makes Stirring Indictment of Soviets Over Radio.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Denouncing the proletarian government of Russia as "the fearful failure that it needs must be, and definitely deserves to be," William Randolph Hearst today declared there were "evidences of rising revolution against the new regime."

The newspaper editor reviewed recent events in Russia, including the assassination of a soviet official, and said:

". . . In spite of military censorship, in spite of universal terrorism—the truth is slowly leaking out of Russia.

"And the truth is that revolution is rife, starvation stalks starkly across the land, executions are commonplaces, murder is a routine of government; and that the national colors of communism are daily dipped in the blood of subject classes to keep them bright."

"All these calamitous conditions exist as a direct consequence of this 'noble experiment' of communism," he said. "This optimistic adventure in government by the least executive element of the community, this so-called idealistic, proletarian despotism, which some lunatics in our country desire us to imitate."

Hearst, speaking over a coast-to-coast radio network, said the United States was expected to come to Russia's aid with her grain surpluses.

Bloody Despotism.

"We stupid and ignorant believers in liberty and democracy—we are supposed to contribute to the maintenance of the most brutal and bloody despotism that ever disgraced and defiled God's earth," he said.

"More people died by famine in Russia in two years than died in the whole five years' slaughter of the World War, and we are supposed to come to the rescue of the Kremlin, this charnel house built of bones and cemented with innocent blood.

"We are supposed to rescue this vile and vicious system of robbery and murder, so that these communists can in return proselyte in our country to the end that we be robbed and murdered also.

"We, to our own undoing, are supposed to save the soviets from the righteous resentment of their own oppressed people."

Rap Grain Export.

Hearst quoted Dr. Ewald Ammende, chairman of the international committee for the relief of soviet Russia, as saying in the New York Times last August that "the most tragic feature of the 1933 famine was the fact that while 'millions of human beings were dying of hunger in the Ukraine' and other sections of the country, some 70,000,000 bushels of grain were exported by the soviets to acquire foreign money."

"How can we give aid and comfort to a gang of criminal communists," Hearst went on, "who are robbing and murdering harmless farmers 'to acquire foreign money' in order to support of the government of the proletariat, and to maintain the red army which keeps the proletariat in power?"

Continuing, he said:

"Does anybody want the bloody despotism of communism in our free America except a few incurable malcontents, a few sap-headed college boys and a few unbalanced college professors, who teach the young and inexperienced that the robbery and rapine of communism is—God save the mark—ideology?".

Boy, 16, Girl, 17, Found Dead in Auto

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A verdict as to how Rosalind Dishinger, 17, and Walter Dean Cameron, 16, high school sweethearts, met their deaths was withheld tonight by Coroner R. O. Kennedy pending a further examination of their bodies.

The two young people were found dead this morning in each other's arms in Cameron's automobile, which was parked on a covered bridge northeast of this city. Authorities were unable to determine whether they had entered into a suicide pact or whether they had died accidentally from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dr. Kennedy obtained possession of some letters which were found strewn across the bodies of the couple, but he declined to reveal their contents. It was reported, however, there was some reference to possible suicide in the letters. Following a preliminary examination, Kennedy said the couple may have entered a suicide pact.

Total U. S. Exports Greatly Increased

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A continuation in November of a trend of declining exports from the United States to Europe was shown by commerce department figures today, although total exports gained.

With the exception of soviet Russia, and the United Kingdom, the nation's exports declined in every major European country in November, 1934, as compared with 1933. Exports to Europe also declined in October and September of this year compared with the same months last year.

Total exports gained $10,000,000 as disclosed in recently published figures, and for the 11 months ending in November, 1934, exports to Europe were still above the preceding 11 months.

Exports to Japan increased substantially. Cuba bought almost twice as much as in November, 1933.

First Mortgage Under Title II Made by Bank in Lenox Park

Georgia's first government-insured mortgage, under Title 2 of the Federal Housing Act, was successfully negotiated Saturday when the First National Bank lent $8,000 to Land Lot Three Realty Company with a home at 1580 Lenox road as security. Above, left to right, are Colonel John W. Millsaps, regional director for the FHA; W. E. Duke, credit manager of the First National Bank, and Herbert Kaiser, vice president of the realty company, signing final papers in the transaction. Staff photo.

The first mortgage made under provisions of Title II of the federal housing act, which provides government insurance for mortgages up to 80 per cent of the value of the property, was consummated here Saturday when the First National bank negotiated a loan of $8,000 with a home at 1580 Lenox road, in Lenox Park, as the security.

The mortgagor in the transaction was Land Lot No. 3 Realty Company, owner and developer of Lenox Park, which will use the $8,000 toward construction of a series of homes there costing approximately $10,500 each.

W. E. Duke, manager of the credit department for the First National bank, negotiated the loan, while Herbert Kaiser, vice president and general manager of the realty company, signed the deeds. B. Mifflin Hood is president of the company. Details of the transaction were worked out with the co-operation of John W. Millsaps, regional director of the better housing division of the national emergency council for Region 4.

The First National bank was the first Georgia institution officially designated by Washington as an approved mortgagee under Title II of the housing act. In addition to Saturday's achievement of handling the first Georgia loan under Title II, the bank also has the distinction of having made the first modernization loan under Title I of the act.

Mr. Kaiser predicted that Title No. II would greatly stimulate construction of homes and expressed conviction that "the federal housing administration promises to be the most constructive undertaking of the Roosevelt administration."

"It will not only be the means of greatly stimulating the demand for labor and building material," said Mr. Kaiser, "which is probably the most essential step toward complete recovery, but the federal housing administration plan will establish for the future the most practical, sound and economical method for home financing that has ever been offered in this country."

In connection with consummation of the loan, Mr. Millsaps expressed gratification that the region under his direction has taken the lead under Title No. II.

"Such co-operation as the First National bank has offered, not only with the federal housing act, but in all recovery measures, has been of incalculable value," said Colonel Millsaps. "We believe that the public generally will be quick to take advantage of the opportunities provided under Title II and that new impetus will be given to recovery through greatly increased building activity, with consequent far-reaching benefits."

4 ARE CONVICTED IN '33 MASSACRE

Men Sentenced to Prison, 3 Women Are Placed on Probation.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Maximum sentences of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine were imposed today on the four men convicted of the conspiracy to release Frank Nash, federal prisoner, which ended in the death by machine gun fire of Nash and four officers at the Union station here June 17, 1933.

The three women defendants were placed on probation by Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis.

After he had sentenced the women to a year and a day in the federal penitentiary and fined them $500 each, the sentences were suspended, but Judge Otis said the fines must be paid on or before September 1, 1935. The probation is for three years.

The men are Louis (Doc) Stacci, Chicago cafe owner; Frank B. (Fritz) Mulloy, Kansas City; Richard T. Galatas, Hot Springs, Ark., and Herbert A. Farmer, Joplin, Mo.

Of the women, Vivian Mathis, who posed here as the wife of Verne C. Miller, one of the three alleged slayers, pleaded guilty as the trial began Monday. The others are Mrs. Galatas and Mrs. Farmer.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Otis said:

"The nature of the conspiracy was such that the defendants could not have helped knowing that it could not have been carried out without possible or probable violence.

"A shameful murder of public servants did ensue.

"I am convinced that the women were but the helpless instrument of men by whom they were attached by the bonds of affection and matrimony."

Motion for a new trial were overruled. Defense counsel announced yesterday, when the jury brought in a guilty verdict, there probably would be an appeal.

More 1934 Small Coins Than Any Year in 15

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(UP) United States mints turned out more new coins in the year just ended than in any period in the past 15 years as the result of demand throughout the country for "small change" incident to business expansion.

During 1934 a total of 358,269,353 coins worth $25,941,751 rolled out of the government's money machines, the highest for any year since 1919, when 738,642,000 coins were executed.

The 1934 output brought total United States coinage since 1793 to $6,121,484,082, a large part of which were the now illegal gold coins.

The 1934 output comprised 3,534,557 dollars; 12,977,400 half-dollars; 35,439,252 quarters; 30,852,000 dimes; 27,693,003 nickels and 247,526,000 pennies. In addition small amounts of various memorial half-dollars were struck and 24,280,000 coins made for various foreign countries.

Farm Dollar Value Still Below Parity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The index of prices received by farmers on December 15 was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics to have been 1 per cent above pre-war parity.

Prices paid by farmers were, however, 26 per cent above the pre-war level, leaving a ratio of prices received to prices paid at 80 per cent, indicating a continuation of the low level of purchasing power of farm commodities.

The December 15 index of prices received was the same as on November 15 but was 23 points above the index of December 15, 1933.

The 126 per cent estimate of prices paid by farmers was also unchanged during the month. It was 10 points higher than on December 15, 1933.

16 MURDER CASES ARE SET FOR TRIAL

Lassiter and Mrs. Peeples Docketed To Face Juries Here Tuesday.

Of 30 murder cases awaiting trial in Fulton superior court 16 have been set for trial during the first two weeks of the January term, including two white and 14 negro cases.

Joe Fred Lassiter, charged with the killing of Reuben L. Smith in old Campbell county on October 28, will go to trial Tuesday before Judge G. H. Howard. On the same day Mrs. Ethel Peeples, of Chatsworth, Ga., who poisoned her infant daughter last April, will be tried before Judge Lee B. Wyatt, who will preside for the week in the emergency division.

Trial of Theodore R. Berry, charged with assault to rob, will begin Monday before Judge Wyatt. Berry, given a life sentence in the murder of W. H. Check, Peachtree road grocer, several years ago and later pardoned, is one of three men charged with the attempted holdup of W. M. Gilleland, payroll messenger, on the courthouse corner.

There are 160 persons in jail awaiting trial. The murder cases include six white defendants. The first two weeks of the term will be given to trial of jail cases, after which bond cases will be placed on the calendar.

Visiting judges announced for the term are Judge Lee B. Wyatt, of LaGrange, week of January 7, and Judges W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta; B. C. Gardner, of Camilla, and James C. Davis, of Decatur, for the three remaining weeks, respectively.

$200,000 Asa Candler Sr. Home Offered to Decatur Legion Post

By PERRY MULLEN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

The marble mansion of the late Coca-Cola king—Asa G. Candler Sr.—may soon become the home of DeKalb county Legionnaires.

The palace, costing more than $200,000, has been offered to the former service men as a clubhouse by the heirs of the capitalist.

When it was built some 15 years ago, the Candler home was a show place. It has not been occupied since the death of the sofe drink magnate several years ago. A caretaker has been employed.

It has a dozen rooms built around a solarium of Spanish design. It is of Georgia marble. There is an expensive pipe organ and a billiard room as well as a bowling alley.

The only strings attached concern careful treatment of the expensive furnishings and the house.

The offer was made by Walter T. Candler Sr., son of the capitalist. It was made to Frank Cagle, commander of Harold Byrd post, Decatur.

Candler said the proposal for the Legion to use it for their clubhouse was made because of his friendship for Cagle and to help the Legion.

Officials of the post said acceptance of the offer would give the Decatur organization the most magnificent Legion headquarters of any post in the country. The executive committee of the post is to meet Tuesday to consider the proposition.

Scott Candler, Atlanta attorney and a member of the Decatur post executive committee, said the offer also would have to be voted on at the post's meeting Friday night.

In event of approval, Legion officials said, the Carnegie library would be offered use of rooms in the home as a branch library for the Druid Hills section.

Court Raps 'Welching' Of Toy Manufacturer

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The New York supreme court today added the expressive word "welching" to the country's NRA lexicon, which already includes such picturesque terms as "chiseling" and "cracking down."

The conduct of the doll manufacturing firm of Ralph A. Freundlich, Inc., said Justice William Harmon Black today in ruling on an NRA case, "can only be characterized as welching. . ."

Justice Black said he would appoint a referee to assess monetary damages against the firm for its alleged breaches of a "closed shop" agreement with the doll and toy workers' union.

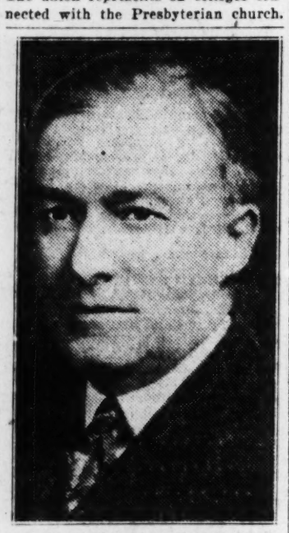

Moreover, he said he would hold the company accountable for any future violations despite the fact that it has moved its factory to Clinton, Mass.

The court charged the Freundlich company had enjoyed the benefits of averting a general strike by entering into a closed shop agreement with the union "but refuses to carry out the obligations."

PRESBYTERIAN UNION OF COLLEGES TO MEET

Representatives of colleges in all parts of the United States which compose the Presbyterian College Union, will meet at Hotel Biltmore, Tuesday, January 15, for all-day conference. The union represents 52 colleges connected with the Presbyterian church.

DR. HAROLD McA. ROBINSON.

Three of these are in Tennessee, two in Kentucky, four elsewhere in the south, and the others in the west and north.

The morning session will consider college problems as seen by representatives of the Presbyterian board of Christian education, and other college questions will be discussed in the afternoon and at night. During the evening dinner, at the Biltmore, an address will be made by the Rev. Dr. James E. Clarke, of Nashville, editor afield of the Presbyterian Tribune, New York, and long active in Presbyterian educational work.

"The Failures of Secularism" will be the subject of an address at the morning meeting by the Rev. Dr. William L. Young, general director of the department of colleges, theological seminaries and training schools for the board. A. H. Burnett, the board's traveling auditor, will speak on "Desirable Financial Procedure in Colleges," and other addresses will be made by the Rev. Dr. Clinton Hancock Gillingham, president of Tennent College of Christian Education, Philadelphia; the Rev. Dr. Robert Lee Sawyier, president of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education, Chicago, and Dr. Harold McA. Robinson, Philadelphia, general secretary of the board.

Fulton-DeKalb Group Discusses Legislation

Discussions of various proposals which will be sponsored by the Fulton and DeKalb delegations in the legislative sessions featured the dinner at which the members of the delegations were entertained at the Winecoff hotel Friday night by State Senator G. Everett Millican.

Those attending the dinner were Senator Millican and Representatives Bond Almand, William B. Hartsfield and Ralph L. Ramsey, of Fulton, and Paul L. Lindsay and David Ansley, of DeKalb.

CHAIRMEN APPOINTED FOR SCOUTERS' CLUB

Committee chairmen of the Atlanta Scouters' Club to serve during 1935 were announced Saturday by Dr. Sterling G. Brinkley, new president of the organiaztion.

G. M. McCord will serve as chairman of the program committee; Fritz Almand, as chairman of the fellowship committee; C. C. Green, chairman of the arrangements committee; Dr. Frank Lamons, chairman of the publicity committee, and C. H. Mitchell, chairman of the hospitality committee, with W. W. Foote as co-chairman.

The Atlanta Scouters' Club is an organization for voluntary leaders in scouting. There are more than 900 men in Atlanta eligible for membership.

"All scoutmasters, assistants, troop committeemen and members of the Court of Honor should know of the Scouters' Club," said Dr. Brinkley, "and I hope to reach every one of them during 1935."

The club will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the Peachtree Arcade cafeteria. Every voluntary leader in Atlanta Scout circles has been invited to attend.

Two Tampa Bandits Thought Headed Here

At the request of Tampa police, preparations were made Saturday night by Atlanta police to stop and hold two men who are believed to be headed toward Atlanta following the robbery of a Tampa loan society of jewelry and silverware valued at more than $125,000.

Descriptions furnished the Atlanta police by Chief of Detectives W. D. Bush, of Tampa, are, No. 1, 35 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, 160 pounds, thick lips, ruddy complexion, dark suit and brown hat; No. 2, about 45 years old and wearing a gray hat.

The two men, according to Tampa police, waylaid A. J. Rodrique, cashier of the pawnshop, and made him return to the store and open the vaults, which yielded the loot. Rodrique was then taken several miles north of Tampa, where he was gagged and bound to a tree. He freed himself only after hours of struggling and reported the robbery to police by telephone from a near-by tourist camp.

1 HELD, 2 ARE SOUGHT IN $125,000 ROBBERY

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Police questioned A. J. Rodriguez, pawnshop manager, tonight as they spread a search for two men he reported kidnaped him and robbed the Jefferson Loan Society office of an estimated $125,000 in jewelry and cash.

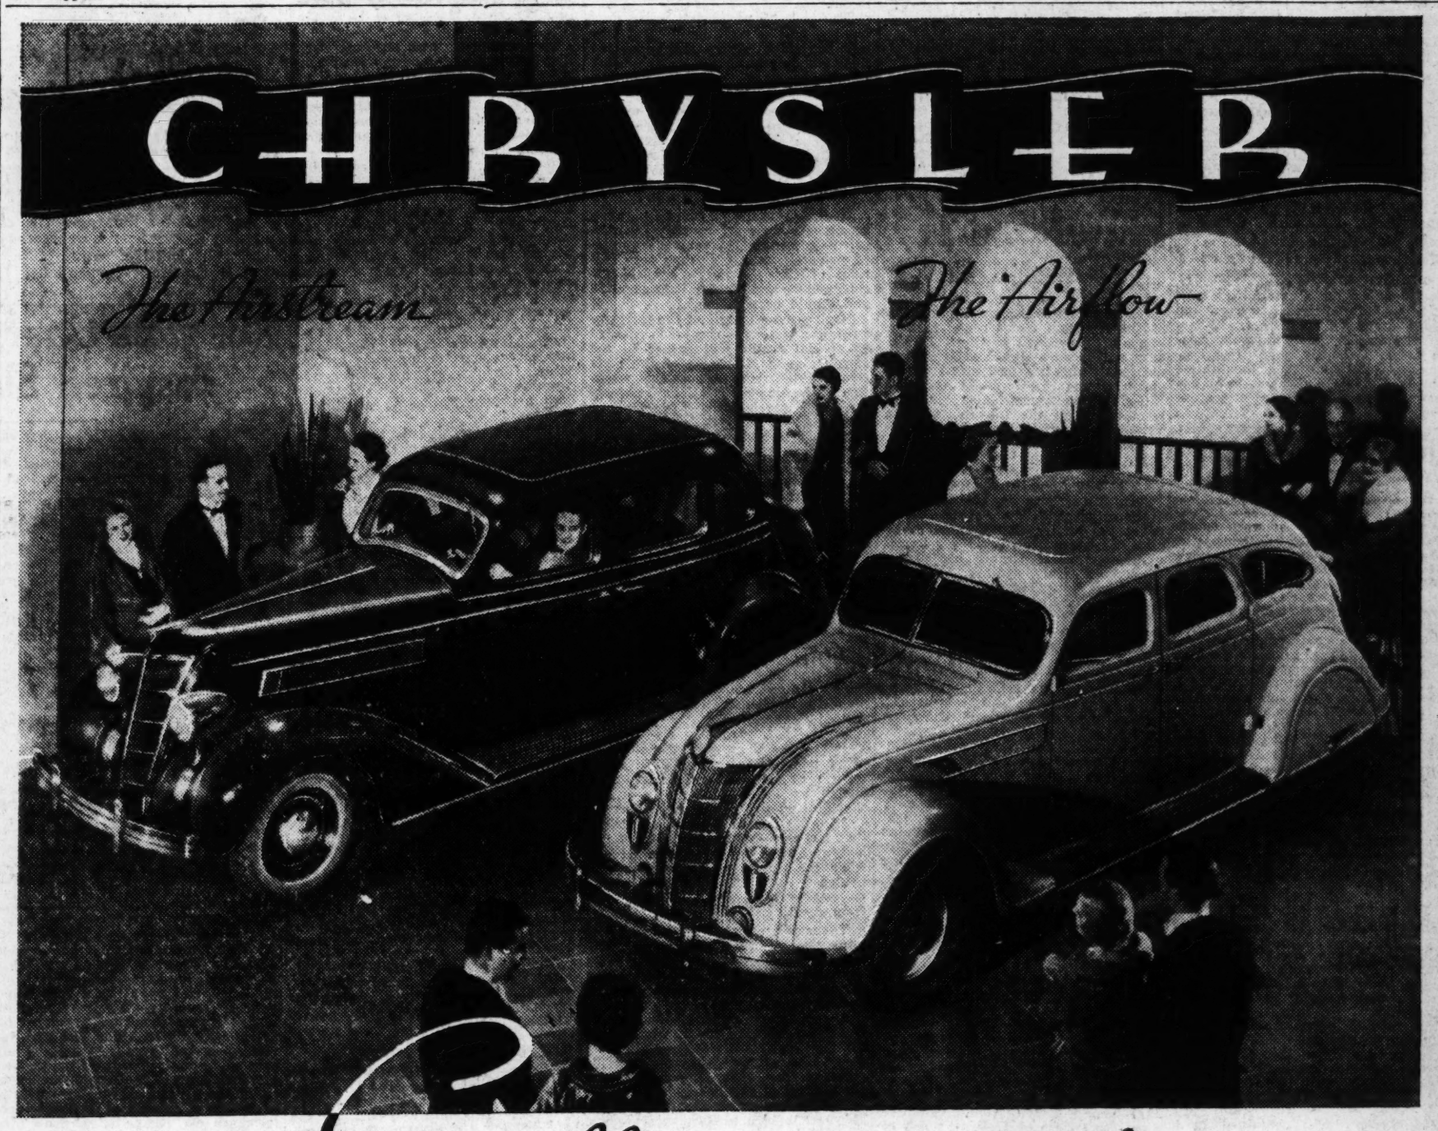

Rodriguez, who had been with the concern only one week, said the bandits took him from his apartment last night and forced him to open the company vaults. Then they took him to an isolated section and left him gagged and tied to a tree, he said. His face bore marks of a beating. He was found and released early today.

The bandit car was said to have fled northward. Police over the southeast were on the lookout for it.

Healthiest Girl Goes Down With Measles

MUSCATINE, Iowa, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Miss Doris Paul, crowned last month at the Chicago International Exposition as the healthiest girl in the United States, ruefully discovered today that measles have no regard for titles.

She was found today to have fallen victim to the epidemic of measles which has swept Muscatine schools for several weeks. Several functions, by which organizations still are feting the young champion, were canceled when she was ordered to bed.

ONE GREAT CAR inspires another. There are new Airflow Chryslers for 1935. And—there are new Airstream Chryslers for 1935.

The new Airflows arrest the eye. There's a perfect marriage of science and art in the new truly streamlined radiator design . . . the new louvers . . . new headlight treatment . . . new radiator grill.

The modern features which aroused so much comment last year are here for 1935, of course . . . greatly enhanced in value. Drawing room spaciousness . . . seats wide as divans . . . wide doors . . . passengers carried between the axles near the center of balance . . . the unit-built frame and all-steel body, SAFEST IN THE WORLD . . . the increased vision.

The marvelous Floating Ride is finer than ever . . . made so by a new tapered leaf spring that permits quick flexing on little jolts, controlled flexing on big ones.

Automatic Overdrive, of course, standard on the Airflow Imperials, optional on the Airflow Eights. That marvelous transmission improvement that changes gear ratios automatically at 45 miles an hour.

There's a new syncro-silent transmission . . . for easy, quiet shifting. New perfected steering . . . so sure and effortless that these big cars handle like a small roadster.

Inside . . . a softer, richer treatment of cushions, side and roof fabrics.

"We'll build," said Chrysler engineers, "another line of cars that will give many of Airflow's advantages at much lower price."

See how they've done it. To the eye a striking family resemblance. In radiator, hood lines, sweeping windshield, tapering rear.

Engine and seats have been moved forward, to get a more scientific distribution of weight and a floating shock-free ride.

Worlds more room. Inches more head-room, leg-room, elbow-room and seat width. Wider doors.

Tapered spring leaves like the Airflow. Syncro-silent transmission as in Airflow. Streamlining that really means something. Modern interiors.

Surging power such as Chrysler knows so well how to provide . . . Marvelous new diamond-hard pistons . . . High compression engines . . . Alloy valve seat inserts.

An Airstream Six . . . and Airstream Eight. Joining with the great Airflow line to give added thousands of Chrysler owners the newest and best in motoring.

Now more than ever before . . . you'll be happier with a Chrysler!

By CHARLES E. HARNER,
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

Mussolini and Laval meet in Rome to achieve Franco-Italian harmony; the Saarlanders vote in the harmonious atmosphere engendered by the Franco-German Saar agreement; a pact guaranteeing Austria's right to live in harmony with her neighbors is under preparation.

It may all be harmony, but it's the blue type. The European symphony may reach its climax with the audience applauding, but right now there are noticeable signs of fidgeting on the part of the cash customers.

Already, part of the audience, in the persons of some of the Jewish residents of the Saar Basin territory, have got up and walked out.

Although Germany has guaranteed that there will be no reprisals against Saarlanders who vote against a return to Germany, the inhabitants of the Saar are pretty firmly convinced that, whichever side wins, things will be none too pleasant for that side's opponents.

When the Franco-German agreement on the Saar was signed at Rome, many observers thought the pact would end the dangerous situation in the rich mining area. But the nazis and anti-nazis who live there are so vitally interested in the outcome of their plebiscite next Sunday that riotings and shootings are widespread.

Pierre Laval, France's foreign minister, went to Rome last Friday to map out a means of French and Italian co-operation. The two nations long have been suspicious of one another, as was evidenced in the naval conferences of 1922 and 1930 at which the wrangles between those two powers were second in intensity only to those among the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Obviously, France and Italy are most anxious at this time to secure the independence of Austria. No matter what their private quarrel may be, both France and Italy are most anxious to stay clear of trouble with Germany.

Thus, there may be harmony achieved by Laval and Mussolini, but still there is the counterpoint of discord in the fact that a large number of Austrians claim to desire an anschluss, or union, with Germany, and that desire, they say, is their own business and an internal affair. If the matter bobs up into international realms again, the kettle drums of trouble may rumble again.

Between the Saar and Austria is a definite Germanic liaison. Whatever affects one of these extremities cannot help but be affected, to a greater or less degree, in the other. Whatever happens in the Saar or in Austria must obviously have repercussions in Germany. And the statesmen of Italy and France have expressed fears of Germany's contentions.

Roof of Local Hotel Is Destroyed by Fire

A three-alarm fire shortly before 9 o'clock Saturday night destroyed the roof of the east wing of the Nassau hotel, 162 Luckie street. The flames, fanned by a steady wind, threatened the Baptist tabernacle before they were brought under control by the firemen.

The fire was confined to the roof of the hotel, adjacent to the tabernacle.

Cause of the fire was unknown and R. J. Hamilton, operator of the hotel, stated Saturday night he was unable to estimate the damage done by the fire and water.

Scores of guests at the hotel were milling around through the darkened halls attempting to locate other guests after the firemen had rolled up the hoses. Electricity in the east half of the hotel had been cut off, throwing that entire section of the hotel into darkness.

$50,000 in Jewelry Hijacked in Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A truck carrying $50,000 worth of jewelry from a Loop building to a railroad station was hijacked tonight by three men, police said.

The robbers forced the machine to the curb. Compelling the driver of the truck to climb into their car, one of the trio got into the truck and drove it to another street intersection several blocks away. There it was emptied.

The jewelry was contained in a trunk which John Thurow, driver of a transfer concern, was taking from the Oscar Lessing Jewelry Manufacturing Company to the Illinois Central railroad station.

Thurow told police two of the robbers transferred the contents of the trunk to two suitcases while the third guarded him with a revolver. Then they left him beside the truck and drove away.

Toyshop Explosion Kills 4 in Belgrade

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Jan. 5. (UP)—Tragedy struck a Christmas Eve crowd in a large toyshop in Belgrade tonight when an explosion of fireworks started a blaze which destroyed the shop, killed at least four persons and injured 20 or more.

Tonight is the Serbian Christmas Eve, with distribution of gifts to the children tomorrow, the feast of the three wise kings. The explosion started from an unexplained cause in a bundle of skyrockets carried by a woman shopper.

The flying rockets set fire to the entire pyrotechnic stock of the store and the flames spread rapidly as panic-stricken men, women and children fought their way to the exits.

The shop is the one which supplied some of the Christmas presents for young King Peter and his brother.

LAVAL AND IL DUCE REACH AGREEMENT ON PEACE EFFORTS

Measures To Guarantee Independence of Austria Agreed on by Italian, French Officials.

ROME, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Italy and France joined hands today in an effort to guarantee peace in Europe and end the bickering and suspicions which have kept the uneasy continent on the verge of war.

An important step forward was taken when Premier Benito Mussolini and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval agreed on measures to guarantee the independence of Austria, danger spot of middle Europe.

The gravity of the situation which must be overcome was emphasized by Laval tonight in a speech at a dinner given in his honor by Mussolini at Venice palace.

"The future is still dark," he said. "We must work together. No place is better adapted to save our civilization than Rome, the cradle of ancient civilization. Another war would mean the end of civilization."

Turning toward Mussolini, he continued:

"Let us pledge ourselves to unite in efforts for the maintenance of peace."

Collaboration Asked.

Appealing for the collaboration of all peoples to preserve peace, Laval added:

"Already we have done something toward that end at Geneva but the future is still uncertain."

Laval, here for three days of conversation which will be concluded by a visit to the pope on Monday, held his first meeting of an hour and a half with Mussolini this morning. It resulted in a fruitful advance toward a firm Italian-French understanding.

Eventually, Mussolini hopes for a wide accord, embracing all important European nations, binding them to keep the peace for 10 years. At present, only Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany have accepted such an agreement, in luke-warm fashion.

Hungary Asks Reservation.

Today's achievements included the agreement on Austria, which Germany, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia will be asked to approve. Hungary will sign, but with a reservation declaring her own traditional right to independence. She will agree that any Hungarian move will always be in accordance with the covenant of the League of Nations, and, therefore, Hungary will never resort to any act of violence.

With Hungary thus satisfied, the prospect of a general pact for maintaining peace in central Europe seemed assured. Agreement on the integrity of the Austrian frontier and maintenance of the present frontiers of Hungary will mean a significant abandonment of Hungary's past stand for revision of the St. Germaine treaty.

Today's agreements also included rectification of the Libyan (Italian Tripoli) frontier, which borders French Morocco, in Africa, and has been in dispute. Also the status of Italians in Tunis will be established.

Somaliland Included.

The discussions likewise embraces Italian Somaliland, in Africa, especially the border dispute with Abyssinia. (Advices from Paris said it was understood there France has agreed to support Italy against Abyssinia, which has appealed to the League of Nations, charging aggression).

Great Britain's official benediction was bestowed on the Franco-Italian negotiations when Mussolini and Laval received telegrams from Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, characterizing the talks as a happy augury for a more extended European accord.

Assurance of a general European peace pact seemed further advanced with announcement that Foreign Minister Edouard Benes, of Czechoslovakia, would visit Rome this month and Nicholas Titulescu, of Roumania, in February.

It was announced officially tonight that Italy's reply to the Abyssinian protest to the League would be withheld until after Laval's departure from on Tuesday.

Mussolini, responding to Laval, said both Italy and the Italian government were glad to salute, after several decades, the minister of foreign affairs of France."

"Your visit," he said turning to Laval, "represents a concrete sign of the Italo-French rapprochement which your illustrious predecessor and I aimed at reaching."

Mussolini referred to French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou who was assassinated with King Alexander, of Jugoslavia, at Marseilles.

"We aimed," he continued, "to attain some common ground going beyond the sphere of Italian-French relations to acquire wider significance in a European sense—peace."

Mussolini said he wanted to take the occasion to say that the meeting reconfirms certain principles which have underlined the Italian policy constantly in the past decade.

"It is not the question, as far as central Europe is concerned," he continued, "to abandon our respective friendships. It is only a question of harmonizing in the Danubian basin, vital interests of each state with those which constitute requirements of a general character for the sake of European pacification."

CUBAN COURT INDICTS EX-SECRETARY OF WAR

HAVANA, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Judge Lopez Centellas, of the fifth court of instruction, today indicted former Secretary of War, Navy and Interior Antonio Guiteras and three others on charges of frustrated assassination in connection with the shooting of Jose Luis Penabad.

The court held that Penabad, whose condition remains serious, was shot because of a disagreement between two secret societies.

Others indicted were Rafael Giraud, closely identified with the government of President Ramon Grau San Martin last year; Albert Sanchez, a member of the technical police, and Rafael Ramos, a lesser known politician.

Alfonso Fails To Appear For Vatican Reception

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso, of Spain, his daughter and her betrothed, Prince Alessandro of Torlonia, missed an appointment with Pope Pius, it was explained late today, because a letter had been delayed in the mails.

The former Spanish monarch explained when reached at his villa that he had written the pontiff requesting that the date for the audience be changed, but the letter did not reach his holiness because of the holiday mail rush.

Alfonso's daughter, the Infanta Beatriz, is to be married to the prince in Rome January 14.

The audience was scheduled for last night. A colorful royal reception had been prepared for the visitors.

SAAR PLEBISCITE HANGS IN BALANCE AS CLANS GATHER

Officials Fear Clashes Today Between Parading Factions May Make Postponement Necessary.

By WADE WERNER.
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 5.—A possibility that the Saar plebiscite may be postponed several months was seriously discussed in official quarters tonight as rival nazi and anti-nazi factions prepared for mammoth open air demonstrations tomorrow.

Permission was given the two groups to hold the mass meetings, expected to be the biggest since the plebiscite campaign opened, in Saarbruecken the same day.

If the gatherings can not be held peaceably the final Sunday before the balloting, it would be dangerous to attempt to carry out the plebiscite one week later, officials said they believed.

The task of preserving order during the test of the Saar's discipline will be left to police, troops of the League's international army being kept in barracks.

Today Is Test.

Should the mere presence of the "invisible army" prove sufficient to discourage the nazis and anti-nazis from flying at each other's throats, officials believe it will be demonstrated that the plebiscite is likely to take place without serious difficulty.

If serious conflict should develop tomorrow, however, it will be indicated—according to opinions expressed privately among League of Nations officials — that the plebiscite can not be held safely January 13 and should be postponed.

Nazis from all parts of the territory swarming into Saarbruecken aboard 80 special trains will gather in the morning on a hill south of the Saar river, while those advocating retention of League of Nations' government will march during the afternoon to an athletic field north of the river.

Troops in Barracks.

Between the contending factions will be not only the river but police barracks and railroads tracks. To the east are the barracks of the British regiment of the League army, and near the nazis' meeting place the newly arrived detachments of British armored cars and the battalion of crack Netherlands marines are quartered. To the west, across town, are the Italian tanks.

All the troops, however, will remain in barracks unless they are urgently needed. International military officials were careful to keep bayonets and machine guns off the streets tonight, and Saarbruecken had much the appearance of any normally policed city.

In the first trouble since New Year's disorders, several men distributing pamphlets in Steinback, small town near the German border, were beaten up last night, and several shops set on fire. No one was injured.

An order for the expulsion of Prince Zu Lowenstein, German exile and violent anti-nazi, was rescinded today when the prince, who has been publishing a weekly newspaper favoring the status quo, promised to refrain from future political activity.

Thousands of laborers, mostly coal miners, with their women and children, are gathering here for a mass meeting to be addressed by Max Braun, the socialist school teacher and arch-foe of naziism.

A week from Sunday, January 13, Braun's adherents and the nazis—for all the Saar is divided mainly into these two camps—will vote as to whether they wish to remain under the control of the League of Nations, which has governed them for the last 15 years, return to German sovereignty, or become annexed to France.

This was the pledge made to the Saarlanders at the end of the World War when the rich mining territory was taken from Germany and its mines given to France as an indemnity for war ravages. The League has acted as custodian for the territory since that time and likely will dispose of the Saar in accordance with the plebiscite result.

Acting on the presumption that the plebiscite will favor a return to Germany, France and Germany signed an agreement in Rome, December 3, by which Germany expressed its willingness to pay $59,400,000 for the mines and to give up 11,000,000 tons of coal. Germany likewise made guarantees of safety to the voters.

Braun predicts that Hitler will suffer his first defeat in the forthcoming vote. He claims to have the laboring classes and dissident Catholics behind him. The world, he says, is looking to them to check the growth of fascism.

The nazis admittedly are nervous after a warning from Berlin to brace themselves for furious attacks during the windup campaign. They were instructed to go to the extreme limit to hold the upper hand which they believe they now have. A defeat in the Saar, they say, means a blow at home, and this the nazi regime cannot admit.

The populace is keyed to the highest pitch as both sides claim victory. Daily rallies and the daily use of revolvers and fists throughout the territory keeps everyone's nerves on constant edge.

Both sides are bringing heavy pressure to bear on the 540,000 voters, 10 per cent of whom have come back from abroad in order to vote.

Whichever way the plebiscite turns, it is freely predicted that the winners are likely to take severe reprisals against the opposition. Nazis say that some members of the small Jewish populations have sold their homes and departed. The nazis openly assert that all who go against them will be "dealt with when the territory is under nazi regime."

The League of Nations governing commission, headed by G. G. Knox, an Englishman, is doing its utmost to keep the intense feeling from boiling out of bounds. The neutral plebiscite commission is backed by 3,500 soldiers loaned by Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands and Sweden.

The soldiers are well equipped and ready to fight in order to assure a fair and free ballot.

Many questions remain to be solved: One involves the Jewish inhabitants of the territory. The League council will sit two days in advance of the vote to iron out last-minute questions.

The League could split the Saar after the voting, retaining control of any districts that voted overwhelmingly for League sovereignty, but is unlikely to do so.

GERMANY'S RE-ENTRY INTO LEAGUE SEEN

GENEVA, Jan. 5.—(AP)—League of Nations authorities said today they looked for Germany's return to the League and the disarmament conference if the Saar votes to return to German sovereignty.

On January 11, the day following the 15th anniversary of the League of Nations, the council will begin its session, purposely advanced to that date because of the plebiscite two days later which becomes at once the big political problem and the big political hope of Europe.

League officials said they would sit on "plebiscite Sunday" if the members think it necessary in order to settle any last-minute Saar questions. When the votes are counted the League council must officially decide the Saar's future.

There are many Saar problems from the standpoint of the League. Jews who have not lived in the territory for three years before the day of the plebiscite may have to leave a year after the vote. It depends on the attitude of the Hitler regime if Germany wins.

REICH READY TO WELCOME SAAR TERRITORY BACK

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The reich of Adolf Hitler is confident tonight that one week from tomorrow it will "welcome back the brothers in the Saar after years of sacrifice."

The nazis believe the approaching plebiscite will be a vote of confidence, and have prepared for the test. Instruments of the active propaganda ministry—newspapers, radio, oratory and moving picture films—no longer concede more than a handful of votes to France.

While the market for Saar coal—if the territory does return to Germany—is recognized as a grave problem, the Essener National Zeitung blithely says, "A way will be found to use Saar coal."

Another problem concerns religion. Saar inhabitants are predominately Catholics who eye askance Hitlerism's long-standing Protestant controversy and delays over the concordat with the Vatican. They are reminded repeatedly, however, that the fuehrer promises religious liberty.

How Germany is to pay the 150,000,000 gold marks she and France agreed upon as the amount for the rich Saar coal mines—provided Germany's financial situation is not endangered thereby—has hardly entered the sphere of public discussion in Berlin.

PRINCE GEORGE, WIFE HONEYMOON IN PARIS

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(UP)—The Duke and Duchess of Kent, who have been on their honeymoon in the English countryside, flew to Paris today in a regular airliner with 24 other passengers. It was the first flight for the duchess, formerly Princess Marina, of Greece.

They will go by train from Paris to Munich to visit the duchess' sister, Countess Toerring, and her husband.

Water Colors by Savannah Artist Go on Exhibit Today

Water colors painted by Charles DuBose, noted Savannah artist, will be placed on exhibition at the High Museum of Art at a preview and reception to be held between 4 and 6 o'clock this afternoon. The paintings were made by Mr. DuBose on a recent sojourn in Old Mexico. They will remain on exhibition here until January 23, when they will be taken to New York for showing. The exhibit, under the auspices of the Atlanta Art Association, is sponsored by the Shakespeare Club of Atlanta. Three representative works of the exhibition are shown above. They are "LaValanciana" (upper left), "Morning Market" (upper right) and "Acapuuleo."

NEW NAZI PURGE SAID UNDER WAY

Party's Lesser Lights Being Weeded Out in Gentler Manner.

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Lesser lights in the nazi party were reliably described today as living in fear that they will be eliminated from the party rolls before the middle of April.

"The cleansing has already started," a non-German official declared today, "although in a different way from the blood purge of June 30.

"Some have already been ousted, but the big cleanup is expected in many party circles, including the ranks of the storm troopers, within three months.

"Prussian Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering recently asserted publicly that there won't be another June 30, so a blood purge is not to be expected.

The statement was an outgrowth of a new crop of reports circulating in well-informed circles as a result of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's mysterious meeting last Thursday, which was said unofficially to be a consultation on Hitlerism's immediate domestic and international plans.

Several of these reports concerned probabilities regarding the Saar plebiscite. It was pointed out that nazi propaganda harps on the statement that "on January 13 the Saar will return to Germany" without mentioning the fact that final Franco-German negotiations may consume several weeks.

This was interpreted in some quarters as intentionally misleading in order to have a trump up the nazi sleeve, allowing for greater mobilization in preparation for some sort of action. Circles in which this idea was expressed, however, declared Germany does not fear France in a military way.

Other rumors heard around the schutz staffel building, the huge barracks near Berlin, included one that Reichsminister Goering's reputed salary of 92,000 marks a month (about $36,800) was causing considerable grumbling in the nazi ranks.

Russians Charge Germany Inspired Slaying of Kirov

MOSCOW, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Charges that a "great European power" was involved in the recent assassination of Sergei Kirov, Leningrad soviet leader, were printed today in the soviet official press. Without explicit accusation, Pravda intimated that the power was Germany.

The trend of the charges was that the consul of a small European power, named by Sergei Micoliev, the assassin, as having fostered the plot, was really backed by the larger power.

The press attached much significance to the fact that the assassin prepared documents attributing the crime to a personal grudge—which it is claimed he later denied—while the German press gave the same explanation.

It was further charged that the white guard journal, The New Word, published in Berlin, reprinted an editorial from a Belgrade paper last fall, calling on terrorists to kill Kirov.

"It was not a literary connection," Pravda said. "Berlin inspired Belgrade."

As usual, Izvestia, being the organ of the soviet government, was more restrained than Pravda. Nevertheless, it said the small power which recently recalled its consul from Moscow because of his connection with the plot, involving military intervention in Russia, naturally could not expect alone to undertake military action against a great power such as the soviet union.

"It is not difficult to suppose that behind the action of this small power were the forces of a larger country which inspired the consul," Izvestia said.

Meanwhile, although the entire diplomatic colony in Moscow knows the name of the recalled consul, the soviet regime, "for reasons of state," refrains from announcing it.

Grand Opera Season Ends In Two Fine Performances

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

It is with regret that we have to say that Atlanta's 1935 opera season is over. When one gets in the habit of enjoying a good opera every day, and sometimes two, it is a good habit that one hates to break. The San Carlo Opera Company, presented in Atlanta by the All-Star Concert Series, sponsored by the Atlanta Philharmonic Society and the Atlanta Music Club, Marvin McDonald, manager, closed its Atlanta season with a brilliant finale, giving a matinee performance of "Rigoletto" and an evening presentation of "Aida." Both operas were memorable occasions, memorable for their fine accomplishment of performing two of the world's most popular operas in such artistic manner that the audience acclaim was long and loud, pronouncing them a real success.

Atlantans are noted for their discriminating taste in opera, having as their criterion the many marvelous performances of the Metropolitan during the years they used to come to Atlanta, but the most fastidious listener must certainly have been pleased with Saturday's performances.

The San Carlo Company is fortunate in having a musical organization that is strong and firm artistically, not having any weak links anywhere in its ranks. Their leading singers, their chorus, their orchestra, their ballet, have all proved themselves in the six performances of the season to be of the highest rank and have unified their efforts in their respective arts in such a manner that the whole was exceptionally gratifying.

"Rigoletto" Well Sung.

"Rigoletto," the matinee production, presented a group of the stars who had in previous performances already won their place in the admiration of Atlanta auditors.

Rosalinda Morini, soprano, sang the role of Gilda, embuing this character with a sympathetic understanding of character portrayal and with the vocal personality that accompanies a beautiful voice. She was a decided success in the part, receiving sincere appreciation for her art. Dimitri Onofrei, the tenor whom everybody liked so well in "Madame Butterfly" and "Martha," played the part of the Duke of Mantua. His voice again won the acclaim of the audience for its sheer beauty. Mario Valle, baritone, made an excellent Rigoletto, portraying this ugly, wicked old man, who has a warm love for his daughter, with fine realism, and singing the difficult role with notable fineness. Harold Kravitt, as Sparafucile, and Stella de Mette, as Maddalena, contributed in large measure to the success of the performance. The ballet, consisting of a group of dancers with a noticeably fine gift of the terpschicorean art, added to the joy of the performance.

"Aida," that spectacular opera of Egyptian life of the time of the Pharoahs that everyone enjoys, no matter how many times they have seen it, put the final flourish on the season Saturday evening, leaving the audience with that happy feeling which is the ambition of any performer or group of artists. Bianca Saroya, soprano, who scored in "Il Trovatore" Friday evening, again walked away to a grand success in her interpretation of the role of Aida, the slave girl. She enacted the part with fire and dramatic interest, and enhanced it with her lovely singing, singing that appealed definitely to the audience.

Living Amneris.

Dreda Aves, who was the star of "Carmen" Thursday, again appeared as Amneris, Pharaoh's daughter. Her interpretation of this part was a masterpiece, from standpoint of acting and singing. Her carriage emphasized by the dignified and haughty attitude toward Aida, made Amneris a living personality. Her voice is warm and glowing and rich, and her employment of it bespeaks the artist. Aroldo Lindi, so popular in his performance of Manrico in "Trovatore," Friday evening, was present in the role of Rhadames, executing this part with a dramatic and vocal fervor that was unforgettable. Lindi has been the actor as well as the singer in all the roles he has played, hence the popularity that he has won.

Mostyn Thomas, the baritone, who won his laurels as the Count de Luna in "Trovatore," added to them more generously than ever in his unexcelled interpretation of the role of Amonasto. Harold Kravitt made an impressive and dignified high priest, adding to the character with his deep, resonant voice, in the part of Ramfis.

Some of the scenes of "Aida" were almost breath-taking in their spectacular brilliance. The stage settings were most effective. The ballet should be highly commended for their graceful and artistic dances. Carlo Peroni, the musical director of the company, wielded the baton again, leading both performances on to success. He is a great conductor and discharges his responsibility in a sincere manner at all times. Fortune Gallo, general director of the company, is to be thanked for offering such a fine opera company for the pleasure and culture of the country at large.

3 CHILDREN KILLED BY SPANISH MOTHER

SAN FERNANDO, Spain, Jan. 5. (AP)—A woman named Luisa Paredes, in a fit of despondency over financial difficulties, drowned two of her children today, aged one month and two years, respectively, and then cut the throat of a third, aged four.

She then attempted to commit suicide, authorities said, by cutting her throat, but she was expected to recover.

GERMAN AIRCRAFT ALARMS ENGLAND

War-Like Suspicions Heightened by Reich Refusal To Disclose Data.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—England's rising clamor for greater protection from hostile aircraft as a result of her bitter experiences in the World War was fanned anew today by revelations in the authoritative Janes' "All the World's Aircraft" that Germany is again a potential air power.

Statements that her old enemy has a vast fleet of high-speed commercial planes under strict government control and quickly adaptable for war purposes are contained in the annual publication, a sister volume of the recognized encyclopaedia of the naval world, "Janes' Fighting Ships."

The volume, just published, devotes more than 500 pages to detailed descriptions of the world's commercial and fighting craft. Germany alone of all the nations mentioned refused to supply information on its latest designs in planes and motors according to C. G. Grey, editor.

Germany Secretive.

"This year's volume," Grey writes, "can give relatively little information about the latest German airplanes and air motors. The German firms have only been able to send us information concerning well-known commercial types.

"Whatever may be the truth in the stories of the production of vast quantities of high-speed bombers and fighters in Germany, there is no getting away from the fact that the best German commercial planes and mail carriers could, with very little modification, be made into war machines. And we know that their high speed mail carriers habitually travel between Germany and Spain at a speed very close to 200 miles an hour.

"In Germany all air transport has been amalgamated under the Deutsche Luft Hansa, which is more closely under government control than it has been in the past."

Commercial Fleet Menace.

Germany is not alone, however, in the fact that her commercial air fleet is a potential menace to rival powers in time of war, Grey points out.

Practically every nation finds itself in the awkward position of having had its best fighting planes outstripped both in speed and range by the latest commercial models.

"In 1934 we have had a whole crop of low-wing cabin monoplanes with tapered wings, many of them with retractable landing carriages," he writes. "At the end of the year there was hardly an airplane in the flying services of any nation which had any of those up-to-date characteristics.

"Many manufacturers are prepared to offer for sale to foreign nations new types of airplanes which may very well be improvements on the types which they are supplying in their own country. Certain English planes sold abroad actually are faster than those sold at home because they are built free from official specifications."

FRANCE TO ADOPT AMERICAN METHODS

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—France planned today to build her future air fleet on the American system.

Senator Amory Dela Grange, member of the senate's aeronautical committee, revealed the findings of a commission which toured plants in the United States will form the basis for France's desperate efforts to raise her aviation facilities into the ranks of the world's best.

More pilots and more and better planes are on the schedule planned by General Victor Denain, air minister. He said it will take until 1936 to build and buy the ships he needs but he already is out after the good pilots.

The air commission of the chamber has adopted a proposal to provide for pilots without waiting for the period necessary to train them. It authorizes reserve flying officers to be transferred at once back into the active army for periods up to 10 years.

Industrial red tape and a bureaucratic system are blamed by experts for France's backwardness in producing capable planes in her own factories.

Malaria Grips 250,000 As Death Stalks Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 6.—(Sunday)—(AP)—The scourge of malaria, the epidemic of which now grips 250,000 on the island, today spread to physicians sorely needed at the Kedalle hospital.

One of the physicians died. Many were completely broken down and unable to cope with the situation.

A group of 50 doctors were on the way to Ceylon from India. A malaria fund also was being raised in an effort to check the dread disease.

Nearly 3,000 deaths were reported yesterday from a single district of Kedalle, in the southern section of the island. Of the deaths, one-third were reported among young children and the death rate among the women was extremely heavy.

Radium Capsule Used On One of Quintuplets

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A minute quantity of radium in its protective capsule was strapped on the thigh of Baby Marie, smallest of the Dionne quintuplets today, to complete the work of healing a troublesome tumor.

Dr. Edmund Kelly, Baltimore specialist, administered the treatment, the second which has been given. Belief was expressed that it was the last the child will have to undergo.

PARAGUAY TAKES MAJOR FORTRESS GUARDING BOLIVIA

Capirenda Falls and Cuts Off Fort on Each Side; Victors Celebrate "End of War."

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 5.—(UP) Paraguay tonight announced the capture of Capirenda, one of the key forts defending the main Bolivian supply base at Villa Montes.

Jubilant Paraguayans regarded the long Chaco border war as virtually at an end. Sirens shrieked through Asuncion with the report of the victory at Capirenda.

"The war is already won," General Jose Felix Estigarribia, Paraguayan commander in chief, was quoted as declaring.

"All that remains is to finish it by dispersing isolated groups until the enemy is mortally crippled at her vital centers," he told the people.

Villa Montes is the objective of a determined Paraguayan drive which for days has surged with heavy casualties and intense bombardment along three salients guarding the Bolivian frontier—Capirenda, Carandayty and Ibibobo.

Occupation of Capirenda places the Paraguayans between Villa Montes and Carandayty; one the gateway to the Bolivian plateau above the disputed Chaco area, and the latter the key to the rich oil fields of Bolivia.

Bolivia Uses Artillery.

The victory follows a brilliant maneuver characteristic of the Paraguayan generalissimo, Jose Felix Estigarribia. In an enveloping movement, he first took La Pacho and Palo Central on the right and left flanks of Capirenda, preventing reinforcements from reaching it either from Villa Montes or Carandayty.

The triple Paraguayan drive is converging almost with mathematical precision over Villa Montes. At one point on the Paraguayan left wing, they claim to be only 12 miles from Villa Montes. Bolivia has rolled up heavy muzzleloading guns for the first time in the 30-month war.

Today's victory was scored by the Paraguayan center. The right threatens Carandayty on the east flank, so that fort is in virtually the same predicament that Capirenda was before its fall today. The left meanwhile continues its advance against Palo Marcado in the Ibibobo sector.

Paraguay also lashed back at Bolivian charges of war atrocities with a clim that the enemy yesterday bombed Praguayan hospitals, despite the fact that the usual signals were prominently displayed.

Bolivia Contradicts.

The mutual recriminations began two days ago with Bolivian allegations that Paraguayan soldiers had attacked an ambulance, beheaded nine injured men and taken the chauffeur and helper prisoner.

Communiques from La Paz characteristically were in flat contradiction to those from Asuncion. Bolivia declared the Paraguayans had attacked the Bolivian lines along the Ingavi-Rovelo road, but were repulsed with heavy losses, and forced to retire to their base.

Both sides claimed recovery of vast amounts of munitions. La Paz itemized rifles, machine guns, water tanks and other material, while Asuncion referred to certain arms retrieved from the Pilcomayo river, insinuating the Bolivians had thrown them there.

Paraguay also announced the arrival of 1,500 Bolivian prisoners at Garrapatal, out of 2,000 captured in a recent engagement in the Ibibobo sector.

Official advices from La Paz emphasized that after 10 days of fighting, the Paraguayans had not yet succeeded in making a breach in the impregnable Bolivian lines in any of the three sectors. Bollvian quarters in Santiago, Chile and Lima, Peru, reiterated that internal conditions were normal, and that rumors of political changes were absolutely without foundation.

The response to general mobilization orders has overwhelmed military facilities, it is asserted, indicating the country is united in determination to stop the Paraguayan invasion at the very doors of Bolivia. Bolivian circles insist on the continued high morale at the front as well as behind the lines.

1 KILLED, 14 INJURED IN EXPRESS COLLISION

LEON, Spain, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A collision wrecked the Galician and Asturian Express trains today near Palanquinos, killing one person and injuring 14.

COMBINED POLICE GOVERNMENT AIM

Trained Justice Department Men for Force Will Be Sought.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A state-federal police force, composed of men trained in the justice department, was disclosed today to be one of the 18 anti-crime recommendations by the senate anti-racket committee.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, chairman of the committee, said 35 states had approved the plan which calls for a new type of correlation of federal and state anti-crime forces.

Under the bill the states would select men to be trained in the department of justice school for special agents. These super-policemen would return to their home states, be vested with state police powers and operate under the supervision of the attorney-general.

A prospectus stated that Kansas and Georgia disapproved the idea; West Virginia and Virginia were uncertain and that nine states had not yet been heard from.

(Governor Talmadge said Saturday night that he had heard nothing of the Copeland plan for a federal-state police system and that he knew nothing of any opposition to it in Georgia.

("I certainly can't oppose something of which I have heard nothing," the governor said.)

Stronger Machinery.

President Roosevelt has said he would recommend that congress strengthen crime-fighting machinery.

Attorney-General Cummings probably soon will announce the detailed plan for a criminological institute. Justice department officials believe the institute will include an academy for the training of peace officers other than federal operatives.

Widening of the control of the fire arms traffic—at present limited to regulatory powers over transactions in machine guns and sawed-off shotguns—was asked by the senate committee.

This bill would give the federal government licensing power over the manufacture and sale of all forms of fire arms.

Another measure would require judicial officers taking bail to inquire into the sources of the security. The committee has found that often when mobsmen are arrested the funds they offer for bail are loot from robberies and kidnapings.

Poultry Trade.

Another proposal would give the secretary of agriculture power to regulate more strictly the interstate poultry trade. Calling this business often "dishonest, corrupt and vile," the committee said it found that it cost $321 to bring poultry from Iowa to Jersey City, a matter of five days and $387 to forward it to New York city in five hours.

Present laws make it a federal offense to use the mails to defraud. The committee proposed that the use of any means of communication, radio or wire, to defraud be made unlawful.

In Chicago the committee said it found that a business house sold all forms of crooked dice, cards and gambling apparatus. As a result a bill was drawn up to outlaw such trade.

MAYOR WILL BEGIN 9TH YEAR MONDAY

ceed Thomas J. Groggan as second ward school commissioner.

Conciliatory Attitude Seen.

Key this year will adopt a conciliatory attitude toward council, it was indicated Saturday. He will depart from his four-year ago attitude in punishing his political enemies and rewarding his friends at whatever cost, but his friends will be cared for, according to prognostications.

Probably the most imoprtant committee assignment in Key's eyes will be the charter revision committee, for it is there that the administration plans to mass its battle for the liquor store.

Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, will head that committee, and will back Key to the limit, although McCutcheon and Key have been as wide apart politically as the poles in the past.

McCutcheon championed Key's liquor store plan about a month ago, when council turned it down. If, however, the Georgia legislature does anything about repeal, Key plans to reopen the fight. If the assembly does nothing, Key plans to launch a battle to open the store in defiance of state prohibition—just as he licensed beer—except that he proposes that the city shall sell liquor and that all profits shall go into the city treasury.

To Be Key Man.

McCutcheon, therefore, will be the key man in the administration's effort to conduct "Atlanta's liquor business, to outlaw the bootlegger and to provide funds to prevent large salary cuts for employes." Key has implicit faith in McCutcheon's attitude in that regard and admires his bold stand.

Bolen probably will head the important benevolence and pensions committee, succeeding Alderman J. Sid Tiller, third ward, who, because of pressure of private business, was unable to serve.

Other important chairmanship assignments which Key is expected to make are:

Boxing commission, Councilman Howard Haire, ninth ward; ordinance, Alderman I. Gloer Hailey; parks, Councilman Horace M. Rankin; schools, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam; police, Councilman G. Dan Bridges, with Richards succeeding Councilman Aubrey Milam, who has asked to be relieved of membership on that committee; firemaster, Councilman Walter M. Sutton; water, Alderman J. C. (Mott) Aldredge; sewers, Aldlerman Frank H. Reynolds; Grady hospital board, Councilman J. Frank Beck; sanitary, Councilman William R. Johnson; prisons, Councilman George B. Lyle; streets, Alderman Ellis B. Barrett.

Garage, Councilman Frank Wilson; tax, Councilman Max M. Cuba; buildings and grounds, Councilman John A. White; purchasing, Alderman Farris A. Mitchell; library, Alderman Robert L. Carpenter; aviation, Councilman William Guy Hastings.

Against Obsolete Laws.

The inaugural address of Key will hit "obsolete formulae" in dealing with present-day conditions. Key will attack the prohibition law as one of these, and will cite the fact that some move for classification of properties for taxation must be made if the city is to obtain any appreciable return of intangibles. He will recommend action along this line regardless of whether the Georgia legislature does anything toward securing a constitutional amendment providing for classification.

Key also will hit "politics" in the Atlanta public schools, and political activities of the school department. He, however, plans to praise the school board for elevating Frank R. Fling, eighth ward member, to the presidency for 1935. His solution of the school problem will be embodied in a recommendation for merger of Atlanta and Fulton county schools for "economy in operation and for a better educational program."

He will praise various governmental departments for their co-operation during the year, and will stress the importance of continuation of that policy for the new year. He will touch on the relief problem facing the city and will praise federal officials for their aid in making erection of a new police station possible, for assistance in street improvements and for their sympathetic co-operation in dealing with Atlanta's sewer problem.

Market Committee Sought.

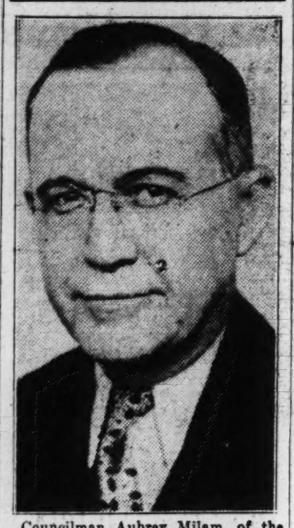

The Cuba resolution to establish a special market committee provides that one member be named from city council, that one be selected from the city planning commission and one from the city at large to make a thorough study of the market problem here and to enlist federal and state aid in securing a suitable site and proper financing for the projected development of a market.

It praises the farmers, but points out that operators of the Washington street curb market are brokers; that few actual farmers use it, but that many of the products are of cheap grade and are brought from as far as Texas, thus working a real hardship on Georgia farmers.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of the motions division of Fulton county superior court, Saturday did not set a date for a hearing on a joint move by the city and Fulton county to declare the Washington street market a public nuisance. The calendar was so crowded that the case was not set for a hearing. It probably will be set next Saturday.

Berman's proposed study of the liquor problem is for the expressed purpose of attempting to sell the municipal dispensing idea to the Georgia assembly, it was said Saturday. He believes along with Key that the matter should be handled by governments and that private profits should be taken from the business.

New Finance Head

Councilman Aubrey Milam, of the eighth ward, who will be chairman of the 1935 finance committee of city council. Milam's selection is the only assignment definitely announced so far by Mayor Key.

Call for Guardsmen Hinted in Biloxi Race

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 5.—(AP)—It was reported in Biloxi tonight that an appeal might be made to Governor Sennett Conner for national guard troops to preserve order in this coast port Monday when a fight between two contenders to the mayor's office is to meet its crisis.

Special city police and deputies of Harrison county are being held in readiness for any emergency and Mayor R. Hart Chinn, one of the principals in the official row, expressed the belief tonight that there would not be any trouble exceeding sharp court contests over the qualification of candidates for office when the mayor and commissioners approach the hour of change, 10 a. m.

Heated verbal exchanges have occurred during the past few days between Mayor Chinn, incumbent and his elected successor, J. A. O'Keefe, over the mayor's challenge of O'Keefe's holding office on the claim of delinquent taxes and a similar challenge of the qualifications of some of the commissioners.

RURAL POWER RATES SLASHED IN ARKANSAS

Power Company Anticipates Order by Government Tribunal.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A new rural electric rate structure, described by the fact-finding tribunal as the lowest ever offered in Arkansas, was ordered placed in effect as of January 1 today by the Arkansas corporation commission for rural patrons of the Arkansas Utilities Company, operating in eastern Arkansas.

The communities served, along with the rural territory adjacent, are Helena, West Helena, Marianna, Marmaduke and Paragould.

The rural electric rate reductions parallel a reduction recently agreed to by the company for consumers of the cities mentioned.

P. A. Lasley, chairman of the tribunal, estimated the reductions at from 6 to 19 per cent over rates prevailing prior to January 1. The reduction preceeded the Arkansas fact-finding tribunal's opinion today that electric rate structures in Arakansas "are absolutely prohibitive of a free use of electricity."

In its annual report, the tribunal declared the rates "need humanizing," and said inferentially that a new regulatory law was needed to co-ordinate authority so that equitable rates could be ordered into effect by a central agency.

Since the tribunal was created in May, 1933, its report said it had expended $82,142.26, realized through a tax on utility companies, and that it had been responsible for rate reductions of $390,000 per year.

F. D. R. ADVOCATES FUND TO BAN DOLE, START WORKS PLAN

discussed where the money for this huge program was coming from. Some even went so far as to say it might be necessary to enact new taxes.

At any rate, they were preparing to re-enact $416,000,000 in "nuisance" taxes which expire at the end of the present fiscal year, as the president requested at a meeting with leaders last night.

In short order after the relief moves, the president's plan for a broad social security program combining unemployment insurance, old age pensions and other welfare propositions will be given congress.

While some members today took the attitude that these subjects should be handled separately for legislative purposes, it was agreed by leaders to follow Mr. Roosevelt's plan to lump them into an omnibus bill.

Decision Awaited.

Final decision on how these measures will be administered has yet to be made. It was suggested in more than one quarter that a new executive department of welfare be created, but there was some objection among the leaders to this. However, it was decided that at least a central co-ordinating agency should be set up to unify administration.

Details of the social security program have not yet been given democratic chieftains, particularly with reference to how large a percentage of contributions is to be made by industry for unemployment insurance. It is made clear, however, that the administration was prepared to propose the government create a fund to aid contributions until they were sufficient to meet demands. The government would be repaid this money out of future contributions.

While members of congress digested the president's message of yesterday and studied reports of the conference attended by 13 democratic leaders last night, it was authoritatively developed today that:

Given Up Hope.

The president virtually has given up hope of stopping passage of the soldiers' cash bonus in the house and plans to bring pressure on the democratic dominated senate to prevent its overriding a certain veto.

The house ways and means committee, in the words of Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, will take up the bonus as soon as it can with due consideration to other important matters without "delay or dodge."

The bonus issue was not discussed at the White House conference.

Existing excise taxes lapsing or being reduced on July 1 and returning some $416,000,000 in revenue annually are to be continued permanently, with some possible revision.

Administrative features of the income tax law are to be revised and additional internal revenue agents will be allowed in an effort to increase collections by some $100,000,000.

Efforts are to be made to eliminate duplication of federal, state and local taxes, an inquiry into which already has been ordered by Secretary Morgenthau.

The NRA is to be continued with certain modifications to make it more workable and probably to eliminate price-fixing and production control.

Ranking legislation has not yet been considered by the president, since it is still being studied by the emergency executive council, but it will be inserted late on the schedule.

A St. Lawrence waterway treaty, revised to meet objections that caused rejection of ratification 64 to 42 last year, will be presented to the senate for early action.

Consolidation of all forms of interstate transportation regulation under one agency also will be submitted with no final presidential decision as yet reached whether the interstate commerce commission or some other body will administer new laws governing railroads, motor, waterway, pipeline and related modes of transportation.

Quick Ratification.

Quick ratification by the senate of the protocol for American adherence to the World Court also appeared likely to be pressed by the administration. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, declared after a talk with the president today that it would receive committee approval next Wednesday.

It developed further that the administration had assured itself by a survey of unexpended appropriations that $880,000,000 would be found. This fund, through legislation to be introduced next week by Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, of the house appropriations committee, is to be made available for the emergency relief work. Present funds are expected to run out around February 10.

Speaker Byrns today said "relief is the first thing up," adding it would be "the first major legislation."

"I think it is the disposition of the house to make the unexpended balances available to take people off the relief rolls and to put them to work as soon as possible under the new work-relief program," Byrns said.

He added it was hoped to get the work-relief program under way by April.

SHERIFF AUCTIONS SOUGHT CRIMINAL TO HIGH BIDDER

JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Bob Johnson, guaranteed a good hand with a blackjack or an automatic, excellent for night work and a fine prospect for a rockpile, went at auction today for $60.

The $60 was the bid Oll Rogers, sheriff of Jasper county, submitted to Evan Shore, sheriff of Barry county, for custody of Johnson, who has confessed much all-around thuggery, including robberies, breaking and entering, assault and a recent mixup in Picher, Okla., in which his pal, the late Buster Cooper, shot and killed a deputy sheriff before he, himself, succumbed.

So great was the demand of various sheriffs for Johnson that Shore thought of the auction idea.

"The county that offers the highest reward gets him," was the essence of the message sent out to fellow officers by Sheriff Shore, who is a businessman at heart.

"This fellow Johnson is very badly wanted in many places," explained the officer, "and it behooves us to do as well by ourselves, and, of course, justice, too, as possible. After all, we took a great risk in making this arrest, even if Johnson did surrender without a shot."

Tentative offers were made by Sheriff Dee Waters, of Miami, Okla., whose deputy had been slain. Christian county, Mo., also wanted to bring Johnson to the bar for raiding the town of Ozark and robbing the county collector's office. Stone county officials asked for him on a charge of kidnaping six men and looting three stores a few days ago.

Methodists Show Hike In Income, Members

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(AP) Increases in both income and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, were revealed today in the 1934 review of the church by Dr. Curtis B. Haley, official statistician.

Dr. Haley's report, which will be made public tomorrow, showed that collections for all purposes totaled $23,618,683, an increase of approximately $2,190,000 over 1933.

Membership, Dr. Haley found, aggregated 2,751,971, an increase of 38,038.

The Woman's Missionary Society increased by 20,000 members and raised more than $2,000,000 for its work.

WINTER RETURNS BRIDE OF PISGAH TO LAND OF SKY

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 5.—(AP) The "Bride of Pisgah" has returned to the western North Carolina mountains this winter.

A fickle personage, the "bride," a phenomenon of the high mountain snows, appears only occasionally and her visits are usually vested with strange and portentous significance by the superstitious.

The figure, formed by drifted snows and frozen mountain waterfalls, appears on Mount Pisgah's slopes and in clear weather is visible for miles. It actually looks like a bride in white flowing train. Sometimes she is kneeling and sometimes standing. Occasionally a "bridegroom" can be discerned at her side.

It depends considerably upon the angle from which the phenomenon is viewed and the imagination of the beholder.

The visits of the "bride" are rare because conditions have to be just so to bring her back. She seldom stays long because snows infrequently stay long in the southern highlands. She paid one call this season, attracting widespread attention.

PECORA IS PROPOSED FOR N. Y. JUDGESHIP

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(UP)—The name of Ferdinand Pecora, former counsel in the senate banking investigation, will be submitted to the legislature Monday for appointment as justice of the state supreme court sitting in Manhattan, it was understood tonight.

Pecora is now a member of the newly-created securities exchange commission. It is reported he has been out of harmony with other members of the commission because of his demands for stricter regulation.

NO NATIONAL PARKS SLATED FOR ARKANSAS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The national park service and the submarginal land office of the relief administration both denied today reports that two national parks were to be established in Arkansas, one in the northwest and the other in the northeast section of the state.

The park service said that submarginal land areas considered suitable for recreational purposes were handled by it after they were designated by the submarginal land office, but the latter said no such areas had been selected as yet in Arkansas.

FLOODS, GALES HIT WINTER RESORTS

British Ship, Long Overdue From Japan, Feared Lost at Sea.

By the Associated Press.

Windstorm, flood and gale driven rain greeted refugees from winter in the California and Florida resorts Saturday while the season dealt more gently with the folks up north.

The worst storm in a year subsided in California after flooding highways and streets in San Francisco and Southern California cities. Shipping was delayed by the gale, and the British tanker Crescentia, long overdue from Japan, was feared lost at sea.

Residents in the foothills of the Sierra Madre mountains back of Los Angeles were warned of a flood approaching. The deluge blocked foothill boulevards with landslides between La Crescenta and Tujunca, made rivers of Los Angeles streets and emptied into downtown basements. Rowboats were ready to save marooned residents of Long Beach.

Down at Miami, Fla., heavy rain and strong winds caused postponement of the Miami open golf tournament.

In Sacramento, Cal., 1.88 inches of rain fell in 24 hours and the Sacramento and American rivers rose, but stayed below flood stage.

A southern gale was forecast for the Oregon coast Saturday night and Sunday.

The zero weather of the last week had departed from most of the northern states, but a dust storm was partly blamed for the death of a school teacher in South Dakota.

Blinded, choked and near exhaustion from tramping through the gale of dust, Miss Lillian McGill reached her schoolhouse at Sturgis, S. D., a few moments before the stove exploded, filling the air with soot, dust and ashes. She collapsed and died.

Temperatures were still sharp in New England, with 20 below at Greenville, Maine.

The coldest day of the season dawned at Philadelphia, but the sun warmed it up perceptibly for the annual mummers' parade—postponed because of snow and rain on New Year's Day.

PAIR HELD IN THEFT OF $10,000 FROM BANK

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Officers reported today that two employes of the Whitney National bank, a clerk and a runner, pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling sums aggregating $10,348 from the bank.

The youths, booked as Rodney Joseph Woods, 22, a statement clerk, and Numa Arthur Seeman, 21, a relief runner, were arraigned before United States Commissioner R. H. Carter Jr., and entered their pleas.

Bonds in each case were fixed at $2,500 by Commissioner Carter and late in the day they were held in the federal prison in default of bond.

Virginia Negro Guilty Of Slaying Girls

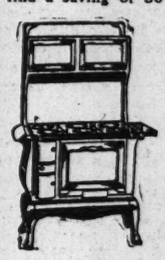

FINCASTLE, Va., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A mountain jury in this ancient Virginia county today told Philip Jones, a negro, that he must die in the electric chair for the murder of two little girls near Clifton Forge and an attempt to ravish one of them.

It took the jury 55 minutes to decide the case after Jones' counsel had completed his arguments for mercy on the grounds of insanity.

Judge Benjamin T. Haden fixed March 11 as the execution date.

TWO GREAT WORKS OF ART IN AERO-DYNAMIC DESIGN

Revolutionary New Streamlined Cars to sell at Popular Prices

In Europe . . . as well as in America . . . it's De Soto that "Sets the Style" again.

De Soto Invades the Popular-Price Field with the Airstream De Soto. Presents a brilliantly restyled new Airflow model.

DO YOU REMEMBER how De Soto startled the industry last year . . . by announcing the famous Airflow?

The car that won the Grand Prix style award at Monte Carlo . . . and shattered 29 A.A.A. Contest Board speed records!

This year . . . De Soto again makes news with not one new car . . . but two!

FIRST—DE SOTO PRESENTS the new Airstream, companion car to the famous Airflow. A scientifically streamlined automobile at an amazingly low price.

Under the hood is a miracle-working engine of 93 horsepower . . . with a cruising speed of 85 miles an hour . . . yet an amazing new gas and oil economy.

A new Syncro-Silent Transmission lets you shift gears quickly, noiselessly.

Valve Seat Inserts reduce valve grinding cost. Automatic Vacuum Spark Control permits higher compression. These are the mechanical high-spots of this car. Now let us tell you about its ride.

The front end of the new Airflow De Soto has been smartly restyled without changing in any way its streamline efficiency.

You've never had such a ride! Independent wheel suspension gives the front springs a slower action. Redistribution of weight eliminates the "double bump." And an amazing new type of tapered leaf springs in the rear give flexibility never before possible.

In the Airstream De Soto you have a car, light in weight, which rides easier than any car except the Airflow.

And now the second chapter—a new Airflow . . . brilliantly restyled!

You'll have to see it yourself . . . to know how truly beautiful it is.

The front end has been smartly improved. Interiors are more sparkling . . . with handsome new fabrics.

Here is the car of 1935 . . . that's two years ahead of the field.

Drive the new Airflow . . . with its 100-horsepower engine . . . its thrilling performance . . . its sensational Airflow Ride.

See both new De Sotos . . . then ask yourself, "Which De Soto will it be?"

BOTH CARS OFFER THESE FEATURES:

Improved Performance . . . Airflow De Soto has 100 horsepower—Airstream De Soto, 93 horsepower. Amazing speed—plus sensational economy in gas and oil.

New-type Tapered Leaf Springs and Redistribution of Weight . . . greatly improve your riding comfort.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes . . . always equalized and dependable.

All-Steel Bodies . . . for greater safety. This year, frame and body are virtually one solid unit.

Floating Power Engine Mountings . . . that banish motor vibration.

New Electro-processed Light-weight Aluminum Pistons . . . practically immune from wear.

New Syncro-Silent Transmission . . . takes all noise and effort out of shifting . . . in all gears.

New-type Airwheel Tires . . . give broader road contact, quicker stopping. 42% more non-skid mileage.

STATE HOTEL BODY REQUESTS REPEAL OF DRY, BLUE LAWS

Savannah Hotel Manager Named Head of Georgia Association at Macon Meet.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Georgia Hotel Association today urged repeal of the "so-called prohibition laws of Georgia," elimination of Sunday blue laws and establishment of a state police system.

Resolutions on the three matters which are expected to come before the state legislature which convenes January 14 were adopted at the closing session of the organization which elected Andrew A. Smith, manager of the Hotel Savannah at Savannah, president.

Herbert M. Block, of Macon; W. C. Hastings, of Atlanta, and H. Grady Calloway, of Macon, were elected vice presidents. Stephen Styron, of Atlanta, was re-elected executive secretary.

The resolutions on prohibition, introduced by Charles G. Day, of Savannah, advocated a "total repeal of the so-called prohibition laws of Georgia" and recommended in lieu thereof, "that the state pass laws and regulations more reasonable and effective for the control of liquor traffic to the end that the cause of true temperance be advanced in the state and that in so far as practicable the commercial use of liquors be restricted to legal channels through local option in the various counties of the taste."

It was advocated that a similar system of local option control be substituted for the present state-wide Sunday blue laws. The resolution urging organization of a state police force followed an address by Ellis Arnall, representative from Coweta county, who suggested laws be passed making all vehicles carry lights, regulating drivers' licenses and organizing a state police force.

He pointed out that the state comptroller's office, the public service commission and highway department each had partial control of the operation of motor vehicles and suggested the control be centered in one department.

James F. DeJarnette, of Atlanta, also spoke at the closing session of the hotel men, citing trade agreements between hotels as the only sound basis for successful operation.

MORNINGSIDE CLUB HONORS HARRISON, RETIRING OFFICIAL

W. T. Harrison, well-known Atlanta civic leader, was honored Friday night by officials and members of the Morningside Civic League, who presented him a silver loving cup.

Harrison recently resigned as secretary of the league after serving seven years in that capacity. Councilman Alvin Richards made the presentation speech and praised Harrison for his efficient work and efforts in behalf of the organization.

The meeting, held at the Morningside school, was presided over by Frank A. Doughman, first vice president, in the absence of the newly-elected president, R. G. Kreiling, who succeeded W. M. Keheley. Harrison's successor was Hobson E. Reynolds. The retiring secretary is president of the South Side Civic Federation.

State Deaths And Funerals

A. S. ANDERSON SR.

WASHINGTON, Ga., Jan. 5.—Alexander Stephens Anderson Sr., 79, was buried at Danburg, near here, Friday, the pallbearers having been chosen from a guest list he had prepared a few days before for the observance of his fiftieth wedding anniversay on January 27.

Mr. Anderson at one time was a member of the Georgia general assembly and had held numerous public offices in Wilkes county. He was actively engaged in the mercantile business at Danburg at the time of his death.

MRS. CHRISTINE McLEOD.

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Christine Stewart McLeod, 26-year-old Miami matron, died here today at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Stewart, of Ellaville, following an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. McLeod was spending the Christmas holidays with her parents when stricken. Funeral services have not been announced.

Besides her parents, she is survived by her husband, L. V. McLeod, of Miami, two children, a sister, Mrs. R. B. Strickland, of Americus.

W. B. SINGLETARY.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 5.—Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Methodist church in Ochlocknee, of which he was a member, for William Benjamin Singletary, 86, who died at his home Friday. The services were in charge of Rev. Swell Sawyer, Rev. J. Gorham Garrison, Rev. Tinsley and Rev. Luther Lancaster. Interment was in the Ochlocknee cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, B. F. Singletary, Bainbridge; W. C. Singletary, Grand Ridge, Fla.; Luther and Wallace Singletary; six daughters, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, of Ochlocknee; Mrs. R. U. New Yorkers Try To Lynch Negro

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Pursued by an angry crowd of 300 men, women and children, Julius Lewis, 60, a negro, raced five blocks to a police station today after a bullet he fired at another man struck and killed a 13-year-old girl playing in crowded Seward park on the East Side.

Rushing into the police station, Lewis cried:

"Save me: Save me! I just shot somebody."

Lewis told police he quarreled with another negro, Frank Snorton, jerked out a .45-caliber automatic and fired at him. The shot went wild, striking Virginia Spaulins.

The crowd pursuing him shouted: "Lynch him! Lynch him!"

Police held Lewis and dispersed the crowd.

RESERVE ACTIVITIES INCREASE REPORTED

The trend of better times in civil life is indicated by activities of members of the United States army reserve corps during the last four months of 1934, according to statistics revealed by Lieutenant Colonel Gilbert Marshall, in charge of reserve officers in Georgia.

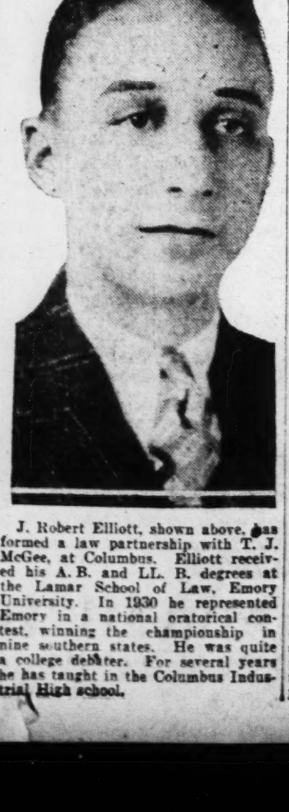

Several hundred reservists enrolled in the army extension school in which civilians study requirements for appointment, promotion and reappointment in the officers' reserve corps, completed 500 courses, totaling 11,849 hours of study, during September, October, November and December, the first period of the 1934-35 training program. This number represents an increase of 33 subjects, aggregating approximately 385 hours of study, over the same period in the 1933-34 year, Colonel Marshall said.

An average of approximately 150 officers have attended each of the two monthly meetings held in Atlanta since October, the statistics show, indicating an increase of approximately ten officers per meeting.

GRANT & CO. MOVE TO LARGER QUARTERS

Brokerage Firm To Occupy Ground Floor Offices in Healey Building.

Reflecting what was credited as a market expansion of the demand for sound investment securities over the southeast in recent months and sustaining a substantial increase in business during the last two years, the widely known investment brokerage firm of Grant & Company Saturday announced their removal from the fourteenth floor of the Healey building to larger and remodeled quarters on the Forsyth street ground floor of that structure.

The new offices will be at 61 and 63 Forsyth street, N. W.

The firm's various departments will continue under their old management with E. S. Grant, president and founder of the company, directing activities; C. K. Grant, vice president and assistant director of sales, and W. K. Grant, office manager and head of the local securities trading department. L. B. Huffaker is manager of the listed securities department, and E. L. Kendrick is security analyst and director of investment information.

"There is double cause for gratification to us in this event," E. S. Grant said Saturday. "In the first place, we are naturally pleased and grateful that since early 1933, during a period when the brokerage and securities business as a whole has been undergoing a gradual and definite downward trend in volume, our firm has had the fortunate experience of being an exception to the general rule. As a matter of fact, in every single week during the past two years, new names have been added to the list of our important and valued clientele.

"In the second place we are, of course, happy also at the healthy and improving conditions throughout the southeast, which are indicated by our experience, and confirmed both by close observation and by the first-hand reports of our representatives from their respective territories. Equilibrium is being restored in financial and investment circles; through a clearer perspective we are now becoming able to discern again the fundamental soundness upon which alone returning prosperity can be based.

"Developments during 1934 followed the general pattern of second recovery years. It was a year of consolidation of previous gains, of testing and experimentation, complicated by the diverse and otfen contradictory forces of financial, economic, governmental and political influences. We are much farther along the road as we enter 1935; the way is clearing for real strides toward the goal of wholesome, normal business activity.

"This does not mean, however, that the old status quo will ever be restored in this country. The era from which we are emerging will not pass without leaving its effects. One of these is the necessity for greater care and discrimination on the part of all business, paricularly on the part of investors. It is, in fact, due to our policy of thorough investigation and careful selection of every security in which our clients are interested, that we have been able to forge so far ahead during the past two or three years. Each individual stock or bond must be closely studied. Some industries have shown progress, others not. One company, in strategic position and ably managed, will show conspicuous progress, while another in a somewhat different situation will lag or even slip backward. To seek out and appraise these factors is vitally essential to success in present-day investment procedure."

Valdosta Skaters Get Blocks Free of Traffic

VALDOSTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—In an effort to promote safety, city officials have designated blocks of certain streets in different parts of the city where children may skate in the afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock, free from traffic.

During the hours designated, no motor traffic will be permitted on the closed blocks, and the children are also warned that they may not skate elsewhere on the streets.

Rainy Weather Seen For Atlanta Today

Abruptly terminating the period of clear weather enjoyed by Atlantans for the last few days, the weatherman predicts cloudiness and occasional rain today, marked by slowly rising temperature. This morning will see the mercury close to 36, ascending to 56, however, by the afternoon, according to George W. Mindling, government meteorologist.

From a high of 52 Friday afternoon the mercury sank to a low of 37 Saturday morning and continued its descent through the day. Georgia's rainy weather extended southward through Florida and in parts of Mississippi and Alabama, an atmospheric condition inducing southerly winds over the central part of the country sending temperatures up between the Rockies and Appalachians.

FENCE FOR HIGHWAY PLANNED ON COAST

South Georgia Counties Seek To Keep Cattle Off Road To Prevent Accidents.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP) Counties in Georgia through which the Coastal Highway passes, in an effort to settle the agitation about a fence law for these counties, are planning to petition the state highway board to fence the highway wherever necessary along the entire route, and definite action has already been taken by two of the counties and the subject will be presented to the others at once.

Commissioners of McIntosh county at a meeting passed a resolution calling on the state highway department to fence the highway and $500 was appropriated. Glynn county commissioners were requested to take similar action and a like sum was appropriated, to be paid into the fund if all other counties agree to the plan.

Camden county has also acted while the other counties, Bryan and Liberty, will also be requested to adopt the resolution and appropriate the sum. Chatham county now has a fence law.

Agitation for a state-wide fence law was started several weeks ago by Savannah and Brunswick organizations, due to so many automobile accidents being caused by cattle running at large on the highway.

European War Tension Eased Says Bingham at Ga. Home

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Ambassador Robert W. Bingham said today the possibility of war in Europe had been materially lessened through the initiative of the British government and that economic conditions were looking up in Great Britain.

The economic improvement in this country was described by the ambassador to the Court of St. James as "simply exhilirating." He arrived at his game preserve near here yesterday for a season of hunting.

"When I returned to America in December, 1933, a very great change and improvement was obvious," the ambassador said. "Now, when I come back a year later I see that change increased, magnified and expressed in every way both materially and psychologically."

Recovery in England was comparable to the progress made in this country.

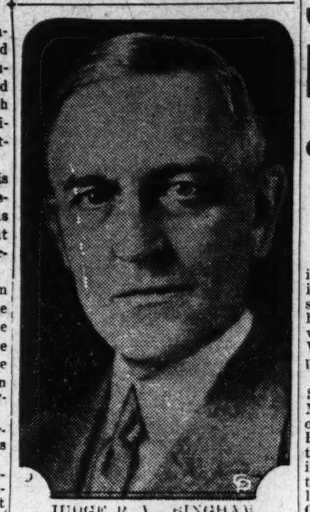

"There has been very great improvement in business and conditios generally in England," he said. "And it is interesting to note that their crisis, which was two years ahead of ours, has been overcome by methods in many respects exactly the same as those of our country."

Regarding the possibility of war in Europe he said two factors, both attributable to the British government, had materially lessened the likelihood of immediate conflict.

"As a result of action initiated mainly by the British government, the Saar situation appears to have been handled in such a manner as to prevent what at one time appeared a certain outbreaks between the French and Germans," he said.

"By sending international troops to the area this clash, it is apparent, has been prevented.

"A second move by the British, that of handling the Yugoslavian-Hungarian situation, has also done much to insure European peace."

JUDGE R. V. BINGHAM.

Returning to the economic question, Bingham said that while there had been a marked difference in the methods applied to the crises in this country and in England, "it must be remembered that this had been made necessary by the small geographical area of England.

"Where the confines of Great Britain are small, they are extremely large in the United States, providing quite naturally decidedly more varied types of professions.

"With industrial life, agricultural and other pursuits existing here it has been necessary to adopt methods which would apply to all persons regardless of professions."

Speaks at Rally

Sergeant Alvin York, noted World War hero, shown above, will be the principal speaker at a meeting to be held in Macon Tuesday when retention of the Georgia prohibition law will be urged.

YORK TO ADDRESS STATE DRY RALLY IN MACON TUESDAY

Opening Gun To Retain Prohibition Law To Be Fired in Central City.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 5.—The opening gun of the dry forces of Georgia in their effort to retain the present state prohibition law will be fired here next Tuesday at a meeting at which Sergeant Alvin York, World War hero, of Tennessee, will be the principal speaker.

Other speakers will be Hon. C. L. Shepard, attorney of Fort Valley; Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, president of the Georgia W. C. T. U.; Dr. John H. Wood, pastor of the First Christian church, Rome; Hon. W. A. Covington, of Thomasville, one of the authors of the Georgia state prohibition law; Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Commerce, nationally known temperance lecturer, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools.

The Macon meeting is the first of a series of prohibition rallies to be held in the near future in various sections of Georgia and is being held under the auspices of the Consolidated Forces for Prohibition in Georgia, W. W. Gaines, Atlanta attorney, chairman.

Discussing the meeting Mr. Gaines states: "The prohibitionists believe that Georgia has a most excellent prohibition law and that what it needs is enforcement, not repeal; and that Georgia does not want the return of the legalized liquor traffic, which we had for a whole 100 years, with its saloons, its dives and its political corruption, and which Georgia discarded some 25 years ago.

"Repeal has brought about worse conditions wherever tried all over the United States and nowhere better conditions. We believe that the only final way to deal with liquor is to prohibit it, just as we have had to do with slavery, with gambling, kidnaping, stealing and the traffic in narcotics. Of course, alcohol is just another narcotic."

Sergeant York, who is to speak, is the famous hero of the World War, who almost alone captured 35 German machine guns and brought in 132 prisoners. He was awarded many medals of honor. Sergeant York is principal of a school at Jamestown in east Tennessee.

The meeting here will be held at the Mulberry Methodist church and is scheduled for 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

FLOYD MEMBERS ASKED TO ATTEND MEETING

ROME, Ga., Jan. 5.—Members of the Floyd county delegation in the legislature have been invited to attend a meeting of the Rome Ministerial Association to be held Monday at the First Baptist church. Proposed repeal of the state prohibition laws will be one of the chief subjects for discussion.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—E. A. Stubbs, widely known Georgia banker, today headed the National Exchange bank of Augusta.

Stubbs, who began his banking career in Waycross and who has been connected with banks in Atlanta, Savannah and Rome, was named president by the directors at their first 1935 session. He served as executive vice president during the past year.

Percy E. May, retiring president of the bank, was elected chairman of the board. W. T. Wiggins, cashier, was elected vice president; Edwin M. May, assistant cashier, was elected cashier and R. C. Bailie Jr. was re-elected assistant cashier and trust officer.

CHIEF WATKINS DENIES PATROL POST RUMOR

MACON, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Chief of Police Ben T. Watkins has issued a statement saying there is "absolutely no foundation" to the rumor that he will be made head of the proposed state highway patrol.

Sheriff James R. Hicks Jr., of Bibb county, had been quoted as expressing the opinion that Chief Watkins would be made head of the patrol when and if it is created.

BANKHEAD'S CONDITION MAY PRECLUDE WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Concern developed today over the condition of William B. Bankhead, house democratic leader, as reports were heard that he may be unable to assume his duties for several weeks.

Mrs. Bankhead and Senator John H. Bankhead, his brother, said the Alabaman was improving from the effects of a cold and indigestion.

Friends expressed fear his ailment might cause a recurrence of the heart attack he suffered two years ago. Decision of Bankhead's doctor to keep him abed was looked upon as a precaution against such an eventuality.

MILLEDGEVILLE POST ENROLLS 65 MEMBERS

MILLEDGEVILE, Ga., Jan. 5.—Morris-Little post, American Legion, has already exceeded its membership quota for the year by five members, being the highest membership attained since the post was organized except during the year 1931. This year's quota was fixed at 60 members by State Commander De Lacey Allen, and 65 veterans of Baldwin county have already enrolled.

Commander Ben E. Harrison and Adjutant Joe Grant state that the local post will exceed 100 members by February 1.

WELLS AND TIGERT ON PROGRAM HERE

Association of American Colleges To Meet January 17 and 18.

Addresses by Sumner Wells, assistant secretary of state and former United States minister to Cuba, and John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida and former United States commissioner of education, will be two highlights of the meeting of the Association of American Colleges in Atlanta January 17 and 18.

Mr. Wells is scheduled to speak on "The College in Public Affairs" at a public meeting at the Biltmore hotel Thursday evening, January 17. On the program with the assistant secretary of state will be President Tigert, who will talk on "The Outlook for the College Man and Woman." In addition, the Emory Glee Club, famous singing organization of Emory University, will give a musical program.

Preceding the opening session on January 17, 11 other organizations meeting in conjunction with the association will hold their conventions. These meetings will begin on January 14 with the meeting of the Educational Association of the Methodist Episcopal church.

There are four local members of the college association—Emory University, Agnes Scott College, Morehouse College and Spelman College.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College and a member of the executive committee of the association, is chairman of the local committee on arrangements.

The two-day meeting will assemble representatives of 470 colleges and universities which are members of the association. Most of the institutions are privately endowed or church-owned. Also included in its membership are state, independent and municipal institutions.

The Association of American Colleges is not an accrediting organization; it is concerned with the strengthening of liberal education on the college level. Its function has been fact-finding, counseling, publicity, and the establishment of co-operative relationships.

Standing commissions of the association deal with such problems as financial development of the college, academic freedom, intercollegiate athletics, college architecture and college instruction in fine arts, music within the college, comprehensive examinations, honor courses, the development of standard reports for colleges and universities, the stimulation of better methods of guidance and measurement of student achievements, the production of professional books, brochures, magazine articles, and other literature within the field of college administration and teaching.

During the past year the association has centered attention on the question of federal legislation and is said to have made a distinct contribution in the effort to secure appropriations from the federal relief administration for part-time payment of student expenses.

The Atlanta meeting will be in one sense a coming-of-age celebration, since the organization was formed 21 years ago. Dr. Robert Kelley, first president, will attend as executive secretary.

For the second time in its history, the association holds its annual meeting in the south, having met in Chattanooga in 1929.

Officers of the association are: President William Mather Lewis, of Lafayette College, president; President David A. Robertson, of Goucher College, vice president; Comptroller LeRoy E. Kimball, of New York University, treasurer.

CUE WIZARD TO PLAY AT BILLIARD ACADEMY

Arthur Thurnblad, former three-cushion billiard champion, will be at the Crescent Recreation Academy, 46 1-2 Whitehall street, all of this week. His first appearance will be Monday at 8:30 p. m. in a match game with one of the best local players.

Beginning Tuesday and continuing Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Mr. Thurnblad will appear three times each day at 9 a. m., 3 p. m. and 7 p. m. to demonstrate and instruct regular classes of students of the game. His play here is sure to create a lot of interest among the followers of billiards, as most of them are well acquainted with his record in the game. Brady Shelton announces that Thurnblad is one of the seven best players in the world who will visit the Crescent academy during the next few weeks. Others are Sutton, Morningstar, Kelly, Sears, Ponzi and Rudolph.

City's Postage Bill Reduced by Meter

Atlanta's postage bill showed a 9 1-4 per cent drop in 1934 as compared to 1933, according to figures released Saturday by Lloyd Walker, city purchasing agent.

Use of the Pitney-Bowles postage meter for the past two years has cut the mailing bill from $8,709.76, the 1929 high for the past five years, to $6,390.22, a saving of $2,319.54.

An average saving of 17 per cent has been recorded for 1932-33, the Walker report shows. The machine was introduced in 1932. The average figured over the past five years gives a saving of 20 per cent a year, and if the machine had been in operation for that period, the savings effected would provide postage for an entire year without any additional cost to the treasury, Walker's figures revealed.

Although there is no discount on letters run through the meter, Walker and attaches of his office are careful to see that only city business is used.

"The saving has not been effected through reduced rates," an attache of the office said, "but the meter is just too big to put in your pocket and take home. There is where the saving has been made."

Poisonous Black Widow Spider Invading Sections of the South

The Black Widow spider, relatively more poisonous than the rattlesnake, has found the southern climate to its liking and is reported as invading the south.

Dr. P. W. Fattig, curator of the Emory University museum, has preserved a number of the spiders. He reported that a farmer near Tucker caught 150 of the spiders in a single month. He saw Black Widow spiders in garages and on the walls of buildings.

Attention has been focused on the spider as a serum to counteract its poisonous bite has been perfected. The spider is no larg r than a little finger nail, but threatens to become a greater menace than the rattlesnake. The latter is found only in isolated places, but the spider recently has taken to invading the city.

The Black Widow hides in dark, secluded corners in furnace rooms and sheds or on the under side of chairs and sofas in the house. The spider travels to new locations in furniture, packing boxes and similar objects.

Strking without warning, the spider has a venom which is more poisonous, weight for weight, than that of the rattlesnake. Its two small, jointed fangs work like those of a rattler's. The spider is shiny jet-black, has a large bulbous abdomen and long, slender legs. Red signs marks the lower side of the abdomen, in most cases, by two triangular spots with points touching so as to resemble an hour glass. One of the Black Widow's popular names is the Hour Glass spider.

The female is more deadly than the male. She is four to five times as lage as her mate, whom she kills and eats after the breeding season. The Black Widow is very timid and never attacks unless molested.

"The Black Widow's bite causes acute pain at the point of bite," declared Dr. Fattig, "and this pain spreads rapidly. Labored breathing, cold sweat and pains in the joints result, and the last symptom before death is a rigid abdomen. If a person lives for 24 hours after being bitten, he will survive, however."

Professor Fred D'Amour, of the University of Denver, is credited with perfecting a serum against the spider's bite. It is obtained from the blood of rats which have been given regular small injections of venom from the spider's glands.

Narcotic Prisoners Sentenced to Prison

Sentences ranging from a year and a day to three years were imposed by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood Saturday morning on eight narcotic prisoners, all of whom pleaded guilty following the indictments on December 22. James Hansen and Frank Cornell received sentences of 10 months and a year and a day respectively on a charge of violating the national automobile theft act.

The narcotic prisoners, to be sent to the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth for cures from dope addiction, received the following terms: Jack Wyatt Barber, fined $1 and a year and a day on each of two counts, sentences to run concurrently; Johnnie Boland, $1 fine and two years; Robert T. Houseworth, one year and a day on each of four counts, sentences to run concurrently; Charlie Nash, three years on each of two counts, running concurrently; Charlie Edward Smith, one day for escaping from the federal bull pen, a $1 fine and three years' imprisonment on two indictments, running concurrently; King Edwards Spivey, $1 fine and two years' imprisonment; Frank W. Stokes, two years' imprisonment.

James G. Wilson and Johnnie Parker entered pleas of guilty but the court directed that sentence be postponed until Monday.

ARTISTS' CLUB PLANS ST. VALENTINE'S BALL

Plans for an "Artists' Ball," which may be held on St. Valentine's Day, were discussed by members of the Artists' Guild of Atlanta, who met Friday night for a "cup and saucer" party.

The ball, which would be of the masked variety and patterned after similar affairs held in Paris, New York and Chicago, was favored by those attending the meeting and it is quite probable the event will be staged.

Following the business session, the artists attending the meeting produced cups and saucers and refreshments were served.

ATLANTANS HONORED BY BANKERS' GROUP

Four Atlanta men have been appointed to committees of the southern group of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, it was announced by the association.

Prominent among the new appointees is James A. Brown, of the Trust Company of Georgia, who has been named vice president of the executive committee and chairman of the legislative committee of the group.

Hagood Clarke, of Johnson, Lane, Space & Company, was appointed to both the membership and executive committees. Landon C. Dulaney, of Robinson-Humphrey Company, was made a member of the business conduct committee, and J. Flemming Settle, of J. H. Hilsman & Company, was placed on the membership committee.

HAUPTMANN JURY FACES BOREDOM IN 2-DAY RECESS

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Hauptmann trial jury puzzled today over the problem of a two-day respite with very limited diversions.

Constantly under the surveillance of four guards and virtually in isolation, the eight men and four women of the jury viewed the stock of permissable activities dubiously.

They could play cards in their rooms or talk among themselves about the things they had heard in three days in the old county courthouse.

They could arrange with their guards for short walks about Flemington's main streets.

Or they could sleep.

Before the recess for the week-end was taken, Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, sensing that they were confronted by a tedious two days, advised them strongly to exercise.

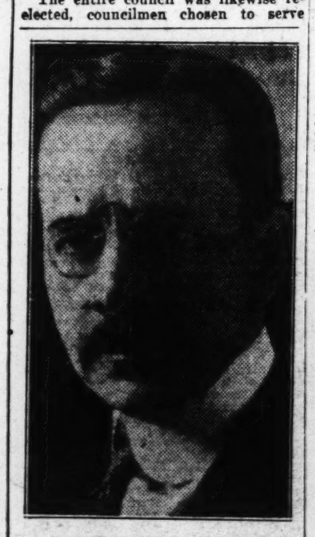

His advice was accompanied by his repeated admonition to refrain from reading newspapers, listening to radios or attending public gatherings.

For the men and women of the jury, Monday morning at 10 a. m. will be a long time coming.

NEW NORTH ATLANTA OFFICIALS ANNOUNCED

Arthur S. Libby was re-elected mayor of North Atlanta at the annual election of city oficials Thursday night in the North Atlanta city hall.

The entire council was likewise re-elected, councilmen chosen to serve during the year being H. Cobb Caldwell, Terry L. Harrison, H. E. Salter, W. B. McBurney and Norman C. Butts.

ARTHUR S. LIBBY.

Mayor Libby has been the executive head of North Atlanta since the community was incorporated in 1924. He is president of the Libby School of Business Administration and Finance and has resided in North Atlanta many years.

Managers of the election were H. T. Shirley, Miss Martha Ayers and Mrs. A. S. Libby.

FLORIDA'S WINTER SEASON HITS PEAK

Tennis Tournament, Fashion Show Feature Week at Miami Biltmore

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—With resort life rapidly sweeping to the mid-season peak, the winter colony this week is giving first attention to tennis in anticipation of the third annual Miami Biltmore championships which start tomorrow, to continue through next Saturday. The championships will occasion a week of social festivities at the Florida Year-Round Clubs honoring the visiting players.

Among noted racquet stars who will be seen in action on the Miami Biltmore courts are Sidney B. Wood, New York, Davis cup singles star; Bryan M. Grant, Jr., Atlanta; Berkeley Bell, the Texan; Dr. Gene McCauliff, New York, former Fordham University star, and Arthur Hendrix, and Carol Turner, both former holders of the Florida state championship.

Young sons and daughters of Florida Year-Round Clubs members have the center of the social stage today for the third annual Miami Biltmore fashion show for charity. More than 500 members of south Florida society have made reservations for the event which is being given on the terraces of the Miami Biltmore Country Club.

Contract bridge enthusiasts in the south Florida area have been bidding this week for the right to play in the third annual Miami Biltmore championship for the trophy presented by Colonel Henry L. Doherty, president of the Florida Year-Round Clubs. Finals in the local championship will be played Wednesday with the national tournament on the calendar for January 14-17.

On the national committee for the event are Colonel Henry L. Doherty, honorary chairman; Alfred M. Gruenther, New York, noted national expert; Ely Culbertson, E. Hall Downes, Sidney Lenz, Philip Hal Sims, Sir Derrick Werner and George Reith, all well known authorities on contract play.

While the championship is in progress players will be guests of honor at a series of social events including a dinner at the Miami Biltmore Country Club the night before the tournament opens, a luncheon at the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club the following day and an all day outing at the Key Largo Anglers Club the day after the finals.

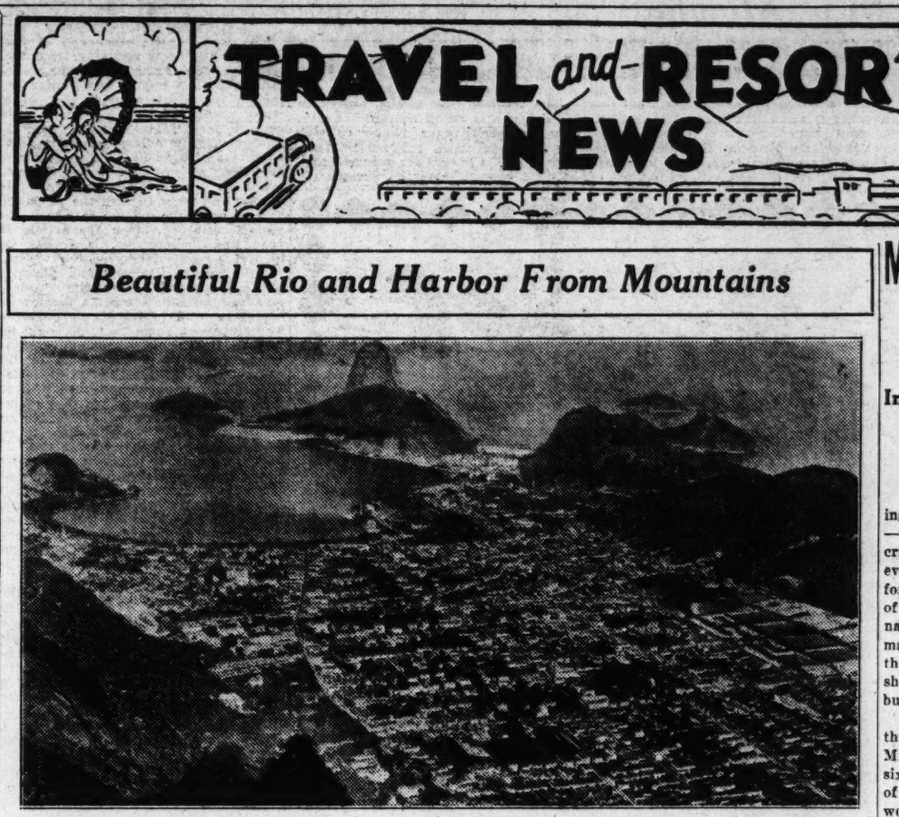

A new sport made its appearance in the resort this week as many members of the Florida Year-Round Clubs journeyed to the Key Largo Anglers Club for starlight fishing from a motor raft. Equipped with high-powered flood lights the raft has taken many parties to the Gulf Stream for a new phase of rod and reel sport.

Left-handed golfers will have their inning at the Miami Biltmore Country Club January 14-19, when they will play for the national title for southpaws.

Meanwhile, the social calendar is dotted with an increasingly large number of events including bridge-luncheons, tea-dances, cabana parties, dinner-dances, cocktail parties and beach breakfasts, for many of which the Roney Plaza Sun Club is the scene.

Emil Hurja, national democratic committeeman in charge of headquarters at Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Hurja, have been vacationing at the Miami Biltmore hotel this week. Heywood Broun, New York columnist, is another guest at the Biltmore.

Among well-known personalities at the Roney Plaza during the fortnight have been Harry Salmon, English financier, and Mrs. Salmon, who are on a round-the-world tour.

TRAVEL and RESORT NEWS

Beautiful Rio and Harbor From Mountains

"The World's Most Beautiful City" is the proud title claimed by Rio de Janeiro, capital of Brazil, and even the most blase traveler, entering the harbor at Rio, utters an involuntary exclamation of delight at viewing the delightful scene that greets his eyes. Rio de Janeiro nestles in a lovely valley, surrounded on three sides by towering tree-covered mountains. Even the harbor entrance has its lofty pillar of rock. Above is shown a panorama of the city as viewed from the mountains to the rear.

Travel Jottings

Tower Built 2,300 Years Ago.
Mombasa has a high tower which dates back to 400 B. C. It is one of the wonders of mid-Africa. It is at least a dozen stories high.

Source of Queen of Sheba's Riches?
One hundred million tons of gold-bearing ore have been taken out of the Great Zimbabive mines, in South Africa. Gold was smelted there in prehistoric ages. Some authorities connect the mines with the queen of Sheba, while Rider Haggard calls them "King Solomon's mines." Their origin fades in the mists of the ages.

Edinburgh, the Modern Athens.
Edinburgh, 40 miles from Glasgow, is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. It is called the modern Athens because of its topographical resemblance to the Greek city, its historic castle being built upon a rock similar to the Acropolis.

Every foot of Edinburgh flows with associations with great ones of the past, such as the houses where Burns and Scott lived; St. Giles cathedral, the house of John Knox, Holyrood palace, with its memories of Mary, Queen of Scots, and Bonnie Prince Charlie. Princes street, flanked on one side with magnificent gardens, and on the other with palatial shops, is one of the finest promenades in any city. Scott called the city "mine own romantic town."

To Pep Up With Pepsin.
A health food to be served to passengers on the three Britannic cruises to the West Indies during February and March will be the papaya, which contains a large percentage of pepsin. They will be taken aboard sun-ripened at St. Thomas and other ports and will be continued practically all the way back to New York.

Passengers will be advised to chew and swallow the black seeds, as they contain that excellent aid to digestion, pepsin, in its original form.

Two Long Voyages.
The distance from Southampton, England, to Bombay, India, is 6,100 miles, practically the same as the distance to Buenos Aires, Argentina. The distance from Southampton to New York is 3,120 miles, which the new superliner Queen Mary will cover in 96 hours.

Southwestern England Sub-Tropical.
NewQuay, in Cornwall, England, is so warmed by the gulf stream that sea bathing may be enjoyed virtually throughout the entire winter. Sub-tropical plants grow continuously throughout the southwestern shore country of England.

Norway Is Tourist's Paradise.
Because the northern part of Norway tips into the arctic circle the erroneous impression prevails that it is a cold country. Instead, it has milder climate than any other country in the same latitude. The summertime is ideal—in fact, from early May until late September the pleasure tourist will find it the most wonderful country in Europe to wander in. The views are tremendous. Nowhere else are there such vast landscapes, such combinations of mountain and sea. The lover of the great outdoors will enjoy its winter sports—skiing, skating and tobogganing in the invigorating pine-laden atmosphere.

Snow caps many of the desolate mountains all the year round, and the great skiing contest of Finse takes place in midsummer, because the snow lies clean and white there through all the seasons; but nevertheless throughout the major portion of Norway the winter is not as severe as one would imagine from the geographical position of the country.

A recently returned traveler from Norway said that the whole country is so clean that it looks as if it had just came from the laundry. Never had he met people more hospitable to the stranger. He had gone for a two-week stay and had remained two months.

The greatest scenic railway in the world is in Norway. It is 307 miles long and carries the visitor all through the Norwegian Alps.

Fancy Names in Madagascar.
Majunga, Madagascar, where the Franconia will call on her voyage around the world, beginning January 12, is situated at a point where the Betsiboka river empties into the Bombetoka bay. They go in for fancy names that rhyme in Madagascar.

Two other rivers with unusual names are the Maevatnana and the Tsiribihina. The last word means "uncrossable," the river being clogged with crocodiles.

On one of the shore trips the passengers are carried in filanzanes, which are chairs swung between 10-foot poles carried on the shoulders of stalwart natives.

The main street of the town is called the Avenue d'Amborovy.

What Columbus Thought of Bahamas.
When Columbus first landed in the Bahamas he wrote back to Spain:

"This country excels all others as far as the day surpasses the night in splendor."

Barren Rock Talk of World.
When M. Francois Blanc first went to Monaco and built the Casino, it may be said that he transformed a barren rock into a resort which, with "The man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo," has made it the talk of the world. He transformed it into an Eden of flowers. Every kind of amusement known to men and women can be found here, even to American baseball. It is the gathering place of the celebrities of all nations. Here Fashion is queen and the bank-roll her royal spouse. There is hardly a singer of repute or a dancer of renown who has not some time or other helped to entertain the guests of Monte Carlo.

Literary Lights of Dublin.
Authors of renown born in Dublin, Ireland, include Thomas Moore, poet; Oscar Wilde, poet and dramatist; George Bernard Shaw, dramatist; Michael Balfe, operatic composer; Samuel Lover, poet and novelist; Charles Lever, novelist; Richard Steele, dramatist.

Peg Woffington, the renowned actress, was born in Dublin.

Beautiful Connemara.
"Connemara is the beautiful name of a very beautiful district, about which there has always clung a special atmosphere of wild sport and romance," says Stephen Gwyne. The mountains of Connemara come down to kiss the sea everywhere, and from exquisite little lakes a succession of little rivers full of trout add to the joy of all except those who scamper through the region in two days. The sea which rolls from there to Canada, is as much an attraction as the shore, which is surrounded by wild, uncountable islands. Here they find mackerel, shoot seals, harpoon sunfish or grampuses, and collect rare seabirds and their eggs, or perhaps in some rare hour, catch sight of an eagle on the wing.

Tourists Will Visit Arabian Nights Land

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The land of the Arabian Nights tales will be visited by a party of American cruise passengers, leaving New York February 2 on the S. S. Samaria Mediterranean cruise. These travelers will stop at the cities of Ur of the Chaldees, Nebuchednazzar, and Haroun al Raschid in the course of a trip across the Arabian desert to Bagdad, city of the Caliphs. While at Bagdad the party will make a side trip to Babylon and its Hanging Gardens, returning then across the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and through Iraq to Damascus, oldest live city in the world.

Other side trips arranged by the James Boring Company, managers of the Samaria 60-day cruise, are to the Garden of Allah in north Africa, to the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen in Egypt and to the Sea of Galilee in Palestine. In all, the cruise will touch at 22 different countries and islands of the Mediterranean involving a sea voyage of 16,000 miles.

MARKED GAIN SHOWN IN CRUISE BOOKINGS

Increase in Winter Travel Indicates Better Business Conditions.

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—The traveling public has money to spend again—and is spending it. This winter's cruises are being booked earlier than ever before and people are looking for luxury instead of bargains. All of which, says William Baird, Canadian Pacific's passenger traffic manager, is an added indication of the economic improvement that has shown itself in many other lines of business.

"The most significant feature of this winter's cruise business," said Mr. Baird recently, "is that this year, six weeks in advance of the departure of the Empress of Britain on her world cruise, every suite has been reserved, and we have 25 per cent more bookings now than we had at the same time last year."

During the past few years, according to Mr. Baird, while there has been a fair percentage of demands for expensive accommodations, travel bargains have been mostly sought. A significant feature of this early booking activity, which also indicates returning economic confidence, is that steamship companies all report their advance bookings in the higher backets, with cheaper accommodations still available. This is a direct reversal of last year's situation, when at this time practically all the lower-priced rooms had been taken.

Comparative figures are not available with regard to the Mediterranean-South Africa-South America cruise of the Empress of Australia, according to Mr. Baird, since no such voyage was offered last year. "But here, too," said Mr. Baird, "the costly accommodations are outselling the cheaper, which seems to fix the economic improvement idea even more firmly."

FLU
is in the air!
With Flu Increasing in Many Sections, Authorities Urge Extra Precaution Against Colds
Follow Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds
An epidemic of "grippy" colds and flu seems to be developing here now. Mothers, especially, know that colds weaken a child's resistance—that each cold, if not properly treated, paves the way for other colds and more serious complications, such as bronchitis or pneumonia.
Don't take unnecessary chances. Avoid all colds possible. Treat every cold promptly. For greatest safety and protection, follow the famous Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The Plan's effectiveness has been clinically tested by practicing physicians—and further proved in every-day home use by millions. Briefly, Vicks Plan is this:
TO BUILD RESISTANCE: Live normally—don't worry. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eliminate regularly. Drink lots of water. Eat light, wholesome food. Exercise a little daily—outdoors if possible.
TO HELP PREVENT COLDS: At that first sniffle or sneeze—or nasal irritation—quick!—use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol stimulates Nature's own defense functions—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off other colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds entirely.
TO HELP END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has already developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. Rest as much as possible, preferably in bed. Take a mild laxative, if needed. And depend on Vicks VapoRub, the mother's standby for treating colds. Just rubbed on throat and chest, VapoRub attacks the cold direct—two ways at once: By Stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; and by Inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. This long-continued action soothes the membranes—loosens phlegm—eases the breathing—helps break congestion. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.
(Note—for added Protection—When Flu is in the air, it is a wise precaution to rinse the mouth and gargle, night and morning, with Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. Voratone thoroughly cleanses the oral cavity, stimulates the membranes to more healthful activity—and thus aids in defense against infection that enters through the mouth.)

Many Businessmen of Atlanta Victimized by 'Puff Sheet' Racket

By RALPH T. JONES.

Did you ever hear of the "puff sheet" racket? It is a game that has caught a great majority of business and professional men who amount to anything, financially or by good repute.

Attention was recently drawn to the widespread operations of this scheme when the postoffice department issued a fraud order against "American System Magazine," typical sheet of its type. On hand are the names of half-a-dozen others of the small class but, inasmuch as they have not yet been officially banned by Uncle Sam, the libel laws prevent publication of their names here.

However, here's how the "racket" works and here's how it caught five Atlantans in one month of 1934.

The unsuspecting victim, seated in his office here or in some other city, gets a long-distance phone call—in the five local cases referred to, from New York. Charges are reversed and, in most cases, the victim accepts the call and thus pays the bill for his own undoing.

Working of the Racket.

The man at the other end of the line explains he is speaking from the office of—and names some magazine, usually with a name very similar to, though not identical with that of a really well-known and legitimate business magazine. He explains that in their next issue a story about the Atlanta man is to be published. They are going to press in a day or so, hence the urgency of long-distance telephone and want to read the prepared article over the phone to check its perfect accuracy. Then the article is read and, believe me, it speaks in highest possible terms of the victim.

Said victim, flattered and pleased, okays the article. Then the "salesman" suggests he'll want a few extra copies to send to friends or business acquaintances, suggests 1,000 could be included in the press run and casually mentions the price as 35 or 50 cents a copy. Maybe the flattered victim retains enough sanity to protest that 1,000 is too many, so they obligingly drop the size of the order to whatever number he will agree to as the number "he can properly use."

Of course, there is no urgency about press time. The magazine is printed when they have sold enough "suckers" for the "puffs" to fill the columns. Then enough copies to fill the "orders" from victims are printed, they are shipped by express, C. O. D. and the undertaking is concluded.

Insurance Man Victimized.

B. F. Fraser Jr., manager of the Atlanta branch of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company, is one of the five Atlantans who, while naturally reluctant to expose victimization, yet is public-spirited enough to permit use of his name if it will save others from falling for the same "racket" in the future.

"Anyone would have 'fallen' as I did," he said Saturday, after he had ruefully displayed the 100 copies of the "puff sheet" for which he paid $35 and which still rest in a corner of his office.

"With many large policy holders of mine frequently going to New York on business, it isn't unusual for me to get a long-distance call from that city. Sometimes a man overlooks paying his premium and, with the last day of grace near, calls me to arrange for it to be taken care of in time. It was quite natural, therefore, to accept a reverse-charge call. And that "spieler" on the other end had a wonderful line. He reeled it off like lightning. The only wonder is that I didn't accept the 1,000 order he tried first. Luckily I retained enough intelligence to break in and refuse that, but when he said he'd ship 100 copies I was too dazed to stop him.

"Learned My Lesson."

"However, I've learned my lesson. It was probably cheap at the price and if the example serves as a warning to others I'm satisfied."

Another Atlantan who fell at the same time is a prominent lawyer. He wouldn't permit publication of his name and when asked the amount for which he was "taken," he just blushed and said he was ashamed to mention it.

Another lawyer says he only fell to the amount of $5 and used the clippings of his "puff" judiciously enough to get value received.

However, there's the racket. Next time you are exposed to it defer accepting the "salesman's" offer until you have conferred with Frank Shaw, secretary of the Better Business Bureau at the Chamber of Commerce. He has full information about the "puff sheet game" and will be glad to give all details to any who ask.

STATE GOLDFIELDS, ONCE FORGOTTEN, ARE 'IN THE MONEY'

The old gold fields of Georgia, once virtually forgotten in the rush to western fields, are in the money again.

From the state division of geology Saturday came a report that the value of gold mined in Georgia is increasing "rapidly" with 1933 ahead of any year since 1917 and 1934 expected to top them all.

The total recorded value of gold obtained in Georgia during the last hundred years was given as $17,735,972.

Once Georgia's fields were an important source of gold and a mint was operated at Dahlonega in the northern part of the state. After the days of the forty-niners and the western gold rush, however, they lost prestige.

Mining operations still continued on a small scale and in recent years have increased steadily.

GEORGIA ENGINEERS AID NATIONAL SURVEY

Approximately 2,600 engineers in Georgia will be requested to submit data as part of the national survey which will be carried out this year by the American Society of Civil Engineers, it was revealed Saturday as plans for the survey got under way.

The object of the survey, which is being sponsored by the American Engineering Council's committee on engineering and allied technical professions, are to determine the factors which contribute to tenure of employment and compensation in the profession. All engineers receiving cards are requested to fill them out promptly and accurately. The data will be treated confidentially.

GOSNELL TO ADDRESS WOMAN'S PARTY CLUB

Cullen B. Gosnell, professor of political science at Emory University, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Georgia Woman's Democratic Club at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Atlanta Athletic Club, 186 Carnegie way.

The meeting will be the first held under new officers of the club, of which Mrs. William P. Dunn is president. Professor Gosnell will speak on "Proposed Legislation."

Members of the Southside Civic Federation have been invited to attend Friday's meeting, according to Mrs. Dunn.

An executive board meeting will precede the regular session of the club, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

ANNUAL ARBEITER RING CONCERT NEXT SUNDAY

Featuring a group of well-known artists, the 27th annual Arbeiter Ring concert will be given at 8 o'clock next Sunday evening at the Jewish Educational Alliance hall, 318 Capitol avenue, S. E.

Appearing on the program will be A. Lutzky, modern Jewish poet and impersonator; Z. Zlatin, New York artist and accompanist, and M. Brodin, tenor and opera singer.

All three supporting artists have appeared on programs in the leading cities of the nation. Mr. Brodin's singing of selections from Tschaikowsky's "Eugine O'Negen," has won favorable comment in both Chicago and New York.

FREIGHT RATE FIGHT LAUNCHED BY WILHOIT

Chairman of Utilities Board Sends Suggested Complaint Form Over South.

Laying the groundwork for a southwide attack on interstate freight rates in the south, Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the Georgia public service commission, has sent to governors and public service commissioners of the southern states a suggested form for complaint to the interstate commerce commission.

Wilhoit, at a recent conference of governors of the south in Birmingham, Ala., was requested to transmit a suggested form for complaint to be filed with the I. C. C.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, and the Talmadge-appointed public service commission for months have been fighting the differential in freight rates between the southern territory, and territory in the north and east. Wilhoit says the other sections have rates 37 per cent lower than the south, and that this handicaps southern industry and agriculture in competing with the north and east.

In his letter to the various states, Chairman Wilhoit said "the need for a lower basic rate level has been recognized by the carriers in their numerous attempts to recover lost traffic by lower competitive rates." He said that a rate fixed as reasonable "under conditions which existed in 1926 and 1928 cannot now be considered as a reasonable rate level for present application.

"Under changed economic conditions and under the present competitive situation, a lower rate level is demanded."

CONFECTIONERS NAME WOODRUFF AS COUNSEL

Appointment of William Woodruff as general counsel for the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' Association, Inc., effective January 1, was announced Saturday by C. M. McMillan, executive secretary. The association is composed of the leading wholesale candy and confectionery dealers in the 11 southeastern states, the general offices of which are located in Atlanta.

WILLIAM WOODRUFF.

With the appointment of Mr. Woodruff as general counsel, all legal activities of the association will be concentrated in the Atlanta offices, instead of being handled by the individual state and local groups. The new attorney is widely known in Atlanta, having been a resident of this city for more than 25 years.

Day Flight to N. Y. Goes in Effect Today

All all-daylight schedule connecting Atlanta with Washington and New York to be established today jointly by Delta Air Lines and Eastern Air lines was announced here Saturday by officials of the two companies.

The service calls for the use of Delta Air Lines planes between Atlanta and Charleston, where connections will be made with the Eastern Air Lines planes flying between Miami, Washington and New York.

The schedule:

Leaves Atlanta 7:30 a. m.; arrives Augusta 9:55 a. m., Columbia 10:52 a. m. and Charleston 11:52 a. m.

Leaves Charleston 1:55 p. m.; arrives Washington 5 p. m. and New York 7 p. m.

The Charleston connection is in addition to the overnight service operated directly between Atlanta and New York by E. A. L., which also furnishes service to Chicago, Miami and New Orleans. Delta operates between Charleston, Atlanta and Dallas.

WHITE WINS RICH U. S. SWEEPSTAKES HERE

A Typewriter Picture of Frank Thomas, Maker of Champions

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 5.—On the morning of November 15, 1898, the family physician drove his buggy away from the Thomas home at Muncie, Indiana.

A few days later the son he had helped to arrive in the world was christened Frank William Thomas.

This morning, just 36 years later, 10,000 people cheered Frank William Thomas as he climbed to a platform erected at the station for the football team which had just returned to the University of Alabama from the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., with the greatest victory ever won by a southern team in all its long and great gridiron history.

A lot has been written about Frank Thomas but he is usually referred merely as "Frank Thomas, former Notre Dame star, and now coach at Alabama." Or, "Frank Thomas, whose Alabama football team won at the Rose Bowl."

This is a typewriter picture of the coach who at 36 years of age has won five football championships, the latter two being consecutive ones at Alabama, and topped with a Rose Bowl victory over Stanford on January 1, 1935, which gave him and his team the greatest claim to the national football title.

He stepped into Alabama in the spring of 1931 following Wallace Wade, who had made Rose Bowl history and produced champions. His record has been even better and the fourth year was climaxed with the greatest Rose Bowl victory of them all. The past two seasons have seen undefeated teams in the south and this season saw 10 victories. In four years 34 games have been won, four lost and one tied.

Before that there had been three championships in four years with Chattanooga's S. I. A. A. eleven. And he had been a valued assistant at Georgia.

THE SCENE CHANGES.

So much for the brief record. The early scene changes.

When Frank Thomas was five years old the family moved to East Chicago.

He went to grade school there and then to Washington High school. At high school he played football, basketball and baseball.

When time came to go to college he went to Western Normal Teachers' College to finish prep work and enter college. The Teachers were coached by Bill Spaulding, now head coach at U. C. L. A., who saw his former quarterback at the obscure normal school send out one of the finest teams in America to win one of the finest victories.

THE GAME HE REMEMBERS.

The football game he remembers best is the first college game he played for Western Teachers. The Big Ten rules permitted a year of college play at a teachers' college while completing prep work.

Thomas reported on Monday in the fall of 1917 and on Saturday of the same week backed up the line against Michigan.

Thomas weighed 134 pounds. He backed up the line. One of the Michigan backs was Tad Weiman, now line coach at Princeton.

The next day all of Thomas' 134 pounds were so sore he could not get out of his berth.

He remembers that game best of all.

A ROCKNE FRESHMAN IN 1919.

In 1919 Thomas entered college at Notre Dame. He played quarter for the freshman team. He was on the team with George Gipp, the greatest back Thomas had seen until his own Dixie Howell came along.

In 1921 he was the regular quarterback. The fall of 1922 saw the backs to become famous as "The Four Horsemen" enter varsity ranks. Thomas was in one backfield with Elmer Layden, now head coach at Notre Dame.

In the spring of 1923 he graduated with a law degree.

Knute Rockne regarded him as a great team man, as a man able to handle boys and as a splendid student of detail and of the strategy of football.

He recommended him to University of Georgia officials as an assistant. George Woodruff was head coach. He hired him.

He was at Georgia in 1923 and 1924. Chattanooga offered him the head coaching job. He took it and was there four seasons, winning three championships.

Harry Mehre called him back to Georgia in the fall of 1929 as backfield coach and he was there for two seasons.

Wallace Wade had resigned at Alabama to go to Duke. Frank Thomas took the job and experts wagged fearful heads. A new system following Wade's success looked like a bad spot.

Thomas had one good back left in 1931, John (Hurry) Cain. He won nine games and lost one. The next year he lost two. In 1933 he lost only to Fordham and this year was undefeated. The 1933 and 1934 seasons saw Southeastern conference championships. And there is no better claim to the 1934 national title than his claim. So much for the record.

SOME PERSONALITIES.

Thomas is five feet eight and a quarter inches tall. He weighs 170 pounds. His hair is very black. His eyes are brown. He smiles easily. He is most good-natured. He has an infectious laugh.

He rarely says "I" when talking of his team. It is always "We." And he was saying that before Lindbergh made the word famous.

He likes baseball. He was good enough to get a big league offer while he was at Notre Dame. He pitched and played shortstop.

He likes to eat. Steak, spaghetti, oysters and the fish dishes, as prepared by New Orleans cooks, are his favorites.

He prefers cigars to cigarets. He smokes more when nervous.

Before games he is very nervous until about two days before the game is to be played.

His greatest thrill was winning from Stanford. Next from St. Mary's.

His changes in the Notre Dame system have been the most successful of any of the variations attempted by other coaches.

He is married to an Athens girl, Frances Rowe. They have three children, a girl and two boys.

That's Frank Thomas—whose team is the nation's best. And if he isn't the No. 1 coach for 1934, then who is?

Thousands Greet Alabama Heroes

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1935.

Here are some scenes as Alabama's conquering Crimson Tide rolled into the station at Tuscaloosa yesterday to be welcomed by a wild and enthusiastic crowd of more than 10,000. Top left: A general overhead view of part of the thousands who welcomed Alabama's triumphant Tide back home. Top right: Mother of Millard "Dixie" Howell, smiling upon congratulations for her son's sensational playing in Rose Bowl when returning with the Crimson Tide at Tuscaloosa. Lower left: A few players snapped while Judge Foster, of Tuscaloosa, spoke into the microphone. The players are, left to right: Riley Smith, Bob Ed Morrow, Dixie Howell, Tarzan White, Raiford Ellis and Joe Dildy. Thousands Brave Rain To Greet Tide Heroes

National Football Champions Given Great Ovation; Trip Was Ideal, Says McGill.

By Ralph McGill.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 5.—It was like this when the Crimson Tide came home Saturday morning:

It was raining when they awoke in Alabama; the first rain they had seen since they left for California where they were to sweep aside Stanford, the coast's great team, and emerge as the outstanding team in the nation.

It was 9 o'clock when the long train steamed into Tuscaloosa.

Before it stopped the crowd started running to it, throwing aside the rope barriers.

Somewhere a siren started blowing. And then whistles in all the factories and shops began. The crowd began yelling as the team disembarked. There was a din of sound.

COLD DRIZZLE.

Erected close to the station was a platform with amplifiers. To it the team was conducted. They stood on it in the rain, a cold drizzle. Seated was Dr. Mike Denny, president of the university. Also there was a very proud lady, the mother of Millard "Dixie" Howell, the great star of the victory.

And then came a scene the south loves. I suspect that some of the sophisticates may smile at some of our scenes. They had, a few years ago, a habit of smiling about our football teams. Indeed, the coast was smiling as to what Tiny Thornhill's "Laughing Boys" might do to Alabama.

They say we like to talk of the Civil War. And we do. It is one of our heritages. And I suspect that it is one reason why our teams fight better against heavier odds.

CIVIL WAR SPEECH.

This was a grand scene. Circuit Judge Henry B. Foster, his gray head uncovered, welcomed the team on behalf of the university. He spoke of the Civil War.

He spoke of an old southerner who had boasted before the Civil War that the south could lick the Yankees with pop guns. And of how the Yankees had asked about that boast following the war.

"Well," said the truculent southerner, "we could have licked 'em with pop guns but the d—— Yankees would not fight with 'em."

And then Judge Foster spoke of how

TIDE DEFEATS TULANE, 31-26

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The crimson-clad quintet of Alabama turned in a 31-to-26 decision over Tulane's Greenies here tonight, to sweep a two-game series before 700 spectators. The Tuscaloosa team triumphed in Friday night's opener, 24 to 12.

Alabama took an early lead, was tied twice during the opening minutes of play, but pulled away to a 17-to-10 lead as the first half ended.

Tulane came back with a stronger attack in the second period, pulling up to within three points of its rival, at 27 to 24, with four minutes left to play, but the rally fell short. Jim Whatley of Alabama, got under the basket for a neat goal, and a minute later Jimmy Walker sent a long throw thorugh for two more Alabama points.

The Crimson team had six football players on its lineup, and Tulane used three. It had been less than a week since all nine were in gridiron togs.

WHITE WINNER IN PIN TOURNEY

By Jack Troy.

Jack Leventhal, who has been bowling these 20 years under the ring or pin name of Jack White, because he is a blond, Saturday night won the fifth United States sweepstakes in competition with 28 other stars at Blick's Bowling center.

Twenty years ago Jack Leventhal was bowling with a league team in Connecticut. He looked on the list for his name and couldn't find it.

"Say, what is this?" he said. "Did I or did I not bowl tonight?" And so the team manager said. "Here you are, Kid White. That's your name from now on."

So Jack White, who has a national honorary ranking of No. 2, overcoming his teammate. Nick Tronsky's, early lead, maintained a brilliant pace through the next two blocks of five games to finish with a brilliant score of 2,001.

TRONSKY SECOND.

White is from New Haven, Conn., and was out ahead of Tronsky, who finished in second place by a matter of 75 pins. Tronsky's 15-game score was 1,926.

Tronsky won the first block of five games with a score of 701. White trailed by 22 pins. White pulled out in front in the second block, winning it with a 10-game total of 1,357. Tronsky was in second place with 1,311.

So going into the final block of five games White held a lead of 46 pins and he never faltered. Fact is, he picked up speed and increased his advantage to 75 pins at the end.

It was a great victory for Connecticut. Particularly Willimantic, home of Tronsky, and New Haven, home of White and the Yale Bulldogs.

RAH FOR BARBER!

And what a triumph it was for Frank Barber, who runs the Lucky Strike Alleys in Willimantic. Tronsky and White are members of Barber's Blue Ribbon team. And he was here last night to see them win. Barber thinks it will sort of quiet the Connecticut Yankees, their chief rivals, who did not enter a single bowler.

White's victory carried a $750 prize. And it was his first major

Say It Ain't So--Crackers Win Flag in January?

The "Smart Boys" Are Up to Their Old Tricks; Club Has Weaknesses.

By Jimmy Jones.

If the overenthusiastic press can only refrain from picking them to win the pennant before Easter and the Dixie Series prior to July, the situation as regarding the Atlanta Crackers' baseball club shows signs of returning to sanity, along with the rest of the country, in 1935.

The situation is undoubtedly healthier for several reasons, but not yet wholesome enough to quote all the rival magnates as picking the Crackers to run away with the band wagon, as they have been picked ever and anon for some six or eight years.

It doubtless would be a great break for Eddie Moore, the new skipper, if Atlanta papers would refrain from quoting any rival manager or club owner on the Cracker prospects. This, some are inclined to think, constitutes a part of the Cracker jinx.

One of this writer's New Year's resolutions is to wait and give the Crackers a chance to prove themselves and quote nobody but the manager. After all, most of the rival magnates' statements are given out with an ulterior motive of making the Crackers so fat-headed that they don't realize their own faults until it is too late.

As aforementioned, however, the situation looks some better and certainly the baseball club is proceeding along a saner basis.

In the first place, Earl Mann, the 29-year-old native Atlantan, who has more sense about baseball than half of the veterans who have been imported here from afar off, rose up and stopped some of the annual raids on the Cracker treasury through the duplicity of the league's unscrupulous David Harums, who have been peddling the Crackers $500 ball players for $5,000.

MANN A "WATCH DOG."

Earl Mann has been a regular watch dog of the Atlanta treasury. Thus far he has bought two very capable ball players—about all that the club needs—at a total cash outlay of around $5,000. These two players were Dave Harris, from Albany, and Carl Easterling, from Tulsa, two slugging outfielders whom Cracker regimes of the past couldn't have corralled to save their lives for less than $10,000.

Mr. Mann, who learned a lot about business and finances while working for the Brooklyn and Yankee organizations, not to mention several theaters, was the target for the big rush at

ATLANTA CARDS 17 EXHIBITIONS FOR SPRING PLAY

Team Opens Florida Campaigning With Montreal on March 23.

By Jimmy Jones.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, Joe Cronin's Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees furnish the high spots of a 17-game spring exhibition card that has been arranged for the Atlanta Crackers.

Vice President Earl Mann, in making the schedule public today, pointed out that there were six open dates left on the card which probably will be filled in with college or semi-pro teams.

Six or seven games will be intercamp skirmishes in Florida, opening with Montreal, of the International league, at Orlando, on March 23. Montreal trains at Winter Park. Minneapolis, of the American association, which pitches its camp at Deland, likely will be met in a three-game series, at least one of the games in Daytona Beach.

BEARDED FOES.

The bearded House of David team—nomads of the bowl and pitcher circuits—also will come to Daytona Beach for a game on March 25.

The Crackers will report at their Florida training base, hard by the glistening beach course where Captain Malcolm Campbell made his record auto dashes, on March 13. Pitchers and catchers will report to Manager Eddie Moore on that date with the rest of the squad all due to check in by March 29.

The team will break camp for its return to Atlanta on March 29 and that date is left open for travel. The club makes its first appearance before the home folks against the Athletics in a Sunday game on March 30. The A.'s, the Red Sox and the Yankees each will play a brace of games here, to be followed by three-game series with the Baltimore Orioles and Buffalo, of the International league.

SUNDAY GAMES.

There will be three Sunday exhibitions at Ponce de Leon park, with the A.'s, the Yankees and Buffalo, which will assure the Crackers of good turnouts on those dates. Two open dates here—April 1 and 8—Probably will be filled in with games with Oglethorpe or Georgia Tech.

The young Cracker officials, Mann and Moore, who are going in for more quality and less quantity this year, plan to carry about 30 players—an average squad—to Florida. In former years, the Crackers have carried as high as 43 players to various camps, half of whom weren't worth their railroad fare, let alone their meals and hotel expenses.

Contracts will be mailed out to all out-of-town players in a week or 10 days, Mann stated. Several players, including First Baseman Harry Taylor, already have been signed.

THE SCHEDULE.

The complete exhibition schedule follows:

March 23—Montreal at Orlando.
March 24—Montreal at Daytona Beach.
March 25—House of David at Daytona Beach.
March 26—Open.
March 27—Open.
March 28—Open.
March 29—Left open for travel.
March 30—Philadelphia Athletics at Atlanta.
March 31—Philadelphia Athletics at Atlanta.
April 1—Open.
April 2—Oglethorpe University at Atlanta.
April 3—House of David at Atlanta.
April 4—Boston Red Sox at Atlanta.
April 5—Boston Red Sox at Atlanta.
April 6—New York Yankees at Atlanta.
April 7—New York Yankees at Atlanta.
April 8—Open.
April 9—Baltimore at Atlanta.
April 10—Baltimore at Atlanta.
April 11—Baltimore at Atlanta.
April 12—Buffalo at Atlanta.
April 13—Buffalo at Atlanta.
April 14—Buffalo at Atlanta.
April 15—Open.
April 16—Season opens.

HELEN REFUSES ANOTHER OFFER

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—In receipt of a new offer to turn professional Helen Jacobs, United States amateur tennis champion, today said she expected to remain in the amateur ranks, at least through 1935.

The new offer from Bill O'Brien, New York promoter, was "considerably higher," she said, than she received yesterday and declined.

She said her 1935 program, including dfense of her American title, already was laid out and she expected to complete it.

Cotton Warburton To Consider Pros

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Given an attractive offer, Irvine (Cotton) Warburton, fleet-footed midget of the University of Southern California football team, might consider joining the professional gridders.

"But I haven't had any offers yet," he said today, spiking rumors he is going to join the Chicago Cardinals.

"It isn't that I'm unwilling, it's simply that I haven't been asked."

Bulldog Mitmen Card Eight Bouts

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 5.—The largest boxing schedule in the history of the sport was announced by H. J. Stegeman, athletic director, for the Georgia boxers here today.

Eight meets, four of which are scheduled for Athens, will be encountered by the Bulldog boxers, who are coached by Clarence Jones, football trainer and swimming coach.

This is the first year that Georgia has met the South Georgia State College boxers. The others on the schedule are old opponents.

THE SCHEDULE.

Jan. 10.—Florida in Gainesville.
Jan. 19.—Clemson at Clemson.
Jan. 25.—South Georgia State College at Statesboro.
Feb. 9.—South Georgia State College at Athens.
Feb. 16.—Clemson in Athens.
Feb. 21.—Florida in Athens.
Feb. 26.—Presbyterian College in Clinton, S. C.
March 2.—Presbyterian in Athens.

Tech Opens Basketball Season With Celtics Wednesday Night

JACKETS START MIXED LINEUP AGAINST PROS

Hyder and Hayes To Be Sophomores in Opening Game.

Georgia Tech's White and Gold cagers will open Atlanta's 1935 college basketball season at the city auditorium on next Wednesday night, with none other than the famous Rosenblum-Celtics, of Cleveland, as opposition.

Coach Roy Mundorff wants his remodeled five to get some real teaching from the pros, hence the booking of the game. It will be Tech's first appearance of the season on the court.

"It's stiff opposition for a starter, I know, but there's no better way to teach the boys how to pass the ball, shoot and guard than by tossing them in there against the Celtics," Coach Mundorff commented.

COLLEGE GAMES.

The Celtics are only first on the list, however. Clemson from South Carolina will be played at Clemson on January 12 and University of Tennessee comes here on January 16. Vandy's Commodores, coached by Josh Cody, visit on January 25, and Georgia comes here on February 2, followed by Auburn.

In other words, five out of Tech's first six opponents are home games.

Coach Mundorff plans to start a mixed team of veterans and sophomores against the Celts Wednesday night. "Primo" Woodall, from Macon, is a sure starter at one forward post with young Lawrence Hays, of Atlanta, from the football squad, a sophomore, likely get the call at the other forward berth.

Johnny Hyder, a sophomore, from Monroe, will start at center. Hyder is one of the best shots on the team. A pair of veterans, Billy Glenn and Gilbert Stacey, will be at guards.

NEW PLAYERS.

This game will afford Coach Mundorff an opportunity to try out several new men, among them Burtz Boulware, formerly of G. M. A., a sophomore, who plays either center or forward; Ernest Tharpe, from Moultrie (brother of Mac and Bob), a forward; Kidd, a guard, from Milledgeville, and Crawford, a center, who saw some service last year.

Dave Center, a valued reserve from Savannah, has quit school.

Following is Tech's schedule for 1935:

January 9—Celtics here.
January 12—Clemson at Clemson.
January 16—Tennessee here.
January 25—Vandy here.
February 2—Georgia here.
February 6—Auburn here.
February 8—Vandy at Nashville.
February 9—Kentucky at Lexington.
February 16—St. Xavier at Cincinnati.
February 18—Tennessee at Knoxville.
February 22—Mercer at Macon.
February 23—Georgia at Athens.

SAY IT AIN'T SO, JOE! CRACKERS WINNERS

the Louisville minor league meeting in November.

"There is our meat," the hungry club owners apparently thought when they spied the blond, ever-smiling Mr. Mann in the lobby of the Hotel Brown. And they all made a rush for him like wolves sighting a defenseless deer.

HE SHOCKED THEM.

But imagine their shock when Mr. Mann rebuffed their fawnings politely but firmly.

Mr. Mann, in fact, succeeded in hurting the feelings of one well-known manager in the league who was trying to sell the Crackers a spavined, windbroken, ex-free agent outfielder for the tidy sum of $2,000, when everybody knew that this particular outfielder had gone begging around the league the past season at the waiver price of $1,000.

"We'll give you $500 for him," Mr. Mann calmly informed the manager. And he stalked out of the room in a huff, only later on to offer the same outfielder to another club for $800.

These are all wholesome signs and Mr. Mann sounded the keynote when he said the Crackers were through playing "Santa Claus" to the rest of the league. And, true to promise, the Crackers have not filled anybody's stocking as yet. They have sold more ball players than they have bought, which is some sort of record for the club anyway.

Furthermore, Mr. Mann went to the mat with Cincinnati over the Harry Kelley case like an old seasoned campaigner. And while he may not get Kelley back, it cannot be said that Atlanta did not put up a fight for him.

Another wholesome sign is reduction of the Cracker roster which is to be taken to training camp to include only players with a conceivable chance to make the squad. In the past, the Cracker training camps have had the appearance of a transient bureau or a bonus army march. And half of them couldn't play baseball as good as a lot of sandlotters that never even get a cup of coffee from a pro club.

This Cracker club of 1935, while it looks pretty good on the face of things, is probably no better than Nashville, by the time the Giants get through stocking it, or New Orleans, by the time Cleveland sends back several of the players taken from there. And it must be recalled that Chattanooga, which tied Atlanta last season for fourth place on the season as a whole, is still in the league and backed by Washington.

TWO QUESTION MARKS.

Besides, the Crackers right now are preceded by two question marks.

There is a question mark at second base where only a rookie, "Nig" Lipscomb from Charlotte, is in prospect right now. And there is a slight question mark attached to the pitching staff, if Kelley doesn't come back. Schmidt, Lindsey and Nelson should be dependable and young "Bud" Thomas is said to be coming back improved from the New York-Pennsylvania league, but four pitchers do not constitute a staff—unless Martin and Williams, the youngsters, come through with something approaching the success which Bill Schmidt enjoyed as a rookie last year.

The rest of the club—outfield of Oana, Harris and Easterling, and catching, where Joe Palmisano holds forth—looks good enough. And three spots on the infield held down by Harry Taylor at first, Buster Chatham at short and Manager Moore at third, should be above reproach.

But there are question marks at second base and on the pitching staff. And the club may need a second baseman and other experienced pitcher before it becomes a serious challenger for the pennant, that the boys are going right on about their merry way of winning in January.

Greatest of the Celtics

'Tournament of Noses' Starts on January 14

Albany Again Mecca for Bird Dog Men As Continental and Southern Amateur Near.

By Jimmy Jones.

Albany, the south Georgia city which annually becomes the focal point of bird dog men of the country, is preparing for its annual "tournament of noses," the "Rose Bowl" of bird-dog champions.

A letter from Mr. Richard Tift, president of the Southern amateur field trials, announces the dates for the two blue ribbon events of field trials in this section, the same being the Continental Field Trial Club's trials which start on Monday week, January 14 and the Southern amateur which will have its running over the Potter and McLean grounds, about 12 miles south of Albany, beginning January 21.

The Continental or "money" stake forerunner of the amateur event, will command first attentionss among the sportsmen. It carries two rich purses, the all-age stakes which has a purse of $1,000—$750 to the winner and $250 to the runner-up—and the derby, which is worth the sum of $750, divided into three prizes.

These two open stakes always attract the "furrin" dogs, as the natives refer to them; in other words, the cream of the canine crop from the east and other sections which are shipped in for the Continental.

The competition among the "pros" is always classy, due to the prizes at stake and the high caliber of dogflesh that will be entered. The Continental all-age and derby will be held over the region known as the Van Cise, Lanier, Davis and Cox places.

In Georgia, plantations are referred to as "places," which happens to be a more convenient and democratic form of reference. The scene of the Continental is about seven miles west of Albany.

GOOD TERRITORY.

Due to its wide expanse of favorable territory, its plentitude of birds and the hospitality of its citizens and the interest they take in these trials, Albany has forged to the front to take the place of Waynesboro, the old jousting ground of the bird-dog men. Not only that, but Albany, through its successful staging of the Continental and the Amateur, has just about taken the play away from other bird-dog centers of the nation.

Large entries are expected in both events this year, rivaling the combined trials of last year, which drew many visitors to this section of Georgia.

The entry list in the Continental is expected to show a big increase this year, due, as aforesaid, to the size of the prize at stake, and the general popularity of this event. The Amateur, which is just what it says and open only to members of the Southern Amateur Club (who are amateurs) are allowed to run dogs in this event, which is always marked by the keenest of competition.

ATLANTANS TO ATTEND.

Several well-known bird-dog owners from Atlanta, including Dr. George Myshrall, whose dog, Watson's Diana, won the derby last year; Major Trammell Scott and Mrs. Walter Rich are expected to have entries in the Albany trials, along with Charley Jordan and Roy Persons from Monticello; Miss Claudia Phelps, of Aiken, S. C., whose Air Circus won the all-age in 1934 and whose Jake's Carolina Boy also figured prominently with second place in the Southern Amateur and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Chubb, of New York, whose dogs will be entered from Springwood plantation, their south Georgia estate.

Shanghai Express, a Boston pointer owned by Dr. F. H. Lahey, won first honors in the all-age trials last year over Chief's Lad Whitestone, Mac's Manitoba and other good dogs.

Roy Persons' Bonfire romped away with the puppy stake.

THE OFFICERS.

Officers of the Continental Field Trial Club are Udo Fleishman, of New York city, president; F. L. Hadkins, of Long Island, N. Y., treasurer, and James W. Tuffs, of Pinehurst, N. C., secretary.

Judges for the Continental will be Raymond Hoagland, of Rumson Farms, N. J., and Mr. Sims, of Union Springs, Ala.

Officers of the Southern Amateur are: Richard Tift, president; G. C. Hamrick, vice president; Joe Rosenberg, secretary, all of Albany, and the Hon. Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, Mr. Roosevelt's ambassador to the court of St. James.

The Southern Amateur Field Trial Club, under whose auspices all events will be staged, is a new but growing organization. This club is a member of the Associated Amateur Clubs of America and any dog placing in the Albany trials is eligible to run in the Amateur Championship of America.

There will be three stakes in all at Albany—the all-age, the derby and puppy.

HEIGHTS SLATES TWO MAIN BOUTS

Promoter Frank Bettis has two main matches scheduled at the Lakewood Heights arena for Thursday night.

In one of the matches, Whittie Patterson, of Panthersville, will meet Charlie Norman, Grant Park, in a no time limit match. The promoter has been trying to get these two wrestlers to meet each other for some time, and it will be the first meeting of the two.

In the semi-final match, Eddie Wagner, former navy champion and a rough man to handle on the mat, will wrestle young Londos, in a 60-minute match. The sailor claims he will defeat the Atlanta boy.

In the opening match, Rusty Williams, Tech High school athlete, and wrestler, will tangle with Leon Fuller in another 60-minute match.

Cedartown All-Stars Beat Cedar Bluff

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Jan. 5.—Cedartown All-Stars defeated Cedar Bluff All-Stars in a postponed New Year's football game here, 13 to 0. Cedartown outclassed the heavier visitors, playing better organized ball with power through the air. Cedar Bluff was probably in plunges through the line. Cedartown scored in the first and third quarters.

The local team was composed of a number of the senior members of the Cedartown High, which won the seventh district championship this year, while the visitors were supplemented with members of the Cedar Bluff High which had not been deefated the past three years.

Max Baer Voted Best Jewish Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, was voted the outstanding Jewish athlete of 1934 in a poll of sports editors conducted by the Spokesman, Jewish weekly. Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers' first baseman, was voted the second outstanding Jewish athlete of the year.

MAX BAER SIGNS FOR MARCH BOUT; HAMAS IS LIKED

Chicago Promoters To Name One of Five Opponents.

By George Kirksey.

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Max Baer's first real battle of 1935 will be in the Chicago stadium the first week of March.

MAX BAER

It will be a 10-round, no-decision bout against any one of five opponents — Primo Carnera, Max Schmeling, Steve Hamas, Art Lasky, or Joe Louis.

Baer and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, have agreed to conditions for this match with Promoters Nate Lewis and Jim Mullen, of Chicago, and their backer, Jim Norris Sr., Chicago Board of Trade millionaire.

The match will be a regulation bout in every respect except that no referee's decision will be given. Baer, however, has agreed to allow a poll of newspapermen to determine the result if he doesn't knock out his opponent as he insists he will.

Lewis and Mullen, who promoted the Baer-Levinsky exhibition in Chicago and the Baer-Babe Hunt exhibition and Joe Louis-Patsy Perroni bout here before 15,853 persons, left tonight for New York to sign Baer's opponent.

HAMAS FAVORED.

It probably will be Steve Hamas, who holds decisions over Lasky and Schmeling.

Baer and his party left for Boston, where the world's champion will appear in an exhibition January 10. He goes to Florida for a series of engagements late in January, and then returns to California to make a picture. As soon as he completes the picture, Baer will come to Chicago to go into action in a campaign he hopes will wipe the heavyweight division clean or develop a real contender.

"There's no opponent the public wants to see me against in a championship bout," said Baer, "so I am going to give them all a chance one after another in 10-round no-decision bouts. I think I can give my decisions the same way I did against King Levinsky.

NEWSPAPERS DECIDE.

"I'm willing to let the newspapermen give the decision if the bout goes the limit. If any man can get the decision over me, then I'll be willing to risk my title immediately in a bout against him."

Baer will receive the champion's percentage of 37 1-2 per cent. He is perfectly willing to take a percentage because Lewis and Mullen have paid him $12,000 for less than six rounds in exhibitions against Levinsky and Babe Hunt within a week.

By participating in a no-decision bout Baer circumvents his contract with Madison Square Garden calling for him to defend his title for that firm during 1935. Baer's handlers insist that the Garden has developed no contender, or shown any signs of developing one and that they feel free to go ahead and make some money while stimulating interest in the boxing game.

Champion To Fight In Tampa Exhibition

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—James Downing, promoter for the 116th field artillery battalion, here, tonight said that Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, had today accepted a four-round exhibition bout with Tony Cancela, 200-pound Tampa youngster, at the Artillery arena here January 21.

Cancela, a stablemate of King Levinsky, whom Baer knocked out in Chicago recently, once was a star football player at Hillsborough High school here, and never has been floored in 50 professional fights and knocked out Corn Griffin in his last start.

Buddy Baer also will appear on the card here against some opponent to be selected. After their appearance here the Baers will go to Miami for exhibition bouts there on January 24.

S. I. J. and Nordau Meet at Alliance

The Jewish Educational Alliance basketball league will get under way this afternoon on the Alliance court on Capitol avenue, after a week's layoff. In the feature game, the S. I. J. Club will oppose the strong Nordau Club quintet. The Strausseans will meet the Nordau "B" Club in the preliminary game, starting at 3 o'clock.

The S. I. J. Club recently went to the finals in the Southern Judaean tournament in Chattanooga, losing in a close game to the Birmingham team, 29-28. In the same tournament the girls' team representing the Jewish Educational Alliance defeated the Chattanooga girls, 14-11, to win the Southern Young Judaean title.

Led by Captain Kulbersh, of the S. I. J. Club, the lineup for this afternoon's feature game will include Kulbersh and Berchanke, forwards; Greenberg, center, and Krick and Stein, guards. The Nordau starting lineup will be: Gershon and Besser, forwards; Goldberg, center, and Ornstein and Glazer, guards.

BULLDOGS OPEN SPRING DRILLS ON JANUARY 28

Football Practice Will Continue for Five Weeks.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 5.—Spring football practice for the Georgia Bulldogs will begin January 28 and continue until March 2, according to an announcement issued here today by Head Coach Harry Mehre.

"It will be a very intensive five weeks of practice," said Coach Mehre, "and we will be especially on the lookout to see if any of the freshman players show good form."

Ten seniors were lost to the Georgia squad this season by graduation and the coaches will be anxious to develop players to take over their work. Men lost by graduation are Captain Charlie Turbeyville, end; Dave "Butch" McCullough and John Brown, guards; John West, Charlie Opper, and Sandy Gunnels, tackles; Tom Perkinson, center; Aubrey "Buck" Chapman, fullback; Joseph Arston "Cy" Grant, right halfback, and Jack Griffith, quarterback.

More than 50 players, including the varsity squad this season, are expected to report on January 28 for the initial practice.

Coach Mehre plans to start the rough body contact work at the end of the first week and start actual scrimmages by the end of the second week of practice. After the initial scrimmage there will be three skirmishes per week, according to present plans.

"We plan to get in about 10 good scrimmages, providing weather conditions are favorable," declared Coach Mehre.

The loss of John Brown and Dave "Butch" McCullough at the guard positions will cause the coaches to concentrate on developing guard material during the spring workouts.

The announcement that Leroy Moorehead, all-Southeastern guard in '33, will return to school next year, will ease the guard situation somewhat. Moorehead was out of school this year during football season due to illness. Frank Johnson, veteran guard, will be the only regular to return with Moorehead.

For the rest of the positions, there are several sophomore and junior players that gained experience this season but the coaches will be watching out for capable reserve material.

Not So Daffy

Mrs. Paul Dean Nominated Arka-Tech Beauty Queen

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Daffy Dean discontinued her college career at Arkansas Polytechnic here when she married the St. Louis pitcher last December 20, but the local student weekly Arka-Tech today, nevertheless, nominated her as "Tech's beauty of 1934-1935."

Mrs. Dean, the former Dorothy Sandusky, was a winner in a local beauty contest a year or so ago.

Her picture, with those of 17 other candidates nominated by various campus groups, will be submitted to Dick Powell, Arkansas movie star, who will make the selections for the college yearbook.

SAVANNAH CLUB PLAYS J. P. C.

The J. P. C. team will take on its strongest opposition of the season for its week-end game in the speedy Savannah Y. M. H. A. Club with many of the stars of the coastal city on its hoster, tonight on the Pryor street court.

The probable lineup of the Savannah club will be: Eddie Mazo, former Benedictine star; Pete and Jake Homansky, veteran Y. M. H. A. players, and Bugger Eicholz, forwards; "Buster" Gottlieb, ace of the club, and "Bubber" Gottlieb, one of the best players in Savannah, centers; Lon Wexler and Little Eiseman, of Savannah High school, as guards.

The Reds will meet the Warren Refrigerator club of the Y-Civic league in the curtain raiser.

Auto Racing Group To Set Campaign

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(UP)—The 1935 automobile racing campaign will be outlined Monday when the contest board of the A. A. U. holds its annual session.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker is chairman of the board. Gar Wood, motor boat king, will be in attendance.

The gasoline limit for cars in the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway is expected to be reduced from 45 gallons to 42 1-2 gallons, by the board.

CRITZ SIGNS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Hughie Critz, veteran second baseman, has returned his signed contract for 1935, it was announced today by the New York Giants baseball club.

Diggs, Armbrust, Cohen Bolster Senator Staff

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Unable to obtain a top-ranking pitcher as yet, Clark Griffith banks on one or more of his youngsters coming through as a winner for Wasnington next season.

The canny swapper of baseball talent professed willingness to unwrap the rubber band around the $250,000 he got from Tom Yawkey for Joe Cronin but said as yet he has heard of no "sensible" propositions.

So his faith and prayers are centered in a trio of rookies—Reese Diggs, Orville Armbrust and Sid Cohen. Diggs, particularly, has attracted Griffith, known as the "Fox" during his pitching days.

Diggs is a raw, 19-year-old kid from Pimlico, Md., but he did so well on the Senators' last road trip that Catcher Luke Sewell reported he had more "stuff" than any of the other righthanders.

"Control and confidence are all he needs," Griff explained, "he's a natural pitcher if I ever saw one. Other green kids have jumped to the majors with little or no seasoning, and Diggs will get his chance."

Griffith likes everything about Armbrust except his avoirdupois. The fat boy has been shaking off weight all winter and may be down to a normal size by spring.

From Sam Holbrook, who joined the Senators from Chattanooga, Griffith heard high praise of Cohen.

Griff has eight other moundsmen, but some will be scissored off the squad. The eight are Earl Whitehill, who had a pretty good year in 1934; Bobby Burke, who looked good in spots; Monte Weaver, an in-and-outer, and Jack Russell, Walter Stewart, Al Thomas, Alec McColl and Ed Linke.

One of Crackers' Aces

Jim Lindsey, the well-known citizen from Baton Rouge, La., "stomping" ground of Huey Long, is among the aces of the Atlanta Crackers' pitching staff which will report at Daytona Beach on March 13. Big Jim, a willing workman, led all the Cracker pitchers in percentage last summer with 10 wins and 3 losses, plus an earned run mark of 3.23 per game—one of the best in the league. And Jim didn't join the Crackers until the season was half gone! Constitution staff photo.

Lavender, Georgia Boy, Recalls Stopping 'Rube'

Old Cub Star Checked Marquard, of Giants, After 19 Straight Wins.

By Kenneth Gregory,
Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTEZUMA, Ga., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Baseball's old-timers, men who fought the diamond duels of bygone days and now have turned to other vocations, can recall many interesting instances of their playing days.

Many words have been written following chats with former big leaguers who remember the times when he was "up there."

Only last summer the famous old pitching record of Rube Marquard, who won 19 straight for the New York Giants in 1912, came into the limelight as Schoolboy Rowe, of Detroit, threatened the mark, only to falter after hurling 16 consecutive victories.

An old-timer, whom many have perhaps forgotten, turned his thoughts from his business affairs today to reminisce of that July afternoon in 1912—his first year in the majors—that he hurled the Chicago Cubs to victory over the Giants, breaking the winning streak of the Rube, who was apparently on his way to an all-time record of 24 straight hung up by A. G. Spalding in 1875 in the old National Association.

"Of course I was glad to win," said the old-timer—Jimmy Lavender, who is connected with a knitting mill corporation here—"but I certainly was sorry for Rube that he couldn't make it 20."

OUT FOR 12 YEARS.

Jimmy has been out of baseball for 12 years, but still is a figure of health and athletic build. His dark hair has begun to gray a little at the temples, but he keeps trim by hunting and fishing.

"As I remember that game," the old-timer recalled, "I had just pitched two days before, shutting out Brooklyn. But Frank Chance played hunches. He had to, pitching me with four or five real pitchers on the bench.

"I think New York made two runs off me in the first inning, and that was all during the game. We made three or four during the fourth and that was all for Rube. He was out. I don't remember who finished for him."

Lavender, a Barnesville, Ga., native, broke into professional baseball under the great Frank Chance, manager of the Cubs then. He remained with Chicago until 1917 when he was traded to the Phillies.

"I believe that the only year wins," Jimmy recalled between puffs on a cigaret, "was the last year of baseball played with Philadelphia. I made up my mind at the end of that year I would quit and told Pat Moran so. They traded me to Cincinnati anyway, but I didn't report.

"For several years I have been connected with the knitting mills. Of course I miss the howl of the fans, but my vacations of hunting and fishing bring as much enjoyment to me at my age as baseball did."

LAVENDER'S RECORD.

Lavender won 16 and lost 13 for the Cubs during his first season. He regards his win over Marquard and a no-run, no-hit game he hurled against the Giants as the highlights of his career. A righthander, he was considered a great spitball pitcher and had a good fast ball.

He was asked what he thought of baseball today as compared with the game when he was in the big show.

"Of course most of the old-timers," Jimmy snapped, "will say the game has gone to hell. I beg to differ if for no other reason than that attendance has increased. Practically every ball park has been added to or larger grand stands have been constructed since my time.

"They are compelled to draw better in order to pay the salaries as compared to ours.

"I do think we played headier ball than now, but the majority of the fans didn't see these inside plays, so for a real show that would interest them it had to be out in the open—that is the home run, something they could see."

NEW YORK OKAYS BOUTS FOR BAER

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today reversed a previous ruling and announced Max Baer, heavyweight champion, would be allowed to fight four-round bouts in this state.

However, the solons, answering a query propounded by Charlie Murray, Buffalo, promoter, ruled that Baer must agree to have a decision rendered by commission officials and must be matched only with first-rate opponents.

Legitimate rivals for the champion, the commission, ruled, include men of the caliber of Primo Carnera, Max Schmeling, Steve Hamas or Art Lasky.

These conditions virtually preclude any possibility of Baer appearing in this state in his four-round barnstorming tour. He would hardly agree to the risk of losing his title by decision over so short a route and all four men named as acceptable rivals would much prefer to await a 15-round title shot and a much bigger purse than they would receive in any four-rounder against the champion.

The commission reversed another previous ruling when it gave Bob Olin, light heavyweight champion, permission to fight an overweight match with John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., negro challenger, in Madison Square Garden January 18.

Heavy Rains Halt Miami Open Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Heavy rains and high winds today caused a postponement until tomorrow of the second 18-hole round of the $2,500 Miami open golf tournament here. The final 36-hole frame, originally scheduled for tomorrow, will be played Monday.

Only about 40 players in the field had completed their second round of play when heavy overcast skies opened up with a heavy downpour which, driven before a strong wind, soon flooded the fairways and made them unplayable.

Tournament officials said that the scores posted by those players would be canceled and the entire field would make a fresh start tomorrow.

Tommy Armour, of Chicago, whose brilliant 66, four under par, led the field at the end of the first 18-hole round yesterday, succeeded in playing only four holes today before the torrential rain caused him to quit. He said it would be impossible for the players to continue further.

JONES LOSES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Vincent Parrille, Argentine heavyweight, held another decision over Bill Jones today but a violent protest of the crowd which saw them in a 10-round bout last night still must have been ringing in his ears.

Newspapermen also said Jones had the better of Parrille.

NATIONAL RACE WILL BE CLOSER, FRICK ASSERTS

League President Sees Stronger Cincinnati Nine, Balanced Loop.

By Ford C. Frick,
President National League.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—It would be expecting a great deal to have as close a finish to the 1935 National league pennant race as we had last year, with the Cardinals and Giants fighting it out right down to the final day of the season, but I look for at least five clubs to figure in the closing drive this year.

The New York Giants, as a result of the deals with Philadelphia for Dick Bartell and George Davis, look to have strengthened themselves at previously uncertain spots to a greater extent than any other club. They are certain to give the World Champion Cardinals a great race, with the Chicago Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates and either the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Phillies or the Boston Braves as a fifth pennant contender. It will take actual play to show what the latter three clubs can do.

NO GAP SEEN.

There should be no such gap between the first and last-place clubs as there was at the finish of the 1934 season, when the Cincinnati Reds were 42 games behind the pennant winners. At least half this gap should be closed because of the active and aggressive team-building conducted by the Reds, as well as other second-division teams. In fact, I will not be surprised if Cincinnati shows more improvement than any other club in the league this year.

The big trade bewteen the Chicago and Pittsburgh clubs, while involving some outstanding performers, does not figure to give either a distinct advantage. It was about an even exchange, on the whole, but the change in uniforms may prove an impetus to the players concerned, including Fred Lindstrom, Larry French, Guy Bush and Babe Herman.

NIGHT BASEBALL.

We look forward with special interest in the National league to the experiment with night baseball. It should be made clear that the league owners were unanimous in deciding to try the experiment, limiting to seven the number of games which any single club can play under the lights. Three clubs, New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, expressed themselves as unwilling this year to play night games, but they are entirely agreeable to having others try out the idea.

At least two clubs, St. Louis and Cincinnati, are certain to install the lighting system. They are prime movers in the experiment but they also urged its definite limitation, this year. Baseball men will watch the results with special interest.

The National league looks forward with keen anticipation to the third annual all-star game with the American league, to be played this year in Cleveland. This has become an event of outstanding national interest. Naturally, we hope to turn the tables on our friendly rivals in this game but we are looking forward also to the hope of turning out a pennant winner able to make it three straight for the National league in the world championship series.

BOBBY PAIRS WITH WHITNEY

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—When Bobby Jones tees off in the best-ball foursome to be held here Sunday for charity, he'll be teamed up with the veteran player who eliminated him from his first major tournament more than 15 years ago.

The world's most famous golfer is paired with Nelson Whitney, known as the "dean of southern golfers," against a pair of flashy-shooting local youngsters, Fred Haas Jr., and Fred Odom II.

Whitney, who has won the southern golf championship more times than any other man, eliminated Bobby when the "grand slam" winner was a mere stripling in the quarter-finals of a southern championship tournament.

But the two will be playing together Sunday against Haas, 18-year-old southern golf champion, and Odom, the local city champion.

Whitney was the first prominent golfer the south ever produced, witnessed by his five southern titles. In the 1934 tournament, Whitney produced the tournament thrill by gaining the quarter-finals through a brilliant field.

Young Haas, who annexed a score of titles last summer and who holds nearly every course record in this city, stroked out a par-shattering round this past week to equal his own course record of 65 over his home course, which has a par of 70.

The Junior League is sponsoring the benefit match Sunday. It will be played over the Metairie golf links here.

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 4.—(AP) Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Jim Londos, king of the heavyweight wrestlers, were invited today by Mayor Harman W. Peery to meet in a mixed bout during the pioneer days celebration, July 20 to 24.

Atlanta Assured of Second Metropolitan Open Golf Tourney

DATE AND SITE WILL BE SET IN FEW DAYS

Bob Harlow, P. G. A. Tourney Manager, To Select Suitable Date.

By Roy White.

Atlanta will sponsor the second annual metropolitan open golf championship in the early spring, it was learned Saturday afternoon. Definite and complete details of the tourney have not been announced, but it was learned from reliable sources that the tourney has been assured for the second successive year.

In fact, members of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the $2,000 event last year on the East Lake course, are working overtime, completing all arrangements for the tourney.

A definite announcement of the date and site of the event will be made within the next few weeks, following more communication with Bob Harlow, tournament bureau manager for the Professional Golfers' Association.

Harlow is now in Florida and will arrange suitable dates for the Atlanta event. It has been planned to hold the tourney during late March or early April, when all of the "big shots" of golf will be en route to their summer posts.

LARGE ENTRY SEEN.

The Atlanta tourney will in no way conflict with any other big tourney in this section and should draw a record field, since the Florida tourneys this winter have recorded larger entries than in former years. A record of 171 entries was filed and started play in the Miami open, which was halted Saturday because of a tropical downpour.

East Lake will most likely be the scene of the tourney, as it affords two courses for practice and play. Both courses are in excellent condition now and will soon be ready for a long summer tournament program.

Ky Laffoon, the young Denver professional, with a fine rally on the final 18 holes won the 1934 tourney and $500 top prize with 286 strokes. John Golden, Noroton, Conn., winner of the 1927 southern open tourney in a playoff with Johnny Farrell, at East Lake, finished second, with Henry Picard, young Charleston pro, and Charley Lacy, Long Island, tied for third place.

Tom Wright, young Knoxville star, won the amateur prize with 312 strokes, finishing four strokes lower than Charlie Black Jr., and Charlie Yates, Atlanta star.

OTHER WINNERS.

Others who finished "in the money" last year were: Paul Runyan, recently voted the outstanding professional last year; Dick Metz, leader of the field through the first 36 holes; John Revolta, Mortie Dutra, Craig Wood, Willie MacFarlane, John Kinder, Jack Toomer, Eddie Miller, Wild Bill Mellhorn, Horton Smith, winner of the masters' invitation tourney at Augusta; E. W. Gann, Tony Manero and Phil Perkins.

Atlanta will send a much larger field against the pros and Charlie Yates, the national intercollegiate champion, will head the city's delegation.

It will be Yates' first of a series of some seven or eight major events of the year. The Georgia Tech star hopes to compete in the Metropolitan open, the Augusta invitation, in which he placed first among the amateurs last year; the national intercollegiate, to defend his crown; the western open and amateur, the national open and amateur, and probably one or two others of national ranking.

Here Is Part of Great Crowd That Welcomed Crimson Tide Home

Here is part of more than 10,000 football followers who braved a cold rain Saturday morning at Tuscaloosa to welcome home the Crimson Tide of Alabama from the great victory over Stanford in the annual Rose Bowl classic. When the Alabama Special pulled into the station the Red Raiders received one of the greatest welcomes ever accorded a football team. A speakers' platform was erected at the station and members of the team were called on to make talks. It was truly a great welcome for a truly great football team. Bands played "Dixie," fire sirens shrieked, factory whistles blew and everybody joined the yelling as the special train bearing the Crimson Tide football team rolled into the station. University classes were suspended so all students could greet the team and hear speeches by Coach Frank Thomas, Dixie Howell, passing star of the Rose Bowl game; Captain Bill Lee, and university and alumni officials. The sad part of it all was that the boys had to return to their studies after the reception. Associated Press photo.

FRONT OFFICES GIVE MANAGERS MORE POWERS

Old Iron-Hand Rule Is Fast Fading Away.

By Paul Mickelson.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Major league baseball managers used to shudder and lose weight every time they thought of the "front office," but nowadays most of them don't even know there is such a place.

Big league managers are really managers again with more power than they possessed or dreamed of in the trick days before baseball became a big business and the anxious club owners ruled their domains with an iron fist, buying and selling players over the meek protests of their field pilots.

Before the current movement began to give the harassed managers more authority, the late John McGraw and Connie Mack stood out as the only two pilots whose word was final in baseball deals. If either of those two wanted to make a deal, fire or hire, they did so and their quick actions resulted in many pennant winners for the Giants and Athletics.

MANAGERS HAVE POWER.

But today. A manager with almost autocratic power over his team is the general rule, not the exception.

The world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, the Cleveland Indians, Cincinnati Reds and Washington still repose most of their faith in the "front office," but all the others depend on their managers with varying degrees of dependency.

Connie Mack, Bill Terry, of the Giants, and Charlie Grimm, of the Cubs, are the standout dictators of their policies among the big league managers today. Closely following them in extent of authority are Rogers Hornsby, of St. Louis' Browns; Joe McCarthy, veteran New York Yankee pilot; Casey Stengel, of Brooklyn; Jimmy Dykes, of the Chicago White Sox, and Mickey Cochrane, of the Detroit Tigers, who gained tremendous headway with Owner Frank Navin by bringing Detroit the American league pennant in his first season at the club's helm, a feat duplicated by Terry.

Jimmy Wilson, of the Phillies; Pie Traynor, of Pittsburgh, and Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, usually confer at some length with their bosses before making deals. Owner Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey do most of the scheming for the St. Louis Cardinals with respectful attention to Manager Frankie Frisch, about the same setup as prevails at Washington, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

GRIMM IS BOSS.

Terry and Grimm almost floored the baseball experts with a show of their power at the trading mart at Louisville last November. Learning the Cubs were about to close a deal with Pittsburgh for Pitcher Larry French and Outfielder Freddie Lindstrom, Terry vowed he would break up all negotiations. He rushed into Pirate headquarters with a deal by which Carl Hubbell, his ace southpaw, would go to Pittsburgh. The Cubs made their deal and Hubbell stuck with the Giants, but few of the experts figured that even Terry could offer Hubbell on the trading block on a minute's notice.

Grimm, who was made vice president of the Cubs after Owner Philip K. Wrigley suddenly desired to clean house and make himself president, still doesn't know his own strength. At Louisville, he wanted to make the deal for French and Lindstrom and anxiously consulted the other Cub officials. They told him he was the boss. So he called Owner Wrigley on the long-distance telephone.

"You are running the ball club," Wrigley replied. "If you see any trades you think will make the Cubs a better club, why go ahead and make them. Do just as you please!"

Grimm is still shaking his head on that one.

Emory Court Loop Opens Jan. 16

Sophomores and Lawyers, last year's champion and runner-up, will meet in the first basketball game of the season at Emory when the intramural league opens on January 16.

The first half of the schedule, released today, calls for the usual four games on Wednesdays and Fridays. League play will continue for seven weeks, with each team encountering each other of the eight teams twice during the season.

NEW RECORD.

Last year's Freshman team, which set a record of being the first Freshman five in the history of the school to win the intramural title, has lost Marvin Sugarman, forward, and Craig Robertson, guard. Both men were named by the student vote on the All-Emory mythical team.

As Sophomores this year, they return Kulbersh and Mauldin, forwards, Beard, center, and Davis and Holland, guards.

The Lawyers, who finished the regular season last year in a tie for the league lead with the Freshmen and lost in the play-off, have been hard hit by graduation. Only "Exy" Gaines is back from last year's squad of six. Cantey, Conyers, Maddox, Turman and Alston are gone.

NEWCOMERS.

Newcomers this year are Nunn, Flournoy, Williams and Camp.

The Juniors and Meds will also have good teams, and these two will meet in the last game on the opening day card.

Practice schedules have already been assigned and all the teams are hard at work. Coaches this season will be: Gene Hauck, Freshmen; Bill Dunn, Sophomores; Pollard Turman, Juniors; Rache Bell, Seniors. The Lawyers, Meds, Graduates and Theologs, as usual, will be without regular coaches. Albert Quillian is student manager in charge of basketball.

The schedule for the first half:

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16.
4:00—Sophs vs. Lawyers.
5:00—Frosh vs. Grads.
7:00—Seniors vs. Theologs.
8:00—Juniors vs. Meds.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 18.
4:00—Lawyers vs. Theologs.
5:00—Sophs vs. Grads.
7:00—Frosh vs. Meds.
8:00—Seniors vs. Juniors.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 23.
4:00—Lawyers vs. Meds.
5:00—Juniors vs. Theologs.
7:00—Frosh vs. Seniors.
8:00—Sophs vs. Meds.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 25.
4:00—Seniors vs. Grads.
5:00—Juniors vs. Lawyers.
7:00—Theologs vs. Meds.
8:00—Sophs vs. Frosh.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30.
4:00—Frosh vs. Juniors.
5:00—Lawyers vs. Seniors.
7:00—Sophs vs. Theologs.
8:00—Grads vs. Meds.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1.
4:00—Theologs vs. Grads.
5:00—Lawyers vs. Frosh.
7:00—Seniors vs. Meds.
8:00—Sophs vs. Juniors.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6.
4:00—Seniors vs. Sophs.
5:00—Frosh vs. Theologs.
7:00—Juniors vs. Grads.
8:00—Lawyers vs. Meds.

Grant Given Third Rank In Miami Net Tourney

Atlanta Star Plays Florida Boy Today; Sidney Wood Tops Favored List.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, ranked by the United States Lawn Tennis Association as 1934's No. 2 player, today received top seeding in the Miami Biltmore championship, in which play begins tomorrow.

Berkeley Bell, also of New York and ranked seventh by the U. S. L. T. A., was seeded No. 2 in 1935's first showing of amateur tennis strength, while the south's "giant-killer," Bryan M. Grant Jr., of Atlanta, received third seeding.

The remaining five seeded players, in order, were J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J.; Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of New York; Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla.; Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., and Carroll Turner, of Miami.

Hall is eastern clay courts champion and fourteen on the national rankings for last year. Dr. McCauliff is seventeen. Guernsey is the 17-year-old high school boy recently crowned state single champion. Hendrix is the former single champion, and Turner is Florida's Number Four player.

Marcel Rainville, Number One of the Canadian Davis Cuppers, received the lone foreign seeding. The tournament, which will last throughout the week, winding up the singles next Saturday and the doubles the following day, will have a field of 60.

As the seeding was drawn, Bell, Turner, Hendrix, Hall and Rainville were grouped in the upper bracket to fight it out for a final berth, barring upsets.

In the lower bracket, the Number One seeded entrant, Wood, one of the two American players to reach the semi-final round of the national championships last year, was grouped with young Guernsey, his likely quarter-final opponent, Grant and McCauliff.

Having drawn first round byes in play for the Colonel Henry L. Doherty trophy, held for the last two years by George Lott, of Chicago, now a professional, Bell, William Bragawn, of South Orange, N. J., and McCauliff automatically advanced into the second round.

Grant plays Phil Hutcheson, of Orlando, Fla., in the first round tomorrow; Wood faces Larry Larson, of Peoria, Ills., Hall opposes H. A. Burkland, of Miami, while Rainville plays E. Hoebel, also of Miami.

Purples To Defend Tank Title in April

Boys' High will defend its southeastern prep and Y. M. C. A. swimming crown, April 20, in the second annual Y. M. C. A. meet, it was announced Saturday.

The event will include some of the best swimmers in Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida.

Several unusually strong entries are expected from Florida and already Howard Thorne, former Atlantan, has entered a team from St. Petersburg, Florida.

Three Atlanta schools, Boys' High, Tech High and G. M. A., will enter teams along with McCallie, of Chattanooga; Knoxville, Athens and Savannah.

Reds Meet Tigers In 13 Spring Games

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Just about the stiffest sort of competition they can get will be handed out to the Cincinnati Reds, 1935 edition, it was announced today.

The youngsters figured on to make the team will have to prove themselves in 13 "grapefruit league" contests with the Detroit Tigers, champions of the American league last year.

"It's the kind of competition Dressen wants," explained Larry MacPhail, general manager of the club. "Not only will our recruit hitters have to face some of the best pitchers of the American league, but on the other hand, our young pitching recruits like Schott, Herrmann, Hollingsworth, and the rest will have to face the task of fooling hitters like Goose Goslin, Cochran, Hank Greenberg and Gehringer.

"We figure our youngsters will profit a lot more from this kind of competition than easy pickings, so we went out and booked these games with Detroit."

The schedule:

March 17 at Tampa, Fla.; April 2 at Lakeland, Fla.; April 4 at St. Augustine, Fla.; April 5 at Savannah, Ga.; April 6 at Charleston, S. C.; April 7 at Charlotte, N. C.; April 8 at Columbia, S. C.; April 9 at Florence, S. C.; April 10 at Durham, N. C.; April 11 at Lynchburg, Va.; April 12 at Charleston, W. Va., and April 13 and 14 at Cincinnati.

Tigers' Exhibitions Limited to Majors

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—(UP)—The Detroit Tigers' schedule of preliminary games with major league teams was announced tonight.

No games will be played with minor league teams. Major league teams on the Tiger schedule include Cincinnati, Brooklyn, St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Braves, Boston Red Sox and the Philadelphia Nationals.

Spring training will start March 3 at Lakeland, Fla., for pitchers and catchers, while infielders have been ordered to report a week later. The spring training schedule provides for 25 games only.

PURPLES BEATEN BY ALBANY, 26-24

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 5.—Albany High school basketball Indians defeated the Purples of Boys' High here tonight, 26 to 24, staving off a gallant rally at the end that threatened to give Coach Johnston's boys victory after the Braves had led most of the way.

Overcoming a 6-4 lead the Purple lads accumulated in the first quarter the Indians ran wild in the second to lead, 18 to 10 at the half-way mark. In their zeal, however, the Redskins accumulated many fouls and Toby and Dan Royal, regular Redskin guards, were banished for four offenses each.

This not only weakened the Warriors' defense but slowed up their offense and the Purple was steadily cutting down the lead when the final whistle blew.

The lineup and score:

ALBANY (26)	Pos.	B. HIGH (24)
Allen (2)	F.	(9) Echols
Beck (5)	F.	(8) Ginsburg
Brown (14)	C.	(4) Bagby
T. Royal (5)	G.	(2) House
D. Royal	G.	(1) Breed

Subs—Albany: Cook, Stripling, Davis, Williams; Boys' High: Trailer, Boyd, Plait.

LOUGHRAN WINS.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia's veteran heavyweight, tonight outpointed Arturo Godoy, of Chile, in a 12-round bout. Former light-heavyweight champion of the world, Loughran gave Godoy a boxing lesson in gaining revenge for the unpopular draw decision to which the Chilean held him in their first meeting several weeks ago.

EMORY GOLFERS SCHEDULE MATCH

Only one match, with Marysville (Tenn.) has been carded thus far for the Emory varsity intercollegiate golf team, but the rest of the schedule is already being drawn up for the 1935 season.

The Emory team lost only one match last year and gained victories over six southern teams. It put in its claim for the southern college links title.

The No. 1 foursome from last year, Chambers and Horacek, has been lost by graduation. Albert Stubbs and Epps Brown, who composed the highly victorious No. 2 foursome, are both back in school, but may not be able to play because of the press of school work.

All four members of last year's freshman team are back and are bidding for varsity berths.

Jack Bothamley and Crawford Rainwater, the No. 1 freshman foursome, are practically certain to win varsity berths. Raymond Menkee and Marvin Smith are other leading candidates.

'Bronko' Nagurski, Grid Terror, To Wrestle Here on Tuesday

"Bronko" Nagurski, football's famous "big nag" and great backfield man of the Chicago Bears, will come to Atlanta for the first time in the role of wrestler on Henry Weber's weekly show at the Atlanta auditorium next Tuesday night.

He will appear against "Whitey" Hewitt in the one-hour, two-out-of-three-falls match.

Nagurski, who devotes his time profitably to playing football with the Bears in the fall and wrestling in the winter and summer, has made rapid strides in the latter profession and is said to be a very colorful performer.

Paul Jones, the hook scissors king from Texas, has been matched against Dory Roche in the main 90-minute match of the Weber show, which, along with a preliminary to be added, assures a lively card at the auditorium by way of continuing what Promoter Weber hopes to be an exciting new year in the mat game here.

Nagurski, who is the star blocking back of the Bears, applies the spectacular football tactics to wrestling. In the veteran Hewitt he will meet a tough foe, who will match him with roughness and a certain amount of skill gained in long campaigning.

Nagurski, prior to turning pro football player and wrestler, was an All-American backfield man at the University of Minnesota.

Popular prices will prevail for the show, tickets being on sale at the Piedmont Hatters.

BRONKO NAGURSKI.

It Takes Determination In Bowling—Clarke

Winner of Last Year's U. S. 'Stakes Says Will to Win Is 40 Per Cent of Battle.

By Jack Troy.

What is the secret of bowling success? What are the factors that combine to lift a bowler out of the ranks and put him on top?

Well, Astor Clarke, of Washington, who won the United States sweepstakes last year with a score of 2,036, and holds several world's records, says they are almost too numerous to mention. But here are a few of the factors as listed by Clarke, who is ranked No. 2 nationally by the United States Duckpin congress:

Co-ordination, timing, a will to win, concentration and physical stamina are factors.

Clarke thinks determination is at least 40 per cent of the battle. Timing and concentration are indispensable factors and stamina is one of the most important qualifications.

STAMINA REQUISITE.

"Stamina is one of the real assets necessary in a sweepstakes. The last ball of a 15-game set has to be rolled with the same steadiness and accuracy as the first. A fellow who hasn't got the physical strength doesn't stand a chance."

Clarke was asked what he would do if he were suddenly to turn instructor. What would he tell his pupil?

"First," said Clarke, "I would develop his or her footwork and rhythm. There has to be a definite co-ordination between hands and feet. A bowler who doesn't deliver a ball the same way each time is wasting time. It takes practice, of course. Work and lots of it is required. But there must be rhythm. There must be co-ordination between arms and legs or hands and feet."

Clarke doesn't think luck plays much part in big league bowling, whether it be in leagues or sweepstakes. "It is all a matter of hitting the 'pocket.' A fellow might get hot in one or two games, but it is unlikely that he could keep up the pace in say, 15 games.

CONCENTRATION.

"Making up your mind to do a thing—concentration on the headpin—make for the better class of bowler."

Clarke extended his right hand and showed finger nails torn off on the inside corners. This is caused by the "stuff" he puts on the ball. Clarke puts a reverse spin on the ball and it's tough on finger nails. Fact is, it breaks them off at the corners. And Clarke is no Chinese. He keeps his nails trimmed.

Some of the world's records held by Clarke include: High 20-game set, 2,757; high 25-game set, 3,332; high 35-game set, 4,609, with Lorraine Gulli, two mixed doubles records, set in Atlanta last February. They were high five-game set, 1,301, and high 10-game set, 2,529.

In addition, Clarke holds numerous New England records and has the distinction of having bowled with every team that has broken world's records in recent years.

QUITE A BOWLER.

He is quite a bowler is Astor Clarke. And he believes in himself.

"Say, look at this record book," he said. "Astor Clarke is all through it. Maybe next year I won't be able to find my name in there. But it is really there this year." And so it is.

So if you want to improve your bowling game follow Astor Clarke's advice. Work on your rhythm. Concentrate on your hands and feet and the head pin. Believe in your ability to make a strike every time. Practice on this for a few years and you may win a place on a team. On the other hand, you may become one of bowling's noblemen.

It's really worth a try because bowling great fun. Then, too, look at the exercise you would get.

Southeastern Net Meet Scheduled

The second annual southeastern intercollegiate invitation tennis tournament will be held here May 16, 17 and 18, it was announced Saturday by George Griffin, sponsor of the event.

The tournament will be open to schools in both the Southeastern and Southern conferences and others not affiliated with either conference.

Billy Reese, Georgia Tech star who last year went to the semi-finals in the national intercollegiate tourney, won the event last year.

At least 20 colleges are expected to enter the second annual tournament.

Mansfield Loses To Palmer Stone

OXFORD, Ga., Jan. 5.—Howard Cook led the Palmer Stone Wildcats to a 29-to-19 victory over Mansfield here tonight. The girls' team also defeated Mansfield's team 42 to 12, with Ruth Butler and L. Neely being the offensive stars.

Harwell played well for Mansfield.

Wednesday the Wildcats play Georgia Tech freshmen in Atlanta. The Wildcats hold a victory over the Oglethorpe freshmen.

DOG SHOW.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Three hundred canines will enter the third annual dog show here January 17-19, officials of the Florida Year Round clubs announced tonight. Owners having entries in the show include the most outstanding dog fanciers in the United States, Canada and England. George S. Thomas, of South Hamilton, Mass., will judge all classes and championships.

U. S. G. A. Faces Problem Holding Its Membership

By Bob Cavagnaro.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—While the United States Golf Association closed 1934 with a balance of $4,649, Herbert Jaques, of Boston, the retiring president, today warned the annual meeting that unless the association's club membership roster was increased during the current year continued curtailment of activities would be necessary.

Jaques ended 10 years with the association, the last two as its chief executive, with this warning and then turned the gavel over to Prescott S. Bush, of Greenwich, Conn., who, along with other officers and members of the executive and nominating committees, were unanimously elected by a single ballot cast by the secretary.

Harkening back to the days of 1929 when the U. S. G. A. had 1,129 clubs on its roster, Jaques disclosed that the present membership is only 839 and said that 65 clubs resigned last year.

"Of necessity this diminishing membership has forced a curtailment of activities," he said, "and unless the membership is increased curtailment must continue."

Before retiring Jaques announced that the 18-hole matches in connection with the women's national championship at Interlachen, Minneapolis, next August, would be held in the afternoons of the four days they run instead of the mornings to attract larger galleries.

Triangles To Meet Poe Blue Eagles

The F. W. Poe Manufacturing Co., large cotton mill at Greenville, S. C., is sending its strong Blue Eagle five here next Saturday to play the Triangles.

On Thursday the Triangles journey to LaGrange to meet the Y. M. C. A. team.

Joe McCrorey, although not yet ready for play, has reported to the squad and taken over the coaching duties. Mike Hudson, former Tech and A. A. C. player, has greatly strengthened the team. Mike makes the fourth giant on the squad, Bill Underwood, Hewell Kelley and Bill Tate all being well over six feet tall.

Bryan Grant Ranked Tenth by Tennis Heads; Allison Is First

ATLANTA STAR LOSES GROUND; JACOBS FIRST

Bitsy, Parker Sixth in Doubles; Queen Helen Holds Place.

By Bob Cavagnaro.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Wilmer L. Allison, of Austin, Texas, "the man who wasn't wanted" last year on the Davis cup team, today was placed at the head of America's 1934 "first 10" tennis players by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, which included two professionals in the select group for the first time.

While Allison's selection for top honors was a reward for his remarkable showing in the 1934 championship final against Fred Perry, of England, after he had been hastily summoned to England for Davis cup duty upon arrival to be told he wasn't wanted, the tennis fathers were obliged, by their own rule, to rank Lester Rollo Stoefen and George Martin Lott Jr. doubles champions, who recently turned pro, placing them at No. 5 and 6, respectively. They also retained their ranking as the top doubles team.

Guided by a rule which specifies that a player who still is an amateur on October 15, when the date for ranking consideration expires, is entitled to ranking, Walter Merrill Hall, president of the U. S. L. T. A., said:

Lott-Stoefen Ranked.

"A fellow who has played all year as an amateur is entitled to ranking. No player who has turned professional before October 15 should be ranked." Lott and Stoefen did not relinquish their Simon-pure status until several weeks after the deadline.

An almost similar situation developed in 1926 when Vincent Richards turned to the commercial field but the U. S. L. T. A. did not rank him for that year because he had joined C. C. Pyle's barnstorming troupe with Suzanne Lenglen on October 1.

For the third consecutive year, Helen Hull Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., was placed at the top of the women's "first 10." Miss Jacobs has won the championship for three consecutive years. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Brookline, Mass., who was a finalist in the 1934 championship, was ranked second, and Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles, was placed at No. 3.

Allison's choice marks a promotion for the agile Texan, who was ranked No. 2 for the past two years, and makes the seventh consecutive year he has been placed in the first 10. Were it not for the omission of Lott's name from the front ranks in 1932, his choice this year would have made it nine straight for the veteran Chicagoan.

WOOD SECOND.

Second place was awarded to Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, generally recognized as the country's foremost singles player, while Frank X. Shields, who topped the list last year, and two months ago launched a career in motion pictures, dropped to No. 3.

From there on the list is barely recognizable from last year's ranking, although only two of the 1933 names are missing. Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, N. J., twice former indoor champion, dropped from No. 5 to No. 13, and Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal., No. 9 last year, was omitted because he turned pro last summer.

Frankie Parker, the Lawrenceville, N. J. schoolboy, advanced four notches to No. 4, taking the place accorded last year to Clifford Sutter, former intercollegiate titlist, who fell to eighth. Stoefen's ranking is a demotion from No. 3 last year, while Lott's rating represents a rise from tenth place to sixth.

Seventh place went to Berkeley Bell, one of the game's outstanding "in and outers," who was graded 18th in 1933. J. Donald Budge, the Oakland (Cal.) "red head," is a newcomer to the list, rated ninth, and Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, the fiery little Georgian, dropped from seventh to tenth.

THE RANKINGS FOLLOW.

Men's National Singles—1934.

1. Wilmer L. Allison, Austin, Texas.
2. Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York.
3. Frank X. Shields, New York.
4. Frank Parker, Milwaukee, Wis.
5. Lester R. Stoefen, Los Angeles.
6. George M. Lott Jr., Chicago.
7. Berkeley Bell, New York.
8. Clifford Sutter, Hartford, Conn.
9. J. Donald Budge, Oakland, Cal.
10. Bryan M. Grant Jr., Atlanta.
11. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia.
12. C. Gene Mako, Los Angeles.
13. Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J.
14. J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J.
15. John McDiarmid, Fort Worth.
16. Jack Tidball, Los Angeles.
17. Eugene H. McCauliff, Yonkers.
18. Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C.
19. Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn.
20. Henry Prusoff, Seattle.
21. E. W. Feiblemian, New York.
22. Edward Jacobs, Baltimore.

Here Are Two Happy Young Men

HALF-MILE WON BY CUNNINGHAM

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, holder of the world's indoor and outdoor record at one mile, swung back into competition on the boards tonight with a thrilling victory over Gene Venzke, of the University of Pennsylvania, in the 800-meter run at the Knights of Columbus track and field meet.

With the same relentless stride that carried him over a mile in 4:08.4 on the Madison Square Garden banked track and 4:06.7 over the cinder track at Princeton to establish new world marks last year, Cunningham stepped to the front one and a half laps from the finish and then staved off the brilliant stretch challenge of Venzke, himself one-time holder of the indoor record for the mile.

Less than two yards separated the pair at the finish, while William Ray, of Manhattan College, closed fast to nip Harry Williamson, University of North Carolina ace. Cunningham, preparing for more important battles against his arch rival, Bill Bonthron, was clocked in 1:57, considered remarkable time for the flat boards.

Venzke, trying a comeback after trailing Bonthron and Cunningham consistently last year, stepped to the front at the bark of the gun while Cunningham and Williamson, running wide to escape the jam on the first curve, dropped back to fifth and last in the field of seven, respectively.

The smooth-striding Pennsylvanian continued to show the way through the second lap with Ray in second place but both Williamson and Cunningham had moved up to where they were less than three yards back of the leader. With the start of the third lap, Williamson, his long stride working like a clock, collared Venzke and swept to the front by a margin of a few feet over Venzke and Cunningham.

They were coming down the back stretch on the next to the last lap, when the Kansan made his bid. He turned on the steam and in a few strides was winging along in front by two yards with Williamson second, a like distance in the van of Venzke.

The race appeared to be a runaway when the gun announced the start of the final lap and Cunningham rapidly was leaving his rivals far behind. Venzke still had something left, however, but found himself some five feet short as they hit the tape. Venzke was clocked in 1:57.3 while Ray, who caught the tiring Williamson in the home stretch, was caught in 1:58.8. The southerner's time was 1:59.

George Gammon Jr., University of North Carolina sophomore, ran one of the gamest races of the night to place third in the second of the 1,000-meter handicap runs. Handicapped at 15 yards, the southerner staged a great finish on the last lap to place third, only five yards back of the winner, W. Scott, of New York, who received an allowance of 60 yards. F. Rote, of New York, another 60-yard man, was second. The time was 2:32 1-10, five and six-tenths seconds faster than the winning time in the first race.

Charlie Yates Invited To Play At St. Augustine

Charlie Yates, Georgia Tech's national intercollegiate golf champion, has been invited to participate in a four-ball pro-amateur tournament early in March in St. Augustine, Fla., it was learned Saturday.

The Tech star recently returned from Miami, where he participated in a Christmas holiday tourney, and it was in Florida that he was invited to play in the big St. Augustine meet. The pro-amateur will be worth $2,500 to the professionals and suitable trophies and prizes for the amateur winners.

DATE MAY CONFLICT.

Yates was undecided Saturday whether or not he will accept the St. Augustine tourney. He hopes to compete in as many events as possible this year and would like very much to play in Florida, but the dates may conflict with other events.

When asked about Tech's golf team for 1935, Yates was optimistic. "We have Berrien Moore, Charlie Dannals, John Ridley and myself left from last year, with Billy Street and Norman Smith, a Mississippi boy, having a chance to make the team," he said. Street has been playing good golf for the past year and should be a valuable addition to the Jacket team.

TECH SCHEDULE.

Tech will play a number of matches with southern colleges and will most likely participate in the national intercollegiate again. The Jacket golfers finished among the low scorers in team play last year and in addition to Yates winning the crown, Frank Ridley, city amateur champion, supplied the sensation of the meet by going to the semi-finals where he was eliminated by Yates.

An eastern trip for the golf team is being mentioned, but nothing definite has been decided as yet.

On the Links

EAST LAKE.

East Lake golfers missed the regular weekly blind bogey tourney Saturday afternoon for the first time in more than a year. The cold wind sent a majority of the city's golfers hovering to radiators, and George Sargent decided to have an "off day" from the weekly play.

In the absence of the tourney, some 50 odd golfers played over the old course, to keep their record of consecutive weekly play intact.

It was announced that the regular Sunday afternoon dog fight tourney will be played today over the No. 2 course, starting at 1 o'clock. The entries must be in the golf shop by 12:30 o'clock so that the pairings can be made early.

BELL LEAVES.

George Bell, manager of the East Lake Country Club, will leave Monday morning for Arcadia, Fla., to spend some three or four weeks, on a hunting and fishing trip.

WHITE WINNER IN PIN TOURNEY

victory in almost 20 years of competition.

Tronsky won $250 as runner-up. He won in the National Duckpin Congress in the spring.

Paulie Harrison, of Washington, finishing his last block in great style, won third place with a score of 1,892. His prize was $50. Ed Blakney, also of Washington, finished fourth with 1,887. He also won $50.

GET FEE BACK.

Prize winners were not eligible for series or block prizes so Gordon Caldwell, Richmond; Tony Santini, of Washington, and Joe Harrison, of Washington, won back their $50 entry fees.

White rolled the highest single game of the sweepstakes, which was the third largest United States sweepstakes ever held. The entry of 29 was only eight shy of the sweepstakes record. White had a triple-header strike and a score of 171 for the big game of the event.

John Blick and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the one who worked to land the sweepstakes for Atlanta, and the other, tournament sponsor, were highly pleased. They could not have hoped for a greater success.

Nine cities were represented. They included Washington, Willimantic, New Haven, Richmond, Annapolis, Baltimore, Bridgeport, Fairfield, Mass., and Atlanta.

The entry of 29 almost doubled Washington's entry of 16 last year and was well ahead of Richmond's entry of 22 the year before.

ATLANTANS.

None of the Atlanta bowlers finished in the money but, for the most part, performed in a highly creditable fashion on the alleys. Aloysius Sossong led the Atlanta bowlers with a score of 1,792 and George McKay was next with 1,789.

George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckpin Bowling congress, was greatly pleased with the sweepstakes.

"I think this event will have much bearing on bringing the National Duckpin Congress to Atlanta in 1937," Isemann said.

The 15 games progressed without a hitch, so to speak, and were attended by a capacity crowd. Mr. Blick and Mr. Isemann presented White with a wreath of red roses, a gift of the Ansley hotel, at the conclusion of the sweepstakes.

It was a very memorable day in the history of Blick's bowling stadium in the Belle Isle garage. It was the first national tournament Atlanta has had. And it was one of the most successful on record.

Klick Begins Work For Bout With Ross

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Frankie Klick, of San Francisco, today began training in a Miami gymnasium for his January 24 fight with Barney Ross for the latter's junior welterweight title.

He weighed 132 after the drill with the bag and ropes, which meant he must take on four pounds before the return engagement with the Chicagoan in the new Miami stadium. Klick fought Ross to a draw in San Francisco last March.

The Ross-Klick fight will be over 12 rounds. Also on the card announced by Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, are Max Baer, heavyweight champion, his brother, Buddy, and Joe Knight, light-heavy title aspirant.

Opponents for the Baers and Knight have not been definitely decided upon.

HOWARD WINS.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Howard University opened its basketball season here tonight by defeating Delaware State College, 39 to 18.

Joe Louis Signed For 10-Round Bout

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Joe Louis, negro heavyweight who scored a sensational victory over Paty Perroni in Detroit last night, has been signed for a 10-round bout here next Friday, Jules Back, local promoter, announced tonight.

Louis' opponent has not been obtained, but Beck seeks Johnny Risko, Charley Massera, Art Lasky or Frankie Simms to oppose him.

Ruth's First Home Run Aided Peace Measure

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Connie Mack, leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, looks upon the recent visit to Japan of the American League All-Stars as "one of the greatest peace measures in the history of nations."

Babe Ruth's first home run carried a wedge of friendship which dispelled an atmosphere of ill feeling and war sentiment, Mack, who was in charge of the expedition, said tonight.

"When we landed in Japan the American residents seemed pretty blue," he observed, "the parley on the naval treaty was on, with America blocking Japan's demand for parity.

"There was strong anti-American feeling throughout Japan over this country's stand. Things didn't look good at all.

"And then—Babe Ruth smacked a home run, and all the ill feeling and underground war sentiment vanished just like that!"

PREP QUINTETS TO OPEN YEAR WITH 9 GAMES

Commercial, Tech High Set Pace in Busy Week.

By Roy White.

After a few scattered games, Atlanta's prep basketball teams will move into high gear this week, with nine games definitely scheduled and several others likely to be played before the end of the week.

Commercial High, newest member of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association and the Big Four, will head the list with three games, with Tech High and Druid Hills playing two each.

Boys' High returned home Sunday from a successful invasion of Macon and Albany, and will play Commercial High Wednesday afternoon on the Henry Grady court. The Macon and Albany games were the first for the Purples this year, and Coach Johnston was well pleased with the showing of his team.

Tech High, winner of the city title and runner-up to Lanier for the state crown last year, opens the week's program Tuesday afternoon with Carnesville High on the Henry Grady court. The Smithies, with a veteran team, plus several capable reserves, have made the best showing thus far, winning four straight games on the road just before the holidays.

Not only is the Smithie varsity playing excellent ball, but the reserves are setting a fast pace and give the varsity plenty of trouble in scrimmages.

Following the Tuesday game, Tech High plays Canton on Friday afternoon on the Henry Grady court.

The highlight of the week's program will be presented Friday, when four games will be played. Canton plays at Tech High, Griffin plays at Russell, G. M. A. plays Commercial on the J. P. C. court, and Druid Hills plays at Monroe with Monroe High.

The schedule:

TUESDAY.

Carnegie at Tech High.
Russell-Commercial at J. P. C.

WEDNESDAY.

Commercial at Boys' High.

FRIDAY.

Canton at Tech High.
G. M. A.-Commercial at J. P. C.
Druid Hills at Monroe High.
Griffin at Russell.

SATURDAY.

Hogansville at Druid Hills.
Russell at Marietta.

BULLDOGS NOSE MOCCASINS, 28-26

By Bill Ray.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 5.—The Georgia Bulldogs barely nosed out the Chattanooga Moccasins here tonight, 28 to 26, in a hotly contested basketball game which found the two quintets at a tie score five times during the game. The victory gave Georgia four straight wins for the season.

With only two minutes left to play the score was tied, 26-26, but Jimmy Moore, Georgia forward, brought the spectators to their feet with a neat shot from near the foul line to put Georgia out in front, 28 to 26. Both teams were playing furiously in the closing minutes and although the ball changed hands several times, Georgia managed to keep the two-point lead.

KLEIN LEAD.

Bob Klein, lanky Moccasin center, and Frank Johnson, Georgia forward, staged a desperate battle for high point honors. Klein shot nine points in the second half, making 15 points in all while Johnson scored 11.

Both Georgia and Chattanooga played a fast and furious brand of ball to keep the 2,200 spectators keyed up throughout the entire game. The passing attack of the Moccasins was better than last night when Georgia won, 32 to 27.

Georgia drew first blood when Johnson scored on a long shot, but Blazek, of Chattanooga, retaliated for the first tie score. Throughout the first half the score was tied three times with Georgia leading, 15 to 14, at the mid-point.

JOHNSON GOOD.

Frank Johnson, speedy Bulldog forward, led the Georgia attack during the first period while Bob Klein was the Chattanooga star throughout. Dan Bowden, Atlanta forward for the Bulldogs, came through in the second period with six points to lead the Georgia scoring for that period.

High School Star Dies in Kentucky

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Jan. 5.—(AP)—For the second time in a week, death entered the ranks of Scott County High school basketball teams, John Henry Kettenring, 17, succumbed after a short illness.

He was a guard on the Great Crossing High school team. Last week, Harold Lloyd Wright, 18, a forward on the Oxford High five, died. A scheduled game between the two teams, last night, was called off.

Harry Mehre Halts Law Course Study

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 5.—Coach Harry Mehre was undecided tonight about entering law school until he began to think about his spring football practice with the Georgia Bulldogs, which starts January 28.

But after thinking about that spring football he decided that he would not enter law school this quarter but would wait until the last quarter when all football for the year would be over.

Coach Mehre has one year and a half of law school work completed already.

THERE'S A ROAD TO TRAVEL.

There's a road to travel—there's a road ahead,
A road that is none too long—
There's a road that is dark where the fogs are spread,
And few have the time for song—
You can't turn back—and you can't turn away
As you slog along to the final day.

There's a road to travel—that is full of rocks,
A road that the weary know—
Where the ghost of failure and defeat still mocks
No matter the way you go—
There's a road to travel, where men are made,
And God help the quitter who shirks the grade.

There's a road to travel—where storms blow in,
A road that will test the soul—
A road of failure, defeat and sin,
Where hate and greed block the goal—
But never a road where the fighting heart
Can't carry the load from the first rough start.

CHAMPIONS AND THEIR CHANCES FOR 1935.

No. 3—The Cardinals.

Winners of the National league championship—winners of the World Series—who is going to stop the two Deans in 1935?

After a slow start, with any number of breaks against them, the Cardinals came roaring through in one of the greatest finishes any league has ever known and from there on they moved along into the baseball championship of the world.

Who is to beat them for the National league pennant in this next year?

DEAN.

The Cubs should be better, but the rest of the league is a guess. The Cardinals are no guess with the two Deans on the job.

Dizzy and Daffy took care of 49 ball games last season, with Paul, the younger, out of action for some time.

This year they should be good for over 50 games, and that is something to shoot against if Frank Frisch can dig up two pitchers who can win 16 or 18 games each.

In addition to the two deans the Cardinals still have Frisch—a great infielder—Ducky Wucky Medwick, a star outfielder—Pepper Martin, a great ball player—no matter where you put him. They still have Collins and several others who can play their share of baseball.

But, above all, they have the two Deans—two young stars still short of their prime.

To my mind, Dizzy Dean is one of the greatest pitchers I ever saw—and I'll go back to Matty in his prime and work on through Johnson, Walsh, Alexander and any one you can name.

He has everything a great pitcher needs—brains, ice water veins, speed, perfect control—a great competitive nature—and, above all, control of a fast curve ball—the one feature that made Rube Waddell one of the stars of all time.

Hard to Beat.

The Cardinals will be a team to beat this year. Frank Frisch is a winning type—smart, hard-boiled, on the job. The Deans are winning types. So is Pepper Martin. So is Medwick.

So is Collins. They look to me to be the ball club of the year.

This game of sport is hard to guess in advance. Too many things can happen. But I like winning types. This is the reason I liked Alabama. There is something inside—as well as outside. In fact, there is more inside—than there is outside.

A Story On Howell.

"I'll tell you another story on Dixie Howell," Frank Thomas said just before he started back."

"We scrimmaged Dixie eight minutes before the first game we played in late September and 10 minutes before the next game. That was the last scrimmage he had. I figured he was far too valuable a player to take any risk. I also knew that he knew all his stuff and could come through in a game. He is the type that doesn't need the grind—a genius that you seldom see. I still say that he is the best all-around back that I ever saw and this includes George Gipp and Red Grange. He was never in a scrimmage after October 1, and yet he was always able to play 60 minutes if I needed him.

DIXIE HOWELL

"When you combine kicking, passing, running, smartness, coolness and defensive play—all taken together—I'll take Dixie Howell against any other man I ever saw."

And the west coast will back him up.

Parks-Chambers To Enter Tourney

Parks-Chambers, city basketball champions last year, and an all-star team from members of Emory University are the latest additions to the southern amateur basketball tournament to be held February 14, 15, 16 at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

With the Clothier and Emory teams entered, seven clubs have definitely been accepted. The other five are: Jewish Progressive Club, the Y. M. C. A., Gulf Refining, Buford and Fort Benning.

Parks-Chambers has played four practice games this season but will officially open its schedule Wednesday night against the Albany Blues in Albany. The team is led by Dusty Speer and Coot Candiver, both gangling six-foot ball players and expert sharpshooters.

The All-Star team from Emory headed by the Conyers boys, Cris and Ben, will offer some stiff competition in tourney play. All players on this team will be either Emory students or former Emory boys. Several courtmen who are said to have been high school and college stars are planning to take up the wars in behalf of the Emory club.

Word has been received from Jake Morris, coach of Middle Georgia College team and it is believed that Coach Morris will enter his boys. For two seasons Coach Morris' team has won junior college championships.

Two teams are certain to enter from Tennessee. The selection of the two teams has been turned over to Wirt Gammon, sports writer of the Chattanooga Times. Gammon will make his selection within the next week and forward the names of his picks to the Southern Basketball Association.

Split Season Is Voted Out By Southern

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Two tentative schedules for the Southern association's 1935 season were drawn up here today, but their contents will remain a secret until a meeting of the league's directors in New Orleans on February 11.

Chairman Larry Gilbert, of New Orleans, let it be known that the cards call for the awarding of 11 Sunday games to each of the eight clubs. Definite dates for these contests presented the most complex problem of the one-day session of the schedule committee, Gilbert said.

Sites for opening and holiday dates already have been chosen, and the split season has been eliminated by the directors.

The 154-game schedule will go into effect April 16 with New Orleans at Birmingham, Memphis at Little Rock, Knoxville at Atlanta, and Nashville at Chattanooga.

Although their business of schedule making was strictly private, the committee members entered freely into hotel lobby discussions of 1935 prospects.

For instance, Fay L. Murray, Nashville president and a committee member, conferred with Frank Brazill, the Vols' new manager, and then came through with enthusiastic forecasts.

With 75 ball players under contract, plus its ownership of the Minneapolis club and its hook-up with the New York Giants, the Nashville team sees nothing ahead but first place, Murray declared.

Gilbert named Nashville, Atlanta and Memphis in order as the worst-feared opponents of the New Orleans Pelicans, 1934 pennant winners.

"As for my club," Gilbert said, "we need rebuilding."

He said he needed pitchers badly. Fred Johnson and Andy Messenger are his only sure starters now on hand, Gilbert pointed out.

THOUSANDS GREET TIDE ON RETURN

Stanford had dared Alabama to throw passes and of how Stanford had said they could win on the ground.

"We turned the tables," said the judge. "We fought them on the land and we went into the air and won."

Dr. A. B. Moore, who accompanied the team to the coast as faculty representative in the absence of Dr. Denny, responded for the official party.

Dr. Denny voiced his appreciation of the team and its victory.

And then came the team. They were bashful. And modest. There is no finer lot of young men than this team which came home today. It conducted itself splendidly on and off the field. So well, indeed, that one of the dowagers at the hotel was heard to remark several days after the team's arrival, "I wonder when that football team is to arrive."

CREDIT TO SOUTH.

The south had much credit reflected upon it by these boys. Comparisons are odious. But both the Rose Bowl teams stopped at Pasadena's leading hotels. The Stanford group wore their huge red sweaters while the Alabama team could not be identified as a football team except on the football field. They were very readily identified there. They were the fellows who kept scoring. Which is the big idea in football. Scoring.

It was a magnificent journey. The group was congenial. The newspapermen were made an integral part of the group. The friendship of the Birmingham and Atlanta newspapermen is a very real one and this made the newspaper feature all the more enjoyable. Meeting the men from Montgomery and Dothan was also most pleasant.

AN IDEAL TRIP.

And, of course, Bill Peoples, the Southern Pacific's champion traveling passenger agent, made the trip an ideal one from the transport and friendship points of view.

From Tuscaloosa the Atlanta delegation of newspapermen went on to Birmingham. There they were entertained at the Redmont hotel by Frank Woods, manager. There was refreshment and lunch and then it was time to entrain for Atlanta.

It was a great trip, a great team, a great victory and a great party of people. And I am moved to exclaim, almost in the words of Tiny Tim, "God bless them everyone."

ANOTHER RECORD.

MIAMI, Fla., Jun. 5.—(AP)—Smashing the same world standard twice within five days, Alice Bridges, of Uxbridge, Mass., today swam the 400-meter short course backstroke in 6:10 flat. Miss Bridges on Tuesday clipped four-tenths of a second from the accepted 400-meter world time of 6:12.4, swum by Phyllis Harding, of England, in 1932.

CRACK MILERS DUE TO BREAK PRESENT MARKS

Cunningham and Bonthron Renew Bitter Indoor Track Rivalry.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Whether or not they can reproduce the thrills or record-smashing performances that marked their foot-racing duels last year, Kansas Glenn Cunningham and Princeton Bill Bonthron are certain to be the headliners for a banner indoor track season this winter.

Their rivalry, one of the keenest ever developed among American mile runners, probably will be renewed in the classic Wanamaker mile at the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden February 2, and may involve no less than five races on the eastern boards. Last winter they met only twice, in the Baxter mile of the New York A. C. games and in the National A. A. U. 1,500-meter championship, with honors divided in two eyelash finishes.

GLENN CUNNINGHAM

This winter's duels between the two, if they yield to the pressure for more competition, will include not only the Millrose meet but also the Hunter mile in the Boston A. A. games, February 9; Baxter mile, New York, February 16; national championship 1,500 meters, New York, February 23; and the Columbian mile of the K. of C. games, New York, probably on March 16. It was in the Columbian mile, last March, that Cunningham lowered the world indoor mile record to 4:08.4. The Kansan set a new world outdoor mark of 4:06.7 when he trimmed Bonthron at Princeton.

CUNNINGHAM RUNS.

Cunningham made his indoor debut Saturday night at Brooklyn in the Knights of Columbus meet. He competed in an 800-meter special but Bonthron was not among the competitors. Neither wants to try conclusions with the other, at any distance until he is "in the pink."

Fantastic as it would have seemed a few years ago, the prospect now is that Cunningham and Bonthron, if and when they shoot the works from start to finish, may crack 4:06 for the mile on the fast, sharply banked Madison Square Garden track. They have the stop-watches at their mercy any time either is willing to set the necessary early pace for a record performance.

BILL BONTHRON

There's an outside possibility that the battle for indoor mile-running honors will be four-cornered. Pennsylvania's Gene Venzke is being groomed for another comeback. Venzke has yet to duplicate his 1932 indoor form, when he set a world mile record of 4:10.

The fourth possible entry is Luigi Beccali, Olympic 1,500-meter champion, who has been invited by the A. A. U. to try the American boards. Beccali declined two invitations to race here last year, but then came over on an Italian student tour, too late to encounter any of the top-notchers.

Invitations for indoor competition also have been sent to Umberto Cerati, Italian 3,000-meter star; Harry Nielson, Danish distance runner, and Erik Ny, Swedish Olympian, who specializes in the 800 and 1,500 meters. Nielson holds the world 3,000-meter record of 8:18.4, which displaced one of Paavo Nurmi's old marks.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State sophomore, likely will help furnish the indoor sprint fireworks. He will be asked to match strides with two other husky fliers, Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette, the reigning national champion, and Ben Johnson, Pittsburgh boy, who wears Columbia's colors in competition, in most of the big eastern meets.

The best of the pole-vaulting class, including Yale's sensational Keith Brown, who cleared 14 feet 4 inches last winter, has been graduated, but those two high-jumping rivals, George Spitz, of New York A. C., and Walter Marty, California holder of all world records, likely will renew their indoor battle.

Ben Eastman probably will be invited to exhibit the speed that carried him to several world records last summer, including a new half-mile mark, but the blond former Stanford runner has never shown an interest in board racing. He may be prepared to try it, now that he is out of college.

CAREY IS SUED.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A suit against Max Carey, former manager of the Brooklyn National league baseball club, and George Parker, International league umpire, asking $50,000 for alleged injuries resulting from an automobile mishap was filed today by Willis Blackley Jr., of Zebulon, a minor, through his father, W. O. Blackley, in Wake superior court.

Joe Knight Fights Shucco Jan. 24

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Joe Knight, of Cairo, Ga., third ranking light-heavyweight, will meet Tony Shucco, of Boston, in a 10-round semi-final on the Ross-Klick junior welterweight title fight card here January 24, it was announced tonight by Matchmaker W. H. Peeples.

Peeples said Shucco was on his way to Miami now, accompanied by his handler, Jerry Gardner. Peeples' announcement followed a conference with Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, supervising the fight program for the new Miami stadium.

Jimmy Maloney, former Boston heavyweight and now a Miami traffic policeman, is being considered as Max Baer's opponent in a four-round exhibition. The heavyweight champion and his brother, who is to fight an eight-rounder against an as yet unselected opponent, will also appear on the Ross Klick card.

Twenty Teams Select Florida For Spring Sites

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Baseball is all set to drop a belated Christmas present of a half million dollars in crisp greenbacks upon the sunkissed palms of Florida.

At least 20 teams from five leagues, including 11 big league clubs, will locate spring training camps in the state during late February, March and early April, smashing all previous records, reports say.

The 11 big league clubs are the same ones that trained in Florida last spring, but several of the minor league teams, including Atlanta and Nashville of the Southern association, are newcomers. The other five majors go to other states, three of them to California.

Altogether about 600 ball players will cavort in Florida sunshine for six weeks, ironing out the kinks from their muscles in preparation for the start of the regular season in April.

Big league club owners estimate that it costs from $30,000 to $50,000 to train a squad of from 30 to 40 players during the spring.

On the basis that each big league club will spend at least $30,000, each minor leaguer will pay out half this, a total of more than $500,000 is reached.

The club owners, of course, will collect something in the form of gate receipts at the spring exhibition games, but this sum in the past has fallen far short of expenses.

Y-CIVIC LEAGUE.

The opening game of Thursday night's series of the Y-Civic league, on the Y. M. C. A. court, will be Warren Refrigerator Company and the Kraft-Phenix Cheese teams.

Another hard battle on the menu brings Davison-Paxon against the Atlanta-Southern Dental College, with a first-division berth the reward of the winner. Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, co-owner of first place, are doped to win over Linen Service, while the DeMolay Club-May's Laundry tilt looks like a toss-up.

Methodist League

METHODIST LEAGUES.

First Methodist had to extend itself this week to defeat Clifton Presbyterian, but came through in great style. The only 2-feat standing against First Church now is that of the Calvary team. Calvary has, in turn, been defeated by two other teams that have been beaten by First Church, so the first round of play shows the First Church boys out in the lead by one game. Calvary, Grace and East Point are all tied for second position, with a percentage of .667.

Thursday's schedule has been re-arranged and Trinity has been substituted for Haygood, as opponents of Oakland City. Calvary and Stewart Avenue "A" teams will mix, and this should be the big feature of the Thursday program. Highland A. R. P. Girls play East Point.

There will be a new schedule drawn up this week and copies will be distributed at the next series of games, on Thursday night, at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Most of the games from now on will be played on Thursdays.

Morris Brown Named Southern Champion

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Jan. 5.—The championship committee of the Southern conference, by the Dickinson Rating System, named Morris Brown College, of Atlanta, Ga., as the 1934 football champions.

The following is the order in which the teams of the conference, eligible for championship rating, stand:

1. Morris Brown College (champions), 22.5.
2. Tuskegee Institute, 20.4.
3. Florida A. & M. College, 20.0.
4. Alabama State Teachers' College, 18.85.
5. Morehouse College, 16.65.
6. Clark University, 14.16.
7. Knoxville College, 13.00.

Morrison Confers With Vandy Head

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5. (AP)—Coach Ray Morrison, of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, will be here Monday to confer again with Chancellor James H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, and members of the executive committee of the athletic association about the head coaching post that has been offered him.

The Vanderbilt coaching place was left vacant by the retirement of Dan McGugin.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association

Nearly all golfers have one good reason for not timing their swings. They haven't got a clear mental picture of the proper ratio movement in the swing.

By ratio of movement, I mean the relative amount of action in the various parts of the body, likewise the relative speeds at which the various parts move.

In the average player's swing, the clubhhead moves comparatively slow. His hands move almost as fast and his body almost as fast as his hands. The expert swings with his body moving rather slowly, his hands many times faster than his body and the clubhead many times faster than his hands.

This relative speed is conveyed in the whirling of a wheel. The hub moves so that it can be easily followed with the eye. A point halfway between hub and rim is difficult to follow, and it's utterly impossible to see any single point on the rim clearly.

S. S. A. A. A.

Managers of the Girls' and Boys' basketball league in the S. S. A. A. A., will hold their monthly meeting at Beck & Gregg Hardware Company Tuesday night for the registration of players. Several other matters of importance will also be discussed.

The most important game Friday night at the Y. W. C. A. is between Fulton Bag and Mount Vernon Girls, tied for second place.

Of the three boys' games two are outstanding. Lutheran Church, in second place, will attempt to unseat Joy Class from the top berth. Jackson Hill and English Avenue Baptist will clash in the lower frames.

No close scoring games were played in the S. S. A. A. A. basketball eague at the Y. W. C. A. Friday night. Lutheran Church and English Avenue Baptist put up the best exhibition which looked promising in the first half but finished with Lutheran winning, 42 to 23. George Seckinger starred for Lutheran with 16 points.

Joy Class, tied for the lead with Pals Class, defeated Mount Vernon, 32 to 17, with Goldsmith getting 12 points. Joy led all the way.

Pals Class smothered Jackson Hill Baptists, 47 to 10, with Nathan Towery shooting 18 points. Pete Tinsley, who holds a league record of 26, shot 15.

Inman Park Baptist girls defeated Mount Vernon, 26 to 18, but were given a scare at the close of the first quarter when Mount Vernon led 5 to 1. Sadie Smith, a new find for Mount Vernon, was the sensational player of the evening. She shot nine points. Leola Hicks scored 11.

Fulton Bag beat an improving American Fore team 16 to 5. Bradley shot six points.

Bingham To Announce Coach

By Bill King.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 4.—(AP) After living like a goldfish for five weeks, Bill Bingham probably will be a very happy athletic director three nights hence when he tells the Harvard committee on the regulation of sports his choice for the Crimson's head football coaching vacancy.

Since December 3, when Eddie Casey's resignation was accepted Bingham has been forced to race up and down the football highways, with a pack of football observers in full cry at his heels.

Just who Bingham will recommend, he alone knows. Most Harvard men would like to see him get Columbia Lou Little but Bingham has yet to discuss a Harvard berth with that standout coach.

It is probably true that Bingham is greatly impressed by Clark Shaughnessy, who succeeded the veteran A. A. Stagg at Chicago. They discussed the subject during the recent football meetings in New York.

Just how Shaughnessy would go at Harvard is problematical. He was highly successful at Tulane and Loyola in New Orleans but when he relieved Stagg at Chicago, he ran into the same difficulties Casey encountered at Harvard and had about the same amount of success.

Bingham's blast against big-time football, during the New York meetings seems to eliminate any chance of the so-called career type, which includes Dick Hanley, who has left Northwestern, and Dick Harlow, of Western Maryland, getting the job. Both of those coaches have been frequently mentioned as prospects.

While in New York, Bingham spent so much time with Mal Farmer, his Yale colleague, that many close to the Cambridge situation wondered if he was getting data on the Elis' highly successful experiment of surrounding a graduate high coach with high-grade assistants.

If such has been the case, it may be that Arnie Horween will be asked to give up his Chicago leather business again and return to the stadium, or Charley Buell or Tack Hardwick be called upon to maintain the Crimson's 60-odd year graduate coaching policies.

Fiddling Battler Told To Rest Up

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Teddy Yarosz, the fiddle-playing fighter from the near-by steel town of Monaca, Pa., who won the middleweight boxing crown from the veteran Vince Dundee last September, was advised today by his doctors to hang up his gloves for at least three months.

The champion's trouble is in his right knee, injured in his surprising defeat at Scranton, Pa., on New Year's night at the hands of Babe Risko, youthful Syracuse, N. Y., "unknown."

Three physicians took X-ray pictures of Yarosz's limb and disclosed the knee cap had been broken, and that an enforced vacation from ring warfare will be necessary. The knee is in a cast.

Yarosz said he had no alibis for the Scranton defeat, which did not affect his status as champion since the bout was a non-title affair.

He praised Risko as "a strong fighter and a good hitter."

Fred Miller Kayoes Old French Champ

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Eventually Freddie Miller is going to run out of opponents in Europe and will be forced to come home.

The Cincinnati southpaw, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world's featherweight champion, added one more victim to his long European string last night when he knocked out Francis Augier, former French champion, in the seventh round of a 10-round bout. Miller weighed 127 pounds; Augier 128.

Maryland Boxers Plan Eight Bouts

January 18—St. John's (Annapolis) at College Park.
February 2—Washington & Lee at College Park.
February 9—Penn State at College Park.
February 16—Virginia at Richmond.
February 22-23—Southern conference tournament.
March 2—Army at College Park.
March 11—Catholic University at College Park.

Clemson Boxers To Meet Georgia

CLEMSON, S. C., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Clemson's 1935 boxing schedule has been announced as follows:

January 12—Duke at Clemson.
January 19—Georgia at Clemson.
February 2—South Carolina at Clemson.
February 9—Presbyterian at Clinton.
February 22-23—Southern conference tournament.

VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE.

The 5:15 Businessmen's Class at the Y. M. C. A. will start a turkey volleyball league Monday afternoon. All volleyball players at the "Y" are urged to be on hand. This league will run for eight weeks. The champion will be awarded a real live turkey. The league will be run on individual point system, attendance counting points as well as being on the different winning teams. Admission is free and the public is invited.

POWER SUIT TO ASK CITY-PWA LOAN BAR

Alabamans To Seek Amendments To Plea for Injunction.

FLORENCE, Ala., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mayor Lee Glenn, of Florence, said today he had been advised by attorneys for preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Company, that amendments to a suit pending to enjoin the Tennessee Valley Authority from entering the electrical field would be filed in Birmingham next week, seeking to prevent the tri-cities from obtaining PWA loans.

As made public by Mayor Glenn, the amendments will ask restraining orders against the municipalities of Florence, Tuscumbia, Sheffield and Athens to "enjoin the defendant municipalities from aiding, furthering or participating in the illegal use or diversion of federal funds by accepting a loan or grant thereof from the public works administration or Tennessee Valley Authority for the construction or acquisition of an electric utility system in competition with the Alabama Power Company."

The suit now pending in United States district court was filed several months ago, seeking to enjoin the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Alabama Power Company, and 14 north Alabama municipalities from executing contracts for the sale of $2,200,000 worth of the utility's property, including distribution systems in the municipalities named.

Athens, which already owned its municipal distribution system, began receiving power from the Tennessee Valley Authority in June.

The notice followed a letter from the chairman of the stockholders' group, Al C. Garber, in which mayors of Florence, Tuscumbia and Sheffield, were asked to join the stockholders in a quick settlement of the suit, or recommendations would be made that the Alabama Power Company withdraw service from the cities. The mayors refused the offer.

Glenn said the petition further would ask that the municipalities be enjoined "from aiding, furthering or participating in the illegal proprietary operation by TVA of the business of generating, transmitting or distributing power by purchasing power from TVA in competition with the Alabama Power Company."

G. O. P. 'TO THE GOOD,' DEMOCRATS IN DEBT AT CLOSE OF YEAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Reports filed today with the clerk of the house disclosed that the democratic national committee closed its 1934 books $522,792 in debt while the republican committe was $184 "to the good" as the year ended.

The democratic committee reported receipts of $367,497 during the year and disbursements of $361,007. This left a surplus of $6,490, but unpaid obligations of $529,282.

The republican committee showed it took in $416,695 during 1934.

Among the larger previously unreported donations to the democratic treasury were:

Basil O'Connor, New York, former law partner of President Roosevelt, $1,000; Bernard M. Baruch, $2,000; T. Semmes Walmsley, New Orleans mayor, $1,250, and $1,000 from A. Schreiber, of Buffalo.

Among the republican contributions previously unreported were $5,000 each from Andrew W. Mellon, former treasury secretary; J. K. Mellon and Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, and John D. Rockefeller Jr., of New York.

DERN FAMILY PLEASED BY SON'S ENGAGEMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The engagement of William B. Dern, second son of Secretary of War Dern, and Miss Helen H. McCollam, pretty 25-year-old RFC secretary and daughter of an unemployed bricklayer, was supposed to be a secret—but now that it's out, Mrs. Dern, as spokesman for the family, says they are pleased.

"Miss McCollam is a very beautiful and very fine girl," Mrs. Dern said today. "The engagement was supposed to have remained a secret for some time, but some one heard of it and let it out, which was the only surprising part of the affair.

"When and where will the wedding be? They are to be married soon, but Miss McCollam will have to announce that," she said.

KIN TO GET $250,000 FROM INGALLS ESTATE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Several relatives will divide the bulk of the $250,000 estate of Mrs. Beulah S. Ingalls under a will filed for probate today. Mrs. Ingalls died New Year's Day.

At the death of a brother, Alfred Barclay Scaff, of Brooklyn, two brothers-in-law, Albert S. Ingalls, Cleveland, Ohio, and Fay Ingalls, Hot Springs, Va., each receive one-fourth of the residue.

Another fourth of the residue will be divided between two nephews, George H. Ingalls Jr., of Woodmere, L. I., and Melville E. Ingalls III, Indianapolis, Ind., and a niece, Katherine Ingalls Sloane, of Warrenton, Virginia.

Swamp Negro 'Wows' Broadway With Songs of Southern Blacks

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Broadway impresarios were angling tonight for the services of a Louisiana swamp negro called "Lead Belly" who twice has sung and played his way out of prison.

Brought to New York by John A. Lomax, Austin, Texas, collector of folk songs, Lead Belly "wowed' em" so effectively at his first performance that he brought booking agents on the run.

Lomax, who has been touring the south under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation, making phonogranh records of negro folk songs for the library of congress said he found Lead Belly serving a sentence for assault in the Louisiana state prison.

Lead Belly, who was born Huddle Ledbetter and is the self-acknowledged "king of the 12-string guitar," sang an appeal for freedom and Lomax presented a record of his plea to the governor. A month later he was free.

Lomax said Lead Billy also had charmed Pat Morris Neff, former governor of Texas, into giving him a pardon while he was serving a term for murder. The closing lines of this song follow:

"Please, Governor Neff, be good and kind.
"And if I can't get a pardon, will you cut my time?
"If I had you, Governor Neff, like you got me.
"I would wake up in the mornin' and set you free.
"And I'm going home to Mary—po' Mary."

The first part of the song dealt with the distress of his wife, Mary, at seeing her husband toted off to jail.

A coal-black negro with a bright red scarf twisted over the collar of his fawn-colored shirt, Lead Belly has been introduced by Lomax to members of the Modern Language Association, in Philadelphia, and to educators and University of Texas alumni in New York. From here he is going to Harvard and Yale.

Lomax said his chief concern at present was to keep Lead Belly away from the lure of Harlem night life, so that he will remain "natural."

"I'm no musician," said Lomax, "but I love folk tunes. Alan (his son) and I think we have found some folk tunes that might make some mark in American music. We found one song, 'Po' Lazus,' that we think is as beautiful as 'John Henry.'

"We went to southern convict camps for folk songs because those are the easiest places to get this music. The negroes sing when they are in trouble, singly or in groups. In a sugar land prison farm in Texas we found the loveliest song for children I've ever heard. It's called 'Grey Goose.'"

Lead Belly, he said, is distinctly not a "hot cha" type of singer.

"He sings with absolute sincerity . . . I've heard his songs a hundred times, but I always get a thrill. To me his music is a real music."

Broadway Musical Show Broadcast Over WGST

Fullsome excerpts from one of Broadway's best attended and most widely praised musical comedies, "Calling All Stars," will be broadcast over WGST and the Columbia network by the original cast tonight. The program is scheduled between 9:45 and 10:15 o'clock.

Among the outstanding names in the cast are those of Phil Baker, the exotic Gertrude Niesen, Lew Holtz and Everrett Marshall, who conducts a CBS program under his own name.

The show is still running to capacity audiences and the musical score contains some of the most popular melodies of the day.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL GIVEN WIDE SUPPORT

Legislation Designed To Impose Harsh Penalties on Peace Officers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Senators backing a federal anti-lynching bill said today a determined drive would be made to put it across at this session.

Several efforts to obtain such legislation have been made in the past, but failed. One argument voiced against it has been on the ground of constitutionality.

A bill written by Senators Costigan, democrat, Colorado, and Wagner, democrat, New York, was approved by the senate judiciary committee last session but the senate itself did not act on the bill.

Costigan and Wagner already are laying plans to push their bill again at this session. It is designed to penalize local officers who fail to prosecute lynch mobs, and to give the federal government jurisdiction in case of such failure.

Officers convicted of failing to protect prisoners or prosecute lynchers would be guilty of a felony and subject to a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment up to five years, or both.

Such an officer convicted of conspiring with the lynchers would be subject to a jail sentence of from 5 to 25 years.

If local officials failed to apprehend lynchers within 30 days after the offense, the federal court would have jurisdiction to prosecute the case. It could also step in if local sentiment was so strong there was no chance for justice to be administered.

One of the most important provisions of the proposed law would make a county in which a lynching took place liable to civil damages of from $2,000 to $10,000. The money would go to the family of the lynch victim.

U. S. Seeks To Stop Lottery Ticket Sale

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Fraud orders were issued today by the postoffice department against 158 persons as a further step in the department's drive against lottery operations in the United States.

The issuance was the fourth list of orders released by the department since inception of the drive about four months ago, and makes a total of approximately 800 gamblers barred from using the mails.

Today's list contained names of persons in Montreal, parts of Quebec, Luxembourg, Havana, Paris and Dublin. They were distributing tickets on the army and navy veterans' sweepstakes, the Montreal University endowment fund lottery, the Irish Free State hospital sweepstakes, the sweepstakes De la Croix Rouge, the French national lottery, and the Cuban national lottery.

All lotteries were to be based on the grand national race at Liverpool on March 29.

WATERLOGGED VESSEL LIMPS INTO FLA. PORT

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5.—(UP)—Waterlogged after a two-day battle with mountainous seas, the lighthouse tender Larkspur limped into Port Everglades today, her crew safe from the sea but exhausted by the struggle.

The interior of the vessel was a mass of wreckage. Cabins were smashed in, there was two feet of water in her staterooms, furniture and equipment was a litter of debris.

The crew of 25 escaped injury. The vessel had been making her way from Charleston, S. C., to Mobile, Ala., when she ran into a terrific Atlantic gale and was washed about virtually helpless in the fury of the waves for nearly 48 hours before she could beat her way to port.

Metropolitan Star Featured In Symphony Concert Series

Victor Kolar Directs Orchestra on Later Schedule Beginning Tonight Over WGST.

Kathryn Meisle, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be the guest artist with the Ford Symphony orchestra on the new schedule over WGST from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

MEISLE.

Will Rogers may give a deferred New Year's statement after the president's message to congress.

Bruno Walter will conduct the New York Symphony orchestra in a program of familiar classics during the first program of the year from Carnegie Hall, New York.

Donald Novis, tenor, and Vera Van, "velvet-voiced blues singer," will sing in several duets and solos during the new series of the "Open House" program.

"Club Romance," former "Hall of Fame" program, will be launched under a new time period until February 3.

Meisle Will Sing.

Presenting selections which include works of Saint-Saens, Delibes, Del Riego, Noel Coward and Rubinstein, Kathryn Meisle, Metropolitan Opera Company soprano, will be guest soloist on the program with Karr. This will be the first program on the new period from 8 to 9 o'clock.

Miss Meisle, an American-born artist whose fame has reached international proportions as one of the world's greatest contraltos, has often been called "the successor to Schumann-Heink."

The orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, will emphasize light and whimsical music in the first half of the program, and more serious music in the second portion of the broadcast.

Rogers To Make Talk.

Jests and wry humor will be Will Rogers' contribution to the "Gulf Headliners'" program over WGST and the Columbia network from 6:30 to 7 o'clock tonight. The cowboy philosopher and humorist will be picked up from whatever point along the west coast he may be visiting. The musical program, which originates in the Columbia studios in New York, will be under the direction of Oscar Bradley. He will, no doubt, make another attempt to explain the "trend of modern American music."

Beethoven Is Featured.

Bruno Walter will conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra in a program of familiar classics during the first program of the New Year broadcast from Carnegie Hall, New York, over WGST and the Columbia network today from 2 to 4 o'clock. Walter will direct the orchestra first in the overture to Mozart's "The Magic Flute," followed by Mozart's Symphony in G minor (K. 550), and Symphony No. 3 in E flat major (the "Eroica") by Beethoven.

Donald Novis Sings.

Donald Novis, popular tenor, and Vera Van, velvet-voiced blues songstress, will be heard in several duets and solos during the second program of the new series of "Open House" broadcasts over WGST and the Columbia network this afternoon from 4 to 4:30 o'clock. Freddy Martin and his orchestra will lend musical support to the two singers.

"Club Romance."

Under the title of "Club Romance" (originally announced as "The Hall of Fame"), a new musical and dramatic serial, with a night-club as the center of its activity, will be launched over WGST and the Columbia network tonight. The new series will be heard every Sunday from 7 to 7:30, until February 3, when the new CBS series featuring Eddie Cantor will occupy that time and "Club Romance" will move to the next half-hour, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Lois Bennett, soprano, and Conrad Thibault, baritone—both prominent stars of the air—will be featured as the singing leads of "Club Romance," with Lee Patrick and Ned Wever filling the dramatic roles for the same characters. Carl Bixby, well-known author, is writing the series, an original radio musical romance built around a mythical night club. The singers will be supported by Don Voorhees and his orchestra and a mixed vocal group of 16 voices. Voorhees will feature many strings and muted brass in his distinctive arrangements of romantic songs.

Lois Bennett, who was born in Texas, grew up in the southwest and started her professional career in Oklahoma City as a member of the Brahms Quartet, of mixed voices. She toured in Gilbert and Sullivan light operas and later in vaudeville with Carrie Jacobs Bond. In 1929 she sang with the St. Louis Opera Company, and since then she has been a prominent star of a number of network programs. She was known for some time, on one series, as "The Quaker Girl."

New Chevrolet Models Displayed By Local Dealers

Master de luxe models, strongly emphasizing beauty and style, and new standard models, featuring high-powered performance with economy, are announced today by Chevrolet.

Master de luxe body models include sedan, coach, business coupe with luggage compartment, sport coupe with rumble seat, sport sedan, and town sedan. In addition to the coach, business coupe, phaeton, and sport roadster, which comprised the standard line last year, the 1935 standard line includes a full sized four-door sedan and a sedan delivery car for light commercial uses.

The 1935 new standard has been given virtually the same performance ability as the master de luxe which, however, departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in striking advances in design of body and trim. The engines, incorporating many improvements over the 1934 master motor, are the same size and design in both models, while in the chassis the chief distinction is the presence in the master de luxe of Chevrolet enclosed knee-action suspension, now entering its second year improved in construction and operation.

Mechanically, the two models have in common numerous important improvements in construction and design. Both engines have an original system of high pressure jets supplying oil to connecting rod bearings, and electro-plated pistons, heavier crankshafts and other new features that contribute to better performance, smoothness, and economy. In both chassis, newly designed clutches, more effective braking systems, stiffer frames, and other advances in design give greater ease of operation, increased durability, and a better ride.

Masters De Luxe Appearance.

Visually, the new master de luxe retains only the characteristic outlines of the radiator, and the familiar trade mark on hub caps and radiator emblem, to indicate that it is of Chevrolet origin. The V-radiator itself is narrower and more sloping, the unit fenders are highly contoured in their streamlining, while the windshield not only slopes back steeply but also is slightly V-shaped, causing all the forepart of the car to flow smoothly into the body, which is the utmost in smoothness. By utilizing the newly developed all-steel roof construction, Chevrolet has attained a sleekness formerly impossible, its highly crowned roof sweeping from the windshield to the streamlined, graceful rear end in a continuous curve, an effect heightened by the absence of roof panels and moldings and by the continuity of body color over the entire top.

Every detail of the car is new, starting with the front bumper and including the radiator grill, the ornament that supplants the radiator filler-cap (now under the hood), the horizontal hood louvres, the running-board pattern, streamlined door handles, spare tire mountings (concealed in some models), tail lamp and rear bumper. Aside from appearance, there are important improvements in body comfort and spaciousness, and especially in the ride. The wheelbase of the new master de luxe is increased to 113 inches, and an even greater increase in body space has been gained by moving the engine forward. The appearance of great length has been enhanced by lowering the floor level, dropping it one inch nearer the ground by lowering the chassis side rails.

The master de luxe sport and town sedans have integral trunks embodied in the rear panels, with compartments for the spare wheel. In the three sedans, pressed steel wheels with short rounded spokes are regular equipment. Wire wheels with large hub caps are used on the other models.

New Standard Improvements.

In the lower priced line of new standard models, larger bodies, a new engine with 23 per cent more horsepower, an improved chassis frame, and numerous other new features give improved performance, still better economy, and increased comfort and safety.

Bodies are generally improved in spaciousness and comfort, and possess many new conveniences and appearance features. The newly added four-door sedan has the same dimensions as the coach, which is 3 1-4 inches longer than the 1934 models and provides 2 1-2 inches more leg room in the rear compartment. The closed models all have flat floors in the rear compartment, the ridge formerly existing in front of the seat having been eliminated. The driver's seat, in all closed models, is equipped with fingertip control for quick adjustment.

Redesigned dials, behind concave glass that eliminates reflections and promotes visibility, are mounted in an improved instrument board having walnut-grained panels.

The main chassis changes are the result of a comprehensive revision of design to effect a marked increase in performance ability. To attain greater acceleration, higher speed, and better hill-climbing, Chevrolet has adopted for the new standard line the larger "blue flame" engine of the same displacement (206.8 cu. in) and compression ratio (5.45 to 1) as used in the 1934 master models, but incorporating many new features contributing to better performance throughout its speed range. To match the gain in engine power and car speed with the necessary increase in braking ability, the cable-controlled braking system also has been improved in operation and increased in capacity. The chassis frame is improved in strength and stiffness to an even greater degree than would have been required merely to keep pace with the increase in the loads imposed upon it by both the engine and the brakes.

Improvements Common to Both Chassis Models.

In both engines, crankshaft has been redesigned and now weighs 69 pounds, or 5 1-2 more than last year's Master. Counter-weighing has been increased 80 per cent and the harmonic balancer has been given an additional spring in each bank and larger drive pins.

The cushion balance principle of engine mounting, improved in detail, is now applied to both models, utilizing five rubber supports—two at the front of the engine on the frame cross-member, one at the rear of the transmission on a special frame cross-member, and two widely separate side supports or stabilizers bracketed to the clutch housing and bearing on frame brackets.

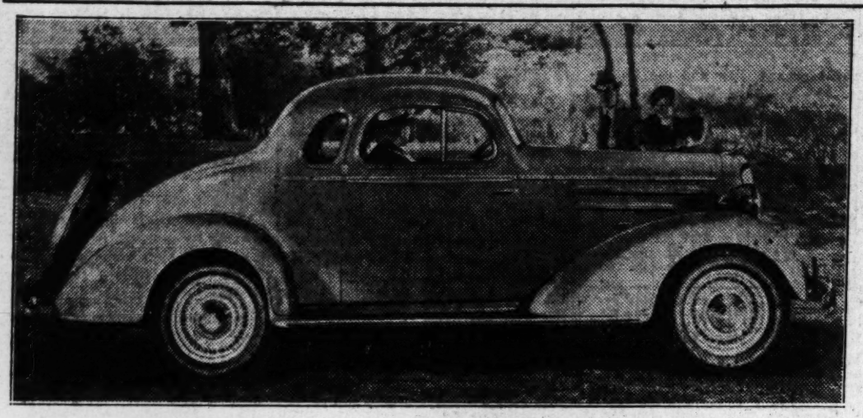

Master Body De Luxe Style Features.

Master bodies, distinguished for the originality of their ensemble design, contain many noteworthy individual features. Windows have gracefully rounded corners to harmonize with the streamlining. Doors extend lower below the floor, giving an appearance of fleetness, and are reshaped with rounded corners at the top. The belt molding is carried from the hood into the car, broadening on the doors, then tapering toward the rear. The windshield is sloped sharply (31 1-2 degrees) and V-shaped, giving improved vision and reducing wind resistance and noise. Its center metal strip is chromium-plated outside and grained inside to match the interior trim. The windshield wiper is mounted below the glass, lying snug along the lower edge of the windshield when not in use, and sweeping an arc of 180 degrees when operating; its motor, concealed under the instrument board, at the center, is arranged to serve a second wiper covering the right windshield panel. Fisher no-draft ventilation is continued in all models. The remote control door handle in the front doors is at the front of the arm rest and is reshaped to prevent its catching in clothing.

Standard Body.

Closed models of the New Standard line are provided with a newly styled rear panel, sweeping cleanly from the roof to the extension which conceals the rear end of the chassis. Bodies are strengthened by the addition of steel braces extending diagonally from the sills to the belt under the rear window. Adjustable braces are built into the doors.

Beauty, Economy and Safety Feature New Year's New Autos

By MAX HILL,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Vivid splashes of color, the motor cars for 1935 made their first public appearance today, drawing tremendous crowds that New York automobile show officials estimated would break all records for the opening day.

Beauty is stressed, along with safety, economy and mechanical improvements. The automobile of 1935, of course, is stream-lined, aerodynamic, airstreamed, aeroformed or airflowing, which means to the layman that it glides through the air with the greatest of ease. Twenty-eight passenger car lines are being shown.

Four major changes stand out:

A new type of spring suspension on many models, said to synchronize and balance front and back springing.

Motors have been moved forward from five and a half to eight inches on many lines in an effort to balance the body more perfectly.

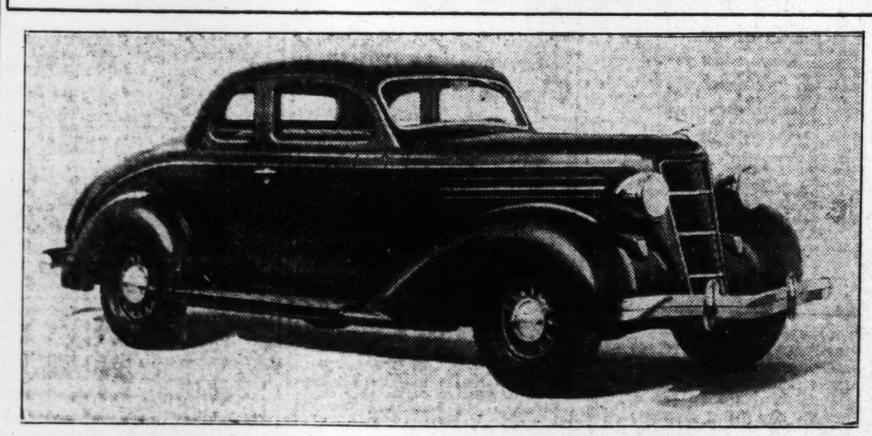

Bodies are wider, and there is more headroom. Even so, the new models hug the ground more closely, with the center of gravity lowered one and a half to two inches. This has been done without loss of room by flattening the springs.

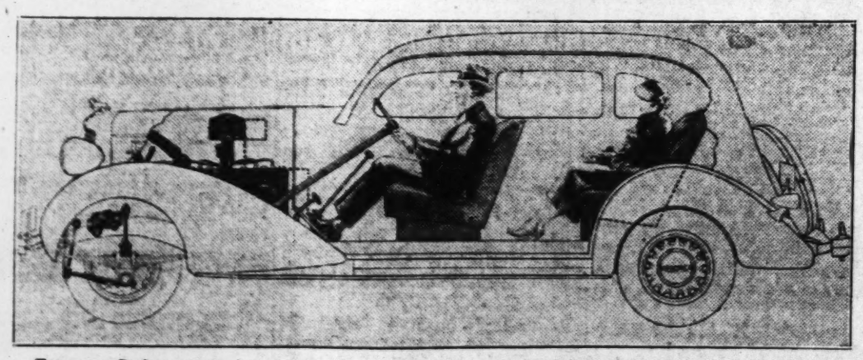

The front end of almost every make has been redesigned, and horsepower has been increased in many makes by a higher ratio of compression, not by increasing the bore and stroke. The average hike in horsepower is five.

A six-foot man can see over the tops of most of the new cars. There are a number of completely new lines, put out mostly by manufacturers of the so-called medium-priced and high-priced makes.

Competition this year seems to center in the price group just above the lines known as popular-priced (Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth and Terraplane), with two completely new sixes (Pontiac and Hudson) being made by manufacturers who last year limited their production to eights.

J. M. Harrison Showing New Dodge Models

Top, new Dodge coupe, featured in the special showing all this week in the showrooms of J. M. Harrison & Co., 17 North avenue, N. E. Bottom illustration gives an idea of how the new Dodge synchromatic front suspension and the new equalized distribution of weight on all four wheels produce the famous new Dodge airglide ride. The engine has been moved forward from the position indicated by dotted lines, a distance of eight inches. The front seats are located well midway, while the rear seats are shifted six inches toward the center. Passengers now ride cradled between the axles.

New Plymouths Officially Announced And Displayed

Walter P. Chrysler today announced the 1935 Plymouths as "revolutionary new-type high-speed safety cars, expressly designed to meet modern traffic conditions." The cars are on display at all of Atlanta's Plymouth dealers.

Introduced in six beautiful body types the new Plymouths, streamlined in design, have added engineering developments which today more than ever before give emphasis to its claim of being "America's best engineered low-price car."

To quickly catalog the outstanding features of the new car—the 1935 Plymouth has an 82 horsepower engine with a compression ratio of 6.7 to 1; a torpedo-type all-steel safety body; syncro-silent transmission; a new "ride" achieved by a redistribution of weight, plus a new front spring assembly, "floating power" engine mountings and hydraulic brakes.

Mr. Chrysler, in announcing the new Plymouth, said that it was created to satisfy a critical need in America at the present time for safer transportation.

"Every indication points to more automobiles on the streets and highways in 1935, than at any time since 1929," he said. "And, the automobiles of today are much faster than those of six years ago. They also must be safer."

Safety Features.

Chrysler Motors engineers, pioneers in the development of such safety features as the all-steel body, hydraulic brakes and new principles of weight distribution, have perfected these safety factors in the new Plymouth.

The all-steel body of the 1935 Plymouth fits down over the double-drop X-type frame. The body and frame are bolted together at 46 different points. Thus, the frame becomes a unit of the body along with the all-steel flood, side panels, center posts and other members. This design also permitted the engineers to build more room in the bodies. Plymouth seats are wider. The floor has been lowered 3 1-4 inches, providing a lower center of gravity and more leg and head room for the passengers.

The Plymouth engine, "cushioned" in floating power rubber mountings, has been moved forward over the front axle to slow down the action of the front springs and make more room for the larger body. Plymouth passengers ride between the front and rear axles, entirely surrounded by protecting walls of steel.

With the engine over the front axle and the body moved forward and fitted onto the frame, the entire weight of the car has been redistributed to create an entirely new kind of ride. To further improve the ride, the engineers have developed a new type of springs, double-action shock absorbers, and a swag eliminator.

The new Plymouth springs are of a new thin-leaf design that are thinned down at the ends of each leaf so that a greater area of each end comes into contact with the adjoining leaves. Thus the weight of the car is distributed over a larger area at each leaf end. The oscillation frequency has been reduced from 135 to 92 per minute.

Streamlined Design.

In the design of the new Plymouth the engineers have applied their extensive study of aerodynamics. The Plymouth is streamlined to resist wind pressure in front and wind "drag" in the rear. The streamlined radiator, new headlamps and the general treatment of new front and styling—all combine to eliminate wind traps and flat surfaces. Authentic air-stream lines flow symmetrically back over the entire body structure to the tapering rear deck.

The Plymouth was presented in six body types—the business coupe, two-dor sedan, de luxe rumble-seat coupe, de luxe four-door sedan, de luxe two-door touring sedan and de luxe four-door touring sedan. All models have the same wheelbase—113 inches—the same engine with floating power mountings, the same clutch, same transmission, same "floating ride" and the same hydraulic brakes.

A new, simplified system of ventilation has been developed for the Plymouth. Ventilating wings on the front windows have been eliminated to be replaced by single windows with single controls. Openings have been built under the front seat to provide more complete circulation of air in the car. The cowl ventilator has been enlarged.

J. M. Harrison Showing New Dodge Streamline Models

When interviewed about the 1935 Dodge line, now on display in the J. M. Harrison & Co. showrooms at 17 North avenue, Frank Graham, sales manager, stated that detailed announcement of the 1935 Dodge line, widely awaited because of pre-season rumors crediting the new models with important innovations, will prove interesting reading because the manufacturers, not content with keeping abreast of prevailing trends, offer several unexpected features.

It is apparent that Dodge body stylists have outdone themselves in creating a series of bodies to which streamlining has been applied with eye-filling and practical beauty. The student of mechanical developments also finds many interesting points designed to invest motoring with still greater comforts and, in a variety of ways, with still greater safety and economy.

Eight Body Types Are Offered.

Interesting auxiliary features of the new Dodge line for 1935 include a new lighting system in which last year's asymetric head light beams are supplanted by a light pattern formed by parallel beams of maximum legal intensity. The headlamps use one double-filament bulb and one parking light bulb.

The lighting of the dash instruments is direct, through two tubular lamps that light on being slightly withdrawn and may be rotated to project their beams in different directions.

Eight body models are offered on the new Dodge chassis. They are: Two coupes, one with and the other without rumble seat—one exquisitely leather upholstered convertible coupe—2-door and 4-door sedans—2-door touring sedan (with trunk)—4-door touring sedan (with trunk). Fender wells for the side mounting of spare tires are provided if desired.

All in all, the 1935 line of Dodge cars provides the luxury, beauty, mechanical perfection and distinction of expensive cars at prices just a few dollars above those of the lowest priced cars.

Mr. Graham stated further, that J. M. Harrison is ready to make deliveries of all models immediately and that advance orders have already indicated the biggest year in history for J. M. Harrison & Co.

106,207 Cattle Killed.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—(UP) Cattle slaughtered in Utah as part of the federal government's program of drouth relief in western states totaled 106,207 head, a report by Frank A. Jugler, director of processing for the Utah FERA, revealed.

Chrysler Continues Airflow And Adds Airstream Line

Above is shown the Airflow Chrysler Imperial six-passenger sedan. This car has a wheelbase of 128 inches and its engine develops 130 horsepower. Overdrive and booster power brakes are standard equipment.

At the left is shown the large luggage compartment that is a feature of the touring models of the new Chrysler Airstream line. The spare tire may be carried either in this compartment or on the front fender.

The Chrysler Sales Corporation presents for 1935, two lines of automobiles, the Airflow and a new line known as the Airstream.

The Airflow cars are continued, but with many refinements and improvements. All of the features peculiar to Airflow design and construction are retained but the front end appearance has been changed slightly. Nearly all mechanical units, clutch, transmission, engine, axle, etc., have been changed to improve the performance, and increase the economy and life of the chassis.

In addition to the Airflow cars, Chrysler offers the Airstream Six and the Airstream Eight, two entirely new cars which will sell at a lower price than is possible with Airflow design. Although these cars differ from the Airflow cars in appearance, they have many features in common with Airflow. Much that was learned during the years of experiment on Airflow design and through the year that Airflow has been in production has been incorporated in the Airstream cars.

There are four body styles. Prices range from $935 to $995, f. o. b. Detoit.

Both of the Airstream cars have the pantagraph type individual front wheel springing which proved so successful during 1934 on the Chrysler Six. Both of the Airstream cars are unusually easy riding, incorporating many of the features responsible for the floating ride of the Airflow car.

Weight distribution has been changed considerably from that of the ordinary car. The engine and the seats have been moved forward approximately six inches which moves forward the center of mass and equalizes the weight on the front and rear wheels.

The Airflow Eight has a wheelbase of 123 inches with an overall length of 206 7-16 inches. The engine is an eight-cylinder with a bore and stroke of 3 1-4 by 4 7-8, giving a piston displacement of 323.5 cubic inches and brake horsepower of 115 at 3,400 r.p.m. Compression ratio is 6.2 to 1. The standard rear axle ratio is 4.1 to 1, but the overdrive introduced on the 1934 Airflow Chryslers is available for this car at slight extra cost. When the overdrive is ordered a special axle with a ratio of 4.3 to 1 is used, and this axle, together with the overdrive, produces a final drive ratio of 3.035 to 1 when in overdrive. Tire size of the Airflow Eight is 7.00-16.

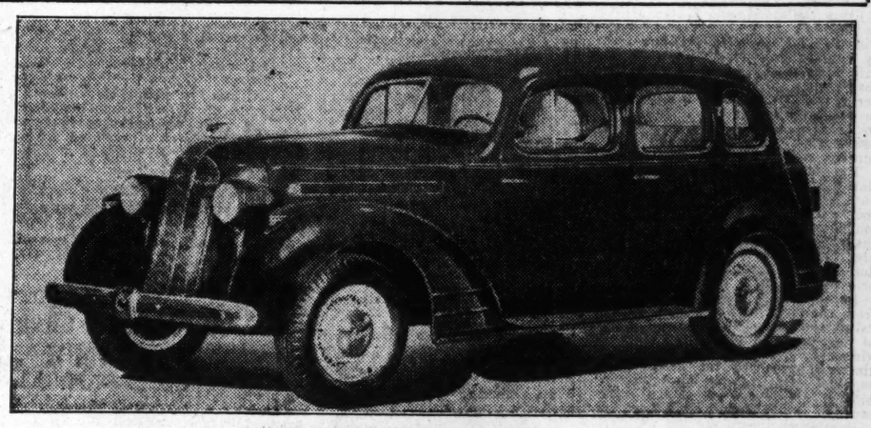

There are three body styles. All models $1,395 f. o. b. Detroit.

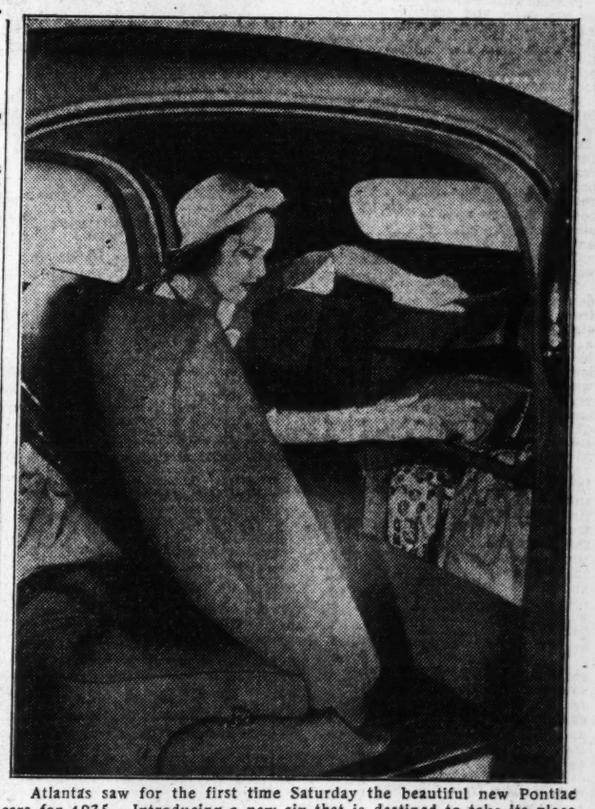

The Airflow Imperial has a wheelbase of 128 inches. Engine size is 3 1-4 by 4 7-8 inches with a piston displacement of 323.5 cubic inches. Standard compression ratio is 6.5 to 1 and optional head gives a ratio of 7.45 to 1. The brake horsepower with a standard ratio is 130 at 3,400 r.p.m. and with a special head 138 at 3,400 r.p.m. The overdrive is standard on the Airflow Imperial. Rear axle ratio is 4.3 to 1, giving an overall ratio in overdrive of 3.035. Tire size is 7.50-16.

Prices of the two body styles offered are $1,675.

All of the basic Chrysler features which have been used on all Chrysler motor cars for years are continued without change or with only minor improvements. These include floating power, which was introduced in 1931 and which has since proven to be one of the greatest engineering advancements on any automobile, hydraulic brakes with centrifuse brake drums and independent driveshaft handbrake, roller bearing universal joints, exhaust valve seat inserts, automatic choke, automatic manifold heat control, manual shift starter and many others.

Beautiful New Pontiacs Go On Display

Atlantas saw for the first time Saturday the beautiful new Pontiac cars for 1935. Introducing a new six that is destined to take its place among the country's leaders, local showrooms were crowded all day. Top, new sedan introducing new lines; bottom, compartment in rear of the coupe seat, a new innovation for motor cars.

De Soto Presents Two New Cars For New Year

Two new lines of aerodynamic cars—a restyled Airflow and a new Airstream line—were announced yesterday by the De Soto Motor Corporation. The 1935 De Soto cars are on display at the McCord-Johnson Motor Company, 496 West Peachtree.

The new Airflow has been completely restyled to strike a new note in aerodynamic design. The front end has been rounded and extended. Important engineering features have been added.

The Airstream line, incorporating many Airflow features, puts De Soto in the popular price class. De Soto's two new lines embrace the entire low-medium and medium price fields.

De Soto announced the new Airflow line in three body models . . . a four-door sedan, town sedan and coupe. The new line is in the same price class as the first Airflow, which last year won the Grand Prix for style at Monte Carlo, broke 32 A. A. A. contest board speed records and established a new transcontinental fuel economy mark.

The Airstream line has six body models . . . the business coupe, rumble-seat coupe, four-door sedan, four-door touring sedan, two-door sedan and two-door touring sedan. Airstream models have a wheelbase of 116 inches, with a tread of 56 1-4 inches in front and 58 inches in the rear.

Prices for the Airstream cars range from $695 for the business coupe to $825 for the four-door touring sedan. All Airflow models are $1,195.

Byron C. Foy, president of the De Soto Motor Corporation, in announcing the two new lines, pointed out that De Soto introduced the Airflow last year and now has perfected the design and added mechanical developments to take advantage of the past year's experience and achievement.

"De Soto is introducing the new Airstream line to meet a widespread demand for another De Soto car in the popular price class. The Airstream De Soto inherits all of the engineering advantages of former De Soto cars and, in addition, has many features that came with the Airflow design."

The automatic transmission overdrive, optional on the Airflow at extra cost, is in effect a fourth gear that comes into operation automatically when the driver lifts his foot off the accelerator for an instant after the car has reached a speed of 35 to 40 miles an hour. The overdrive reduced engine speed approximately 30 per cent without any increase in car speed. It is disengaged automatically when the car speed falls below a predetermined speed.

The pistons in the 1935 De Soto engines have a diamond-like surface hardness as the result of a newly developed process known as "Anodic coating." This process consists of the electrolytic treatment of the aluminum piston as an anode in a chemical bath, the chief constituent of which is sulphuric acid. With the passage of the current, the oxygen produced at the anode by electrolysis reacts with the aluminum to form a hard coating of aluminum oxide on the piston.

'COLLIER WOODS' READY FOR HOME BUILDING

Development of "Collier Woods," a new, amply restricted residential section, is announced by the Burdett Realty Company, agents. The property owned by the G. W. Collier Estate, is located from Peachtree just north of Pershing Point and Ansley Park, through to Montgomery Ferry drive and the Ansley Park golf course.

The entire subdivision consists of approximately 225 acres, of which 50 acres is now being developed as the first unit. This consists of 68 lots of 70 or more feet frontage. The street now being developed will be known as Beverly road and will make a new and shorter connection between Brookwood Hills and Morningside.

The entire property consists of original woodland and is very desirable for residential purposes. All improvements are of the best modern type and will be completed during the spring of 1935. The property is restricted so that it is amply protected, is ready for immediate building and is fully in line with the federal program of home financing.

LIQUOR FOR REVENUE FLAYED BY UPSHAW

Former Congressman W. D. Upshaw, who for years has been fighting the liquor traffic, announced Saturday that "liquor is just as much a menace today as it was when it was outlawed in Georgia in 1907."

"The idea of getting revenue from liquor is the poorest economics on earth because for every one dollar of revenue put in the treasury from this source, somebody has to drink seven dollars worth of liquor and take that money out of the legitimate channels of trade. Also, it means that the people who drink the liquor will not be in as good condition to earn money after they drink it."

Starlings Invade Wisconsin.

SUPERIOR, Wis.—(UP)—Large flocks of starlings, omnivorous English birds, have recently invaded northern Wisconsin. Not long ago these birds were rare here. Although they are beneficial in killing insects, the starlings drive songbirds away and are destructive in orchards and berry patches. It has been predicted that starlings soon will become as great a nuisance as English sparrows.

Pontiac Introduces A Six and Eight For Thirty - Five

A new low-priced six now joins an improved straight eight to form the 19-model line of cars presented by the Pontiac Motor Company for 1935. Closely approaching the lowest price field for the first time, Pontiac's two new cars should reap an increase of the total of the industry's business. The new six will be available both in standard and de luxe models.

The wheelbase of the six is 112 inches as compared with 117 inches for the eight. In appearance, it duplicates closely the modern streamlining of the eight.

Both Pontiac chassis have ample power for the modern mode of high-speed travel. The six-cylinder engine develops 81 horsepower at 65 miles an hour, while the straight eight delivers 84 horsepower at 70 miles an hour.

A comparison of the straight eight with that of last year reveals many improvements and refinements that also are included in the new six.

Briefly, they are: A marked change in appearance; new Fisher solid-steel "turret-top" bodies; built-in luggage space; concealed spare tires; "V" type windshield; greater width in both front and rear seats; divided and folding back front seats in 2-door sedans; new instrument panel; package shelf in all models; new lamps, hydraulic brakes with double and triple sealed drums; new action clutch; automatic choke in the eight; air cool generator with voltage regulator; interchangeable main and connecting rod bearings; silver alloy connecting rod bearings; steel spoked wheels; increased steering gear ratio; knee-action units (except on standard six) mounted on rigid tubular cross member, and new radiator and hood grilles.

New features are intended to enhance the economical performance, durability, dependability, speed and riding qualities of the 1935 line. They emphasize the almost unbelievable values of the motor car of 1935.

First glance reveals a marked development in the art of scientific teardrop streamlining. Streamlining of radiator, hood, lamps, fenders and Fisher solid steel bodies has produced an ensemble of clean, flowing lines, with an absence of bumps or projections. Although stylish, it does not cross the borderline of "smart taste."

Outward grace and character are strengthened by the unique manner in which the designers have handled the radiator and hood grille work to give an effect of fleetness without awkwardness or misplaced emphasis. The vertical lines of the radiator grilles astonishingly create the impression of narrow sleekness. A further softening of the entire appearance ensemble is brought about by almost eliminating the gap between the front fenders and the hood.

Fisher "Turret-Top" Bodies.

From the standpoint of appearance as well as construction, the solid steel Fisher body, used for the first time by Pontiac in 1935, is the major feature of the new Pontiac. It is claimed that Fisher solid steel bodies are superior in the distribution of the steel in the interest of greater safety, as well as the satisfying style, comfort, room and convenience that accompany superior safety.

Top fabric over wood-bows and slats, or wood-bows and chicken-wire, have been superseded by a solid steel roof. The steel roof rests on a foundation of steel bows, welded to the steel body panels. Windshields are the "V" windstream type introduced for the first time into the low price field.

Appropriately borrowing a term from the naval architect, this body is called the "turret-top." With a hint of ruggedness and dependability, when viewed from the front or rear, it distinctly approached the design of a torpedo. One of the most finished bits of artisanship is in the slight taper of the body and rear fenders.

Pontiac engineers say the new bodies are quiet and that in test runs last summer, when the weather was above 100 degrees, the temperature inside the solid steel bodies registerd below that in the conventional slat-roof type.

Owners of 1935 Pontiac Sixes and Straight Eights will have a choice of seven colors with mouldings, striping and wheels finished to harmonize. Interiors of both sixes and eights reveal an all-around increase in inside body dimensions and consequently roominess, for which the solid steel body is largely responsible. The front seat in the 4-door model on both "6 and 8" and in the 2-door on the 8 will accommodate three passengers without crowding.

Two-door sedans on the six-cylinder chassis are equipped with bucket front seats, while in the straight eight, a full width front seat with a divided back is provided. Both halves of the back are hinged at the lower edges and may be pushed forward to permit easy entrance to the rear seat. Door widths in 2-door models have been increased from 42 1-2 to 46 1-2 inches, while in the 4-door models the increase is from 35 to 36 inches.

Pontiac and Fisher engineers have introduced another important innovation in the built-in enclosure for spare tire and luggage. Those requiring more luggage space will find it in the 2-door and 4-door touring sedans with built-in trunks extending beyond the back panel. Coupe seats split and and fold forward to reach the luggage compartment. Another appointment which should be appreciated is the package shelf just back of the rear seat of the 2-door and 4-door bodies.

With all de luxe six and improved eight models except the convertible coupe, two choices of upholstering material and pattern are offered from excellent grades of mohair, broadcloth and flat finish woolcloth. Genuine leather is used in the seat cushions and back of the convertible coupe.

Interior appointments include arm rests in both front (not standard six) and rear seats with ash receivers built into the rear arm rests of all de luxe six and straight eight four and five-passenger models. All 2-door models are equipped with one assist strap with coat hanger retainers, while 4-door models have two assist straps on 8 only. Assist cords are omitted from the standard six models. All hardware is streamlined and chrome plated, and provided with molded plastic knobs.

The instrument panel is grained oriental walnut finish of attractive design with four gauges conveniently grouped around the rim of a large dial which contains the speedometer and is directly in front of the driver. Instruments are provided with radio dial type of lighting. On the right of the instrument panel is a convenient locker for gloves.

Changes in front end construction have contributed to easier steering. Mounting of the front wheel "knees" on the tubular cross member has increased the steadiness of steering on every kind of road. Steering ratio is 17.5 to 1.

The semi-floating rear provides a final gear ratio of 4.44 to 1 for the six and 4.55 to 1 for the straight eight. Optional ratios for mountainous country are 4.89 for both the six and the eight.

It seems certain that the pleasing lines, the solid steel bodies with their fine appointments, hydraulic brakes, easier and quicker starting, "True Course" steering, and generally increased value to say nothing of the broadened market opened up through the introduction of the low priced six, will win new friends by the scores of thousands for Pontiac in 1935.

First View of DeSoto's 1935 'Twins'

The De Soto Motor Corporation is presenting two new lines of cars for 1935. This first view of the De Soto "Twins" shows the striking "family resemblance" of the re-styled Airflow (left) and the new Airstream Six. The "Twins" will be introduced formally next week. De Sotos are being shown here by the McCord-Johnson Motor Company, 496 West Peachtree, N. W.

Hinman Appointed To Retail Sales Staff Of Local Ford Dealer

Announcement is made by R. L. Lewis, retail sales manager for D. C. Black, Inc., local Ford dealer, of the appointment of Thomas P. Hinman Jr. to the company's retail sales staff.

Mr. Hinman, one of Atlanta's better known young men, is the son of the late Thomas P. Hinman, who for many years was recognized as one of the south's leading dentists. Thomas Jr. is also a graduate dentist, and is well known throughout local medical circles.

He has lived in Atlanta all of his life, being educated in the Atlanta schools, later attending dental college from which he graduated a few years ago. He is well known throughout the younger set, and has taken a prominent part in many of their activities in the past.

In his new position, he will represent the D. C. Black Company, Inc., in selling both pleasure cars, commercial cars and used cars. His wide circle of friends will undoubtedly be glad to learn of this connection, and his addition to the staff of the company, rounds out one of the finest automobile selling organizations for Ford cars in the Atlanta branch territory.

Fireproof Note.

GROTON, Conn.—(UP)—Feathers are useful for purposes other than making comfortable beds and pillows. When Fletcher Daboll's automobile caught fire from a backfire and apparatus was slow in arriving, Daboll snatched a feather pillow from the back seat, ripped it open and dumped the contents over the engine, smothering the blaze.

Prices Announced On Oldsmobile '35 Model Cars

List prices of the new Oldsmobile sixes and eights for 1935 were announced today by Phil F. L'Engle, zone manager. The new six, according to Mr. L'Engle, continues in the low-price field with a base list price at the factory of $675, even though the car is larger, more powerful, more economical, and incorporates all the most modern features. The new straight eight, leader in sales in the lower medium price field in 1934, has been reduced in price for 1935, its new base price at the factory being quoted at $860. The new eight, according to Mr. L'Engle, also has more size, power and economy, coupled with all the features which Oldsmobile engineers believe the public wants in 1935 cars.

Fourteen body types are being offered in the 1935 Oldsmobile line, seven in the six and an equal number in the straight eight. List prices at the factory for all nidividual models, as announced by Mr. L'Engle, are as follows for the six-cylinder line: Business coupe, $675; sport coupe, $725; five- passenger coupe, $725; five-passenger touring coupe with built-in trunk, $755; five-passenger four-door sedan, $790; convertible coupe, $800; five-passenger four-door touring sedan with built-in trunk $820.

List prices at the factory for the new eight-cylinder line are quoted as follows: Business coupe, $860; sport coupe, $895; five-passenger coupe, $870; five-passenger touring coupe with built-in trunk, $900; five-passenger four-door sedan, $940; convertible coupe, $950; five-passenger four-door touring sedan with built-in trunk, $970.

"In all my experience in the automobile business," said Mr. L'Engle, "I have never seen a better demonstration of real value giving than in the new Oldsmobile for 1935. In the face of generally rising prices throughout the industry, Oldsmobile is holding the delivered price of the six-cylinder four-door sedan, for example, in Atlanta to less than $7.50 of the delivered prices on previous models above the delivered price here of the same body type, with comparable equipment in 1934. The delivered price of the new eight-cylinder four-door sedan is better than $25 less than the delivered price of the same model with the same equipment last year."

First showing of the 1935 Oldsmobiles anywhere in the country opens today at the New York Automobile Show. The announcement and first showing of the new cars in Atlanta is scheduled by the A. O. Mitchell Motors, Inc., and the Capital Automobile Company for Saturday, January 12.

"The new Oldsmobile line for 1935," said Mr. L'Engle, "is representative of Oldsmobile's belief that the public is entitled to all that is new and better. Rather than remove from its products features that have proved their worth and desirability in millions of miles of service, Oldsmobile has elected to keep these features, and add all the latest important advancements.

"For example," Mr. L'Engle continued, "Oldsmobile is retaining such features as knee-action wheels, superhydraulic brakes, ride stabilizer, center-control steering, and all-silent syncro-mesh gear shifting.

"I have received word from the Oldsmobile factory that a nation-wide newspaper campaign will launch the new cars this month. Approximately 80 per cent of Oldsmobile's entire campaign to inform the public about the 1935 cars will be placed in newspapers."

Reno To Have Seawall.

RENO, Nev.—(UP) — Although Reno is located at the eastern foot of the Sierra-Nevada mountains and more than 200 miles from any ocean, it is going to have a seawall. The postoffice department designated the retaining wall to be built along the banks of the Truckee river as a seawall in advertising for construction bids. The Truckee years ago was classified as a navigable stream, although no boats ply its waters.

First View of 'High-Speed' Safety Plymouth

The Plymouth Motor Corporation is presenting a "high-speed safety" car for 1935. This first picture of the new Plymouth four-door sedan shows the torpedo-shaped all-steel body of the car, which fits over the frame in an entirely new type of safety construction.

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Wall Street apparently found more reasons to be hopeful after a second reading of the president's message today and security prices moved forward in some sections, although markets remained quiescent.

The principal trade news of the day, the report on freight car loadings, furthermore, showed a decline of less than seasonal amount for the week ended December 29, according to Moody's index. The report, a day late owing to the Tuesday holiday, showed loadings of 425,120 cars. This was a drop of 122,775 from the preceding week and was attributable to the Christmas holiday and contraction in the movement of coal owing to warmer weather.

With the president's review of the state of the nation digested, banking and brokerage circles gave over the day to wondering what the budget message would show. On this statement to congress Monday much hope is placed, although in some quarters it was felt that current uncertainties would result in an "open-end" budget.

The expectation that the public works program might bring profits to building companies excited some demand for the shares. The activity and firmness of automotive stocks was coincident with the opening of the New York Automobile Show and hopes of the biggest sales in the past few weeks.

Utilities Stand Still.

Improvement in the traction group was chalked up to revival of the belief that unification of the New York units is not far away. Although rail stocks shifted a little higher, the drive of yesterday's advance was lacking. Utilities stood still.

In bonds, small losses were scattered through the treasury list, though some of the federal issues were firm. There was a good demand for corporate loans.

Although the stock market was less active than last Saturday trading was fairly brisk at 494,470 shares compared with 965,420 yesterday. The Associated Press composite average of 60 selected stocks rose .27 of a point to 41.05.

Issues which added fractions were Baltimore & Ohio, Chrysler, General Electric, General Motors, Sears, Standard of New Jersey, and Union Carbide. Yesterday's demand for preferred shares was carried over and resulted in gains of a point or more in several instances.

Advancing Stocks.

Stocks which gained from 1 to 2 points or so included American Shipbuilding, Auburn, Bethlehem Steel, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Interborough Rapid Transit, Manhattan Railway Guaranteed, Johns-Manville, and Simms Petroleum. American Telephone at 105 1-2 was up 5-8. Consolidated Gas rose 1-4 to 20 1-4. United States Steel edged ahead to 39 1-8 for a gain of 3-4.

The session brought the week to a close with slightly higher prices on balance. The Associated Press composite average of 60 complete shares stood at 41.05 compared with 40.42 a week ago. Best scores were turned in by the industrials, smallest by utilities. Trading was constantly under the influence of the assembling of the new congress and the Roosevelt message to the almost complete neglect of the mostly favorable trade reports. Industrial bonds distinguished themselves by reaching new highs since 1931. Gilt-edge bonds continued upward.

In today's trading session cotton sagged 45 to 70 cents a bale, but wheat was 5-8 to 1 cent better and corn lifted 7-8 to 1 1-2 cents.

Sterling was slightly higher, while the French franc reacted a little after its recent rally.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We would anticipate a substantial demand for equities of the more substantial type on advancing prices.

COURTS & CO.—On the whole sentiment is still inclined to cheerfulness.

ABBOTT, PROCTOR & PAINE—The market seems to be in a good position to withstand any possible disappointment in connection with the president's budget message and should do better after this is out of the way.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The market acts like it may sag some further unless news of encouraging character develops in the near future.

COURTS & CO.—We continue to favor purchases on moderate declines.

ABBOTT, PROCTOR & PAINE—One leading house was of the opinion that the selling by government agencies during the past two weeks had filled the demand for the present and that trade accumulation must increase if present prices are to be maintained.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—On the whole the outlook would appear to be for a continuance of trading markets for the immediate future.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 15 points down at 12.80. Receipts 282; shipments 1,005; stock 121,753.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Cotton prices declined today under liquidation attributed to the easier showing of Liverpool and Bombay. The market closed barely steady at net declines of 9 to 14 points.

There was some selling here for foreign account supplemented by southern offerings and scattering liquidation. March sold off to 12.56 and July to 12.67, making net losses of about $1 a bale from the high levels of Wednesday.

Houses with Liverpool and Bombay connections were reported among the early sellers here, possibly to undue straddles following the recent rather persistent buying in the local market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 86,000 bales against 218,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON DECLINES 9-12 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The cotton market was somewhat more active in today's short Saturday session. Prices developed a moderate downward trend due to disappointment over the president's message to congress, lower cables than due, liquidation by disappointed longs and selling by Bombay in this market. After opening 2 to 4 points down prices gradually eased off, reaching the lowest of the day at the end. The market closed barely steady with prices showing net declines for the day of 9 to 12 points.

The market opened slightly easier as Liverpool cables came in lower than due. Private cables stated that in Liverpool Roosevelt's speech was considered disappointing and business continued restricted but Bombay selling and hedging were absorbed by trade buying.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Despite some profit-taking in recently aggressive issues, the bond market maintained a steady to firm tone in today's abbreviated session.

Further consideration of the president's message to congress did not make for pessimism in the financial sector but, on the whole, tended to hearten holders of prime investment loans who have, at times, been somewhat nervous over inflationary trends.

Trading was a little more active than that of last Saturday. Transfers totaled $7,721,000, par value, against $6,623,000 at the previous week-end. The Associated Press averages for most domestic corporation groups were slightly higher.

Bonds that advanced fractions to a point or more included American & Foreign Power 5s at 59 1-2, Baltimore & Ohio first 4s at 102 3-8, Colon Oil 6s at 43 1-2, Consolidated Gas 4 1-2s at 100, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 94 1-2, Great Northern 7s at 94 1-2, Interboro Rapid Transit 6s at 62 1-2, International Hydro-electric 6s at 53, Manhattan Railway 4s at 59, Montana Power refunding 5s at 96 1-2, Nickel Plate 6s at 69 1-2, Portland General Electric 4 1-2s at 51 3-4, Postal Telegraph 5s at 46 3-4, Southern Pacific 4 1-2s at 68, Southern Railway 4s at 60 5-8, United Drug 5s at 90 7-8, and Wabash first 5s at 96.

Among scattered losers of around a point or so were bonds of Warner Brothers, Louisville & Arkansas, Illinois Central, Baldwin Locomotive and Alleghany Corporation.

United States government securities were quiet and slightly lower. In the foreign section the Brazilians got back 1 to 2 points of their previous losses. Antwerp City 5s spurted 27 1-2 points to 126, Batavian 4 1-2s were up 4 1-4 at 114, and obligations of Germany improved.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time.....20 cents
Three times.....17 cents
Seven times.....15 cents
Minimum, 2 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space to an ad figure six average words to a line.

Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on memorandum charge only. In return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

Captain Marion Williamson, commanding officer of Company H, 122nd infantry, Georgia national guard, with headquarters at Atlanta, has been elected to membership in the Military Order of Fidelity, according to an announcement in Washington, D. C., by Major R. K. Smathers, national adjutant of the infantry reserve. The military order of fidelity is the national fraternal and patriotic honor society of army reserves and national guard officers.

State Forester B. M. Lufburrow Saturday night entertained members of his office force with a venison dinner at the Candler hotel, in Decatur, the meat being from two bucks the forester killed on a recent hunting trip. The dinner was in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Georgia forestry service.

State Highway Department To Construct New Hemphill-Northside Drive Underpass

The state highway board Saturday announced the taking over of the Northside drive underpass project which Chairman W. E. Wilburn said the board would build as a part of the new Atlanta-Marietta road. The exact route of the new highway, as well as the old road connecting the two cities, is shown on the above map. The map also shows the present Seaboard underpass, the projected Southern Railway underpass, as well as the new bridge over the Chattahoochee river near Vinings.

The state highway board Saturday announced that it will construct the much sought underpass under the Southern railway tracks at Hemphill avenue and Northside drive.

Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the highway board, in making the announcement said that a fund of $125,000 had been set up for the project and that a contract would be let shortly, probably late in February or early in March.

"We will consider the Northside drive underpass a part of the new Atlanta to Marietta road and believe it is absolutely essential to the safety of this new highway," the board chairman said. "Officials of the city of Atlanta and Fulton county have been urging the board for some time to take over this project and I am glad that we are able to provide the funds necessary for the improvement."

Chairman Wilburn said that the board felt that the new Atlanta to Marietta road would be incomplete without the underpass, adding that the new highway is to be made modern in every way and one of the finest, if not the finest in the state.

The highway board already has expended thousands of dollars on the new traffic artery between Atlanta and the Cobb county seat, cutting the new roadway through Fulton and Cobb counties and constructing a fine new bridge over the Chattahoochee, north and slightly east of Vinings.

"The present road to Marietta is entirely inadequate to handle the traffic between the two cities and when we get the new road through we hope to make travel between them much easier," the board chairman said. "The underpass will be started as soon as possible, as we are anxious to complete the entire project and give Atlanta and Marietta the traffic facilities they sorely need."

Plans for the underpass are now being drawn under the supervision of E. N. Seymour, office engineer for the highway department.

It has been understood for some time that the highway department contemplated taking over the underpass project and although it was not stated officially it is believed that this work was not announced with the balance of the Marietta road project because state officials are anticipating later a special federal fund for construction of underpasses. Thomas H. MacDonald, director of the federal bureau of public roads, is understood to be conducting a nation-wide survey of needed underpasses with a view to asking congress and the railroads to co-operate in setting up a special fund to eliminate as many of the most perilous ones as possible.

Reading from left to right are Miss Louise Calhoun; her grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Calhoun, for whom the lovely debutante is named, and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, the charming group being photographed at the recent debut party of Miss Calhoun, given at the Piedmont Driving Club. The background is formed by the floral tributes sent to Miss Calhoun by her legion of admiring friends, and testify to her popularity. Photo by Walter Neblett.

Countess de Sieyes and Children Sail for America on January 23

By Sally Forth.

WHEN the steamer Champlain docks at its New York pier the latter part of January, Countess Bernard de Sieyes and little Marion and Valerie de Sieyes will be among the disembarking passengers. In case your memory needs to be brushed up a bit, Countess de Sieyes is the former Miss Alice Stearns, and her return to her native land is always the occasion of much rejoicing. The aforementioned good news was conveyed to Mrs. Harry Stearns by cable, and so great has been the delight in the Stearns household that Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Edgar Upton are finding it exceedingly difficult to wait until the train arrives at Brookwood station.

The aforementioned trio sail from Havre on January 23, and expect to reach Atlanta on the 1st of February, their visit here extending over the two-month period that Count de Sieyes remains upon an important business mission in England. Paris has been the pied a terre of Countess de Sieyes for several years, and she moves in the most exclusive social circles of the French capital. Marion, better known to her relatives as "Muffie," is the namesake of her aunt, Mrs. Upton, and speaks English and French. Valerie, the younger of the attractive little girls, understands and speaks French, but she is entirely without any knowledge of English. When Henry Grady III, an Atlanta playmate of Valerie, was told about her coming, he recalled her inability to carry on a conversation in English, and sadly remarked, "I suppose I'll have to learn to speak French to talk to Valerie."

UNUSUAL sentiment marked the debut party of Miss Elzie Grace Brown last Thursday, as the date celebrated the 23d wedding anniversary of the debutante's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Brown. In selecting this date for her coming-out party Miss Brown paid high compliment to her parents, who are listed among Atlanta's most beloved and prominent citizens. Indeed, it was a happy trio who received the guests attending the tea-dance at the Brookhaven Club at which the debutante was formally introduced. Extending gracious hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their daughter received in the spacious living room of the club before a bank of palms and countless baskets of flowers sent the debutante, a number of baskets and bouquets being presented the bride of 23 years ago by close friends who knew that the auspicious occasion was of double significance to the hosts.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Brown took place in Columbia, S. C., December 27, 1911, in the historic First Baptist church which stands on one of the most historic spots in the state of South Carolina. Mrs. Brown was before her marriage Miss Elzie Pyler Morgan, member of distinguished and influential families in that state. One of a quartet of attractive sisters, Mrs. Brown was considered one of the most beautiful and popular belles in South Carolina during her generation. She was the last of the four daughters in her family to be married in the famed First Baptist church, the renowned late Dr. William Lindsey officiating at each of the weddings.

TO BE a four-year-old next Saturday, and go to Buster McBurney's party at Brookhaven, is something even the most sedate would enjoy. Every one of Buster's four birthday parties have been events of wide interest to the very young members of society, and the invitations have been original and appropriate for each year.

This year Buster (son of Willard and Nannette McBurney) is going to have a clown party, and his invitations, written in red ink, are on the back of white clowns, and say: "Would you like to dress like a clown, and run and romp and play around, at Brookhaven Club, on Saturday, the 12th, at 3? Can't you see what a lot of of fun that really will be."

All the guests are requested to wear clown suits, and someone has told us, who is in the know, that a prize will be given the youngster wearing the most attractive costume and that all manner of exciting entertainment has been planned for the afternoon.

Anything or any occasion that has the slightest semblance to the "big top" has our most enthusiastic support, and, of course, Buster knows that our congratulations are in order.

SELDOM is The Constitution allowed such charming representation on its feature page as it presents today in the likeness of Miss Grace Mandeville, eldest of the three lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Appleton Mandeville, of Carrollton. A recent tribute to her popularity and charm was her selection by student vote as lieutenant colonel of the first regiment of R. O. T. C. of the University of Alabama, where she is a member of the senior class.

As a sponsor of R. O. T. C., she accompanied the university's football team, the Crimson Tide, to Pasadena, Cal., for the famous Rose Bowl game with Stanford on New Year's Day. She was assigned to the official car on the team's special train, and had no end of fun on the way to the coast.

But the greatest thrills were to come! Once Miss Mandeville was ensconced in the luxurious Huntington hotel in Pasadena, life became one mad whirl of excitement. She attended the gorgeous birthday party of the screen favorite, Marlene Dietrich. She was a special guest at the brilliant premiere of "Bright Eyes," held at Grauman's famous Chinese theater and starring winsome Shirley Temple. She toured the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, escorted by the glamorous Joan Crawford, who called for her in her Rolls-Royce. She lunched with Dick Powell at the Brown Derby, and had Joel McCrea as her luncheon partner on another occasion. She attended the races at the opening of the new Santa Anita race track, which you saw in all the newsreels at the movies last week, and she viewed Uncle Sam's impressive fleet which is now in Pacific waters. She visited the Warner Brothers studio, where she met Joe E. Brown and John Barrymore. She dined and danced at the Cotton Club and the Coconut Grove.

There are numerous other pleasures which Miss Mandeville was doubtless too excited to write home about, most of which were shared by the members of the Crimson Tide. Can you imagine how utterly foreign it seemed to get down to cold, hard studying upon her return to Tuscaloosa on Saturday?

Miss Mandeville often visits her maternal aunt, Mrs. G. M. Stout, whose name she bears, here at her home on Piedmont avenue. Her last visit was the occasion of the Alabama team's game with Georgia Tech in November. Squired by such a group of stalwart cavaliers, it is small wonder that her trips must coincide with theirs!

INSTEAD of tossing her bridal bouquet to her bevy of lovely attendants in the traditional manner, Helen Bivings is setting a precedent which, to our way of thinking, will start a new fad. Helen, who will become the bride of Augustus Loyless on Friday evening, will carry one of the largest orchid bouquets ever seen in these parts. In the center there will be an individual spray, which the pretty bride will remove after the ceremony and pin to her traveling costume. Around the center spray will be more of the exquisite flowers which make up the bouquet, and Helen will give one to each of her feminine attendants. Heretofore, only one of the bridesmaids could ever hope to capture the bridal bouquet, but in this instance each will share the same thrill in having part of the exquisite bouquet.

There is a story behind the orchids which piqued our interest, as W. D. Thomason, president of one of the floral shops in the city, is giving the lovely bride the orchids as a sentimental and friendly gesture to her father, Dr. W. Troy Bivings, in whose marriage Mr. Thomason acted as best man. These men have been lifelong friends and we can think of no nicer way of displaying friendship than giving orchids on this auspicious occasion.

The young bride and bridegroom of next Friday have received an array of exquisite gifts, one of which is particularly interesting. It is a bronze and silver card holder for two decks of cards sent by Dr. George Crile, of Cleveland, Ohio, a close friend of Dr. Bivings, and one of the most famous and prominent members of the American medical profession. The gift was accompanied by an appropriate personal note from the sender, which is treasured by Helen. A handsome Sheffield silver service, composed of six pieces, augmented by a large tray, has been given the young couple by their bridesmaids and groomsmen, which has a prominent place in the array of beautiful gifts on display at the home of the bride on Wesley road.

W. C. T. U. Editor Issues New Year Greetings on Official Page for Today

By M. FRANCES MEADORS BURGHARD, of Macon, W. C. T. U. Editor.

A happy and prosperous new year to readers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union column. "We pledge ourselves anew to labor and to pray for the abolition of the liquor traffic. Wherever it has been relegalized it has brought back every former evil for which it was responsible, with others growing out of our changed social order. Therefore, we commit ourselves to a campaign to utterly eradicate the unsocial liquor business, to retain our prohibition law, and for its observance by the masses, and enforcement for unruly violators.

"Since alcohol is a habit-forming drug there is but one safe course in regard to it—abstinence from its use. The alcohol in the drink has the same habit-forming nature whether the liquor is of low or high alcoholic content. In this age of speed its use is particularly dangerous. We ask our legislative body, soon to meet, and commercial interests to require total abstinence of air pilots, train operators, automobile drivers and all who are in any way responsible for the lives of others."

"Yesterday is a dream; tomorrow is a vision; today only is ours," is the way Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national W. C. T. U. president, began a convention address on the second part of the title, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." She continued by quoting from the Scriptures, "They shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee, for I am with thee, saith the Lord, to deliver thee."

Statements from Mrs. Smith's address are chosen at random, she said: "The money spent for liquor is not produced from a new source. The liquor business merely readjusts expenditures. Sir Philip Snowden says: 'Alcohol does not produce wealth. It destroys wealth to manufacture pauperism, crime, lunacy, disease, poverty and death.'

"Less food is purchased, so the grocer and the farmer suffer. Less shoes and clothing are purchased, so those merchants suffer. The use of milk products fell off in proportion as beer sales rose.

"A children's milk campaign is being carried on by women's organizations under the consumers' counsel of agricultural adjustment administration. A survey of 29,385 typical families in 59 typical cities shows that the average consumption of milk is 27 per cent below the lowest quantity considered necessary for health.

"The revenue from a legalized liquor traffic is for any town, city or state a poorer bargain than if brigands or thieves were thus licensed to prey upon the people. In the case of the saloon, not only the money, but the health, the character and the very lives of the people are continually jeopardized.

"The first money-cost of revenue is the cost of enforcement. Great emphasis was laid by its opponents upon the cost of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. Government records show, however, the receipts from the enforcement program. The figures authorize the statement, that prohibition enforcement cost the citizens of this country a little less than 5 cents each.

"There must be charged against revenue the cost of drink-caused poverty, to relieve which both public and private charity is necessary; the cost of drink-caused crime, of drink-caused insanity—all horrid results. Revenues will mount in time as the habit its formed, but it is the net revenue which profits. Subtract from the gross revenues all the expenses of enforcement bureaus and employes and there is little but misery and crime left.

"Not to be measured by money is the inefficiency of the workingman because of drink, the privation of the home, the lack of education in that home, the lowering of citizenship standards, all caused by drink."

Let Georgia hold to her prohibition law. "Of this we may be sure, prohibition of beverage alcohol is right. It is the law of the body; the law of the mind; the law of God for the soul and the nation; the law of industry; the law of economics; the law of decency; the law of the survival of civilization.

"Wet triumphs cannot change the nature of alcoholic intoxicants nor the laws of human physiology or psychology. The eighteenth amendment may be destroyed by political influence, but neither a political party platform nor a proclamation of a president can repeal the effects of alcohol. Therefore, beverage alcohol will some time be abolished."

The thousands of members of the Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance Union and their thousands of friends are looking to the coming legislature to keep beverage alcohol outlawed in our state for the sake of God and the home and native land.

The Consolidated Forces for Prohibition in Georgia, of which the W. C. T. U. is a part, will hold a prohibition rally in Macon at Mulberry Street Methodist church on Tuesday, January 8. All W. C. T. U. members are among those invited to attend.

Oakland City Club.

Mrs. A. C. Cawthorn, of 1283 Avon avenue, will be hostess to the Oakland City Garden Club on Thursday, January 10, from 10 to 12 o'clock. Mrs. Leila Turner has planned an interesting program and dish gardens will be on display.

"FATTY" HE CALLED ME WHEN I WAS LONGING FOR LOVE

But I got rid of the fat that was ruining my romance

When you're fat you're just a joke and you might just as well stop looking for romance—I found that out to my sorrow.

I figured that the Artists' Ball would be the event that would settle matters one way or another between him and me—but he didn't even take me to the Ball! Worse than that, I could see by the way he called me "Fatty" that he wasn't considering me seriously as the future "Mrs."

I saw right away that fat stood in the way of my romance. I missed out on the ball, but in a few weeks he began to take a fresh interest in me because my ugly fat began to slip away. I had started using the pleasant Marmola method of reducing. There is no doubt but what Marmola certainly saved my romance for me.

This is a story that many unhappy women might truthfully tell—love, romance, happiness slipping away from them, just for lack of the body element which Marmola supplies.

But thousands of women who are inclined to be fat are saving themselves embarrassment, disappointment, unhappiness, by taking the Marmola treatment. Actually, more than 20 million packages of Marmola have been purchased since 1907.

Day by day Marmola assists the body to function in the reduction of excess fat. The excess fat simply slips away, revealing the slender trim figure underneath.

Start today! Just see for yourself in the first few days—how wonderfully Marmola helps you reduce. Make a note of it now—MARMOLA—and don't fail to get it at once at any dealer's. You'll certainly bless the day that you bought a package of this marvelous reducing agent.

Fifth District P.-T. A. To Present Legislation at Next Assembly

Proposed legislation to be supported at the forthcoming session of the Georgia general assembly was discussed by the fifth district division, Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, Wednesday at the Piedmont hotel. One hundred delegates attended the meeting. Among measures to receive active P.-T. A. indorsement are: Uniform motor vehicle code, uniform state narcotic law, sterilization bill, food handlers' bill, permissive library bill, uniform school code, outlaw the sale of fireworks, establish fire escapes on school buildings, and the child labor law.

Through members of every local association it is planned to contact representatives of respective communities and urge them to vote for the bills presented. Dr. Theo Toepel, mental hygiene chairman, appearing before the group, advocated more physical check of students engaged in competitive athletics in school. He stated that harm has been caused in some instances to pupils who entered athletic competition when not in proper physical form. On motion, a recommendation of the board of managers was adopted, to communicate with boards of education in the fifth district, suggesting that boys and girls be given a physical test before entering competitive athletics.

Miss Allie Mann, president of the Georgia Education Association, spoke on Georgia and Georgia schools. She deplored the state rank in education and urged aggressive steps through legislation and otherwise to bring about a remedial condition. She expressed fear that unless definite and drastic action is taken in behalf of the public schools they will be left stranded, while every other enterprise recovers from the depression.

Mrs. J. D. Thomas, new recording secretary, succeeding Mrs. J. D. Evans, resigned, was introduced. Announcement was made by Mrs. Elmo Moore, parent education chairman, that Miss Alice Sowers, national parent education chairman, will speak from Washington, D. C., over a national broadcast, including WSB Thursday, January 24.

Dr. Theo. Toepel announced that a meeting of health chairmen of the fifth district will be held on the eleventh floor of city hall, Wednesday, January 9, at 10:30 o'clock. A humorous skit, "An Unparliamentary Procedure," was presented by a group of delegates. Mrs. Charles Trowbridge, president, presided at the conference session. Invocation was offered by Mrs. J. B. Richards, parliamentarian.

Following the meeting a luncheon was held at 1 o'clock, at which M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, spoke. His address dealt with a review of the problems of education confronting the state. Fulton county council was hostess at the luncheon.

Mayfair Club Celebrates Holiday At Brilliant Biltmore Dinner-Dance

Mayfair Club celebrated New Year's Eve with a dinner-dance held at the Atlanta Biltmore on Monday. This elaborate affair assembled the club's members and their guests who took part in bidding farewell to the old year and in welcoming 1935. The Pompeian ballroom was attractively decorated to carry out the holiday motif. The tables were decorated and placed around either side of the ballroom. In the center of the tables were baskets filled with pink and red roses. Amusing favors and noisemakers completed the table decorations.

Dinner was served from 10 to 12 o'clock, at which time special numbers featured the entertainment. At the midnight hour, amid the blowing of horns and noisemakers, 1935 was ushered in and members and their guests enjoyed dancing until 5 o'clock in the morning. After the dance, breakfast was served. Covers were placed for the following members and visitors Mr. and Mrs. Jake Abelson, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gross, Md. and Mrs. Morris Abelman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Hermer, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. Abner G. Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hirsh, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brandes, Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Dean deOvies Speaks To Atlanta Council Of Parents, Teachers

Dean Raimundo de Ovies addressed the Atlanta Council of Parents and Teachers on "Home and Character Building in the Home" at its meeting Thursday morning, in Sterchi's tea room. "The home is the natural garden for the development of child life. In the home the child learns faithfulness, joy in co-operation, regular habits and the value of making his individual contribution," said the speaker. According to Dean de Ovies, the home, the school and the community are so intimately linked and so vitally related that it is hard to separate them. "The school is the parent, the home is the teacher, and the community or the playground is the school in which the child learns to exercise fair play and self-dependence," said Dean de Ovies. He said that character is the supreme achievement and the opportunities which one has in life depend largely on the faith which his character inspires in others. He stated that in the field of present-day education the need is not only for child education, but for parent education as well. He urged parents to deal intelligently with their own children.

Home service department of the Atlanta P.-T. A. council presented Walter Herbert. Assisted at the piano by Lawrence Neilson, Mr. Herbert sang "Home Sweet ome" and "The Hills of Home." Mrs. Byron Mathews, past president of the Atlanta Council of Parents and Teachers, has been appointed a member of the national safety conference. Mrs. Mathews is the only Georgia woman upon whom this honor has been conferred. Splendid reports were made by the section chairmen. Mrs. D. R. Longino, the president, presided.

Lovely Atlanta Twins Pictured With Famous Uncle

Behold the Sage twins, lovely blonde Mary and beautiful brunette Margaret, who are flanking either side of their celebrated uncle, Oliver Hardy, the moving picture star. These erstwhile Atlantans, daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Sage, have been in Hollywood ever since last fall, and have taken part in such moving pictures as "Babes in Toyland" and "College Rhythm." The Misses Sage will appear with Bing Crosby in "Mississippi," his latest vehicle to be released at an early date, and they are making great progress in the moving picture field. They are exceedingly popular in the moving picture colony, and their charming presence adds luster to every social affair.

Mr., Mrs. Evans Fete Debutantes at Supper

Misses Suzanne Knox and Grace Eve, popular debutantes, were honored Saturday evening at the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Clement Evans entertained at their home on Brighton road.

The table in the dining room was overlaid with an imported lace cloth offset with silver candelabra at either end. In the center was an antique silver bowl filled with roses, snapdragons and white narcissus.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Cassels assisted the hosts in entertaining the guests who numbered 18. Later in the evening the entire group attended the dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Alpha Class Welcomes Mrs. Frank Wells.

A special home-coming program honoring Mrs. Frank Wells, who returns Sunday morning as teacher, is planned for the Alpha class at Wesley Memorial church.

Mrs. Wells for the past 16 years has been a member of the faculty of the Young People's Assembly of the North Georgia conference. She has recently served as superintendent of missions and Bible study for the Women's Missionary Society and of the Sunday school board of the North Georgia conference.

She served two years as teacher of the Alpha class and returns Sunday after two years' absence. A large number of former members will be present to greet Mrs. Wells Sunday morning.

All Saints' Group To Install Officers.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' church will be held Monday, January 7, at 3 o'clock in the parish house.

At this meeting the new officers will be installed: Mrs. Edward G. Warner, president; Mrs. John C. Hart, first vice president; Mrs. John Gilmore, second vice president; Mrs. W. B. Burwell, treasurer; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert E. Bruce; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Carter Prather; united thank offering custodian, Mrs. Thomas H. Morgan.

This auxiliary has functioned in the five fields of service, having met all its diocesan and parochial obligations, assisted in the work of the mission of Holy Innocents on Sixteenth street, N. W., and having taken an active part in the work of the Travelers' Aid of the city.

French Lecturer To Address Alliance

On Wednesday, January 9, at 3 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving Club, M. Raymond Lange will address the members of the Alliance Francaise of Atlanta and their friends on the subject of "European Politics and Psychology."

The son of a distinguished professor at the Sorbonne, Mr. Lange is a knight of the Legion of Honor, doctor of laws and a former student and graduate of the world-famed Ecole des Sciences Politiques. Since 1927 he has been United States correspondent of the Parisian evening daily newspaper, L'Intransigeant. One of the most striking figures of contemporary French journalism, Mr. Lange is a veteran of the World War, in which he took an active part, enlisting at the age of 20 in 1914 and remaining in the army until 1919.

Editor of the Rappel until 1923, he was then called to the L'Intransigeant, where he became secretaire general, and later Washington correspondent. There he has made countless friends, both among political personages and newspapermen and in the social world. Mr. Lange has often addressed groups of the Alliance Francaise, but this will be the first opportunity for Atlantans to hear this charming and forceful speaker, who will address the members in his native language, French.

Miss Starbuck Honors Debutantes, Visitor

An interesting event of Saturday was the luncheon at which Miss Ernestine Starbuck was hostess in compliment to a duo of popular debutantes, Misses Laura Lee Patillo and Juanita Gresham, and an attractive visitor, Miss Irene Lyon, of Washington, D. C., who is the guest of Miss Gresham.

The beautifully appointed luncheon table held in the center an arrangement of roses, snapdragons and sweet peas, in tones of pink and rose. Other details of decoration were carried in shades of pink.

Covers were placed for Miss Patillo, Miss Gresham, Miss Lyon, Misses Louise McIntyre, Dorothy Brumby, Dorothy Ewing, Maude Thompson, Frances Starbuck, Lucia Smith, Leona Brooks, Judy Beers, Elzie Grace Brown, Eloise Gresham, Mrs. W. H. Chambers and Mrs. Rufus King, and the hostess, Miss Starbuck.

ATLANTA, GA., JAN. 6, 1935.

TO WAR ON SCREW WORM

Aroused by revelations contained in reports published by The Constitution from all parts of Georgia of the imminent danger of the destruction of the livestock industry in the state from the ravages of the screw worm, announcement is made that three government agencies will combine in a determined war against the pest that has already cost the livestock breeders of the state thousands of dollars.

Miss Gay Shepperson, federal relief administrator for Georgia, has set aside $5,000 and will supply as many workers as may be required when a definite program for control has been arranged.

Senator George has introduced in congress a bill calling for the appropriation of $200,000 to be used in carrying on a finish fight against the newest threat to southern agricultural interests.

State Geologist Yeomans has arranged an impressive display in the capitol building, revealing the tremendous losses already incurred in the state by this pest, and a state appropriation will be sought when the legislature meets on January 14.

With state and federal officials fully aroused to the critical condition existing, it is assured that an intense campaign will soon get under way for the checking and control of a pest that is far worse in its potential threat to all livestock in the state than was the boll weevil to cotton.

Thousands of cattle in single counties have been attacked by the screw worm, with the mortality in many instances running as high as 12 to 15 per cent. Hogs, sheep, poultry and wild life have also been attacked, and unless the ravages of the pest are checked the farmers of the state will receive a crushing blow.

The fight against the screw worm should be financed by the federal government, because animals have already been infected in states adjoining Georgia and unless the progress of the pest is checked it will rapidly spread all over the south. Precedent for the appropriation is to be found in the huge sums, many times as large as that asked by Senator George, that have been spent in other states in the eradication of pests carrying threat of far less damage.

No time should be lost in mapping out a campaign that will carry the war against the screw worm into every county in the state so both the FERA and federal appropriations can be put immediately to work.

THE HAUPTMANN TRIAL

As the trial of Richard Bruno Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh "eaglet" three years ago proceeds, public interest will increase apace, until when the time for the verdict comes this little New Jersey community will again be as conspicuously in the news as it was when the nation was shocked by the news of the fate that befell the Lindbergh babe.

The keen and eager interest of the public is natural, not only because of the admiration and sympathy felt for Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, but because of the threat of the kidnaper to every home in the nation. There will be little of the maudlin in this interest. The forces of law and order in the United States have conducted a three-year search for the Lindbergh kidnapers not in a spirit of revengefulness, but in order that, once and for all, kidnapers might be put on notice that the American home will be protected. As pointed out by Kathleen Norris, noted American writer, in an article in The Constitution:

It is not only for the exquisite Lindbergh child that we have made this fight, and that we will fight on. It is for every child in America who lies tucked up warm and safe in his little bed tonight, it is for every young father and mother, as well as this bereaved young father and mother. And the wretchedness of it—the suffering of it—the shame of it—will not be lost if they help to show the world the value that America sets upon the life of one beloved baby.

Hauptmann is defended by able and successful lawyers. He has been and will be afforded every opportunity to prove his innocence, and should he be able to do so, the search will go on for those responsible for one of the most heartless crimes in American history.

If Hauptmann is found guilty, an opinion undoubtedly held by most Americans, he will have had a fair trial, unaffected in its outcome by prejudice and passion, and his conviction will write a new and encouraging chapter in the annals of American justice.

A verdict of guilty will be solemn warning to those who would commit such offenses in America that in future crime here will bring as certain and sure retribution as it does in the British empire.

JURY SEEKS POLICE CHANGES

Careful consideration should be given to the recommendation contained in the presentments of the November-December grand jury that sweeping changes be made in the structure of the police department.

The jury recommends that the present police committee of council, which has final authority over the department, be abolished and that in its place there be appointed a police commissioner who would have full authority and responsibility for the make-up of the force and for its activities in combating crime, this commissioner to be appointed by the mayor.

The jury also favors the abolition of civil service in the department, removal of all its personnel who are not physically or mentally efficient and the division of the city into precincts with a ranking official of the department in charge of each precinct.

The proposed set up is in line with the organization method adopted by most of the large cities of the country and which has been uniformly successful in effecting an improvement in crime conditions.

The present structure of the Atlanta police department is in many respects antequated and inadequate. Full control and authority is not lodged with the chief, but in a political board consisting of five members of city council.

The present board has co-operated in a highly commendable manner with the chief, but the experience of the past emphasizes that the same wise attitude cannot be expected from every board. Sooner or later a board will come into control that will be actuated in the discharge of its responsibilities more by selfish political reasons than by the desire to give the city the best possible police protection. Such a board can quickly wreck the efficiency of the department.

The present system is fundamentally wrong. The chief is not chief in fact, but little more than a figurehead who must refer to the board all matters of importance, including the personnel of the force whose activities he must direct. Such a system inevitably leads to a let-down in discipline, and is a constant invitation to the introduction of politics into the conduct of the department.

No chief can be held primarily responsible for failure to successfully combat crime conditions when he has not the final say as to the policies of the department or in the selection or promotion of the men upon whom he must depend to execute his orders.

Under the plan suggested by the grand jury, and which has worked with outstanding success in Detroit and other cities throughout the country, full and final authority would be lodged in a commissioner. If he made good he would be continued in office, but if he failed to measure up to his job he could at any time be replaced by some one better qualified.

Atlanta has long outgrown the swaddling clothes period of its existence, but the plan of operation of the police department has not. The grand jury has rendered a distinct service in calling attention to this needed reform and at the same time offering a better plan that is in successful operation elsewhere.

RELIEF PLUS REHABILITATION

The report of Miss Gay Shepperson, Georgia relief administrator, that the 5,354 unemployed families placed on farms during 1934 are already self-supporting, illustrates the soundness and wisdom of the back-to-the-farm movement as a solution of the unemployment problem.

Not for many years, if ever, will industry and trade be able to furnish work again for a large portion of the millions of men and women who left the farms of the country during the boom years and migrated to the industrial centers. Not only were conditions of employment abnormal during the boom period, but it is to be expected that the machine will continue in future, as it has in the past, to displace thousands of workmen every year.

It is certain, therefore, that unemployment in the cities and industrial communities will remain at a high figure, even with the return of normal conditions. The only way to solve the problem, relieving the cities of the heavy burden of care of the unemployed and putting dependent families again on a basis of self-support, is by sending them back to the farm from which most of them came. Statistics gathered by the United States bureau of census reveal that from 70 to 80 per cent of the unemployed in the cities are former farm families.

No danger is incurred that further surpluses will be brought about in the so-called cash crops, as under the federal control of production these families can raise but little, if any, of these crops. They can, however, produce all the food and feed necessary for their own upkeep and supply their farm stock, and, in addition, enough unrestricted vegetables to bring them in a moderate amount of money.

The Georgia families returned to the farm were installed in their new homes, and aid continued to them until they became self-supporting, at an average cost of only $126.50. Had they remained on the relief rolls in the cities, their upkeep would, in most instances, have cost considerably more, and they would still be dependent.

Miss Shepperson announces that 10,000 families have already been accepted for removal back to farms and that they will be located as rapidly as possible, at a reduced cost of less than a hundred dollars.

It is unfortunate that earlier efforts to get a nation-wide back-to-the-farm movement under way were unsuccessful. The ranks of the unemployed would have been far smaller than they now are, many millions of dollars in relief funds saved, and thousands of families spared the necessity of continuing in a dependent condition.

During the periods of the country's soundest prosperity the rural population has been approximately 10,000,000 larger than the urban population. This ratio was reversed during the boom days, and while several million former farmers who came to the cities have returned to their rural homes, it is probable that there are still more urban than rural dwellers in the country.

Not until this unhealthy distribution of the population is rectified can the unemployment problem be solved. It is gratifying that such marked success is being met by the efforts of the relief organization in re-establishing former farm families in rural districts and in aiding them to become self-supporting.

AN INADEQUATE CODE

The inadequacy of the Georgia automobile code as shown by comparison with the codes of other states, is forcefully commented upon in a communication, appearing on the opposite page, by Ernest L. Rhodes, prominent Atlanta business man.

It is certain that sweeping revisions of the Georgia code will be sought in legislation to be introduced at the approaching session of the general assembly and the members of the legislature should carefully study, as outlined by Mr. Rhodes, the laws bearing on the ownership and operation of automobiles that have proven successful in other states in increasing safety on the public thoroughfares and lessening the traffic in stolen cars.

The code of probably no state in the Union is as antiquated and insufficient as the one in existence in Georgia. At best it is a makeshift affair, and the large number of cars stolen in the state, and the tremendous loss in life and property, each year demonstrates its inefficiency.

Progressive states like Massachusetts, Virginia, Kentucky and California long since realized the necessity for strict and adequate automobile laws, not only for the protection of life and property, but in order that fire, theft and accident insurance rates should be kept down. Because Georgia is lacking in such protective and preventive laws we are near the top of the list among the states in both accidents and car thefts.

As a result hundreds of thousands of dollars more are being spent by Georgia motorists for insurance than by the car owners in other states. The rate in Atlanta is from 10 to 20 per cent higher than in cities in states with strict state and municipal regulations.

The re-working of the Georgia code will be a tedious and troublesome task, but the legislature should go about it earnestly and thoroughly in order that proper protection may be offered to automobilists and insurance rates be brought down.

REPUBLICAN RECOVERY

The 20-point recovery program issued by Representative Snell, republican minority leader in the house, is neither constructive nor consistent. It is clearly a document adopted in the hope of attracting to the republican camp those who are, for any reason, dissatisfied with the policies of the Roosevelt administration.

It is not surprising that Senator Norris, republican independent, declined to comment on what he terms a "conglomeration," nor that Senator McNary, republican senate leader, should have side-stepped comment with the statement that "it has never been submitted to our fellows."

Certainly the program contains no real hope for the rebuilding of the republican party to a strength where it can again be a serious threat to continued democratic control of the government.

In many respects, the proposed program would be both obstructive and destructive of the democratic program that has in 18 months brought the country a far distance from the economic depths which had been reached when Franklin D. Roosevelt took over the reins and brought renewed hope to a despairing people by immediate and courageous action to stem the tide of depression.

The republican statement calls for a balanced budget and sound money, and at the same time urges the bonus, old-age pensions and unemployment insurance, a thinly disguised scheme to attract the support of both conservatives and radicals. It sounds again the spurious charge that the freedom of the press has been threatened, and rants against the "extravagant, bureaucratic government of the present administration."

All the clap-trap, reactionary arguments that have been advanced by disgruntled politicians and selfish interests since the democratic administration took charge are rehashed into a program so insistent as to entirely justify the statement of Senator Robinson, democratic senate leader, that "it is so general as to merely indicate a spirit of opposition without making clear the basis of that opposition."

No wonder that the republican leaders in the senate shied off from such a program. They are astute enough to know that instead of attracting strength to the party, its chief result will be to increase unity in the democratic ranks. It is surprising that a leader generally so politically wise as Representative Snell should have been willing to put forward any such obviously makeshift a program.

And some people who are self-possessed have a very small possession.

East Can See Little Good in Occident

Technical Superiority Only Keeps West on Top, Holds Van Paassen

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN,
European Correspondent of The Constitution.

"In the name of Aallah the compassionate, the merciful! Greetings to all true believers. We, Riza Khan, Shah of Persia, shadow of God on earth, king of kings, exalted among the princes, potentate of potentates, lord of Asia, etc., etc., etc. . . . do hereby decree, order and command our subjects to the ends of the earth to cease forthwith and forever all converse, intercourse, speech and relations with foreigners within these our domains of Persia . . . to the end that Persia, as is her due, may be exalted among the peoples of the earth and . . . that the nations, nationalities and tribes under our sceptre shall henceforth be wholly free from the tutelage, intrigue and commercial enslavement of other states or their agents who seek not Persia's weal but their own enrichment. . . ."

There, in a much abbreviated form, but with the substance intact, you have a decree of the shah of Persia.

It makes the shah's whole policy as clear as the sun that shines over Teheran. The shah is a nationalist. That explains everything. It explains the abrogation of the Anglo-Persian oil concession, the abrogation of air line monopolies, the agitation against the Perso-soviet trade agreement and the more increasing hostility against foreigners in general in this land.

* * * *

Although not a betting man I dare wager that the nationalist newspapers have put the blame for the cancellation of the Anglo-Persian oil deal on Moscow.

But it is not in Moscow that Shah Riza Khan has gone to school. That potentate of potentates, it now becomes clear, went to school in . . . Ottawa. His teachers are not called Volodarsky, Molotoff or Stalin. Their names are Bennett, Chamberlain and Baldwin. The shah has been an adept pupil, too, it seems.

"You build a nice wall, I build a nice wall," he seems to have said. "You think, in your western wisdom, that the British empire will recover her prosperity by shutting out the rest of the world, well the medicine ought to work as well in my domains. Persia is closed from now on."

The first thing to be born in mind about Persia's new nationalist policy is the general situation in the orient. The mentality of the east is changing. The war is responsible for this. The war gave the east a new conception of the west. It laid the west bare to the gaze of uncounted millions of orientals. Who shall affirm that it was an inspiring spectacle. The east saw right through the pretenses of the hurrah-patriots. They knew over there that the struggle was a struggle for markets and nothing else.

They know in the east that western assurances of good faith have never excluded the subsequent employment of violence or the threat of violence. They also know that the west does not come, as it pretends, merely to bring the blessings of modern progress, or the sweetness of the gospel's message. The west comes for the sake of profits and dividends.

To the easterner's logic, the attempt to universalize western civilization appears as a pretext to mask domination and the missionaries from the west as mere advance agents of commercial penetration. This does not mean that I personally think every missionary a conscious agent of imperialism. I merely affirm what the over-great majority of orientals think of missionary endeavor.

In the east they have begun to observe and compare. They are perhaps a long time in reaching conclusions. But in the end they do see clearly.

* * * *

It is the greatest possible fallacy to think that we are considered altruistic benefactors in the east. The reverse is true. On the whole we are hated. We are detested. We are despised as men of blood and lies and as cruel taskmasters. It is only our technical superiority which keeps us on top. Morally and ethically we appear to the easterners as hypocrites.

This is not merely the case now. It has been so ever since the east made our acquaintance. Uilenspiegel said once: "They hate me, but I can't deny that they have a good reason!" That man, at least, saw the reality.

Whereas, the east was for long inclined to accept our physical superiority in the spirit of oriental resignation, the war opened its eyes. All our intellectual, social and moral values were thrown into that war. They came out of it greatly damaged, some of them irreparably mutilated.

And now the east has discovered among other things that by following our example, that is, by taking and utilizing our mechanical equipment, by adopting our form of egotistical nationalism and also our political and moral dualism, that is to say our method of setting up moral precepts for the individual, which are not made applicable to the collectivity, to the state; by doing all these things, the east believes that it can become strong in a western sense. We have got them so far that they are beginning to follow our example. This change, this evolution is growing more rapid every day.

We are westernizing the east. That is to say we are supplanting the eastern mentality of docile resignation with a will to break away from alien tutelage. We are infusing a spirit of nationalism in the east. Kemal Pasha, bosom friend of Riza Kahn, liberated the Ottoman empire from French and British control. Kemal, nearest to the west, had the best opportunities to study our methods. Amanullah of Afghanistan tried next. He failed. Now it's Riza Khan's turn. The future will show whether the ex-stable boy who became shah will succeed or fail. But blame him for trying we cannot. For we are showing him the way every day.

High Tobacco Prices Boost N. C. Business

Editor Constitution: I was in eastern North Carolina during November in the "tobacco belt." I saw the farmers selling their tobacco at an average price of 30 cents per pound and spending money like water. Every store was crowded with customers. At Wilson by November 15 they had sold 45,000,000 pounds and turned loose $13,500,000. This money had gone into the farmers' pockets that have been empty for years. (Last year they received 13 cents per pound). I was told that one automobile dealer had a solid train load of cars come to Wilson at one time and had cleaned up $20,000 for the season.

Everybody was jubilant and happy. I have not seen such prosperity and rush since 1926 in Florida.

The Last Frontier

New York Skylines

BY CHARLES ESTCOURT JR.
Copyright, 1934 for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—It is possible the last New Year's Eve roisterer has reached home by this time, though for a long time this week it did not seem that would ever happen.

All the quietness has gone out of life here. The spirit of confetti and balloons still lingers after what experienced hotel and cabaret men call the greatest razzle-dazzle a year's end ever has seen. While most of the celebrants by this time have found other reasons for buying champagne, there are those who still lie amid their serpents and others who can talk of nothing else but that night when high hats were visible even in the taxi-dance parlors.

On New Year's Eve there were more people in the Hotel Astor's ballroom than on any other single night in the history of this 30-year-old landmark. There was more money spent in the Waldorf-Astoria during the confusion attending the birth of 1935 than on any other night in the 41 years the name has been in existence. And at the Hotel McAlpin they were swamped with requests for quaffs of its famous yellow chartreuse, quoted at $127 a bottle.

There were some records hung up that night. The wettest party was held in the Park Central swimming pool, where some 500 persons splashed amid floating empties. The trickiest feat was accomplished by Walter Chrysler Jr., who drank only malted milk while piloting the gigantic Betzi Beaton, the musical comedy star, through very many gay places. And the most baffling was pulled off by Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, whose table at a French cabaret fronted clear on a stage where a balloon dance was taking place which would have brought a blush to the face of Sally Rand. Mr. Schwab never once left off his moody staring at his wineglass.

THE FIRE-ALARM CREW.

The most troubled time of all was spent by the patrolmen who mounted guard over the fire-alarm boxes on the Broadway corners to prevent false alarms. Their orders were strict. They were not to leave their posts under any pressure.

All through the night they were approached by wavering celebrants. "There is a fire," one would say. And a patrolman would reply, "If there is, you'll stay by me until the engines come." The celebrant would go away. They came in waves, hungering for "fun." They did not stop coming until 8 o'clock in the morning.

POST MORTEM.

There is to be considered now the forlorn gentleman who has to do in a business way with Emily Post, the good manners despot.

He approached his first meeting with some trepidation. Was his tie correct and did he know to just what degree a bow from the hips must descend? He navigated the doorway of her apartment quite correctly, for an instant hesitating between waiting outside with hat on or off. On or off? On or off? He cudgeled his brain and settled at last by holding his fingers to his hat as if he were about to take it off. But he got through all right and gave his hat and coat to a maid.

Wandering dismally down a bright hall leading to the room in which Mrs. Post awaited him, he was too lost in bleakness to notice a rug spread across a treacherous bit of floor. "That," he is wont to say now, "was no rug. It was a magic carpet." For as he stepped upon it, it took wings and he sailed full tilt, arms outflinging in alarm, into a room in which his mind's eye had seen him glide elegantly. It did not make matters much easier when he discovered that the only thing he could think to say at this crisis was "Whoopee." His abrupt entrance, his witty sally, all echoed in silence.

Ferocity brooded in his breast as he sat down to lunch. He jabbed his fork truculently into the chop. His blow, it seems, did not land true. The chop sped across the plate, plowed through a mass of vegetables, spattering them, and soared into the air. Our man caught it in midflight, and flung it wildly back to the plate. The adventures of the aerial chop were not yet over. On its return flight, it made a landing in a pool of gravy. The gravy streaked across the table, across his vest. The situation was pretty desperate.

Our man transfixed his hostess with a savage glare. "Now," he complained, "what's a guy to do in a case like this!" It was more a protest than a pose.

"I did not see a thing," replied Mrs. Post brightly.

TEXT AND PRETEXT

BY M. ASHBY JONES

"Hasten Slowly"

Of course this old Latin proverb is totally at variance with the "peppy" philosophy of the day, which shouts the slogan, "Let's Go," whether there is a very definite goal or not. It is, too, a challenge to one of the favorite texts of preachers, seeking to vitalize the activities of their membership. With what earnest emphasis they announce: "The King's business requires haste." Then they proceed to preach on the importance and urgency of religious service.

Someone made the startling discovery that Shakespeare "is just made up of familiar quotations." Well! That is pretty much the case with the Bible. So filled is this remarkable book with apt sayings, terse exhortations, appropriate mottoes, and epigrammatic truths, that one familiar with its writings, may find a "proof text" to back up well-nigh any argument, on any question in debate. Here is to be found the flagrant misuse of the scriptures. Many preachers look upon it as a book of "texts," and religious controversialists, lay and clerical, use it as an arsenal from which to select their weapons in religious battles. So instead of reading the Bible in search of the truth, they go looking for that which will prove the correctness of positions which they have already taken.

Haste of the Hypocrite.

So this text, "The King's Business Requires Haste," used to speed up the workers, is a striking illustration. David, from whom the sentence is quoted, so far from being on the "King's business," was fleeing from the hostile pursuit of King Saul. When, in his haste, he reached the tabernacle he demanded of the priest weapons, giving as his excuse, that he had left his own because of the haste with which he had left on "the King's business." A shrewd piece of deceit.

A fraud is nearly always in a hurry. A lie is on the run, nervously afraid that the truth will catch up with it. A falsehood cannot afford to abide in one place for very long, for fear it may become known. The false moves rapidly to avoid examination. This is the philosophy of "sleight-of-hand" tricks. Their success depends upon the rapidity of movement. So counterfeits must be "passed" in a hurry. The imposter's appeal is always an urgent one, which cannot afford to await any investigation.

Of course, I am not making the sweeping statement, that all haste and hurry is fraudulent, but the presumption is against the man or the enterprise, which can't wait for reasonable consideration. It is well to be suspicious of the man who insists that you "sign now," because there is no time to read the document, or, who urges you to "buy now," because the opportunity will not wait. The quick trade is apt to be a trick trade.

There is sound reason for this attitude. The advocate of any cause or enterprise, who is unwilling to wait for decision or acceptance, is usually revealing a lack of faith in his own cause. Imitations and disguises cannot afford to wait, because they cannot stand close scrutiny, or the light of reasonable examination. One who will not consent to wait, at least, suggests that he is afraid to wait.

Haste and Waste.

In this great business age in which we live, where time is an important element, and "results" are demanded in all enterprises, we are easily imposed upon by the fallacy, that busy people are always in a hurry, and rapidity means efficiency. "Something doing every minute," is a very attractive advertisement, without any promise of the quality or purpose of the activity. "Nothing doing," has the finality of death.

The result is that too often men act without thought, and act badly. They work without preparation, and their work is cheap and shoddy. It is easier to work with your hands, than to think with your mind. The nervous urge to action is an enemy to thought, and so much that is "done in haste, is repented in leisure." The only work which is worth the doing, is the translation of a considered idea into appropriate form. The best work can't be done in a hurry, and the urge to haste is a temptation to fraud.

Nowhere has this nervous demand for haste been so hurtful as in the realm of religion. Here the increasing demand for "results," has produced every kind of superficial, and even fraudulent, exhibition of success. The constant fear of religious leaders of the verdict of "the report of things done," drives them to hasty and cheap methods. We need to remember that the most vital spiritual work is unseen, and that the foundations for the greatest religious enterprises are laid out of sight.

The Creator Himself works slowly, with the gradual growth of tiny seeds to abundant harvests. Modern science with its story of the universe in terms of multiple millenniums, is the revelation of God at work. No haste, and no halt. Faith in such a God begets patience, poise and peace. "Wait on the Lord," is no exhortation to idleness, but calls for a patience born of faith in the God of growth. It is not waiting for Him to do the work, but waiting expectantly for the results of the work done according to His laws. Thus may we enter another year. "Hasten slowly," because so often "haste makes waste."

State Issues Reviewed By Georgia Student

Editor Constitution: There are several reforms that the coming legislature should undertake to accomplish.

First—Our old county unit system should be abolished. There is no just reason for one man's vote counting more than another's. Under the county unit system the will of the people is often defeated.

There is no democracy to a system of this kind. One person's vote should count as much as another's.

The counties in Georgia should be consolidated and thereby save the taxpayers the money that is spent yearly for the upkeep of a useless drove of officeholders. Our counties were laid out in horse-and-buggy days and necessarily had to be small. But now with good roads and automobiles there is no more need for small counties.

Some of our counties have less than 5,000 population. It is impossible for these counties to maintain an efficient government without bleeding them white from taxation.

Our counties should be consolidated by half.

Free school books should be furnished, from first grade children to college students.

Our present ad valorem system of taxation should be abolished, and some system substituted that will place the burden of taxation on those most able to bear it.

The liquor question should be settled. The only fair way to settle the question is to refer it to the people. Let them vote on whisky and beer, and if a majority want one or both, then let us have what a majority want, but if a majority do not want it then let us do all in our power to enforce Georgia's prohibition law.

Value of Curb Market Stressed by Atlantan

Editor Constitution: My transactions with the market have been pleasant and profitable. The fair prices obtained there help me to stretch a very meager salary and obtain merchandise that under other circumstances might not be possible. Then it brings a class of wholesome country merchandise that is very hard to get elsewhere, and, in case of the closing of the curb, might be impossible to obtain altogether.

I am heartily in accord with every move for the betterment of our city and all concerned, but until some better plan than the abrupt closing of the curb can be found, here's hoping that the governor wins.

Review of Automobile Codes of Other States Reveals Inadequacy of Georgia Laws on Ownership and Operation

Editor Constitution: It has been with great interest that I have read the many editorials on automobile accidents in Georgia. Might I here say that Georgia virtually has no laws governing traffic on the highways in comparison to other states, nor special means of enforcing the few she has.

You will pardon me for quoting the laws of other states. In looking over the motor vehicle codes it seems that the code of Massachusetts, California and Virginia are the most outstanding, and I believe that the code of Virginia would come nearest to fitting the conditions of Geoorgia than any of the many codes that I have read, for a model for the incoming legislature of Georgia to use as their foundation, as it has been generally understood that the Georgia motor vehicle laws are to be very greatly revised at the incoming session of legislature, and if the law was made stronger I believe the automobile accidents would be decreased at least one-third.

That naturally would reduce automobile insurance in this state, as it is a well-known fact that rates are based on losses, and let me here say that Atlanta pays the highest automobile insurance rates of any similar city in the south. Likewise other cities in Georgia.

Rates

Richmond property damage $5,000 is $8.

Louisville fire coverage per hundred is 85 cents; theft, 80 cents; liability $5,000 to $10,000, $29.

Memphis property damage $5,000, $9; liability insurance $5,000 to $10,000, $27.

While Atlanta's rates, fire coverage, 99 cents; theft per hundred, 95 cents; collision, $18; property damage $5,000 is $10; liability insurance $5,000 to $10,000, $33.

Massachusetts' Code Strict.

Massachusetts has the most stringent of all automobile codes. First, no license is issued without a physical examination. Also at the same time an indemnity bond of $5,000 must be procured for protection of accidents.

Under the motor vehicle code comes automobiles of all kinds and classes, trucks, trailers attached to either passenger cars or to trucks, motorcycles and bicycles.

I find that most all the states require a certificate of ownership when the first plates are issued for the car, and also when the car is sold there must come again a bill of sale, which is registered and handled, or a record kept, the same as of real estate. In Virginia before an owner can purchase a license or sell a motor vehicle he must have a certificate of title. Also they must use several special forms if there are mortgages or liens upon the said car. Also when the car is sold or traded there is a special form for that, with duplicates and original sent to the highway department at Richmond. Also they use two or three different cards in regard to applications for motor license, with four or five cards attached to the card of application. That is, to those to whom license is being renewed.

Also I find that not only in Virginia, but in most all of the states, that the distribution of tags is made at the county seat by the treasurers, and also all registration of cars, transfers, etc., are there made upon the forms adopted by the highway departments, which as we well know is a great convenience to the owners of cars. The law of Virginia reads as follows:

Each agent shall be paid for the sale of each set of number plates a sum to be fixed by the said directors of the highway department not exceeding the sum of 25 cents. The person paying the license shall pay no premium for such service. The compensation provided shall belong to such agents for their services under this section, but from such compensation they shall pay all freight, cartage and postage, and any extra clerk hire, or other expense occasioned by such duties.

Note they limit the amount. Of course, cities like Atlanta, Macon, Savannah, or we might say in cities of over five thousand, they should be handled very cheaply.

Police Duty.

I also find that most all of the states have highway policemen. Some of the states, California and others, divide them up into zones. In Virginia I understand they have 10 and they are shifted all over the state of Virginia to inspect the cars. Also if there are any obstructions placed upon the highways it is their duty to remove or to see that same is removed—rocks, glass, etc. Also they report to the sheriff of the county seats of the county in which they are inspecting the automobiles.

These highways officers appointed are vested with the powers of a sheriff for the purpose of enforcing all criminal laws of the state, but it goes on to say that nothing in this act shall be construed as relieveing any sheriff, constable, commissioner of the revene or police officers from the duty of aiding and assisting in the enforcement of such laws. Nor shall any officer participate in any fine made in arresting any violator of the motor law. Also all officers making arrests must be uniformed at the time of such enforcement, or shall display his badge or other signs of authority. Also any peace officer who shall be in uniform or who shall exhibit his badge or other sign of authority, shall have the right to stop any motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer, upon request or signal, for the purpose of inspecting the said motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer, as to its equipment and operation, manufacturer's serial or engine number, and for the purpose of securing such other information as may be necessary.

Highways.

It is the duty of the highway policemen, as well as all other officers, to see that at all times the plates are placed on cars properly; that one is displayed on the front and on the rear, 12 to 16 inches on the front in a position to be clearly visible at 200 feet distance and will be maintained free of all foreign materials, and to a condition to be clearly legible. Also that all motor vehicles shall have their headlights and their tail lights showing one-half hour after sunset until the fo"owing morning, and that all disabled cars must be parked on the right side of the highway and showing a tail light at all times from sunset to sunrise.

No vehicle shall be stopped in such manner as to impede or interfere with or render dangerous the use of highways by others; no truck or bus or part thereof shall be stopped on the traveled portion of any highway outside of cities and towns for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers or loading or unloading merchandise or other commodities; unless the operator of such vehicle cannot leave the traveled portion of the highway with safety and, except upon one-way streets, as provided in this act, no vehicle shall be stopped except close to the right-hand curb or edge of the highway; provided that the council or other governing body of any city or town may, by general ordinance, provide for the regulation of parking within its limits and may authorize the city manager, the director of public safety, the chief of police, or other designated officer within said city or town to put said regulations into effect, including specifically the right and authority to classify vehicles with reference to parking, and to designate the time, place and manner such vehicles may be allowed to park on city or town streets, and may delegate to the appropriate administrative official or officials the authority to make and enforce such additional rules and regulations as parking conditions may require, and may prescribe penalties for failure to conform thereto.

Solicitation of transportation in motor vehicles forbidden. Penalty. It shall be unlawful for any person while upon any highway or the right-or-way of any highway, to endeavor by words, gestures or otherwise to beg, invite or secure transportation in any motor vehicle not engaged in passenger carrying for hire, unless said person knows the driver thereof or any passenger therein. Provided nothing in this section shall prohibit the solicitation of aid in the event of accidents or by persons who are sick or seeking assistance for the sick; and provided furthermore, that the exception for sickness shall apply only in cases of bonafide sickness in which an emergency exists. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty ($50.00) dollars or by imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both fine and imprisonment.

Inspection.

Most of the states require their automobiles to be inspected not less than once a year—many of them twice a year. In the state of Virginia and other states, the state designated upon a fee to be paid to the state certain garages where your car is inspected for lights, brakes, reflectors and mirrors, for which the garage makes no charge, and upon your car in the right-hand corner of the windshield, which color of label is changed yearly, they give their number, their name and date—that they have fully inspected your car and have met all the requirements as per the act. Of course their pay comes to find your car deficient in any of those devices.

Also when your car is inspected you are asked if you know the ordinary signals of the highway, that is—your arm up for a right-hand turn—straight out for a left-hand turn, and down that you are slowing down. Also that if you expect to make a right-hand turn you must work to the right-hand side of the highway, and if a left, you must work to the center.

All the aggressive states require a chauffeur to stand a physical and a mental examination, and be vouched for by an automobile dealer. Also the laws are very stringent in regard to minors, and many of the states will not issue a chauffeur's license or permit one under 16 to touch the wheel.

In many of the states speed trap evidence is inadmissible. No police or peace officer or other person shall use a speed trap as defined herein in arresting or participating or assisting in the arrest of any person or in securing evidence as to the speed of a vehicle for the purpose of a prosecution under this act, nor shall any evidence as to the speed of a vehicle operated on a highway by any person arrested for a violation of the provisions of this act be admitted in any court at the consequent trial of such person when such evidence relates to or is based upon the maintenance or use of a speed trap.

Speed Limits.

In regard to speed, many of the states have taken away the power of corporations to set the speed, and the following I find is about the average.

First. Fifteen miles an hour when passing a school during recess or while children are going to or leaving school during its opening and closing hours; provided that markers be placed on the highways so as to plainly show the location of such schools.

Second. Fifteen miles an hour in business district, as defined herein.

Third. Twenty-five miles an hour in a residence district as defined herein.

Fourth. Such speed as shall be fixed by the state highway commission or the legislative authorities of cities and towns for congested areas or at dangerous points on the highways, which areas or points are clearly indicated by markers or signs.

Fifth. Forty-five miles an hour under all conditions.

Virginia requires a record of stolen vehicles at least once a month. A bulletin is sent to the police department and the sheriffs throughout the state and same must be posted upon their public bulletin board of all motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers.

When registration shall be revoked. The division shall revoke, rescind and cancel registration of any motor vehicle, trailer, or semi-trailer which the division shall determine is unfit or unsafe to be operated upon the highway, or is not equipped with proper brakes, lights, horns, mirrors, etc.

Reckless Driving.

That seems to be one of the greatest menaces to the highways, and some of the states on second offense make it a jail penalty, but I quote you the law of Virginia on reckless driving. "Any person who drives a vehicle upon a highway recklessly, or at a speed or in a manner so as to endanger, or be likely to endanger life, limb or property of any person shall be guilty of reckless driving. Every person convicted of reckless driving under this section, shall be punished for a first violation by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by confinement in jail not to exceed thirty days, or both; for conviction for subsequent violations within twelve months from the date of a prior conviction for reckless driving, a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or he may be further punished by imprisonment in jail for a period of not less than ten days nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Most of the states today require a garage to keep a book in which a record is kept of all cars in their garages longer than twelve hours, showing the state license, the style of car and the owner. Also the state of Virginia requires all garage keepers to report any motor vehicle which shows evidence of having been involved in a serious accident, or struck by a bullet, to the nearest police station or sheriff's office within twenty-four hours after such motor vehicle is received, giving the engine number, registration number, name and address of the operator of such vehicle.

Tourists' Licenses.

There has been much comment and agitation in Georgia regarding having more tourist business and of having them to stay longer in the state. Georgia allows a foreign passenger car to stay in the state 30 days. I know of a party who had stopped over in Atlanta, with a Packard car carrying a foreign tag, a few years ago, and the car was at one of your leading garages, and after the car had been there 30 days there was a notice put upon the car that if it remained any longer Georgia license would have to be taken out, and at that time the license was $20 or such a matter. And the party remarked to me, "I am on my way to Florida and I will just go earlier than I expected."

The non-resident privileges, if I may quote a few states in comparison to Georgia, are:

California—Passenger cars unlimited.

Colorado—Unlimited.

Florida—Unlimited, provided the owner or operator not gainfully employed in commercial vehicles.

Illinois—Unlimited, provided no permanent residence established.

Louisiana—Four months.

Indiana—Ninety days.

North Carolina—Unlimited.

Ohio—Unlimited.

Virginia—Six months.

And so on. So one of the first things should be to make it reciprocal.

School Buses. Many of the states require that school buses shall be inspected once a month during the time that they are operated for carrying school children, and that the following must be kept in good order: Brakes, lights, horns, steering gear, windshield cleaner and number plate. Also that all buses must have windows that close securely, so as to prevent the entrance of rain, and so on.

Trucks and Trailers. There is much to be said in regard to their height, length, width and weight. Especially lights and their locations, reflect mirrors, etc.

Also I would say, as my letter is becoming too long, that all motorcycles are required to carry front and rear lights, as well as a license plate on the front. Also that all bicycles, 30 minutes after sundown until the next morning, on the front, are required to carry a light, and on the rear is to have a reflect mirror. And might I say here that if this law were in effect today in the city of Atlanta the accidents to boys would be cut 50 per cent.

Also would say that California and Massachusetts have included in their codes laws governing aviation, which I judge as yet is too early for Georgia.

Knowing Yourself

By JULIAN PENNINGTON.

This is one of a new series of articles in which Mr. Pennington will aid readers of The Constitution in deciding whether they are following the pursuit for which they are best qualified.

WORRY AND ITS CURE.

Worry upsets the glands in the brain and in the body, throwing poisons into the system, interfering with clear thinking, happiness and with health.

Worry is the mental - leopard that rips asunder talents and capacities, creating failure where success is otherwise possible.

Last spring in one of our national magazines a very forceful and scientific article dealing with harmful effects of worry and fear, came from the pen of Crile. May I quote just one of his many striking sentences?

"These are the warning dangers—the signals in red, against the mad pace of America, the chase of dollars and success; the dreadful worry and struggle of modern life. The great civilization conceived and built by man may be his own undoing, unless he learns how to control his emotions."

There are those who have a tendency to worry over events that have passed, which belong to yesterday, to last month or to many years ago, while others seem to confine their emotions to what tomorrow may have in store for them.

The cure for the first concerns us here and now, leaving the remedy for tendencies to worry over events yet to come, to future articles.

When man discovered that he had the ability for "selective attention" he came upon an extremely valuable psychological truth.

This is to your mental machinery what your selective-dial is to your radio. It is your tuning-in and station-changing mechanism.

As it is impossible to completely and fully think of something that is gloomy and at the same time think fully of something else that is cheerful, just so, your selective-mental-dial enables you to turn your attention and thought energy from one subject to another, as it were, from one mental station to another.

Therefore, we no longer attempt, wholly by the power of will, to prevent certain thoughts from worrying us. We now know an easier way.

When station GLOOM begins to upset us, we turn our attention to station SUNSHINE and turn it on with such force that we drown out the undesirable station.

The Dependable Man

He speaks by what he does—in deed not word;
The language of his life is seen—not heard;
For while he's full of deeds, deedless his tongue;
His speech is doing—which shows he is strong.
He's not easily provoked, nor made mad,
But when provoked hasten to make him glad.
His heart and hand are open to his friend
Who can lean on him, and on him depend.

If there were more of his kind here below,
There would be less talk, but more work to show.
We'll exchange the boaster—the bragging one,
For him who says nothing, but puts his armor on:
Give us brave men and true who dare to do!
Men whom we know will carry on, and carry through.

G. H. WADDELL.

To a Rose

Sweetest rose, fairest rose,
Rose of red and brightest sheen!
How serenely you repose
There upon your bush of green!

Fragile rose, sweetest rose,
In the sunlight's gentle ray—
Nodding in the breeze that blows—
What a lesson you portray!

For, oh, flower of my heart
'Tis but shortly you will stay;
Soon thy petals will depart
And thy beauty fade away.

Soon the winter winds will blow
With a cold and icy breath—
And the pretty rose will go . . .
Wafted on the wings of death!

So it is, on friend, with Life—
Make the most of it you may—
Like the rose in winter's strife
It will die and fade away!

The New Year

A record not recorded,
A book that's yet unread,
A hope that's still a hope
A tho't that's yet unsaid.

A dream to be fulfilled,
Or broken as it be;
Another chance to grasp
An opportunity.

Another change to live,
Another grade to make,
A lesson to be learned,
Another year at stake.

When Tides Are High

When tides are high, the ocean lays her face
Upon the sands of Georgia's Golden Isles,
And reaching back through narrow open space
She feels along the marsh for several miles
Until at last her fingers touch the main;
Then she's content to go away again.

Data About Georgians Who Fought In Texas War of Independence Sought

Editor Constitution: I would like to get information concerning the history of the Georgia companies that served in the Texas War of Independence and biographies of their personnel. I would like very much to receive corrections of names in the rosters and any additional names missing therefrom.

I am a member of the Texas centennial committee and am preparing a history of Fannin's command to be published by 1936, and desire the history to be as nearly accurate as is possible.

If there are any recollections or letters written by any of these men I would like to have them. Also any pictures of any of the men.

The Georgia battalion, of Colonel J. W. Fannin's regiment, which played such a notable part in Texas' War for Independence in 1835-1836, was composed of the following companies: Bullock's, Wynne's, Wadsworth's, Ticknor's, Wyatt's, King's.

The genesis of this famous command was Captain William Ward's "Georgia Company" organized at Columbus, Ga., in October, 1835. This company was financed by Dr. Robert Collins, a patriotic citizen of Macon, Ga., who loaned the organization about $1,500 in cash to purchase equipment. Other patriotic citizens of Georgia also assisted the cause financially. The outfit camped at Columbus until recruiting was completed to a total of about 145 men. William Ward was elected captain.

In the early part of November, 1835, the Georgia company marched to Montgomery, Ala., where it took passage on the steamer Ben Franklin for Mobile. At this place the company camped for a week, and was tendered a public banquet by the citizens. It then embarked on the steamer Convoy for New Orleans. The volunteers went into camp in the Creole capital for a week, and purchased the remainder of its equipment. On December 9, 1835, Captain Ward drew a draft on Dr. Collins for $1,200 to pay for these purchases. A few local recruits joined the company at New Orleans raising its strength to 150.

The company was transported from New Orleans to Velasco, Texas, by the schooner Pennsylvania. It landed in Texas December 20, 1835. At Velasco, Captain W. A. O. Wadsworth's South Carolina company was already in camp, and it was agreed to form a battalion with the Georgia and South Carolina companies. The component units were reorganized, the original Georgia company being divided into two companies, one being commanded by Captain Uriah J. Bullock, of Macon, Ga., the other by Captain James C. Wynne, of Gwinnette, Ga Captain Wadsworth continued in command of his company.

Georgia Battalion Formed.

The new battalion was named the "Georgia battalion" and Captain Ward was elected major.

The roster, such as we have of the Georgia units are:

Bullock's Company—F. M. Hunt, first sergeant; Bradford Fowler, second sergeant; Allison Arms, third sergeant; James B. Munson, first corporal; T. S. Freeman, second corporal; S. T. Brown, third corporal; G. M. Vigal, fourth corporal; Joseph Andrews, William S. Butler, George W. Cumming, Joseph Dennis, —— Ellis, —— Gibbs, Samuel G. Hardaway, John O. Moore, John Moat, L. T. Pease, Austin Perkins, John T. Spillers, Thomas I. Smith, James A. Stovall, William L. Wilkerson, —— Wood, Moses Butler, Isaac Aldridge, J. H. Barnwell, William A. J. Brown, Michael Devereaux, Charles Fine, Pierce Hammock, Drury H. Minor, Benjamin H. Mordecai, R. McKenzie, Robert A. Pace, Samuel Rowe, John S. Scully, Thomas Stewart, —— Tresevant, —— Weeks, James McCay, A. H. Osborne.

Wynne's Company—Wiley Hughes, first lieutenant; Daniel B. Brooks, second lieutenant; Anthony Banks, first sergeant; John S. Thorn, second sergeant; J. H. Callaghan, third sergeant; Wesley Hughes, fourth sergeant; John Gimble, first corporal; Walter M. Davis, second corporal; Abraham Stevens, third corporal; J. M. Powers, fourth corporal; —— Ray, corporal; John Aldridge, Michael Carroll, John Ely, Dominic Callaglie, Greer Lee, Alexander J. Lovelady, Aaron S. Mangum, John M. Oliver, William Parvin, John M. Bryson, Thomas H. Corbys, George Eubanks, Nelson Helms, Joseph Loving, Martin Moran, Watkins Nobles, Patrick Osburn, Gideon S. Ross, Anderson Ray, William Shelton, Christopher Winters, Josias B. Beall, Reason Banks, Thomas Rumly, James Smith, Harrison Young, John Bright and H. Shultz.

Flag Made in Georgia.

With the Georgia companies was brought to Texas the first Texas flag, which was made by Miss Joanna Troutman, of Georgia, and presented by her to Captain Ward's company.

Not a great deal is known about the genesis of Captain William A. O. Wadsworth's company. It appears to have been raised in South Carolina about October, 1835, and was in Texas by the middle of December of that year. It numbered about 50 men.

Such roster as we have of this company is as follows:

Wadsworth's Company: William A. O. Wadsworth, captain; Thomas B. Reese, first lieutenant; J. L. Wilson, second lieutenant; John Smith, first sergeant; S. A. J. Mays, second sergeant; Samuel Wallace, third sergeant; J. H. Neeley, fourth sergeant; Joseph McSherry, first corporal; J. S. Brown, second corporal; J. B. Murphy, third corporal; A. D. Kenyon, fourth corporal; privates—William Abercrombie, J. R. Black, J. B. (T. B.) Barton, Joseph Callaghad, J. G. Clark, John Christer, W. J. Cowan, E. Seurain, J. A. Foster, Joseph Gamble, F. Gilkerson, William Gilbert, Jesse Harris, A. J. Hitchcock, Thomas Horry (Harry), Allen Ingram, John P. C. Kennymore, John Lind, J. H. Moore, C. C. Milne, M. B. Moses, H. Rodgers, J. B. Rogers, George Rounds, R. Rutledge, R. Slater (Slatter), J. H. Sanders, W. S. Turbeyville, Edward Wingate.

After completion of organization of the Georgia battalion, Major Ward went to San Felipe de Austin, provisional capital of Texas, and reported the arrival of his command and received commissions for himself and the other officers. The battalion was accepted into Texas service, and about January 22 was ordered to Goliad via port of El Copano.

James W. Fannin, agent of the provisional government of Texas, accompanied the command as its superior officer. The Georgia battalion, with four pieces of artillery, two sixponders and two four-pounders, embarked at Velasco on January 24, 1836, in the schooners Columbus and Fiora. The command landed at Aransas bay about January 28, 1836, and at El Copano, on February 1, 1836.

The command after three days' stay at Copano marched to the mission of Refugio, about 15 miles inland, and went into camp.

Alabama Companies Join.

At Refugio mission was stationed a company known as "Alabama Volunteers," which had been recruited at Montgomery, Ala. There had also arrived a few days before Captain Burr H. Duval's company of "Kentucky Riflemen," recruited at Bardstown, Ky. At Goliad and Refugio there were several other companies and it was decided to form all of them into a regiment. James W. Fannin was elected colonel and Major Ward, lieutenant colonel. The regiment was composed of two battalions, the "Georgia battalion," to which Captain Ticknor's company was added and the "Lafayette battalion." On February 11, 1836, an election was held at Refugio mission for major of the Georgia battalion in view of Major Ward's promotion. Dr. Warren Mitchell and J. M. Chadwick were candidates. Mitchell received 81 to Chadwick's 73 and was elected. Chadwick was afterwards appointed regimental adjutant.

Later there was added to the Georgia battalion the "Huntsville Volunteers," a company raised at Huntsville, Ala., of which Peyton S. Wyatt was captain and Benjamin F. Bradford, first lieutenant, and later captain.

Fannin's famous regiment as thus organized was constituted as follows: James W. Fannin Jr., colonel; William Ward, lieutenant colonel; Benjamin C. Wallace, major Lafayette battalion; Warren Mitchell, major Georgia battalion; J. M. Chadwick, adjutant; John Sowers Brooks, adjutant; Gideon Rose, sergeant-major; David I. Holt, quartermaster; Dr. James Field, surgeon; Dr. James H. Bernard, surgeon.

Georgia Battalion—1, Bullock's Georgia company; 2, Wynne's Georgia company; 3, Wodsworth's South Carolina company; 4, Ticknor's Alabama company; 5, Wyatt's Alabama company.

Lafayette Battalion—1, Duval's Kentucky Riflemen; 2, Kentucky Volunteers, Amon B. King, captain; 3, San Antonio Grays (New Orleans), William G. Cooke, captain; Samuel C. Pettus, later captain; 4, Mobile Grays (New Orleans), David N. Burke, captain; 5, Red Rovers, Alabama, Captain Jack Shackleford; 6, Texas Regulars, Ira Westover, captain.

Artillery Company—John Chenoworth, captain.

Cavalry Regiment—Colonel Albert Horton.

There appears to have been also a small company of Texas Mexicans, under command of Captain Guena.

The regiment was stationed at La Bahia mission at Goliad, which Fannin renamed Fort Defiance.

COLUMBIA EXTENSION WORK OPENS TUESDAY

The second annual extension school of Columbia Theological Seminary will open in the educational building of the North Avenue Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

This school was instituted last year in response to urgent request of Presbyterian ministers and Sunday School superintendents of Atlanta that suitable opportunities for Bible study and for training in church leadership be made available for the laymen and laywomen of Atlanta. It was so favorably received that a widespread demand arose for it to be made an annual event.

All courses are taught either by professors of Columbia Seminary or by qualified individuals invited by the faculty of that institution to take part. The session will extend over a period of 10 weeks, ending on March 15, and classes will be held each Tuesday and Friday night.

The courses offered this year with their instructors are as follows: On Tuesday nights—"The Teaching Values of the New Testament," Dr. S. A. Cartledge; "Lessons in the Prophets," Dr. J. McD. Richards; "Trends in Current Religious Literature" (for ministers only), Dr. P. H. Carmichael; on Friday nights—"The Work of the Holy Spirit," Dr. J. B. Green; "The Presbyterian Officer" (for officers only), Dr. William C. Robinson; "The Pupil," Dr. William Huck; "Trends in Current Religious Literature" (for laymen), Dr. P. H. Carmichael.

Enrollment in this school is not limited to Presbyterians, but the members of other churches will be welcomed in any of the classes.

FAREWELL MEETING WILL HONOR DAMONS

A public farewell meeting in honor of Commissioner and Mrs. Alexander M. Damon, who for the past four and a half years have been in charge of the Salvation Army work in the southern territory, will be given at 8 o'clock Monday night at the Central Presbyterian church.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Atlanta Salvation Army advisory board, will preside at the meeting, one feature of which will be the introduction of Colonel and Mrs. Albert S. Norris, who come from Detroit, Mich., to succeed Commissioner Damon.

Among the principal speakers will be Chief Justice R. B. Russell, the Rev. W. D. Shelton and Robert H. Jones Jr.

ELEVEN OF 66 PASS STATE PHARMACY TEST

Secretary of State John B. Wilson announced Friday that 11 of the 66 young men and young women who took the state board of pharmacy examinations last month had passed the examinations. They are:

J. Max Brown, Valdosta; Ivey Cloud, Atlanta; Theodore Du Bose, Macon; L. Millard Giles, Rochelle; Lyndrey Harper Jr., Atlanta; Miss Lee Helen Howard, Savannah; William T. Lane, Atlanta; Walter B. Lunsford, Acworth; E. H. Overstreet, Wadley; George C. Smith, LaGrange, and J. Freeman White, Atlanta.

The members of the state board of pharmacy are: H. A. Deen, chairman, Vidalia; J. L. Hawk, Atlanta; W. G. Bridges, Columbus; H. M. Herrin, Winder; R. M. Mitchell, Griffin.

JOHN HAYNES HOLMES TO SPEAK HERE JAN. 29

John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community church in New York and widely known author, whose latest book, "Palestine, Today and Tomorrow," was recently released from the press, will speak in Atlanta on Tuesday, January 29, in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Holmes, who will be introduced to his Atlanta audience by Frank Neely, general manager of Rich's, Inc., will appear here under the auspices of Atlanta unit, Junior Hadassah.

Mr. Holmes has lectured widely in this country and traveled extensively in Europe and the near east. He is editor of Unity, Chicago; associate editor of The World Tomorrow, New York, and has published many sermons and magazine articles. In addition to "Palestine, Today and Tomorrow," he is author of many other widely read books, including "The Revolutionary Function of the Modern Church," "Is Death the End?" "New Wars for Old," "The Life and Letters of Robert Collyer," "New Churches for Old" and "Patriotism Is Not Enough."

After graduating from Harvard in 1902 and from the Harvard Divinity school in 1904, Mr. Holmes was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. In May, 1930, he received the degree of doctor of divinity from the Jewish Institute of Religion, and in June, 1931, he received the degree of doctor of divinity from St. Lawrence University.

Mr. Holmes began his ministry in the Third Religious Society in Dorchester (Unitarian) in 1904, and remained there three years. In November, 1906, he was called to the Church of the Messiah, New York, in succession to Minot J. Savage, and began his work in February, 1907. In 1919 Mr. Holmes left the Unitarian ministry and reorganized his church as an independent society on a community as contrasted with a denominational basis and changed its name to the Community Church of New York.

The Happenings of The Church World

BY HERMAN L. TURNER,
Atlanta, Ga.
Pastor, Covenant Presbyterian Church.

J. D. Templeton has pictured the opportunities and the gifts that are ours in the new year—

HERMAN L. TURNER

I am the New Year, and I come to you
pure and unstained
pure and unstained.
Fresh from the hand of God.
Each day, a precious pearl, to you is given
That you must string upon the silver thread of life.
Once strung can never be unthreaded but stays
An undying record of your faith and skill.
Each golden minute-link you then must weld into the chain of hours
That is no stronger than its weakest link.
Into your hands is given all the wealth and power
To make your life just what you will.
I give to you, free and unstinted, twelve glorious months
Of soothing rain and sunshine golden;
The days for work and rest, the nights for peaceful slumber.
All that I have I give with love unspoken.
All that I ask—you keep the faith unbroken!

There is something heartening and encouraging in the coming of a new year. "We look forward with a brighter eye and a new zeal." The future is always more interesting than the past. New adventures, new tasks, new conquests are just ahead of us. Everything points to the upward trend. We are on our way back to normalcy. Progress is slow. We will need a great deal of patience for the year ahead of us. The new year, 1935, what are we going to do with it?

The Christian Century has the following editorial, entitled "Father Coughlin Talks Back to a Cardinal:" "Father Coughlin went about as far as a priest can, and much farther than most care to, when he replied over the radio to Cardinal O'Connell's criticism of him. A cardinal, says Father Coughlin, has an exalted position in the church but no authority to speak for it. He has no jurisdiction outside of his own diocese. 'It is high time that this bubble be bursted. If he spoke as a churchman, as he did on the three occasions when he publicly rebuked me, he has done nothing more than to usurp the power which belongs to the apostolic delegate in America. If he spoke as an individual, his utterances carry no more weight than they justly deserve.' The radio priest quoted the exhortation of Pope Pius XI to every minister of religion to throw into the struggle for social justice all his energy and strength. He added: 'For 40 years William Cardinal O'Connell has been more notorious for his silence on social justice than for any contribution which he may have given either in practice or in doctrine toward the decentralization of wealth and toward the elimination of those glaring injustices which permitted the plutocrats of this nation to wax fat at the expense of the poor. Now he castigates me for doing what he was ordered to do.' Father Coughlin says that he has done nothing without the approval of the bishop of his diocese, so his ecclesiastical position is perfectly regular. It may not be usual for a priest to speak so frankly to a cardinal, as man to man, but it does not mean that the discipline of the church is breaking down. It does indicate that a radio following of a few million is a tremendous incentive to courage. The priest's formula for recovery is a program of public works which will give work at a salary of not less than $1,500 a year to every man who cannot find employment in industry."

The biennial meeting of the Medial Missions Conference was held recently in New York city, with about 75 physicians and nurses, most of whom were on furlough, in attendance. The conference went on record as believing that the Christian church should not surrender to other agencies its leadership in medical work in foreign lands, and that native churches should be encouraged to develop their own hospitals.

In the text of the decision on the compulsory military training case brought before the supreme court in Washington, Justice Pierce Butler declared: "Government, federal and state, each in its own sphere owes a duty to the people within its jurisdiction to preserve itself in adequate strength to maintain peace and order to assure the just enforcement of law. And every citizen owes the reciprocal duty, according to his capacity to support and defend government against all enemies." Justice Cordoza added the further word that if this principle of allowing the individual to be the arbiter in such matters were carried on, he might just as reasonably elect to withhold his taxes on the plea that he did not approve of the purpose for which they were to be expended.

Ministers' sons have the best chance to be mentioned in "Who's Who," said Bert H. Davis, of Sacramento in an article, "Religion on the March." The ratios for several classifications are: a minister's son, 1 in 20; a physician's son, 1 in 105; a farmer's son, 1 in 608; a skilled laborer's son, 1 in 1,600; an unskilled laborer's son, 1 in 48,000.—The Literary Digest.

A beautiful tribute is paid to the recent martyred missionaries by the Presbyterian Banner: "There are still Christian martyrs and the preacher of the gospel is still one of danger and at times of the supreme sacrifice. There are no more faithful and self-sacrificing missionaries in the world than those of the Inland Missions and two of them, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam, of the China Inland Mission, have entered heaven wearing blood-red gowns. They labored in southern China and were captured with their baby daughter by bandits who took them off and demanded a large ransom. They were forced to walk many miles, the mother carrying her baby. According to reports received, Mr. Stam implored the bandits to release his wife and child, promising to sacrifice his own safety for their sake. The offer was refused and the missionaries were bound and forced to stand up all night and in the morning they were marched through a village with the captors calling upon all to come and see them executed as enemy foreigners and were then beheaded. The baby in some strange way was spared and has been recovered. The bandits took all the personal goods of the Stams and the missionary funds of the station, and the government is putting forth its utmost power to bring them to punishment. And so blood still marks the tracks of the gospel through the world and a great shout has gone up in heaven over the entrance of these soldiers of the cross. We would do well to appreciate what others bought with a like price for us and to be faithful to the same gospel. . . ."

A team of the National Conference of Jews and Christians will undertake a visitation tour of portions of eight southern states during January and February. The team will include Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, of the national conference, Rabbi Morris R. Lazaron, of the Baltimore Hebrew congregation, and Father T. L. Riggs, chaplain of the Catholic Club of Yale University.

Construction of Modern Curb Market For Wholesale Trade Is Urged by Beck

Editor Constitution: Much is being published about the Washington street curb market, resulting in a conflict of opinion between the governor and our solicitor-general and the city attorney, on the question of obolishing this market.

Injunction suits have previously been brought by the city and citizens interested on charges declaring this market to be a public nuisance, and the courts have thus far refused to sustain such charges, and this market has continued operation.

As to the physical and moral condition of this market, I am not at this time concerned. This is to call attention to the fact that there is a need in this community for a wholesale curb market, which fact is readily established by the patronage this market enjoys and the large volume of business conducted there.

There is little use in condemning what we now have, and continuing unsuccessful damage suits until something better can be offered. The subject should be considered in a constructive manner, and a proper solution reached that will determine the matter.

Granting that there is need for a properly conducted wholesale curb market, where growers of fruits and produce from the farm, through their agents the truck dealers, may transact a legitimate business, with mutual advantage to themselves and the public, then a way should be found to provide a place with suitable sanitary conditions and under proper regulations.

Other cities have successfully incorporated such markets in their public marketing departments.

Atlanta has made a start and set a precedent in the successful operation of the Atlanta municipal market on Edgewood avenue and Butler street. This is a retail market where the housewife can provide her family with fresh farm products, dealing for the most part directly with the grower or his agent. This market now does a volume of business of more than a million dollars a year.

It is solely a retail market located on city property operating in one of the best market buildings in the country, costing more than $150,000, the proceeds from a loan secured by a non-profit corporation, under a long-term lease. This property is paying for itself from rental receipts for space occupied, charged for at nominal rates.

This whole property will revert to the city on completion of payment of the loan, which loan has now been reduced from the original $150,000 to $64,000, which balance will be entirely paid off within the next few years, from income from rentals, after which the city will have possession, and will have a permanent income from this property of approximately $15,000 a year.

This splendid accomplishment has been possible by the foresight of our present Mayor James L. Key, who, when serving a former term in 1922, saw the opportunity of furnishing the public with excellent marketing facilities without cost to the city, except the original investment in a vacant lot.

These results have been possible through the operation of this market by a group of citizens, approved by city council, who under the leadership of the present president serving for the past 10 years without pay, has conducted the management to a successful termination as a public service.

There is no good reason why a similar project for the building of suitable quarters for the operation of a wholesale market cannot be financed in a similar way by a loan which would be amortized in the space of a few years from income from space rentals.

This may be done either by some corporation as a permanent investment, or better by the city, on the same basis of acquiring ownership under operation by a public-spirited company of citizens directing the management.

At this time of low real estate values, a large tract of land suitable for the purpose can be easily acquired at small cost in the negro section close to the present municipal market at Edgewood avenue and Butler street.

Thus adding a wholesale curb market to the present retail market and completing a metropolitan marketing system, as conducted by many of the leading cities of the country.

J. FRANK BECK.
President Atlanta Municipal Market.

Flowering Shrubs

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN.

The flowering shrubs for the most part are those shrubs which lose their leaves during the spring or summer. These plants may be dug without a large ball of earth around the roots because of their thoroughly dormant condition at this time of the year. However, it is most important that these roots be protected from the air. If they are exposed to the air for any length of time they will be killed, and for this reason, good nurserymen wrap the roots with damp moss and burlap.

Prepare the hole in which they are to be planted with a great deal of care. The first and most important direction is to dig a hole that is of ample size. If the hole looks large enough, dig it twice as big and everything will be that much better. For a small-size plant, such as are usually sold nurseries, a hole 18 inches in diameter and 18 inches deep will be about right.

In the bootom of the hole, place about four inches of good top soil that has had a handful of bone meal or sheep manure mixed with it. This will give the roots some food as soon as they start growing. Set the plant a little deeper than it stood in the nursery, one inch deeper will be about right. Spread the roots out in as natural position as is possible and as the soil is raked into the hole, shake the plant slightly so that the dirt will work itself close to the roots of the plant. As this is being done, work the soil tight about the roots with the fingers. When the hole is half filled, tramp the soil tightly, fill in the remainder of the hole without tramping and water thoroughly.

Through a judicious choice of these ornamental flowering shrubs it is possible to have continuous blooming in your shrubbery borders from early in January until late in the fall. January jasmine usually starts blooming during the early part of January and is very well known because of its beautiful yellow trumpet-shaped flowers which cover the plant before the leaves appear. Shortly afterwards, forsythia or golden bell starts to bloom. This beautiful canary yellow flower is one of the most cheerful plants.

The various spireas have been often referred to as the "famous family of spireas"

Atlanta Music Club Announces Hymn Chosen for Study in January

Appropriate to the beginning of the new year, Martin Luther's world-famous hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," is designated as the hymn of the month for special study in January by the department of music in religious education of the Atlanta Music Club and the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, according to announcement by Miss Nana Tucker, chairman.

"A Mighty Fortress is Our God," was written more than 400 years ago, at the time of the reformation, and since is internationally acclaimed one of the greatest hymns of all times.

Martin Luther, who gave to the people in their own tongue the Bible and the catechism, gave also the hymn book. Known as the "father of the reformation" he was likewise the father of congregational singing. For "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," he drew his inspiration from the forty-sixth psalm, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." The majestic grandeur of the text is given added power by the magnificent tune Luther composed for it. This tune has been made the central theme in many great musical works, one of Bach's cantatas, Meyerbeer's opera, "The Huguenots," Mendelssohn's "Reformation Symphony" and Wagner's "Emperor March."

The translation of the text as found in most American hymnals is by Rev. Frederick Henry Hedge, who was born in Cambridge, Mass., in 1805, and educated in the Harvard divinity school, where subsequently he became head of the department of ecclesiastical history.

The words of the hymn are:

A mighty fortress is our God,
A bulwark never failing,
Our helper he, amid the flood
Of mortal ills prevailing.
For still our ancient foe
Doth seek to work us woe;
His craft and power are great,
And, armed with cruel hate,
On earth is not his equal.

Did we in our own strength confide,
Our striving would be losing;
Were not the right man on our side,
The man of God's own choosing.
Dost ask who that may be?
Christ Jesus, it is he:
Lord Sabaoth is his name,
From age to age the same,
And he must win the battle.

And though this world, with evils filled,
Should threaten to undo us;
We will not fear, for God hath willed
His truth to triumph through us.
The prince of darkness grim—
We tremble not for him:
His rage we can endure,
For lo! his doom is sure,
One little word shall fell him.

That word above all earthly powers—
No thanks to them, abideth:
The Spirit and the gifts are ours
Through Him who with us sideth.
Let goods and kindred go,
This mortal life also:
The body they may kill:
God's truth abideth still,
His kingdom is forever.

Rev. and Mrs. Stauffer Honor Church Members

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Stauffer gave an "at home" on New Year's afternoon at their lovely home, 857 Virginia avenue, N. E., to a number of their friends and members of the First Christian church.

The house was attractively decorated with talisman roses and snapdragons. The dining table was overlaid with a lace cloth, held as a centerpiece a silver case of pionsettias and silver candlesticks with green tapers.

Those assisting the hostess in pouring tea were Mesdames Brower Thomas, Kenneth Matthews, Kirk Peacock, Roby Tillman and Misses Helen Witherspoon, Elizabeth Leppert, Alice Dowing and Marie Townsend.

Briefly Told

Miss Mary Randolph Kent, who is at the Piedmont hospital recuperating from a very serious accident is reported as resting easy. Miss Kent is first vice president of the Federated Church Women of Georgia, and a very active member of Druid Hills Methodist church.

Mrs. J. J. Bookout is confined at her home with influenza.

Federated Church Women Observe World Day of Prayer March 8

World day of prayer will be observed by the Federal Church Women of Georgia Friday, March 8, at 2:30 o'clock at All Saints' Episcopal church. Plans for the service are in charge of Mrs. John Yost, Miss Mary Randolph Kent and Mrs. Chester Martin.

Each year a call is issued by the national council of Federated Church Women to the women of every nation and of every church group to join in the fellowship of prayer. Every missionary organization in Atlanta and vicinity should participate in the day of rich significance and great influence.

The theme is "Bear Ye One Another's Burdens" (Galations 6:2), and everyone is asked in preparation of the day's service to pray for the missionary enterprise and for all who share therein; a quickened conscience toward the world's burden bearers; courage to stand for the right and willingness to accept the sacrifices involved for us all in the building of a new world; justice and understanding between individuals, classes, races and nations.

Disciples of Christ Societies Make Plans To Study Japan

Missionary societies of the Disciples of Christ are launching in January a six-month study of Japan. The study book is "Japanese Women Speak," by Michi Kawai and Ochimi Kubushiro. This book is a message from the Christian women of Japan to the Christian women of America, and is interesting, informing and challenging throughout.

Japanese study will be further developed in the missionary societies by monthly programs containing fascinating articles, map studies, news and dramatizations.

Exhibits of Japanese pictures are available upon request to the Christian Missionary Societies of Georgia from their state secretary, Mrs. L. O. Turner. These pictures are made possible because of the generosity and thoughtfulness of the girls in Joshi Sei Gakuin (Margaret K. Long school), Tokyo, Japan, under the supervision of Miss Takagi, the girls for months have collected these pictures especially for this study. Some are prints, some reproductions from magazines and all are lovely. Presidents of missionary societies are asked to put in their request with the state secretary early. First come, first served!

Mrs. Bland Gives Tea For Churchwomen.

Mrs. George Almand Bland entertained the women of the Cathedral of St. Philip at a tea Saturday afternoon at the chapter house, following a most interesting meeting and program.

Mrs. Bland is president of the parish council of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Cathedral of St. Philip. All the work of the various women's organizations has been united in this council.

Assisting Mrs. Bland were Mesdames B. H. Wagnon, D. H. Havens, H. F. West, Earnest McCullough, Linton Smith, E. D. Blain, W. L. Percy, Daniels, Raimundo de Ovies, Dan Clarke, F. Stuart Gould, Allan Gray, Misses Lucinda Snook and Edith Pierce.

Federated Church Women Meet Jan. 11

Quarterly meeting of the Federated Church Women of Georgia will be held Friday, January 11, at 12 o'clock at the First Christian church, corner Pryor street and Trinity avenue.

The appointment of new committees in accordance with the program of work of the National Council of Church Women will be the outstanding business. Luncheon will be served at the church.

C. Hoke, second vice president; Miss Edith Pierce, secretary; Mrs. Charles E. Wood, treasurer; chairmen extension work, Mrs. E. J. Saywell; home for Old Ladies, Mrs. John C. Hart; Rhodes Memorial Home for Incurables, Mrs. R. N. Hambright; federal prison, Mrs. Clower; scholarship fund, Mrs. Herbert A. Tupp; master's fund, Deaconess Katherine Wood; co-operation, Mrs. E. D. Blain; telephone committee, Miss Mary Blair Taylor.

Designs From "The Younger Set"

We have long felt that in attending to the needs of the "Smart Matron" and "The Co-Ed" we have been neglecting the "Younger Set." But this newspaper now has compiled a new booklet with children especially in mind. It is filled with a variety of attractive styles for Miss One-to-Sixteen, with a nice group of new designs for house frocks besides. Just send for "The Younger Set" and make your children some new clothes.

Pattern 8347 is just an example of how neat and attractive a house frock can be when it has good lines and good material. Available in sizes 34 to 54. Size 44 requires 4 7-8 yards of 39 inch material with 3-8 yard contrasting.

The tot's dress made from pattern 8402 is very popular with the little girls, because it is so becoming and so comfortable. Available in sizes 2 to 6 years. Size 4 requires 1 1-4 yards of 35 inch material for skirt and trimming and 5-8 yard for the waist.

The sketch of 8386 shows the well-dressed young girl of today. A little suit in three pieces. Available in sizes 6 to 14 years. Size 12 requires 2 3-8 yards of 35 inch material for jacket and skirt, 1 7-8 yards for blouse, and 1 1-8 yards for jacket lining.

Clear, complete, easy to follow instructions come with all of these patterns.

Each pattern illustrated here is 15c. Be sure to give style numbers and size. Send 10c additional for either of three Special 32 page booklets. "The Co-Ed," for sizes 11 to 19 and 14 to 20 exclusively showing a complete wardrobe of beautiful styles, or "The Smart Matron" for sizes 36 to 52 exclusively, showing a complete assortment of slenderizing and flattering designs, or "The Younger Set," for sizes 1 to 16 years, showing a complete selection of stunning styles for sizes 1 to 16 years. One pattern and either booklet (state which one) 25 cents.

Address your order to The Stylist, care The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Edwards, Lois Nixon, Ethel Wilcox, Alice Graham; standard of excellence keeper, Miss Inez Lowery.

The year 1934 marked one of the most progressive and helpful periods in the history of the organization. A large box of Christmas toys was sent to the Baptist Orphans' Home and a quantity of pecans to the training school, in Louisville. Miss Alice Graham was awarded a year's subscription to "The Window" for presenting the best program during the year. The society achieved the goal of A-1, meeting all points on the standard of excellence for the third consecutive year, thereby becoming one of the outstanding Y. W. A.'s of the state.

The closing activity for the year was the presentation of a pageant, "The Call of the Cross," which portrayed a missionary message of unusual beauty. A song service was rendered by Mrs. Sarah Clark Franklin, and Misses Lois Bowen, Betty Bohannon, Annie Mullis and Dixie Mae Perkerson.

B. W. M. U. Deplores Mrs. Maynard's Passing

In the passing of Mrs. R. L. Maynard, of Americus, on December 31, the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union of Georgia lost one of its most faithful and consecrated members.

Mrs. Maynard was actively identified with the cultural and religious life of Americus and her constructive efforts have been far reaching in their influence. She was richly endowed with a spirit of kindness and gentleness which endeared her to a wide circle of friends and admirers.

For many years Mrs. Maynard was the efficient superintendent of Friendship Association of the Georgia Baptist W. M. U., and at the time of her passing she was the beloved vice president of the southwest division of this organization. For her beautiful life and unselfish service the executive board of Baptist W. M. U., of Georgia, wishes to express appreciation, and to Judge Maynard, her husband, sincere sympathy.

Officers Installed.

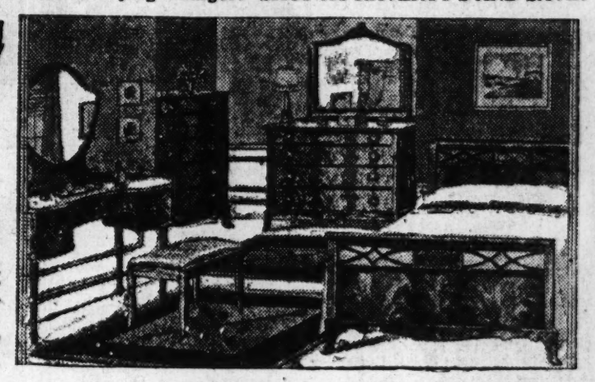

The following officers will be installed Monday, January 7, at 2:30 o'clock at the meeting of the Auxiliary-Guild of the Church of Our Saviour, corner North Highland and Los Angeles avenues: President, Mrs. L. A. Bailey; vice president, Mrs. Forrest E. Godfrey; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Hodnett; treasurer, Mrs. Val Painter.

Griffin Weddings Announced Of Interest Throughout State

GRIFFIN, Ga., Jan. 5.—Of cordial interest throughout the state was the marriage of Miss Cornelia Cooper and Albert Parker Sheppard, both of Griffin, which was solemnized Christmas afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Collier T. Cooper, on North Fourteenth street, in Griffin. Rev. C. C. Bullard, pastor of the Second Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of members of the immediate families.

The house was decorated with holly, poinsettias, ferns and white narcissi and an improvised altar of palms and ferns was arranged. Red tapers in silver holders cast a soft light over the scene. The stairway was entwined with southern smilax.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a model of peacock blue rough crepe fashioned with a cowl neckline and trimmed with tiny buttons. Her accessories were of navy blue and she wore a shoulder spray of sweetheart roses and valley lilies. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard left on their wedding trip, following which they will make their home in Griffin. Mrs. Sheppard is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, prominent residents of Griffin, and is the sister of Mrs. Robert H. Harris and Collier Cooper Jr. She was recently graduated from the Griffin High school. Mr. Sheppard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sheppard, of Sandersville. He received his education in Sandersville and has traveled extensively in the United States and foreign countries. He is now in business in Griffin.

The marriage of Miss Nell Grubbs and W. R. Buchanan, both of Griffin, occurred Sunday evening at the home of W. L. Jones, of Zebulon, who officiated. The bride was gowned in a model of dark blue trimmed with white and worn with blue accessories. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan will reside with his parents at their home on South Sixteenth street. Mrs. Buchanan is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Grubbs, formerly of Forsyth, and Mr. Buchanan is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Buchanan.

Miss Flora Standard was married to Joseph Nathaniel Caldwell Saturday evening at a quiet ceremony performed by the Rev. D. A. Brindle at his home. A few friends witnessed the nuptials. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vonia Standard, and has been a popular favorite throughout this section. Mr. Caldwell is the son of Mrs. A. K. Caldwell and the late Mr. Caldwell, and is in business in Griffin.

Miss Annie Windham and Raymond Cook, both of Griffin, were married Saturday at the home of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. James B. Turner, on West Poplar street, the Rev. Mr. Turner, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating in the presence of a few friends. They will establish residence in Griffin when they return from their wedding trip.

Miss Doris Eulene Griffin and Lawton Huckaby, both of Griffin, were married Saturday afternoon, the Rev. P. H. Hammond, pastor of the West Griffin Holiness church, officiating at his home, with relatives and friends attending. The bride wore a navy blue ensemble trimmed in silver and accessories of navy blue. Mr. and Mrs. Huckaby left on their wedding trip, following which they will make their home in Griffin.

Mrs. Lois Jackson became the bride of Duke Melvin Massey in a quiet ceremony performed by the Rev. Dr. James B. Turner, pastor of the First Baptist church at his home in Griffin.

Miss Evelyn Eugenia Love and Horace Lee Hardin, both of Griffin, were married recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, of Atlanta, the Rev. Mack Hopsin officiating in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. The bride was lovely in a gown of navy blue crepe worn with matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of tea-roses and valley lilies. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hardin will make their home in Griffin. Mrs. Hardin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Love, of Griffin, and Mr. Hardin is the son of L. H. Hardin and the late Mrs. Sallie Hale Hardin, also of Griffin.

Miss Jennie Bullard was married to Eugene Harris in a quiet ceremony taking place Saturday afternoon at the home of the Rev. Mr. Howard, in Barnesville, with a few friends witnessing the ceremony. The bride was wearing a smart gown of peacock blue crepe with accessories of black. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are popular young people of Griffin. Mrs. Harris being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ballard, and Mr. Harris being the son of Mrs. M. B. Harris.

Miss Ruth Brannon became the bride of Steve Couch at a ceremony performed Friday by Judge Jones, ordinary of Pike county, at his home in Zebulon. The bride was gowned in an ensemble of navy blue trimmed with touches of white and worn with black accessories. Mrs. Couch is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Brannon, of near Griffin, and Mr. Couch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Couch, of this city, where he is in business. Mr. and Mrs. Couch will establish residence in Griffin when they return from their wedding trip.

Miss Mary Brannon and O. D. Adams, both of Griffin, were married Sunday, the ceremony being performed by Judge Jones, ordinary of Pike county, at his home in Zebulon. The bride's ensemble was of brown wool and she was wearing brown accessories. Mrs. Adams is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Brannon, and Mr. Adams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Adams. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Adams will make their home near Griffin.

Women Voters' Board To Meet.

The first meeting of 1935 of the new board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters will be held at league headquarters Tuesday, January 8, at 10 o'clock with Mrs. Leonard Haas, newly elected chairman of the board, presiding. The board, in recognition of the efficient and faithful work of the retiring board, has invited these former members to be present. This will be a particularly important meeting, as final plans for the annual meeting will be decided. The annual meeting is the place where the work of the past year is reviewed and where the organization receives its authority to proceed with the work of the new year from the program which is adopted there. New and interesting plans for presenting the program are in preparation so that the two-day meeting will be interesting and different from any preceding year.

Douglas Maclary Is Honor Guest.

Douglas Maclary, who is a student at the University of Georgia and is spending the holidays here, was honor guest at the open house at which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Maclary, were hosts Tuesday afternoon at their home on Peachtree road.

Mrs. Harry Indell and Mrs. Bailey Hurley poured tea at a beautifully appointed table graced in the center with a lovely arrangement of poinsettias and narcissi in a silver basket. Punch was served in the sunroom from a crystal bowl encircled with smilax.

Assisting the hosts and the honor guest in receiving were Miss Peggy Maclary, sister of the honor guest, Misses Rosemary Patton, Louise Fraser, Deas Hamilton and Mrs. Mary Kerr. Two hundred members of the school and college contingent called during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks Celebrate Anniversary.

OAKWAY, S. C., Jan. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Eubanks celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary December 28, 1934, at their home in Oakway. They married in 1884, and have three children, Mrs. Jeru Graham, Hogansville, Ga.; Mrs. A. D. Bowen, Oakway, and La Rue Eubanks, Clayton, Ga. Throughout their long wedded life they have lived happily, winning the admiration and respect of all with whom they came in contact. Mr. Eubanks has served his community and county in various important offices, showing his ability and interest. Mrs. Eubanks has been a kind and sympathetic neighbor.

Dinner was served to the following guests: Children and in-laws: Rev. and Mrs. Jeru Graham, Hogansville, Ga.; A. D. Bowen, Oakway; Mr. and Mrs. La Rue Eubanks, Clayton, Ga.; Mrs. Hariette Tannery, Anderson, S. C., sister of Mr. Eubanks; brothers and sisters and in-laws of Mrs. Eubanks: Mrs. Josie Lemmons, Westminster, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. V. Hobson, Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bearden, Oakway; Mrs. J. S. Bearden, Oakway. At the conclusion of the dinner Rev. Graham, in a speech of well-chosen words, presented the gifts of the children, a gold watch and cameo pin.

An informal reception was held, and guests were received at the door by Rev. Graham. The guests' register was kept by Miss Dixie Bearden. Miss Gwendolyn Graham presided at the gift table. Miss Flora Bearden ushered the guests into the room, where the honored couple received. Misses Frances Bowen and Helen Bearden served refreshments, which carried out the color scheme of gold and white. Friends and relatives called, and by their beautiful and numerous gifts showed the love and esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks are held.

TENNILLE, Ga., Jan. 5.—Announcement of the wedding date and plans for the marriage of Miss Annie Hill Joiner, of Tennille, and James Everett Cox, of Chattanooga, Tenn., whose engagement was recently announced, will be of interest to friends in Georgia and Tennessee. The marriage will take place at high noon Saturday, January 19, at the home of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. I. L. Joiner, near here.

The bride-to-be is one of Washington county's most talented and charming young women. She is a graduate of the Twelfth District A. & M., the Southern Business College and attended the University of Georgia. For some time she has been assistant librarian at Mercer University, Macon, while working toward her A. B. degree, which was completed December 19. While at Mercer she was president of the Cardinal Key, national honor sorority, and was a member of the Phi Omega social sorority.

Mr. Cox is an honor graduate of Canton High school and was graduated in the class of '33 at Mercer University, where he was a member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. Since his graduation he has been in Chattanooga, Tenn., where he is connected with Standard Brands, Inc.

Dr. and Mrs. Turner Keep "Open House."

An event of New Year's Day was the open house at which Dr. and Mrs. Herman L. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Bryant were hosts at the Turner home on Terrace drive.

Green, red and white was the color motif chosen for the decorations. Holly, mistletoe, evergreen plants and poinsettias were used in effective arrangement throughout the house. The beautifully appointed tea table in the dining room was covered with lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl filled with red and white carnations and valley lilies. On either side of the centerpiece were tall white tapers burning in silver holders. Presiding at the tea table were Mesdames William E. Mitchell and T. S. Hoff.

Misses Joy Clough and Katherine Lester received the cards at the door. Mrs. Bryant wore a becoming model of black velvet with rhinestone clips and belt. Mrs. Turner wore an afternoon gown of aquamarine crepe with gold clips.

1930 Matrons' Club Honors Miss Webb.

Mrs. Catherine Webb, of Miami, Fla., was honor guest Thursday at the party at which the 1930 Matrons' Club entertained at the home of Mrs. Myrtice McCrary, 887 Confederate avenue.

The honor guest is a member of the club who made her home in Miami for the past year and is a past matron of Martha Chapter O. E. S., and the daughter of Georgia's worshipful grand master of the Masonic lodge, Judge E. D. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, who is also an honorary member of the club.

Mrs. E. W. Davison, the former Miss Mary Charles Berry, was complimented Saturday with other members of the 1930 Matrons' Club at the party given by Mrs. Cora Blackwood at her home, 397 Sinclair avenue, Northeast.

Misses Martha and Helen Blackwood assisted their mother in entertaining a mock wedding with Miss Delois Sanders, as the bride; Master Bobby Forbes, as bridegroom; Miss Helen Blackwood and Erwin Hall were bridesmaid and groomsman, who entered to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Martha Black. They all carried a tray of gifts for Mrs. Davison.

Those present were Mesdames Myrtice McCrary, president; Bessie Mayo, vice president; Grady Bean, secretary; Algenia Baker, Julia Wall, Alice McDonald, Mary Berry, Celesia Copeland and Annie May Jacks. The "For-Get-Me-Nots" revealed their identity and under the leadership of Mrs. McCrary the club will soon close a most successful year.

Ellington—Cowart.

JEFFERSON, Ga., Jan. 5.—The marriage of Miss Martha Louise Ellington to Loy D. Cowart occurred on January 1 at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Storey, here. Rev. R. M. Rigdon, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ring ceremony. Only the members of the immediate family were present.

The bride was gowned in an Eleanor blue suit made with cape, and worn with white chiffon blouse, an off-the-face hat of blue straw and blue accessories. Her flowers were Killarney roses and sweet peas. Her only ornament was an old gold wishbone brooch which belonged to her mother, the late Mrs. Jessie Storey Ellington.

The bride is the elder daughter of the late John D. and Jessie Storey Ellington. She is a graduate of the University of Georgia, Athens. After her graduation she taught home economics at Graymont, Ga. Later she was connected with the Georgia Power Company in the home service department.

Mr. Cowart is the eldest son of Mrs. Dora V. Rountree and the late James E. Cowart, of Graymont, Ga. Following his father's death he assumed management of the estate and, like his father, has been active in promoting the welfare of the community, giving special service in the interest of education.

After a wedding trip in Florida, the couple will be at home in Graymont-Summit, Ga.

Miss Mildred Garrett Weds Mr. Borom.

BUTLER, Ga., Jan. 5.—The marriage of Miss Mildred Garrett and Sam T. Borom which was solemnized on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home here of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Eli Garrett. Rev. W. E. Hightower performed the ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was beautifully rendered by Miss Marie Garrett, sister of the bride, pianist, and Mrs. J. W. Edwards, vocalist.

The living and dining rooms were decorated with ferns, palms and silver candelabras holding white burning tapers. On the piano and dining table silver vases were filled with white carnations and lace ferns. In the French doors between the living and dining rooms was an arch of southern smilax entwined with exquisite pink roses, on either side of which were white draped pedestals mingled with green smilax, holding silver candelabras with white burning tapers.

The bride was attired in a lovely spring tailored suit of dark blue crepe which accentuated her blonde loveliness, with this she wore a white lustrious satin blouse, a small blue crepe hat with veil and other accessories to match. Her shoulder bouquet was of sweetheart roses showered with valley lilies. The bride is a graduate of Wesleyan College and during the past year has had a responsible position in connection with the relief administration office in her home town.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Borom left for points of interest in Florida. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 1183 Tate drive, Columbus, Ga., where Mr. Borom, who is a graduate of Georgia Tech, holds a responsible position as resident engineer with the state highway department.

Campbell—Lee.

Announcement is made today of the marriage of Miss Marcia Campbell, of Ben Hill, Ga., to James Frank Lee, of Red Oak, Ga.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, at his home in Fairburn on December 24 at 8 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Lee will be at home to their friends at Red Oak, Ga., after January 15.

LOVELY BRIDES-ELECT AND ATTRACTIVE NEWCOMERS

Miss Elsie Prater

Mrs. C. M. Snyder

Miss Marie Upson, of Athens

Miss Gertrude Elkins of Rome

Miss Grace Mandeville, of Carrollton

MISS PRATER'S engagement to Kenton Bruce Higgins is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Prater. Mrs. Snyder is numbered among the attractive newcomers, and is the chatelaine of a charming home on Vernon road. Miss Upson is spending the winter at the Biltmore with her mother, Mrs. Stephen Upson, and she is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. E. K. Lumpkin, of Athens, who founded the first garden club in the United States. Miss Elkins will become the bride of George Barker Smith at the First Methodist church in Rome at February rites. Miss Mandeville is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Appleton Mandeville, of Carrollton, and is a senior at the University of Alabama. She attended the football classic played in the Rose Bowl last week when Alabama defeated Stanford in Pasadena, Cal. Photos of Miss Prater, Miss Upson and Miss Elkins by Walter Neblett. Mrs. Snyder's was made by the Colonial studio.

Miss Elsie Prater To Become Bride Of Mr. Higgins

Of sincere interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Prater of the engagement of their elder daughter, Miss Elsie Louise Prater, to Kenton Bruce Higgins, the marriage to be an event of the near future, the date to be announced later. Mrs. Prater, mother of the bride-elect, was the former Miss Tillie Herkert, of St. Louis, Mo., the daughter of Mr. Mrs. Fred Herkert, and Mr. Prater, the bride-elect's father, is a native Georgian, being the son of Mrs. James Preston Prater and the late Mr. Prater, of Gainesville, Ga. Miss Prater is a sister of Miss Barbara Prater, a popular member of the current Debutantes' Club, and Homer S. Prater Jr.

The bride, a tall, stately blonde, is numbered among the most popular members of the younger social contingent. She was graduated from the convent of St. Genevieve of the Pines in Asheville, N. C., and later attended Oglethorpe University, where she was a member of the Kappa Delta sorority. Miss Prater enjoyed extensive travel throughout Europe following her college days and upon her return made her debut with members of the Debutantas' Club of 1929 and was formally presented to Atlanta society at a dance given by her parents at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club.

Mr. Higgins, the bridegroom-elect, is the son of Charles Henry Higgins and the late Mrs. Eleanor S. Schneider Higgins, and his only brother is Neil Higgins. He received his early education at Tech High school and later at Georgia Tech, where he was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Like his bride-elect, Mr. Higgins is listed among popular members of the younger set. He is associated with Higgins-McArthur Company.

Elkins-Smith Engagement Is Announced

ROME, Ga., Jan. 5.—The announcement of Miss Gertrude Snider Elkins' engagement to George B. Smith Jr. of Rome, is of keen interest to a large family connection in Georgia and other states. Miss Elkins and her fiance are prominently connected, both in middle and northern Georgia, where their forebears for generations were associated with the professional, political and educational life in the state. The The marriage will be a brilliant social event taking place here on February 6, at the First Methodist church.

The charming bride-elect is considered one of the most beautiful and popular girls in Rome's young society set. She is a member of the Girls' Cotillion Club and prominent in the social activities of that group. She has made her home in Rome for five years with her aunt, Mrs. Hugh Best and Mr. Best. She is the elder daughter of W. Harry Elkins, of Macon, and the late Mrs. Madge Patterson Elkins. Her maternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weston Patterson were beloved and admired in Macon. Her grandfather Patterson was an eminent attorney, serving in the state legislature from Bibb county and identified with the educational and cultural life of Macon.

Her grandmother was the lovely Sallie Wimberly Snider before she married Weston Patterson at the Mulberry Methodist church, Macon. She is named for her maternal aunt, the late Mrs. Leverett Walker, who lived in Atlanta until her death last summer. She is also a great-niece of the late Mrs. Hamilton Yancey, of Rome, and a cousin of Sarah Hewlett, of Atlanta. Her only sister is Madge Patterson Elkins, of Columbus, and her brother is Cadet W. Harry Elkins Jr., of the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y. Her paternal grandparents were well known in middle Georgia. They were the late Paul Colson Elkins, originally from Savannah and Mrs. Isabelle Frances Oliver Elkins. Miss Elkins is a niece of Weston Patterson, of Columbia, S. C., with whom she has spent much of her time in recent years.

Mr. Smith, the bridegroom-elect, is the eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. George Barker Smith. His brothers are Steve and Lucius Smith and his sister, Dahlis Smith. The beautiful Smith home, "High Acres," on Alabama road, is the center of much of Rome's social life. The estate joins Shorter College and Mrs. Martha Shorter and Alfred Shorter, founders of the institution, are related to the bridegroom's mother, before her marriage, the beautiful Patti Wright Willingham. His maternal grandparents were the late Thomas Willingham and Mrs. Frances Wright Willingham. On his mother's side he is related to such prominent north Georgia families as the Wrights, Harpers, Hamiltons and Shorters. His mother was one of a large group of sisters noted for their beauty and charm. His paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Smith, of Byron, Ga., prominently connected in middle Georgia. His maternal uncle was the late Wright Willingham, of Rome. Mr. Smith was educated at Darlington school and in Baltimore, and is a member of Rome's leading social clubs.

Georgia Women Voters To Give Reception

Members of the state legislature and their wives have been invited to a reception to be given in their honor on Tuesday, January 15, at the Ansley hotel, by the Georgia League of Women Voters. The feature will be a novel presentation of the legislative measures advocated by the league. The reception will close the first day of a two-day program of the Georgia League of Women Voters.

The state board will meet Tuesday morning at 10:15 o'clock at the Ansley hotel. A luncheon will follow honoring Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, former state president, and the presidents of local leagues.

Members will remain through the next day, January 16, for the inauguration and inaugural address of Governor Talmadge, and for the governor's reception at the mansion that afternoon. Miss Josephine Wilkins is president of the State League of Women Voters.

Children's Theater Guild To Present Play This Week

Foursome of Attractive Recent Brides

Pictured in the above group are a foursome of lovely young brides whose marriages were of social interest of recent date. In the upper left is Mrs. William Hall Chambers, of Augusta, the former Miss Rena Candler, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Candler, whose marriage took place Saturday, December 29, at St. Mark Methodist church. Mrs. Delkin Jones is in the upper right and was prior to her marriage Saturday, December 29, at the Procathedral, Miss Helen Bach, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Christian A. Bach. In the lower left is Mrs. Harrold Tilton Buck, formerly Miss Edith Katherine Gober, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gober, whose marriage was solemnized December 15. Mrs. Jack Carter Haney, of Calhoun, Ga., is in the lower right of the group and prior to her marriage December 25 was Miss Ruby Elizabeth Drummond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brady E. Drummond, of Rome, Ga. Photograph of Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Jones by Neblett, and Mrs. Buck by Bon-Art studios.

Miss Adams Weds Bemis S. Followill.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 5.—The marriage of Miss Dorothy Wimberly Adams and Bemis Smith Followill was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Council Adams, in Werecoba Heights here. The Rev. Pierce Harris, pastor of St. Luke Methodist church, performed the impressive ring ceremony before a distinguished assemblage of friends and relatives.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Evelyn McBrayer, of Anderson, S. C. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Walter Gillis Jr. Preceding the ceremony, Earl Anthony sang "I Love You Truly," with Miss Martha Griffin, of Tifton, Ga., at the piano.

The maid of honor was gowned in sapphire blue velvet with silver lame, made with high neckline and long sleeves. With this she wore a hat of the same material, made Russian style, and carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliff roses and snapdragons, tied with silver ribbons.

The brunet beauty of the petite bride was emphasized by her wedding gown of ivory satin, with yoke and high collar of Alencon lace. The dress was made along princess lines, fitting closely to the knees and then gracefully flaring. The veil of illusion tulle, made cape fashion in tiers and caught with clusters of orange blossoms, reached to the hem of her dress. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies. She also carried a lace handkerchief made by her maternal grandmother, which was used by the bride's mother at her own wedding. Her only ornament was an old gold bracelet, an heirloom of Mrs. Foy Brown's and worn by herself and her mother at their weddings.

The improvised altar was erected before a background of palms, ferns and southern smilax. Floor baskets held Easter lilies and seven-branched candelabra held cathedral candles. The aisle was marked by standards tied with white ribbon. The beautiful arrangement made a perfect setting for the bridal party and presented a picture of complete loveliness.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Adams entertained at a reception. Mrs. Adams was gowned in blue velvet and wore a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Dexter B. Followill, mother of the bridegroom wore green crepe, ankle length, with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Le Compt Joslin, wore green crepe with a corsage of lavendar and pink sweet peas. Miss Martha Griffin wore black crepe with gold collar, and her corsage was of sweet peas and roses.

Misses Mary Huggins and Flora Nelson presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in the dining room were Misses Cornelia Gillis, Catherine Barron, Helen Greene, Lulie Henderson and Mrs. Walter Gillis Jr. In the room where the many handsome gifts were displayed, the decorations were in the Christmas motif.

After the reception, the bride changed her costume for a becoming suit of navy blue treebark, with fox fur and matching accessories. Her corsage was of valley lilies. Their wedding journey will take them to points in the middle west and they will then go to Chicago, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Wight Honors Miss Ellen Rhodes

Among the interesting affairs planned for Monday's social calendar is the luncheon at which Mrs. Edwin Lee Wight will entertain in compliment to Miss Ellen Rhodes, lovely debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Rhodes. The party will be given at the Atlanta Athletic Club and will assemble members of the debutante coterie.

Mrs. Wight will be assisted in entertaining her guests by the debutante's mother, Mrs. C. A. Rhodes. Covers will be placed for Miss Rhodes, Misses Kathryn Jetton, Mary Cobb Hunnicutt, Dahlis McMurdo, Maude Thompson Octavia Riley, Dorothy Brumby, Louisa Robert, Mary Ann Carr, Mrs. James Crawford, daughter of the hostess; Mrs. C. A. Rhodes, and the hostess, Mrs. Wight.

Mrs. White Hostess.

Mrs. T. P. White entertained the St. Paul Auxiliary chairmen recently at her home on Park avenue, honoring her mother, Mrs. G. R. Ransom, of Cornelia, Ga.

The house was decorated with potted plants and fern. The table cover was filet lace and had for a centerpiece a reflector with miniature house and Christmas tree. The place cards were gifts of pottery for the guests artistically wrapped in the season's colors.

Those present were Mesdames J. W. Wood, T. J. McFarlin, Marian Sharpe, L. L. Schelpert, J. Sid Tiller, C. R. Hull, J. W. Lawson, G. R. Ransom, T. P. White.

Mrs. Pittman Honors Miss Helen Bivings.

Miss Helen Bivings, a January bride-elect, was central figure at the buffet luncheon at which Mrs. J. L. Pittman was hostess at her home on Peachtree street. Green and white predominated in the exquisite decorations on the table, with narcissi filling a crystal receptacle for the central decoration. Crystal candelabra held white tapers, and the table was overlaid with a damask cloth.

The house was decorated with pink begonias and foliage plants added to the decorative effect. Mrs. Pittman was gowned in black crepe trimmed with white crepe. Miss Bivings was a bridesmaid at Mrs. Pittman's marriage which was solemnized last fall.

NEWS of STAGE and SCREEN

EDITED by RALPH T. JONES

'In Old Santa Fe' Will Open Week's Run at Capitol Today

One outstanding thing that has met the approval of the thousands of weekly Capitol theater patrons, is the variety and novelty offered, not only in the stage show each week, but in the selection of the feature pictures, which are presented at that theater, first-run, of course, each week.

Instead of setting a policy of offering one certain brand or type of film entertainment, the Capitol management has seen to it that features selected are not only of a type that appeal to the masses, but which bring some difference in their makeup from week to week.

Thus, starting at the Capitol theater Sunday, the screen feature is a novelty western, the type which has proved to be popular in the past. "In Old Santa Fe," the picture, stars Ken Maynard and his wonder horse, "Tarzan," with Evelyn Knapp, H. B. Warner and Gene Autry, cowboy idol of the radio.

On the stage, also for the week, the Capitol has the latest edition of Irving Lewis' "Merry Whirl," a vaudeville unit, filled with stars who guarantee a variety in flesh entertainment.

Among these stage stars are Irving Lewis, well-known comedian; Bill and Betty, two stepping stars; Our Boys, a hill billy band; Valdare Sisters, singing and musical act; Sunny Jim, the tramp cyclist; The Syncopators, stage band, and a beautiful line of girls.

A special added attraction on the stage for the week is Chelm St. Orr, the armless wonder, recently featured by Ripley in his "Believe It or Not" cartoons. The act which this man presents is stated to be the only one of its kind in the world.

"In Old Santa Fe," the screen feature, has been filmed amid the most beautiful locations along the old Santa Fe trail. Glorious mountains, golden sunsets and the vast sweep of the prairie provide the backgrounds for the many thrills contained in the picture.

Unlike the usual run of so-called "westerns," "In Old Santa Fe" offers several innovations. Maynard himself proves he has a fine singing voice and the well-known radio star, Gene Autry, offers several of his famous cowboy songs. In addition to these things, the theme of the picture also has to do with dude ranches.

Capitol theater opens Sundays at 1:45 p. m., with the first stage show being presented at 2:15. By attending the first show of the afternoon patrons will avoid the larger crowds of the late afternoon.

'Kid Millions,' Starring Cantor, Is Coming to Grand on Friday

Not content with starting the New Year with one of the season's outstanding productions—"Forsaking All Others"—Loew's Grand theater announces that this film will be succeeded next Friday by "Kid Millions," Eddie Cantor's new and ornate musical fantasy.

"Forsaking All Others," now in its second week, presents Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery in a smart and sparkling comedy-drama of wealthy, amusing New Yorkers who become involved in a most peculiar triangle.

Both Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery have been in love with Joan Crawford, in this story, since they were children. The girl has always been partial to Montgomery and she is about to marry him when Gable, after a long and prosperous sojourn abroad, returns to America, intending to propose marriage to Miss Crawford.

Instead, he accepts her invitation to take part in the wedding. But alas, the wedding never comes off. Montgomery elopes, the night before, with an old flame, and the girl is left waiting at the altar—a humiliating experience, but one which fails to kill her love for Montgomery.

"Forsaking All Others" concerns the conflict among three people who have been friends from childhood, and whose friendship is complicated by the fact that both men are in love with the girl. It gives rise to many dramatic situations, related, under W. S. Van Dyke's directing, with considerable spirit and gracefulness and good humor.

Appearing with Eddie Cantor in "Kid Millions" are Ann Sothern, Ethel Merman, Block and Sully, and the beauteous Goldwyn Girls, all of whom contribute appreciably to this lively and good humored entertainment.

Eddie Cantor is seen as a sort of male Cinderella, living on the Brooklyn waterfront. He is the unsuspecting heir to a great treasure his father, an archaeologist, found in Egypt. Appraised of his good fortune, Eddie sets out to Egypt to collect. En route he becomes involved with a pair of crooks who try to get his money and in Egypt he becomes further entangled with a blood-thirsty sheik who has a highly susceptible daughter. There is a great deal of excitement (and a great deal of music and spectacle) before Eddie gets his treasure safely back to America.

'Here Is My Heart' Held Over To Thursday at Paramount

Still pleasing thousands of Atlantans, who viewed with marked enthusiasm "Bing Crosby's "Here Is My Heart," with Kitty Carlisle at the Paramount during the past five days, the picture will be held for a continued run through next Thursday, the management announced.

Full of riotous comedy, new melodious songs sung by Bing and plenty of comedy supplied by Alison Skipworth and Reginald Denny, it is said to be Bing's best yet.

Starting Friday, the sinister charm of George Raft, the sensuous, bamboo-like beauty of Ann May Wong and the wistful loveliness of Jean Parker, blend in the leading roles of "Limehouse Blues," to make this film of the famous London underworld for a picture of unusual excellence, force and drama.

The story deals with the undoing of the gangster chieftain who dominates the river pirates of the Thames, George Raft, in the role of Harry Young.

His nefarious operations are covered by his interest in an oriental cafe where Anna May Wong, who loves him jealously, is a dancer. When another girl, Jean Parker, comes into his life, Anna May, plots against her.

Raft learns through the Chinese girl of another man whom Jean Parker loves and lays a trap for him. The surprise climax comes when Raft is made to realize that the girl's happiness is more important than her love and endangers his life to save her lover from his own trap.

Filmed against a series of the most remarkable sets ever seen, "Limehouse Blues" catches the full flavor of the eerie mystery of the famous London underworld for a picture chock full of melodrama and movement.

Kent Taylor, Montagu Love and Robert Lorraine, who appear in the supporting roles, give performances fully worthy of the principals. And Alexander Hall is to be complimented for the sustained mood and feeling of an excellent production, due in large measure to his direction.

KEN MAYNARD HIT FEATURED TODAY AT THE BUCKHEAD

For today, Sunday, the picture at the Buckhead, Atlanta's beautiful suburban theater, is "Honor of the Range," starring Ken Maynard. This is a fast moving, exciting story of the west.

"The Affairs of Cellini," with Frederic March, Constance Bennett and Frank Morgan will be seen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The story revolves around Frederic March (Benevenuto Cellini) a master goldsmith, whose escapades have reached the ears of Frank Morgan, the ruling duke. The plot was taken from the play, "The Firebrand." It is lavishly produced, well acted and highly entertaining.

"Blind Date," with Ann Sothern, Neil Hamilton, Paul Kelly, Mickey Rooney and others is the offering for Thursday. It is a story of a young girl whose family demands much of her in the way of support.

"Charlie Chan in London" is the picture for Friday and Saturday. So far this is the best of the Chan stories, the character created by Earl Derr Biggers. It has been so well produced that the spectator is held in tense suspense throughout. The mystery of the story is really puzzling. Many people are suspected and final discovery of the guilty person comes as a complete surprise. In the cast are Warner Oland, Mona Barrie, Madge Bellamy, David Torrence and others.

With each program will be offered well selected and carefully chosen short subjects. The selection of appropriate and entertaining short subjects always receives much care from the Buckhead theater management.

COVINGTON MASONS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

COVINGTON, Ga., Jan. 5.—The following officers have been installed in Golden Fleece lodge of Masons: A. L. Loyd, worshipful master; Rev. Walker Combs, senior warden; W. P. Cooley, junior warden; Dr. A. S. Hopkins, treasurer; J. W. Peek, secretary; A. H. David, senior deacon; E. L. Rainey, junior deacon; A. V. Johnson, senior steward; O. S. George, junior steward; L. D. Pritchett, tyler; R. P. Lester, chaplain; C. A. Sockwell, trustee.

Scenes From the Screen in Atlanta This Week

"SNOOKIE" WOODS BACK THIS WEEK AT THE ATLANTA

Snookie Woods, probably the most popular individual performer who has appeared at the Atlanta theater, comes back this week. She is the featured added attraction of a production that will mark the final week of Producer Paul Morokoff's local engagement and which, it is promised, will be the best and biggest show he has done here.

In addition to Snookie Woods there will be Joan Lee, the vivacious little star in her songs and comedy, Vic Hallen and Al Pharr, the two principal comedians; Vic Garrett, Loraine Tumlin and all the other principals, as well as the dancing chorus that Morokoff has trained.

All are a unit in their determination to wind up Morokoff's stay in a "blaze of glory."

Snookie Woods will offer a number of her spectacular dances including the "Radium" dance, which can only be effectively done when the stage designer and lighting expert of the theater co-operate to the fullest of their ability.

There will be the usual two shows daily at 2:30 and 8:30 and the special midnight show on Saturday at 11:30. Reserved seats are on sale for any performance of the week at the box office which opens daily at 11 a. m.

'Broadway Bill' Continues Run For Another Week at Rialto

"Broadway Bill," at the Rialto, continues to attract crowds limited only by the capacity of the house, now showing well into its second week. Columbia Pictures had to make special arrangements to secure an extension of engagement for this attraction, so many cities are clamoring to see the new Capra production, but the insistent plea of Manager Murray of the Rialto, and the compelling argument of his first-week box office figures, finally prevailed.

The theater has never seen a 10-day run that can equal that which "Broadway Bill" has so far run up and, with no signs of diminution in the throngs, it is quite likely that other records will be hung up before the run of this attraction is ended.

Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy are excellent in the leading roles. Capra has again done a favorite trick of his, taken a couple of stars borrowed from other studios and secured the best work they ever did. Remember what he did with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night"? And May Robson in "Lady for a Day"?

Walter Connolly tops a splendidly chosen supporting cast, which is chiefly notable for the large number of character bits which are portrayed with absolute fidelity to life.

Scenes are laid in a small country town and at the race track, with the big climax coming in the running of the Derby, with "Broadway Bill" the racehorse, carrying the fate of all the characters in the story on his nose. Never was there so thrilling a race sequence as this.

New short subjects have been secured for this, the second week, especially for the large number of Rialto patrons who, after seeing the picture the first time a week ago, stated they were surely coming back to enjoy it again.

TINGLING COMEDY BILLED FOR TODAY AT PONCE DE LEON

Today (Sunday) the Ponce de Leon theater will offer "Down to Their Last Yacht," starring Mary Boland and Ned Sparks. It is a riot of fun staged on an island in mid-ocean where a group of "were-rich" society people are marooned when their yacht wrecks. Polly Moran and Sidney Fox are also in this musical extravaganza.

Will Rogers will be on the screen Monday and Tuesday in "Handy Andy" with Peggy Wood and Mary Carlisle. It is one of Rogers' funniest pictures. He has a role of a small-town merchant who sold his business and then tried to find something to amuse himself.

Wednesday only, the Ponce de Leon will persent Hugh Williams and Helen Twelvetrees in "All Men Are Enemies," a heart-touching drama of two young lovers separated by a great war and a woman who thought that anything she wanted should be hers.

Thursday and Friday, Louise Dresser, Marian Marsh and Ralph Morgan will be in "A Girl of the Limberlost."

Boles, Swanson Coming to Fox Tuesday in 'Music in the Air'

Something startlingly different in the way of musical pictures will be offered theater-goers of Atlanta in Erich Pommers' initial production, "Music in the Air," according to all advance accounts. The picture comes to the Fox theater next Tuesday, featuring Gloria Swanson and John Boles.

Not only is the picture one of the first real operettas to be presented on the screen, as distinguished from the ordinary type of filmed musical comedy; but it promises to be one of the funniest offerings, musical or otherwise, ever to come out of filmland.

The extraordinarily successful Oscar Hammerstein II, Jerome Jern stage production shattered all depression records by continuously running on Broadway for 11 months and continuing in Chicago for another four months. This long run is greatly due to the fact that it introduced an unusual amount of comedy into its tuneful story.

In adapting the picture to the screen Producer Pommer and his staff not only retained all the laughable situations of the original, but added many new ones that would have been impracticable on the stage.

In this they were aided by the fact that every member of the cast is an experienced mirthmaker and the scenarists took every opportunity to write each scene with special reference to the talents of the players.

Gloria Swanson and John Boles, who are seen as a pair of highly temperamental and jealous operatic stars, are both famous for their comic abilities and the picture offers them their greatest opportunities for this talent. Douglas Montgomery, who soared to stardom as a dramatic actor in "Little Man, What Now?" abundantly proved his talents as a comedian in previous vehicles, and June Lang is hailed as a brilliant comedienne by those who have seen her to date.

Besides the four principals, the cast includes Al Shean, of the noted team of Gallagher and Shean; Reginald Owen, the well-known British actor, and many others, all outstanding for their abilities as laugh-providers.

As a result, "Music in the Air" bids fair to become the comedy hit of the season, as well as a triumph from the musical and dramatic standpoints. Nine of the principal song successes of the operetta are retained in the film, with Boles singing five of them, either as solos or in a duet with Miss Swanson—and the glamorous Gloria's voice, which she has been training steadily during her recent retirement from the screen, is said to be nothing less than sensational in itself.

James Cagney and a talented cast are still bringing gales of laughter from the audiences attending the present showing of "The St. Louis Kid," which will be the feature attraction at the Fox today and tomorrow.

James Cagney, Patricia Ellis, Allen Jenkins and Dorothy Dare stand foremost in this fast-moving comedy-drama that has brought delight to all who have seen it.

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN

'First World War' at Georgia Prepared, Edited by Stallings

Lawrence Stallings, whose book, "The First World War," has been hailed by world leaders as the most powerful and moving plea for peace yet published, performed the same editorial duties for the amazing motion picture of the same title now showing at the popular Georgia theater.

Stallings' reputation as an authority and commentator on the great war is an international one. In the opinion of many critics he is the "four-letter man" of war literature. He wrote a notable war novel, "Plumes," published in the early 1920s. With Maxwell Anderson he collaborated on the most successful of all war plays, "What Price Glory."

This play was later screened by Fox and was one of the outstanding war pictures. Incidentally, it was responsible for the debut as a team of Edmond Lowe and Victor McLaglen. Another notable picture, "The Big Parade," was made from a scenario provided by Stallings.

Most recently he has edited both the distinguished volume, "The First World War," and the Fox picture adapted from it. Thus in four fields of war literature he has done first-rank work.

Lawrence Stallings was born in Macon. He attended Wake Forest College, in North Carolina, graduating in the class of 1915. Later he took a degree at Georgetown University. His newspaper career began in Atlanta and later he went to the New York World. In his twenties he made a name for himself as literary critic of that famous newspaper, then in its heyday. Just prior to this, he had served in France, becoming a captain in the Third battalion, Fifth marine, Second division.

His playwriting career began with "What Price Glory," one of the big hits of its season (1924). In 1925 he and Maxwell Anderson again collaborated, turning out two plays, "The Buccaneer" and "First Flight," both of which were produced by Arthur Hopkins, who had staged "What Price Glory." "The Buccaneer" dealt with the raid on Panama by Henry Morgan, pirate, in the reign of King Charles II. "First Flight" presented an early episode in the life of Andrew Jackson.

In the season of 1926, Stallings supplied another play script to Hopkins. This was the libretto for the unique operetta, "Deep River," a story of New Orleans in the nineteenth century.

Later the writer went to Hollywood, where he served on the scenario staffs of several companies. At present, he is again in New York, in the capacity of editor of Fox Movietone News.

'FREEDOM OF THE SHES' TO BE PRESENTED HERE

Something entirely novel in modern merchandising will be locally enjoyed in the performance of that hilarious playlet, "The Freedom of the Shes," by James A. Sterling, with a cast of favorite Broadway stars. It will show at the Fox theater on January 15 for one performance only, starting at 10 a. m. Admission is by invitation. Free trickets can be secured from any Norge dealer upon request or from any Rogers Stores.

This production is receiving country-wide acclaim in its tour of 57 cities. It is under the direction of Norge Corporation, manufacturers of Rollator Refrigeration and other home appliances, and is being locally sponsored by Hopkins Equipment Company, Norge distributors for this territory, and local Norge dealers.

Written and staged strictly for its entertainment value, "The Freedom of the Shes" is billed as a product of 10 laughs a minute. Special Pullmans and baggage car will bring complete stage settings, broadway cast, famous vaudeville artists, orchestra and Norge executives here for this performance. A preview of 1935 Norge home appliance lines will be shown during the presentation of valuable attendance surprises which will climax the show.

"The Freedom of the Shes" has drawn capacity audiences all over the country, and a record attendance is expected here. Many out-of-town dealers are organizing caravans of Norge owners and friends to visit the performance.

"DAMES," MUSICAL, SUNDAY PROGRAM FOR EMPIRE FANS

"Dames," Warner Brothers' latest musical comedy romance, comes to the Empire theater today, with an all-star cast headed by Joan Blondell, Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler. The story carries a definite plot said to be one of the most hilarious on record. Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler furnish most of the romance for the picture.

Monday and Tuesday brings to the screen one of the most humorus actors in his latest comedy hit, "The Circus Clown," starring Joe E. Brown.

"Down to Their Last Yacht," rated as the screen's most ambitious musical, will be the attraction for Wednesday. The story concerns a party of bluebloods with nothing but a yacht between them and starvation, and a group of opulent society climbers, all herded together on the yacht. The cast includes Mary Boland, Polly Moran, Ned Sparks, and Sidney Fox.

Thursday and Friday the Empire will present Zane Grey's "Wagon Wheels." The story features Randolph Scott, Gail Patrick, Monte Blue and Raymond Hatton and revolves about the romance between a famous frontier scout and a city girl. There also will be a stage show at both matinee and night performances, starring the radio stars, "Doc Schneider's Texas Yodeling Cowboys."

John Wayne, famous western star, will be the feature for Saturday, in "The Trail Beyond," a title of the great north woods. The supporting players are headed by Noah Beery and Noah Beery Jr.

ROY AVERY NAMED ATLANTA MANAGER AT METRO OFFICE

Roy M. Avery has been appointed Atlanta manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company, it was announced Saturday by Charles E. Kessnich, southern district manager for the world famous picture corporation. Mr. Avery succeeds the late Jimmy Hanlon.

ROY M. AVERY.

Mr. Avery, who assumes his new duties immediately, has been one of the star salesmen in the southern territory under Mr. Kessnich for the last six years. He has operated chiefly in the west and southwest and comes here directly from Oklahoma City, where he has made his home.

His family will move to Atlanta in the early summer after his son graduates from high school.

'FOOTLIGHT PARADE' TO BE SEEN TODAY ON HILAN SCREEN

Sunday the Hilan offers "Footlight Parade," with James Cagney, Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell and many other Warner Brothers stars. This is a spectacular musical film, based on the presentation of stage shows and the people who create them.

Monday and Tuesday, "Now and Forever," a thrilling and imaginatively directed story, will be shown. A human and appealing theme is the element that makes this picture one of the most thoroughly delightful and entertaining hours of film fare offered in a long time. Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and Shirley Temple are the three who play out this tale of a reckless young international crook, his light of love, and the child who changes the whole course of their gay lives.

On Wednesday, "One Is Guilty," with Ralph Bellamy and Shirley Grey, will be shown. The story concerns the murder of a champion pugilist, found shot to death in an empty apartment house. Bellamy is assigned to the case.

Thursday and Friday brings "The Circus Clown," with Joe E. Brown and Patricia Ellis. It's a three-ring circus, big tents, clowns, freaks, acrobats, barkers, roustabouts, animals and parades and all.

On Saturday, "Their Big Moment," with Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville, is billed. The story is of a vaudeville troupe hired to perform a fake seance in the home of a wealthy woman.

MANY VISITORS SEE KENNESAW MOUNTAIN

MARIETTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—The report of the national park service shows that within the past few days many visitors from all sections of the United States have registered at Kennesaw mountain national battlefield site, near Marietta. The list of states represented includes Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina, Michigan, Illinois, Virginia, Colorado, New York and California.

Guests are conducted over this area by free government ranger historians, who tell the story of the battle, and point out all spots of historic or scenic interest. This service makes it possible for the visitor to appreciate the historical importance of this battlefield.

Kennesaw mountain national battlefield site, locally known as Cheatham's hill, was the center of the ten-mile battle line in the Civil War engagement fought around Kennesaw mountain, and here the hardest fighting occurred. In this vicinity are found extensive trenches and forts, remarkably well preserved. These fortifications are a tribute to the engineering skill of the Union and Confederate armies, and an examination of these works discloses a close similarity to modern methods of trench warfare.

During the past few years a large number of relics have been picked up on the battlefield, and they are now on display at the park.

COLOR FILM SEEN AS DEVEOPMENT FOR COMING YEAR

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 5.—The year 1934 contributed less to motion pictures than most years, in many ways. The greatest step forward was along lines of color film, although some sound recording done by Victor Schertzinger in Grace Moore's picture certainly set a high for that type of thing and sent producers scuttling for operatic talent.

For several years now, Dr. Herbert Kalmus—who has faith in the eventual supremacy of color films—has worked in his Hollywood laboratory to perfect this most difficult art. From time to time, showings of some of his color film rouse a producer to enthusiasm and to a decision to insert a "color sequence" into a film which is in the making.

Few people know that the single color sequence in a black and white picture is always done against Dr. Kalmus' better judgment, for he understands eye psychology too well not to know that a sudden screen in color not only breaks up the story continuity but handicaps color in no small fashion.

Dr. Kalmus had little co-operation until the advent in Hollywood of Robert Edmond Jones, genius of the legitimate theater, who backed up his knowledge of color with a mastery of lighting, which the new color photography must have in order to make it the ideal dramatic vehicle. In outlawing "La Cucuracha," these two men did perfect teamwork. Dr. Kalmus explained to Jones what he had often tried to get over to Hollywood producers—that he would pick up precisely the colors they gave him. If they did not give him beautiful colors—colors with subtlety, correct dramatic flavor and harmonious blendings—they couldn't expect to find these results in the finished film.

But a Hollywood producer making a color film felt that he had to have plenty of live reds, vivid blues, singing greens, and so on. He deplored the use of white when he was paying for color process. The results were the hectic horrors which made all persons sensitive to color flinch.

"La Cucuracha," which gave the first truly beautiful technicolor film to the world, carries a color range unknown to any previously made film of this type. It gives us nuances of coloring which few dreamed could be achieved. Its lighting is dramatic and beautiful. And the unusual trick of lighting the players' faces in moments of stress and passion opened an entirely new field for color pictures. Dr. Kalmus discovered that the color cameras could even register a blush—forgotten art though we may consider it.

Cellophane Bathing Suits Mark Davison's Fashion Revue

By YOLANDE GWIN.

In a series of fashion shows in their new Sun and Surf Club, Davison-Paxon's is showing the 1935 models in smart beach attire. If you want to be a mermaid menace and make the Sea Serpent of Loch Ness and the star boarders of Davy Jones' Locker come up sometime be sure to see the black cellophane and the sea satin bathing suits.

There on the third floor of the store a veritable scene of tropic glamour and beauty has been built with swaying palm trees, gay colored deck chairs and a cabana. A pretty and attractive group of young girls and an equally charming young matron modeled the clothes, carrying out the store's traditional perchant for smartness and up-to-dateness.

The sea satin bathing suit is a shimmering lastex fabric which made us think of brides and trousseaus while the black cellophane made us think of seals and all their sleekness. Terra cloth capes and guard coats finish the swim suit ensembles. There are all kinds and colors of play suits. Shorts, which are very essential, are worn with or without skirts, which are buttoned right down to the hem in front. Halter style tops are popular for the suits and also with corduroy or cotton knit slacks. One ensemble was particularly attractive of blue corduroy shorts, a blue and white jersey blouse, and a brand-new feature, a blue straw eye shade, quite flattering as well as protecting to milady's eyes. The new krinkle cord suits and dresses in all color and sizes still remain one of the most popular articles for southern wear. Soft textured and a dull finish, they are perfect for the seashore and pack excellently.

Cruise linens, star print pique, the latter with a fitted blouse and wrap-around skirt are particularly attractive and another sport outfit was a gay plaid flannel coat with white coat. Displaying the nautical influence was a model of heavy crash trimmed in cork buttons and worn with a cord belt as was a navy blue sailor suit, halter effect worn with shorts and a wrap-around skirt.

For the relaxed formality of southern evenings milady will be ultra-ultra feminine. A starched flowered mousseline de soie with black background flowed airily from the model's figure and bespoke of romance, while an ashes of roses taffeta trimmed in fuchia with a high collar seemed to float from the past. Black, blues green with a dash of the old-fashioned with bunches of flowers, ruffles or tulle formed the fascinating array of evening dresses.

Hats this year are important. Wide, broad brims to shade and flatter under a relentless sun, with all manner of crowns. One had a squared off peak, another was creased into a ridge like a roof top; and there was the sugar loaf crown which is very good for fickle beach winds and one with a pointed crown and a brim which rolled at the edge was quite Mexican. These items are just a few of the fascinating models and accessories you can find at the Sun and Surf Club on Davison's third floor to assemble your Florida wardrobe.

EXHIBITION JANUARY 17.

Plans for the annual exhibition and dinner of the Atlanta Stamp Society were completed at the weekly meeting of the society Thursday night.

The exhibition will be the largest ever to be held in Atlanta and many out-of-town guests are expected to attend. Chief among them will be H. L. Lindquist, of New York, editor of "Stamps," who will be the guest of honor.

The Atlanta Stamp Collectors' Club is joining in the movement with the Atlanta Stamp Society to make the exhibition a great success. The Boy Scouts of America, the Girl Scouts and members of the public schools are all especially invited to attend the meetings and to enter frames.

First, second and third place ribbons will be awarded in the junior and senior divisions. The senior section will be composed of the United States section, the foreign section and the miscellaneous section.

The exhibition will open at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of January 17 in the Henry Grady hotel. A dinner will be held at 6:30 o'clock that night at the Henry Grady hotel, at which Mr. Lindquist will be the speaker. The exhibition will close at 8 p. m. January 18, and prizes will be awarded then.

The meeting last Thursday night featured an interesting contest in which the members were asked to design original United States postage stamps. Many startling designs were presented. Karl Pathe, secretary of the society, won the contest.

STAMPS IN THE NEWS.

Twenty-one stamps, issued by Mexico on behalf of the presidential inauguration, provide a complete set for both postage and air mail use in addition to including a special delivery.

Neat and modernistic workmanship is displayed in the designs, which range from native activities to historical scenes. The stamps are divided into 12 regular postage and eight air mails besides the special delivery.

Values for the regulars consist of one centavo to five pesos, while the air mails list from 5 centavos to 5 pesos. Two colors are used on the two higher values of both groups. The special delivery gives an indication of speed by showing an Indian with his bow strung ready to shoot an arrow aloft.

Two new portraits of King Carol comprise the illustrations on two new values for Rumania. The 50-bani shows the king in everyday attire, while on the 6-lei he is in full military regalia. The stamps border on the lapel type in size, covering approximately twice the area of an average United States stamp. Apparently these denominations are to be regarded as additions to a previously issued pair.

Another denomination of the "police palace" group from El Salvador is at hand. It is an 8-centavo blue.

A new postage due set has just come from Hungary. Printed in blue, the stamps are all identical except for the values, which consist of large numerals on a central lozenge with rays spreading in all directions. Denominations range from 2 to 80 fillers.

The 1934 child welfare issue of Luxembourg shows Jean l'Aveugle, who became Count of Luxembourg in 1309 and who is known in European history as John the Blind, wearing full armor and riding a typical fiery steed. In the set are six stamps.

Portugal, first to appear with stamps for 1935, has a Red Cross issue made up by surcharging six values of the Camoens commemorative set of 1924.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

By James Waldo Fawcett.

The Washington Philatelic Society at its quarterly meeting voted against the printing of souvenir sheets of imperforate stamps and the circulation of imperforate ungummed sheets among officials. A questionnaire on these subjects had been submitted by the National Federation of Stamp Clubs.

A stamp representing the new Supreme Court building is strongly indicated for release next May, coincident with the dedication of the structure.

The campaign for the Memorial Day stamp, asked by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic, is gaining in momentum. Several members of congress are interested in the idea and have promised to support it.

The projected Boy Scout stamp in the end may be one in which the Girl Scout movement also will be represented. Such a suggestion has been made.

T. Norman Palmer thinks the proposed presidential series is political in purpose. "With a democratic president and the states well under democratic control," he says in Kaw Chief Stamp Journal, "it is certain that it will be the democratic presidents who will get the breaks."

The 4-cent Martha Washington coil stamp no longer is to be had from the Philatelic agency.

Demand for first-day Washington cancellation for the national parks stamps is growing. But, alas, no stocks appear to be available. Dealers and agents missed their chance.

Christmas time is the pre-cancel specialist's opportunity. Wise collectors will keep their eyes open.

Mr. Farley has been asked to authorize a stamp in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Boston Latin school. Senator David I. Walsh and Representative John McCormick, of Massachusetts, have indorsed the appeal.

Negotiations are said to be going on for regular transportation of mail between the United States and Europe via Graf Zeppelin next spring and summer. New airport stamps are indicated, but no means assured.—Washington Star.

U. D. C. Executive Board Meets In Decatur Wednesday, January 16

By MRS. J. L. McCORD,
Of Atlanta, Editor of Georgia Division of U. D. C.

The executive board of Georgia Division U. D. C. meets in Decatur on Wednesday morning, January 16, at 10 o'clock (central standard time), with the Agnes Lee Chapter U. D. C., as hostess. The Candler hotel will be official headquarters and the business session will be held in the hotel dining room. Agnes Lee Chapter, Mrs. W. P. Smith, president, will be hostess to the board at a beautifully appointed luncheon at their chapter house on Avery drive at 1 o'clock. Automobiles will be furnished for those who wish transportation to the luncheon. A full board is urged by the division president, Mrs. T. W. Reed, of Athens, who will preside over the business session.

Mrs. Joseph Vason, state chairman of historical essay contest, writes: "Dear Madam President: Loyalty to the truth of southern history is the keystone of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and certainly there can be no better way of teaching our children the principle for which our Confederate soldiers fought than through the medium of the historical essay contest. J. E. B. Stuart, one of the most colorful figures of the War Between the States, is the subject, and chapter presidents are asked to confer with the teachers of her county urging that every child, including fifth grade through high school, write an essay. The folders are ready and you can get them from your district chairman by sending postage.

A. A. Jamerson, owner of Dixie Camps, again is the generous donor of two campships, valued at $450. The camps are located in the Blue Ridge mountains of northeast Georgia and enjoy the distinction of being the most completely equipped camps in the country. The boys' camp is under the personal supervision of Mr. Jamerson, and Miss Elise Stokes is in charge of the girls' camp. Two gold medals are given by the Georgia division. With such a subject let us make the contest a glorious success. Reference books on J. E. B. Stuart for essay for 1935 are as follows:

"J. E. B. Stuart," by H. H. Smith, Ashland, Va., price 10 cents; "Life of Robert E. Lee," by Thomas Nelson Page, see index; "Life of Robert E. Lee," by J. G. and Mary T. McClellan; "Jeb Stuart," by Captain John W. Thomason Jr.; "Memoir of the Confederate War," by Heros von Borcke.

Mrs. R. M. Mobley, state chairman Helen Plane educational loan fund, sends message to division members. Mrs. Mobley says: "February is the month assigned for work for the Helen Plane educational loan fund. The observance of Georgia Day, February 12, as 'Flag Day' is the only plans we have for its support. Won't you please sell Georgia flags on the day designated for this cause? If for any reason your chapter cannot sell flags, please send as liberal contribution as possible during the month. The Fannie Batey Bankston cup is to be awarded at the state convention in October to the chapter of Georgia division making the largest per capita contribution to this fund. The small chapter has the same chance as the larger chapter to win it. I have the pin flags ready to ship. Order at once a big supply. They are 20 cents per dozen, or $2 per gross. The appeal for loans to worthy girls of Confederate lineage increases every year. A good many are depending on us now. My heart's desire is a contribution from every chapter in Georgia division this year. Remember, I am counting on your help."

The December meeting of Quitman chapter was held at the Brooks county library assembly room. Mrs. C. T. Tillman, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. John P. Duncan. Reports of officers and committees featured the meeting. Treasurer reported balance on hand, $55.15. Mrs. O. J. Taylor and committee were commended for successful cake and candy sale. Mrs. L. S. Price, chairman of veterans' committee, reported baskets of fruit and flower sent to veterans, widows and inmates at county farm on Thanksgiving Day. The "Lest We Forget" committee, Mrs. C. T. Tillman, chairman, reported subscriptions of chapter magazine. "The Southerner," sent to four widows of Confederate veterans. The scrapbook chairman, Mrs. C. F. Cater, requested interesting clippings and notes from members. A gift of $5 was voted to Red Cross. Mrs. C. H. Myers, chairman of Word War memorial marker committee, was given authority to purchase a marked—price $57—same to be erected. Two interesting pictures depicting the first Memorial Day celebration ever held in Georgia were presented to the chapter by Mrs. Thomas Arrington. Expressions of sympathy and love were extended to Mrs. J. W. Oglesby Sr. and Mrs. M. Baum, who were ill. Expressions of sympathy were also extended to Mrs. T. W. Hunter and family in the loss of their son, Dan Marshall. Madam de Beyersdoff was a distinguished guest. Mrs. C. T. Tillman gave the report as a delegate to the general U. D. C. convention in New York city. Miss Julia Price and Mitchell Brice contributed a piano duet.

Mary Brantly Chapter, U. D. C., met with Mrs. E. C. Paschal, with a large number of members present, opening with prayer followed by salute to the Confederate flag. Mrs. J. D. Tweedy, president, presiding. Chapter discussed what efficient service to render to the two remaining veterans of Terrell county for the new year. Committee was appointed to place in a book the names of all Confederate relics owned by members. The program centered around the civilization of the old south. Mrs. Mary L. Pickett spoke with special reference to its statesmen. Mrs. J. B. Stapleton told about Judge Wilson, father of Woodrow Wilson, as he was a prominent figure of those days.

Georgia Legislative Council Holds Weekly Meetings in Future

The Georgia legislative council of women's organizations, which includes the president and legislative chairman of state-wide organizations, will hold weekly meetings each Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the Central Presbyterian church on Washington street, opposite the state capitol, during the time that the state legislature is in session.

Officers of the council are Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, president; Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, vice president; Mrs. W. A. Ozmer, secretary, and Mrs. W. T. Mobley, treasurer. An executive board meets at an early date but the first open meeting will be on January 17. Local chairmen of member organizations and interested citizens are cordially invited to attend these Thursday morning meetings and to visit the house or the senate with the council group. The policy of the council to place few measures on the calendar and to encourage intelligent co-operation with the women in the various counties by sending all possible information on the progress of bills in the legislature to voters back home will depend on the ability of the committees appointed to sponsor each bill.

Organizations are urged to send at an early date a list of the measures to be entered on the calendar and names of chairmen of committees to steer these bills. Dues of $3 a year to pay for the printing of the calendar and for postage should be sent at once to the treasurer. If we remember that "in a dynamic, changing society citizens should interest themselves in the process of lawmaking in order to direct it more fully, intelligently and effectively than is the case at present," we shall be glad of this opportunity to study proposed legislation.

American Music and Folk Songs Chairman Issues Message Today

Mrs. Roy Smith, of Tennille, state chairman of American music and folk songs for Georgia federation, issues the following letter to the clubwomen of the state: "Should there be any club in Georgia that has failed to give American music and folk songs a place on at least one program during the year, will you please add it now at the beginning of the new year?

"For information, write General Federation Headquarters, 1734 N street, N. W., Washington, D. C., and a program outline of American music will be furnished your club; also nine varied programs to go along with the nine departments of federation work. Ask for a list of special programs and material on American music which is available from the music loan library at headquarters (loan time limit two weeks).

"Feature your state composers by giving them one program. Report how many compositions by American composers have been featured at your meetings during the year. Boost American music wherever and whenever possible. With best wishes for a successful club year."

Club Extension Committee To Meet.

Another group conference arranged by the administration of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will be the meeting of the committee on club extension in Atlanta on January 10, at the Atlanta Biltmore. Mrs. Albert Hill, vice president at large, is chairman of this committee, which is composed of the first vice presidents of each of the 10 districts: First, Mrs. Philip Morgan, Guyton; second, Mrs. J. L. Dickenson, Donaldsonville; third, Mrs. Evelyn McGehee, Columbus; fourth, Mrs. R. M. Mobley, Covington; fifth, Mrs. Guy Fulton, Atlanta; sixth, Mrs. Howell Mullis, Cochran; seventh, Mrs. L. W. Awtrey, Acworth; eighth, Mrs. W. H. Oliver, Valdosta; ninth, Mrs. W. H. Meadors, Toccoa; tenth, Mrs. Roy Wallace, Rutledge.

The conference is called for 10:30 o'clock Thursday. The Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs will be in session in the Biltmore and the committee will be privileged to hear Anna Steese Richardson speak at 1:30, and enjoy Mildred Seydell during the luncheon hour. Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole says in her latest message to clubwomen: "To meet the challenge of the future our organization must continue to grow not only in mind and spirit but in body as well." Federation extension workers know how true this is, and should keep constantly in mind the mental alertness and spiritual fineness of the federation, while they specialize in building up its bodily growth. Work joyously and with determination in the forward march of this great undertaking.

Thomasville Study Class Holds Meeting.

At the meeting of Thomasville Study Class on Thursday Mrs. J. E. Craigmiles, chairman for December, gave the first paper, "Warpath," the story of White Bull, chief of the Sioux tribe of American Indians. Mrs. Craigmile's delineation of Indian character was well drawn with bits of humor to relieve the story of continual warfare, the ideal life of the red man. An added feature was the violin music played by Mrs. Walter Mauk accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Rob Balfour. Mrs. Mauk played "Liebestraum" by Kreisler and "Traumerai" by Schumann. Continuing the study of American history and the outstanding figures in the early days of the founding of the nation, Mrs. W. W. Jarrell in a splendid paper gave a history of "The Adams Family," a family which has taken a leading part in national affairs from colonial days to the present time.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie Acknowledges Gift.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, acknowledges with deep appreciation the Christmas gift to her from the women of Demorest, which was the formation and federation with state and general federations of the Demorest Women's Club, on December 21, 1934.

This Group 1 club has 21 charter members with Mrs. H. B. Mowbray, president; Mrs. James R. Taylor Jr., secretary; and Mrs. Joe Philp, treasurer, and every good wish for the new year is extended these loyal friends.

Mrs. R. H. McKay Urges Observation Of Thrift Week

Mrs. R. H. McKay, of Fitzgerald, chairman of insurance, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, urges the observance of Thrift Week, January 13-20, in the following message: "Women's clubs and other organizations of women are asked to present an insurance program at least once a year, and also to observe Insurance Day during Thrift Week in January. Thrift and insurance are synonymous terms. Where talks at club meetings by insurance experts are desired speakers will be provided if the application is made sufficiently in advance of date of meeting to allow for necessary arrangements.

Insurance as thrift and as a systematic method of saving should be placed before pupils in high schools in all towns and counties. The young and confident should prepare for a safe and sane future, and the safest and most practical way is through a life insurance provision to fit the individual need. The essay contest in insurance should be stressed again at this time as the contestants must send in their manuscript before February 15. Such a contest will do more to aid in the education of women and young people as to the value of life insurance than will any other plan. Once the plans, purposes and financial value of life insurance to the home is understood, women will be won over and will urge the financial safeguarding of their families through this thrift plan. Insurance provides the most effective means of saving that it is possible to obtain. Unlike other forms of saving, it supplies just that gentle degree of coercion which is needed for the making of periodic deposits. The parent desirous of providing funds for the higher education of children can arrange this through an educational policy, and the payment of the mortgage on the home may also be provided for.

This bitter depression through which we have passed has taught us the futility of the mad scramble for wealth. We have seen fortunes crumble, seen young people giving up the hope of a higher education which they had taken for granted thrown unprepared upon a world which did not want their services. We have learned of suicides by the thousands, have seen the increasing number of criminals, and we have all spent what we did not have. All this has led to failure, bitterness and poverty. What we need is a future financially safe. Through life insurance one may know freedom from care and there has not been a failure of any legal reserve life insurance company for more than 30 years.

There are many other forms of insurance that should be studied by clubwomen as they have a direct bearing upon the home. Thirteen or more forms of policies are now being issued that will be of interest to the thrifty home makers, including the special housewives policy. Calvin Coolidge once said that life insurance is the modern method by which men and women make the uncertain certain, and the unequal equal. It was Mr. Coolidge who also said that every policy is a declaration of independence and a charter of economic freedom. Let us indorse life insurance as a practical part of the New Deal for better living and as a constant incentive to persist in the exercise of the thrift habit.

Members of the insurance from the ten districts named to date are: First, Mrs. W. S. Simmons, Guyton; second, Mrs. Fields Roberts, of Quitman; third, Mrs. A. C. Moye Jr., Cuthbert; fourth, Mrs. L. C. Tyus, Barnesville; fifth, Mrs. Albert Akers, College Park; sixth, Mrs. A. F. McGhee, Macon; seventh, Mrs. Luther T. Mann, Dalton; eighth, Mrs. W. R. Wilson, Douglas; ninth, Mrs. W. D. Bell, Hoschton; tenth, Mrs. Don Barnes, Royston.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick Writes Article On Tallulah

About 25 children stay through the holidays at Tallulah and have great sport all the week long. They "hung up their stockings with care" in the big sitting room on Christmas Eve and Christmas morning was a big event. As the 25 were of varied ages it is just like a big family seeing its "'sprises."

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, resident vice president of the board of trustees, is the presiding genius of this long Christmas season from December 21 to January 4. She writes of some of it: "I wish I could describe to you all the 'doings' here this week. You know that all the work of kitchen and home is carried on with no assistance or direction from grown-ups at all. I have had two shifts in service and it would be hard to tell which was the finest. Especially at this time of the year do I thank God for our boys and girls who have more chance now to show their love for the school by trying their utmost to do the right thing.

"Sunday evening vespers, with all gathered about our beautiful table, could not have been sweeter anywhere on earth. Alma was the leader. She said: 'The old year is fast going out. The new year is knocking at our door and I am sure we all want to be happy and make the best of our lives for ourselves and for other people.' Appropriate Scripture and poems were read and there were songs and little sentence prayers with everybody responding. She then asked for a keynote for happiness—many were suggested but finally all settled upon John's choice of 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.' It was declared the keynote for 1935 and a beautiful medley of wishes was built around it.

"This was their real good-by to 1934 in which year the school's jubilee began.

"I wish you could have been here last night as they all sat up together to ring out the old and ring in the new. First, the children cleared the dining room of every sign of Christmas, changing the red decorations to green and white as the new year colors for hope and purity. Then they popped corn and made the most delicious candy and nut popcorn balls. When these were finished and enjoyed there was one hour left in which to dance. Then I announced, 'one minute after 12—Welcome 1935,' and such a noise of bells and horns broke out. 'Silver Sue' (our Persian cat) woke from a nice nap near by and literally went wild with fright running away to a safe hiding place. Then Norma read 'Ring Out the Old—Ring in the New' after which everybody burst into 'Happy New Year to You.'

"Surely the symbolism of every season is fully savored at Tallulah.

"So here we are at 12 o'clock on New Year's Day each busy at some task and here is our menu for New Year's dinner today:

"Hog-jowl and field peas (for good luck), cracklin' bread, turnips, sweet potatoes, onions, buttermilk and butter (all our own products), tomatoes, ginger pudding and transparent sauce (from the world outside). Everybody well and hungry—not a child here sick through the entire holiday season. Thank God and our hosts of friends for a happy and beautiful Christmas season in these high, lonely mountains."

Pike County Federation Executive Board Plans Program of Work

The executive committee of the Pike County Federation of Woman's Clubs met on Thursday at the home of the president, Mrs. W. D. Howell, in Zebulon. The meeting was opened with a song, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." Mrs. Howell introduced Mrs. J. A. Corry, of Barnesville, president of the Fourth District Federation who talked of the plans for work in the district during the year.

Plans were discussed for the work of the various departments in the county, and it was decided that prizes should again be offered, as heretofore, for the most outstanding work in public welfare, and also in the literary and music departments. The subjects for these contests will be announced soon, and prizes will be awarded at the meeting of the county federation in April, the date not definitely decided upon.

The following members were present: Mrs. W. D. Howell, president; Mrs. R. H. Fletcher, of Molena, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Enoch Jordan, of Molena, child welfare chairman; Mrs. H. G. Moulder, of Meansville, student aid chairman; Mrs. G. F. Bates, of Meansville, president of Meansville Woman's Club; Mrs. F. L. Adams, of Zebulon, Tallulah Falls chairman; Mrs. R. C. Johnson, of Zebulon, music chairman; Mrs. M. L. Dunn, of Concord, highway beautification chairman; Mrs. J. W. Oxford, of Concord, scrapbook custodian, and Mrs. S. A. King, of Concord, press chairman, and Mrs. J. A. Corry, of Barnesville, president of Fourth District Federation.

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson Will Visit Here This Week

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, of New York city, well-known magazine writer, will be the guest of Atlanta on January 10 by invitation of the Atlanta Advertisers' Club, Oscar Strauss Jr., president. It will be the privilege of the clubwomen to hear Mrs. Richardson at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning, when she will address the members of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs during their business session at the Biltmore hotel. At this mid-winter meeting, called by the president, Mrs. Oscar Palmour, the presentation of Mrs. Richardson and of Mildred Seydell as guest speakers is anticipated with unusual pleasure. Mrs. Seydell has recently returned from Africa and will talk in her happy manner on her travels during the luncheon hour. An added attraction will be vocal selections by Mrs. Robert S. Rosser.

Clubwomen know Mrs. Richardson best as editor of the citizenship page of the Woman's Home Companion, and many have been stirred to deeper diligence by the constructive criticisms appearing in her columns. "Know and Protect Your Schools" is given by Mrs. Richardson as the first step in the campaign for crime prevention which the General Federation of Women's Clubs is organizing. She says further: "Today every schoolhouse is a challenge to the clubwomen in its district. Within its four walls the future of the United States is being carved. The children who pass through its doors will go that way but once, for the good or the ill of their country.

"If all is not well with your schools, what are you doing about it? Remember, you as a citizen can never make up to this generation of children any opportunity of which they may be robbed by mismanagement of school funds, by political greed, by the selfishness or indifference of taxpayers. Children and teachers are always the first victims of government economy, because they do not hold political office and do not cry out for political protection."

Patriotic Lectures and Slides Of Interest to State D.A.R. Regents

Mrs. Harold I. Tuthill, chairman of patriotic lectures and lantern slides, sends the following information for chapter regents: "As chairman of the committee on patriotic lectures and lantern slides, I am sending the list of illustrated lectures on historical and patriotic subjects suitable for use on chapter programs. They are available to any member of the society, or may be used outside our organization by any college school, club of community center for Americanization work or otehr patriotic educational endeavors. The lectures, accompanied by glass slides of standard size (3 1-2 by 4 inches) are sent packed in substantially built wooden cases. This affords ample protection to the slides, which may be used in any stereopticon of standard make. Slides should not be used in motion picture machines. When slides are unpacked please note the number of cracked ones and forward this information when returning, in order that the insurance may be adjusted.

"List price of the lectures is for use once only. If second showing is desired, arrangements must be made in advance with the chairman. The charge for each additional showing will be $1. The lectures travel by express, insured for $100, the express to be paid both ways by those renting the lectures. Lectures must be insured when they are returned. Please bear in mind that the lectures must be returned to Memorial Continental Hall immediately after the date for which engaged. This ruling is not an arbitrary one, but of necessity, that picture may be on time for its next appointment." Checks payable to the treasurer general should accompany reservation and be sent direct to Miss Ella S. Ford, 1924 Biltmore Street, Washington, D. C.

The following are obtainable: "Ellis Island" (revised), by Grace H. Brosseau, slides (48), $1.50; "George Washington in Art," by Martha W. Keezer, 50, $1.50; "Half Forgotten Romances of American History," by Elizabeth Poe, 72, $2; "Youth of George Washington," 62, $1.50; "Historic Spots in American Colonies," 114, $2; "History of the Flag," by Mrs. Towles Holt, 60, $1.50; "Landmarks of Old Virginia," by Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, 82, $2; "Memorial Continental Hall and Its Environs," by Lucy Calt Hanger, 111, $2; "National Old Trails," by Arline B. N. Moss, 100 $2; "Signing of the Declaration of Independence, 60, $1.50; "Southern Mountain Schools" (revised), 136, $2; "The Constitution," by Harry Atwood, 40, $1.50; "The Old West," 92, $2; "Trail of the Flag," 105, $2; "Williamsburg," 62, $2; "Yorktown," 73, $2.

The following meetings of the Governor David Emanuel Chapter of Swainsboro have proved instructive and interesting. Mesdames S. S. Elliott, E. C. Edenfield and H. H. Thompson were hostesses in October. This is the third year the chapter has sent students to S. G. T. C. Citizenship meadals were given again this year to the 11 county high schools. In November the chapter met with Mrs. R. C. Franklin, cohostesses were Mesdames P. L. Watson, E. C. Powell, J. R. Powell Jr. and J. B. Spivey. Mrs. Arthur Thompson, the regent, presided. The celebration of Mrs. Magna's birthday was the feature of the afternoon. Senator Richard B. Russell made the patriotic address at the December meeting.

The Elizabeth Marlow Chapter, of Monticello, held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray Persons, with Miss Eula Hardy and Mesdames Gene Osburn and E. N. Smith as hostesses. The regent, Mrs. Ezell Goolsby, presided.

Mrs. Smith Wilson read the president general's Christmas message and a poem, "Our Gift to You," by Mrs. Magna. The following chairmen reported: Mrs. O. E. Lancaster, for Ellis Island, saying a box had been sent to the island; Miss Kate Akin, chairman of Sweeney medal committee; Mrs. O. E. Lancaster reported that the marked for Joshua Wilson, revolutionary soldier, had been placed over his grave. Mrs. O. E. Lancaster, Miss Kate Akin and Mrs. F. E. Cook were appointed to investigate marking Old Stage Coach road in the county. A program on the American Indian was introduced by Miss Lula Hardy.

At the close of the program a birthday cake was brought in decorated with 13 candles, celebrating the birthday of the chapter. Past regents present giving toasts were Mesdames Oscar Holland, E. F. Cook, O. E. Lancaster, Smith Wilson and Ezell Goolsby.

Dr. Frederick E. Smith was the speaker at the December meeting of the Augusta chapter, and was introduced by Mrs. Julian J. Willingham, chairman of programs. Mrs. R. E. Frey, chairman of music, presented Miss Katherine Allen and a group from the choir of the First Presbyterian church, who sang, accompanied by Mrs. T. H. Garrett at the piano. The chapter helped decorate the dining room at the Lenwood hospital for the Christmas season and gave toys to the Richmond county relief. Hostesses were Misses Isabelle Clark, Gertrude Comey and Mrs. George Baird, at the George Walton Inn.

Armistice Day and Thanksgiving were combined in a program, and silver tea given by the Colonel William Fed Chapter of Eastman. In the program were "General Oglethorpe's Thanksgiving After the Battle of Bloody Marsh," by Mrs. Jule Berg; a Thanksgiving reading by Miss Mary Bennett; "Armistice Day," by Rev. F. M. Gaines; "The United States Navy," by Mrs. O. A. Gentry. Hostesses were Mesdames F. C. Coleman, Fom Cook, T. J. Sapington and R. T. Ragan.

Albany Woman's Club Members Hear Program

The Albany Woman's Club held the December meeting at the Gordon hotel, the president, Mrs. H. T. McIntosh, presiding. Luncheon was served members and their guests, the tables being decorated with silvered cones, holly, miniature trees and red candles. Placed among the greenery were numbers of baby dolls, suggestive of the work the welfare department is doing for underprivileged babies, under the leadership of Mrs. J. W. Reynolds.

Reports from departmental chairmen showed a general activity, especially in the welfare department. A letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford, county nurse, was read, in which she expressed appreciation of the splendid welfare activities of the club. Mrs. Crawford stated that Albany had the lowest mortality rating in the state and that the work of the welfare department of the Woman's Club had aided greatly in this reduction by supplying layettes and clean, warm, suitable clothing for expectant mothers and babies. Since the work was started in 1931, 50 complete layettes have been given out, and 25 cases have been loaned, containing sheets, pillow cases and gowns.

"Education in Georgia" was ably discussed by R. E. Brooks, superintendent of Albany public schools; "Adult Illiteracy," by Mrs. George Sabados, state chairman of adult education, and "Citizenship" by Mrs. W. L. Davis. A vocal selection by Mrs. L. Kopple, with Mrs. Ella Meadors at the piano, closed a delightful and instructive program. Mrs. McIntosh extended heartiest Christmas greetings to all present, including the visitors, Mesdames Claude Fullerton, O. H. McClendon, Byrd Odum, L. Hirschberg and W. D. Martin.

Lullwater Garden Club Members Hear Talk.

Members of the Lullwater Garden Club met on Friday at the home of Mrs. H. W. Stephenson on Ponce de Leon avenue with the president, Mrs. M. D. Norton presiding. Mesdames Thomas Campbell, J. A. Higgs, I. H. Jordan and J. M. Rooker were cohostesses with Mrs. Stephenson.

A reading was given by Mrs. Thomas Campbell and another interesting feature was the garden calendar by Mrs. Halverstadt. The speaker was Miss Edith Harrison, landscape architect and graduate of the Sowthorpe School of Landscape Architecture, Groton, Mass. She gave an entertaining and helpful talk on "Landscape Designing."

Three new members, Mesdames E. R. Partridge, Emmett White and E. F. Daniel, were welcomed into the club. At the close of the meeting tea was served from an exquisitely appointed table in the dining room.

New Year Meeting Of Pioneer Women.

The conference room at Rich's was filled to its capacity on Wednesday by a full membership of the Pioneer Women's Society and greetings were extended to Mrs. Lola Clement, newly elected president, who gave appropriate response.

Signal honor was paid Mrs. Harry Morgan, retiring president, who was made honorary president, the society presenting Mrs. Morgan with a shoulder corsage of rosebuds and valley lilies. Mrs. Morgan is a daughter-in-law of the late Mrs. Joseph Morgan, founder of the Atlanta Pioneer Women's Society and a sister of John B. Simmons, who was until his death an official of the Atlanta Journal.

New Year greetings were offered by Mesdames A. McD. Wilson, John McDougal and M. S. Moran, who suggested constructive measures, which were adopted by the society. Miss Sarah Huff read the poems, "Christmas Dawn" and "New Year Dawn," written for her friends.

Family historical sketches will be written for each meeting and will be preserved in the pioneer scrapbook kept by Miss Sarah Huff, the historian, who will present them to the Georgia Rhodes Memorial hall, and beginning alphabetically, Mrs. Julia Bellingraph will write a sketch of her mother, a pioneer Atlantan, for the February meeting.

Mrs. Tyler Announces Executive Board Members on Today's Page

Mrs. C. A. Tyler, of Broxton, president of the Eighth District, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, in announcing her executive family, writes: "To the clubwomen of the eighth district: I wish to thank you for the privilege and honor of serving you as president. Fifth District Finance Chairman Issues Timely Message on Page

From Mrs. Chester W. Martin, of Atlanta, chairman for the fifth district of family finance, incorporates in her timely message that, "The year 1935 holds a financial challenge to every clubwoman. Will you accept it? If we agree that acts of individuals have a direct and cumulative bearing on the nation's business as a whole, then we must agree that every American woman owes it to her country as well as to herself to get her own personal and family finance on a sound basis.

"The strange fact is that the average individual spends fully nine-tenths (if at all) trying to understand the fundamental principles of 'The Way Money Works.' If we were once to turn the tables, we might find that we could have nine-tenths of our time for enjoyment of our earnings if we would honestly devote that other one-tenth to really intelligent planning.

"As clubwomen, it is well to face the following facts: That women spend (or direct the spending of) 95 cents of every dollar in the American pay envelope; they are the purchasing agents of the nation.

"Women inherit under 70 per cent of the wills drawn by men and 64 per cent of those drawn by other women. Women receive the bulk of all life insurance. Women own the majority of stock in many of our largest corporations. Thus it is that women today control practically one-half the individual wealth of the United States, and are in line for still more. This being so, it is imperative that every woman know the fundamental principles of finance, all along the line from balanced spending and systematic savings, through wise investment, to the distribution of wealth in accordance with the law of descent in the state in which she lives. This is important to the wife if she is to be a true helpmate to her husband; it is infinitely more important to the widow when she is suddenly called upon to make far-reaching decisions alone, without her husband's co-operation.

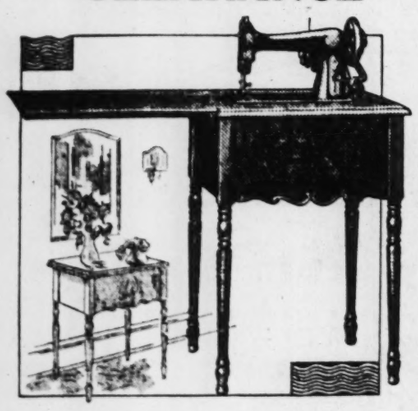

"Let every woman, then, realize that finance, like charity, begins at home, in a fine sense of intelligent co-operation between all the members of the household. For a family most certainly is a business partnership, with a division of labor, just as truly as is any strictly commercial enterprise. Let nobody assume that this concept of matrimony puts it on a low or sordid plane; quite the reverse. For, while it is generally the husband who goes out to earn the family income, and the wife who stays at home to spend it, the real test of their joint enterprise is the degree in which they, as two good partners, get together to 'cut the garment according to the cloth.' For, when all is said and done, all the finer things of life (not only desirable but also necessary to a happy home) in some sense and in some degree depend upon whether or not there is the wherewithal to command them. Thus it is putting the cart before the horse to show people how to spend money unless they have first learned how to have money to spend.

"If American women are to measure up to their full responsibility in these, our troubled days, they should face the whole vexed problem through their two chief associations, the home and the club. I do appeal to (1) every club president in the fifth district to appoint a family finance chairman and to plan definitely for a program on this subject in 1935; (2) to every clubwoman to begin this year with a plan for better financing of your family income."

SNOWMAN'S SWEETIE!

DON'T WE ALL LOVE to recall the pet pastimes of our childhood?

Among my warmest recollections (sitting in a steam-heated studio!) is the coldest of games —making a snowman.

The sculpture wasn't very arty, but then, we weren't such crabby critics those days. Our hearts were alive with youth, our veins sizzled with animated energy, and our ambition was F-U-N!

My Miss Pretty, here, hasn't outgrown her zest for the robust sports of schooldays. Of course, by now, she's learned that there's fun in men NOT made of snow, too—BUT—

SHE STILL LOVES HER SNOWMAN!

Highlights of Broadway

by

Jack Lait

From the Circle to the Square

WITH the advent of a new year, which is just an arbitrary and pagan demarcation of time and not anything preordained like a meridian crossing an equator or the globe completing a revolution around the sun (if the globe does any such silly thing), it is customary to review the past year—to issue a recapitulation in regard to the specific industry or locality or affiliation that the party of the first part thinks might interest other parties.

The province of this bureau is Broadway. So, without digging up boresome statistics, let us skim back over the peak events on Broadway during the late and not entirely lamented annum of 1934:

JACK LAIT

The star of the year, of course, was Repeal.

While it crept in slightly before the dawn of 1934, that was its first calendar span. What Repeal has done in taxes, how it has switched many jobs from hoodlums to decent citizens, and other general effects of this blessed visitation have been presented with facts, figures and authority.

But what it did for Broadway and what Broadway symbolizes cannot be proven by totals in numerals. You see, Broadway took tribute from dishonest bootleggers just as surely as it now does from law-abiding barkeeps, whisky salesmen and booze jobbers; in many individual cases, the profits of speakeasy gypping were far greater than they now are from straight restaurant-keeping.

But it was easy-money prosperity, and the dough was phony. It didn't stick to those who got it or to those they passed it to. It didn't go into anything permanent.

There is still plenty of that sort of jack coming and going. The boys who got a sweet taste of heavy sugar so suddenly haven't retired to little truck-farms or ducked behind counters; they are hi-jacking trucks of silk and cigarettes and furs and radios where they formerly stuck up cargoes of wet goods; they are shaking down beauty shops and union workers and laundries and factories where they were putting the squeeze on cheaters.

But many thousand others have entered honest toil and trade where so recently flourished law-defiance and contraband.

The hotels have bloomed and boomed. In Prohibition, week-ends saw hundreds engaging rooms in the shadier ones to "throw parties" with gin and booze sent in, or they foregathered in one another's apartments where the same conveniences could be enjoyed. Folks who have illegal intentions just naturally shun places where the law is the law.

The upbeat came not only in the rooms, but in the room-service and in the restaurants, where the immense flow of receipts for spirit beverages went into the cash registers of taxpayers and merchants instead of joint-keepers amid racketeers.

Hotels that represented millions in investment and red ink, ploughed through from bankruptcy to dividends in the one year!

The theatres showed a substantial and healthy gain despite many hardships and handicaps, including the movie crusades, the hard terms enforced by banks who are receivers of so many theatres and would, somehow, rather see their property dark than kicking in part of the upkeep; shriveled bankrolls of the principal producers and outside "angels" after years of adversity, and diversion into other fields of important human factors discouraged and depleted after five years of depression, who could not drop everything and bounce back into the industry at the first sign of returning good times.

The improved attendance came through the orderly return to eating and drinking when and where such things should be. During Prohibition a party couldn't be dragged away until the last drop of the poison was slopped down; now, that there will be a place next door to the theatre for a nip between acts and a wide choice after the performance, Americans can be dragged away from where there is liquor at 8:30 or earlier.

It seems wicked and disproportionate that alcohol should so decisively affect our native habits. But we are a drinking people. Not a people of drunkards, but so sufficiently habituated to having our nip that we can't have it taken away or detoured without altering our programs.

The return to sane prices at the "legit" box offices also helped. Except for a few congenital chiselers who cannot resist the immediate temptation to skin up when a hit clicks—forgetting the way such practices alienated millions from their doors—reasonable rates prevail, and a man can dine and take his femme to a show again without having the income of a Big shot gangster or his carelessness with kale.

This has been reflected even more conspicuously in the combination show-and-eat spots. With the added income from kosher drinks, a number of these have stood up amazingly, playing to large capacity attendance and giving tremendous revues with star names and sterling choruses, together with ample food and good floors and bands for dancing, at what a few years ago wouldn't have let you into the balcony of a semi-flop on a side-street playhouse. The couvert charge graft is almost completely forgotten; originally a paying subterfuge to keep certain resorts exclusive, in Prohibition it was grabbed up and abused until it grew to be an outrageous grand larceny. Depression bent it and Repeal splintered it. And everybody is making more money—that is, the money is going further and spreading thicker.

Such big, new enterprises as the Casino de Paree, Manhattan Music Hall (both founded by Billy Rose), Jack Dempsey's big new restaurant opposite the Garden, new grills and bars and gorgeous dining and ball rooms in the hotels, expansion of many resurrected respectable restaurants which were woefully disadvantaged by the outlaws, huge new ventures like the Steuben Tavern at Broadway and 42nd Street, and many less populous new cafes, all have contributed to the building trades, furnishing and decorating and supply businesses, have drawn thicker crowds to Broadway and have poured substantial capital into the rejuvenated arteries of the stem.

What is more important than any or all of these manifestations is that Broadway FEELS optimistic, and that means that, barring cataclysmic catastrophes, it will do okay in 1935.

A Mother's 16-Year Battle Against Illness, Dope, Poverty--For a Son Who Didn't Care

At the End of a Mocking Rainbow She Found Only Scorn, for the Long Years Had Chilled the Boy's Love—But Not Hers

MANY romantic—and deeply true—things have been said and sung about mother-love. Trite things, as well as things almost divinely inspired.

But reduced to its most basic element, the love of a mother for her children resolves itself into—sensitive understanding. "To understand everything is to pardon everything," proclaims the old French proverb, which has yet to be disproved.

But, unfortunately, the sentiment of this particular kind of intelligence isn't always reciprocal...

You'd have thought more people would have understood Mrs. Rose Ruoff Bryce. Understanding could have gone a long way to ease her heartache and soothe her ruffled pride. But throughout the seven years of her Detroit battle for the right to see and talk to her own son, she has had little sympathy and almost no cooperation.

HOPE BURNS ON
But the Victory Won in the Courts by Tragic Mrs. Rose Bryce (Above) to See Her "Baby" Just Once More Was a Hollow One, for the Youth Was Indifferent to Her.

"SORRY, I'M NOT INTERESTED!"
That Was the Unfilial Attitude Taken by James Smith, Jr., When His Real Mother Went to Visit Him at the Military School in Which His Foster-Aunt Had Placed Him.

CHILDHOOD'S TENDER EYES
At the Time This Charming Juvenile Photo of Jimmie Smith Was Taken, His Mother Was Still Permitted to See the Youngster She Adored. Even Today He Lingers in Her Loving Memory as a Winsome Little Chap Who Never Could Be Really Cruel or Unfeeling.

It was so little to ask: just a weekly, or even monthly visit with the sixteen-year-old boy whose birth had brought her to the brink of a precipice from which she had dangled, miserably, through many years. But even this was more than the world thought she was entitled to, at least until recently.

For Mrs. Bryce, embodiment of mother-love, for years led a tragic and unfortunate existence. Her troubles made her known to the police.

Rose Bryce today is leading a perfectly circumspect life. She possesses charm of an unusual degree, is an excellent wife and mother to an adopted foster-daughter, but she cannot win back her own sixteen-year-old boy! Even when the courts came to her aid, as they have at long last, she is beset by ghosts. Ghosts of other times, looking grimly out of her son's eyes. Ghosts that make his petulant lip curl.

Yet Rose Bryce is motivated throughout her days by mother love. Her affection for the boy who turns from her is the guiding beacon of her life. She lives for nothing but an ultimate reconciliation with him. She carries two of his baby pictures with her always.

Rose was a sort of Dickens character from the start. Born in Belfast, Ireland, about 40 years ago, she came to Detroit when her parents died and hired out as a domestic. In these humble circumstances she found romance. She met and married Fred C. Ruoff in 1917, just before he left for France with the American Expeditionary Forces.

Like a thousand other girls who, with eyes wide open to the dangers, became "war brides," Rose bore a son to Ruoff while he fought and struggled in the mud and rain of the front line trenches. She named the child after him, Fred, Jr. The soldier wrote that the vision of seeing his boy was the one bright spot on his dismal horizon. He was looking forward to his return.

Then, nine months later, in a wind-swept terrain on the Western Front, Ruoff was killed in action.

Rose's health had been shattered by the birth of Fred, Jr., and the blow of her widowhood caused a complete collapse. She went to a hospital and stayed for months, having operation after operation. It seemed she never would get well.

One day, while she was lying on her bed of pain, a friend came to her and told her a childless couple with a great deal of money had seen Fred, Jr., and wanted to adopt him.

Stop and think—and do not condemn too quickly.

She was penniless. She was sick. She had no family to turn to, no assurance of being able to earn money to care for her child. Indeed, she might not even get out of the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James W., Smith, owners of a large trucking company in Detroit, were prepared to give the boy a position in society, a fine home, the best of educations, a job when he was old enough, their fortune when they died.

Mrs. Bryce (then Mrs. Ruoff) consented to the adoption. There was only one proviso. She must be allowed to see her son once a year.

Time passed, relentlessly. When she was well enough to leave the hospital, the unfortunate woman found herself in the midst of a hideous nightmare. She had become enslaved by the morphine habit during her hospitalization! She had used more and more of the drug to deaden her pain, and now, discharged, she could not get along without it.

For a time she fought against the craving. It was a losing fight. Her feet were set on the downward path of all narcotic-users. She plunged into the shadows of the heartless city, a miserable, pitiable creature, whose life was unknown to anyone save at those times when she was picked up by policemen on various minor charges. She gave the name "Rose Kelly" then, and as such was known to Recorder's Court judges from 1922 to 1925.

But once every year she put squalor behind her, bought new clothes, had her face massaged and her nails manicured, slept 24 hours and—went to see Fred, Jr., now using the name of James Smith, Jr. It was the whole year to her, that one day!

—AND HE GREW OLDER
Here's Jimmie in His First Military Uniform—One of Two Pictures Mrs. Bryce Carries with Her Everywhere.

For some time the Smiths did not suspect the nature of their son's real mother's life. She was, indeed, rather good-looking and thoroughly maternal.

Then, in a manner never explained, they learned about her other life. She was forbidden to see the boy. The foster-parents sent him to a distant school.

It changed Rose's life completely. Deprived of the only thing that mattered, she did the almost impossible. She cured herself of the drug habit, finally, completely and without relapse. If you have read of the horrors of "cures" under which weaker women have sickened and died, you know what this meant to the mother of Jimmie, Jr.

Soon she applied to her first court for permission to see her son again. The trial brought her whole luckless past before the public. And her request was refused.

In 1928 both of the boy's foster-parents died. He was given into the custody of a foster-aunt, Mrs. Helen Fader. The Smith fortune, a considerable one, went under her administration, too. The money had dwindled through the depression to $200,000.

BIG BOY NOW
Jimmie Smith Leaving the Courtroom Where He Sat, Avoiding Mrs. Bryce's Gaze, During Trial When She Won the Right to See Him.

Mrs. Helen Fader, Foster-Aunt of Jimmie. Since the Deaths of the Couple Who Adopted Him She's Been His Legal Guardian.

Rose married again, settling down to quiet respectability and adopting a four-year-old girl to compensate for—though never to take the place of—her son. She thought she'd try again for those visits to him. Again she was refused.

Her fight became something of a tradition in Detroit. The whole city became acquainted with her plight. There were those who condemned her; others who rallied to her aid. She went on the radio, broadcasting an appeal to the public for support.

Mother love, in a modern setting, you see.

She had many letters wishing her well. She had others, saying she was paying for her misdeeds. Still she went on fighting.

Last Summer she started a new suit not for the custody of the boy, mind you, but only for the right to visit him periodically. She succeeded in obtaining a review of her past legal actions.

Rose appeared on the witness stand to tell her story. Her son sat a few feet away, with his foster-aunt. He avoided his mother's gaze.

This was her first chance to talk to Jimmie, heart to heart. What if the judge and jury, the spectators, lawyers, and newspapermen were listening in? She just had to pour out her heart—then or never.

Slowly Mrs. Bryce told of the time she had gone down to Howe Military Academy, where Jimmie was a student. He met her on the school campus, where she sat on a bench, she testified.

"Hello, son," she said, her voice vibrating.

He answered: "Why did you come?"

"I had to see you," replied his mother.

"I wish you wouldn't," countered the boy. "I don't want to be bothered."

"Jimmie," she pleaded, "you don't know what you're doing. I'm your only living blood relative. Don't you see?—I'm your mother!"

"Im not bragging about that," said Jimmie.

"You mustn't say that. You won't have any real friends that way."

"Aw, nerts to you," said the boy. "Mrs. Fader is my mother now."

Mrs. Bryce sobbed as she told the court about the episode. Her own boy, using the parlance of the streets to rebuke his mother!

"There have been thousands of dollars spent on this boy's education," said Judge Ferris S. Fitch, "but I fear it has been futile. Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I do not believe any boy should address his mother as this boy has done."

"Don't you see, son?" cried Mrs. Bryce, staring down at the lad. "I didn't give you away because I didn't love you or because I wanted to get rid of you. I gave you away because I could not give you the advantages I wanted you to have!"

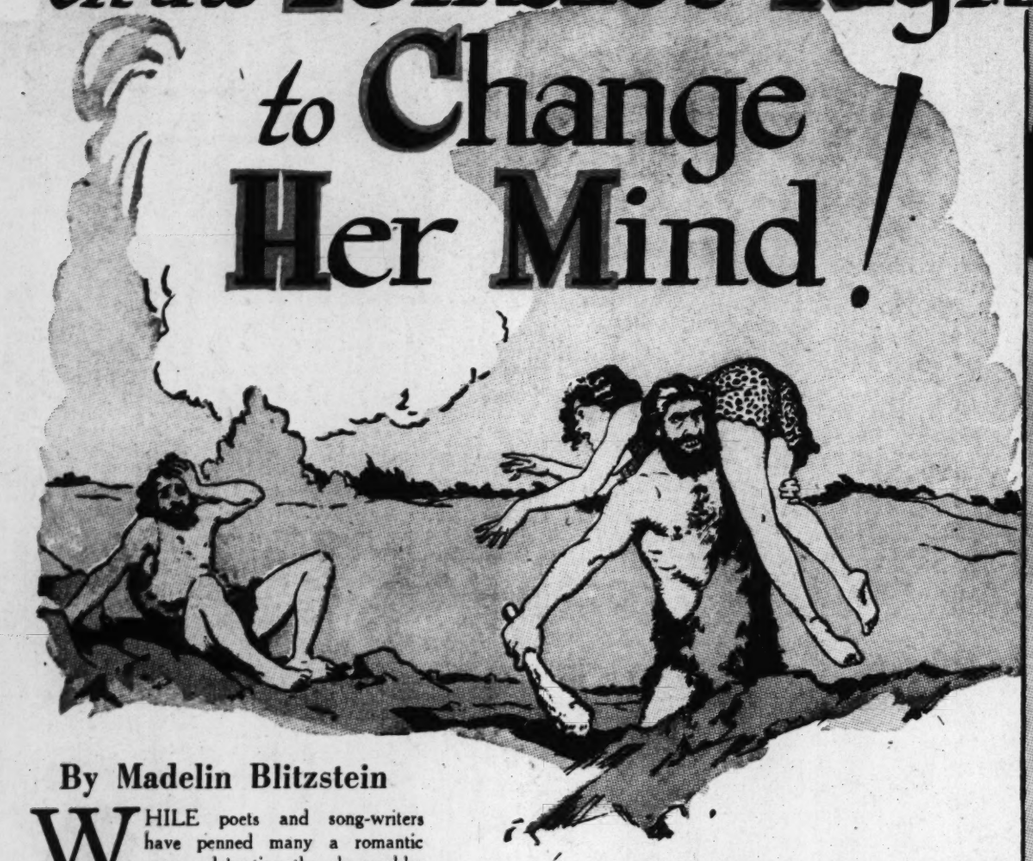

But even when the Judge granted Mrs. Bryce the right to visit her son, the boy kept his eyes turned away with seeming indifference. She took a step toward him.

He stared at her without speaking. His hand under his foster-aunt's elbow, he strode from the room.

Mrs. Bryce still has a battle before her, the fight to gain the affections of the son she now may visit.

No Limitations on the Female's Right to Change Her Mind!

The learned judge who permitted Virginia Thompson, the Annapolis "color girl," to annul her marriage admitted there was no human or legal curb whatsoever on the fair sex's traditional fickleness

"Woman may change her mind with utter disregard of consequences, without any sense of responsibility . . . and more especially in all affairs of the heart."

By Madelin Blitzstein

WHILE poets and song-writers have penned many a romantic verse celebrating the changeableness of the feminine mind, how does the modern, sophisticated man of the world react to this ancient female prerogative?

Does he, too, concede to woman the right to say "yes" at one moment and "no" the next, or does he rail against this habit and demand that she become what he considers a rational being?

Does the woman of today scorn the fickleness for which her grandmothers were famous, or does she, too, follow in the footsteps of history as a legitimate daughter of Eve and reserve the right to change her mind as nonchalantly as she does the fashion of her hairdress or the color of her nailpolish?

Strange as it may seem, the very latest verdict on feminine capriciousness has been handed down by no less dignified a male than the learned Judge Eugene O'Dunne, who presides over Circuit Court No. 2 in Baltimore, Md.

And, stranger still, this worthy gentleman of the law has decided that there are no limitations, legal or human, on the right of the female to change her mind at any time on any subject, since "decisions dissecting the feminine mind, soul and body and their several requirements are at best mere man-made laws, and law is never accepted as binding on the female of the species (at least by her)."

What is more, no less a personality than A. P. Herbert, the noted English wit, novelist, student of jurisprudence and indefatigable crusader for saner divorce laws, has seen fit to praise the literary as well as the judicial talents of the American judge in the columns of Punch, London's humorous weekly.

THE present discussion about the "ancient prerogative of a daughter of Eve to change her mind as she would her dress or the brand of her perfume" grows out of a marriage which took place in Ellicott City, Maryland, in November, 1933, after an admitted cocktail party.

The bride was a very fair young damsel, the 21-year-old Virginia Classen Thompson, of Baltimore, who had been selected as "color girl" for the Annapolis Naval Academy exercises in the spring of 1933 by Midshipman Ernest Lee Jahncke, son of Ernest Lee Jahncke, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy. And the groom was the 24-year-old John Bradon Bronner, also of Baltimore, an employee of a filling station.

It seems, according to the way the judge himself tells the story in his breezy discussion of the case, that Virginia Thompson, only a few hours before her marriage, "had decided not to be married, if the term 'decided' may ever be used with legal exactitude as applicable to any act of the adorable sex."

The afternoon of her wedding she went to a cocktail party (in November, 1933, "under legalized Prohibition") at one of the "many informal dispensaries on Biddle Street."

TO the party came R. Howard Bland Jr. and "his fair and charming bride," whom Judge O'Dunne describes as "most refreshing, not only in appearance but in the simple, straightforward candor of their testimony" when they later told him the events of the day. When they arrived at the party, they said to Virginia:

"Now, if you and John are going to get married, why we think that is swell and if you are, then talk quickly and get going. If you are not to marry, say so, as we have a bowling engagement shortly and nothing less than the romance of a wedding is going to make us break it."

Miss Virginia Thompson, the former Annapolis "color girl," who no sooner got married than she asked for an annulment.

Followed "another chapter of feminine indecision during which the wedding was on and off more than once," according to the judge's report, until finally, in answer to Bland's "Virginia, let's get set; either there is to be a wedding or a bowling match," the License Bureau was called and found to be still open at 6:30 P. M. "on account of a murder." The license clerk, who knew they were in Baltimore, told them he would give them a half hour to put in an appearance at his office in Ellicott City, Md.

To continue in the judge's words: "Into their roadster hopped R. Howard Bland Jr. and his sweet bride. Into a roadster climbed Virginia and John. Safe to assume they broke the speed-limit and ran the red lights, and in less than one-half hour the romanticists stood before Cupid's clerk with a dollar down and no interest or other installments to pay.

"Presumably the usual question was put by the license clerk: 'For dog or woman?—(same price).' They unwisely chose woman. Running entirely true to feminine form, as soon as Miss Virginia got what she thought she wanted, she no longer wanted it . . . and she said, 'What should I do? I don't want to go through with it'."

HOWEVER, good sportsmanship ordained otherwise and they got the license. They then went to an Episcopal Minister; he told them that three days must elapse between the license and the ceremony according to his church but he added, as Judge O'Dunne pointed out, "Yonder is the home of a Presbyterian minister not bound by such stricture as to three days' delay. If I refuse to marry you for that reason, would you go to him and get married in any event?"

Again Virginia's sporting blood made her bravely answer yes, and then the minister replied: "In that case I would not want to be the humble instrument in the hands of inscrutable Providence in driving out of the Episcopal Church (and into another) two good members of this faith; therefore in such case I think I ought to marry you."

And he did, not without first, as Judge O'Dunne in all fairness records, trying and failing to get a "dispensation" from his bishop by calling him on the telephone because "the line (not of bishops but of telephone service) was dead."

Thus Virginia Classen Thompson became Mrs. John B. Bronner in the eyes of the law and the state, but in her own heart she remained Miss Thompson; for no sooner did she discover that she was really a bride than she wanted to undo what she had so recently done. The groom acquiesced in her desire and they took their plea for an annulment to court where, fortunately for Miss Thompson it fell into the hands of Judge Eugene O'Dunne.

AFTER having heard all the facts and spoken with the principal romanticists, Judge O'Dunne sat down to write his opinion. With the decree annulling the marriage Judge O'Dunne attached a 14-page memo closely written in long hand on hotel stationery.

In his memo, the judge proceeded to reason out the case to a conclusion. He writes:

"There is in this case no suggestion of inebriety of either party to the proceedings or by any of their friends, but mere human nature knowledge tells me that neither good nor bad gin—and there was none good in November, 1933, and I have seen little since—sobers the thought or makes for serious and deliberate judgment of a high order, but serves rather to befoggle thought and stimulate indecision of the feminine mind, never in need of such stimulant.

"Has any man ever been born who could interpret the female heart? Decisions dissecting the feminine mind, soul and body and their several requirements are mere man-made laws, and law is never accepted as binding on the female of the species.

"What are the limitations, if any, legal or human, on the right of the female to change her mind at any time on any subject, as she would her dress or perfume? There is none. Woman may change her mind with utter disregard of consequences, without any sense of responsibility either to God, law, or man, and more especially in all affairs of the heart.

"Even the day after the sanction of the religious ceremony, it is still not too late for the feminine mind to exercise this ancient prerogative of the Daughters of Eve to change her mind."

Judge Eugene O'Dunne, who found no limits to woman's right to change her mind.

Toward the end of his opinion, the learned judge remarks: "The cynics may sneer and think the judicial life itself too cloistered fully to comprehend human nature in the making. Perhaps the only answer worth while giving them is that I am sailing for Paris and I may broaden my 'kultur' in that line during the summer."

He concludes by granting an annulment and declaring that he based his opinion on the fact that there was a "lack of mental consent of Virginia Thompson, the fair plaintiff (and she must be fair, for she was selected 'color girl' at the Naval Academy)" and that this lack of mental consent was "too subtle for ordinary understanding."

A. P. Herbert, British novelist, who found Judge O'Dunne's ruling stimulating and sensible.

WHEN the first inklings of this romantic comedy of marriage crossed the Atlantic Ocean, they interested Novelist A. P. Herbert vastly.

Herbert, who took first class in jurisprudence at Oxford in 1914 and has been writing for a quarter of a century, compliments Judge O'Dunne on his wisdom and humanity as well as on his literary skill.

He writes that the words about woman's habit of changing her mind, "proceeding from any Bench, might well have started a nation-wide breaking up of homes," but he hastens to add that since they were bound up with an excellent judgment, they could do only good. And he says that in his opinion the bride had not, as she put it, "changed her mind," but had as a matter of fact "never made it up at all."

Herbert declares that the judge tells the story with a breezy humanity which he commends to the High Court; he likes the kindly way in which he wrote the decision before sailing for Paris in order to give the romantic litigants a peaceful summer, and he adds that Judge O'Dunne has shown himself a master of life and of literature in this report.

Herbert emphasizes time and again the "attractive brightness" of Judge O'Dunne's opinion, and then concludes: "You, reader, who are accustomed to deride American customs, pray do not miss the moral of this story, in which it is not too easy divorce but too easy marriage that causes all the trouble."

But even if A. P. Herbert wants especially to point out that hasty marriages cause harm while easy divorce makes people happier, the fact still remains that the breezy tale which Judge O'Dunne told so well did all spring out of the inability of woman to make up her mind.

For, as Judge O'Dunne said, dissecting a woman's mind is a great question, "one that is as old as the history of the human race and so delicate that a mere man, whether layman or judge, may well approach it with feelings of utter helplessness." And Judge O'Dunne, realizing that when a woman changes her mind she will not listen to a contrary law, granted Virginia C. Thompson her annulment because he believed it was the thing that would make her (and incidentally her husband) much happier than the wedded state could.

"HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE A BARON?"

Strangers, New Friends and Old, Asked Bill Frary of Boston All About It After His Adoption by Baroness Adelheid Maria von Blomberg Became Legal. Here He Is Telling Marjorie McBride, Boston Writer.

Baron Bill Was Thinking So Hard About His Fiancee That He Impetuously Appro Couldn't Help It—She Happened to Be Which Was His Clue to the C

THE 26-year-old Irish-American lad born Bill Frary of Lynn, Mass., continues today the story of how he became the adopted son of Baroness Adelheid von Blomberg, 71-year-old spinster and heiress to one of the oldest titles in Germany.

Against fearful opposition, the Baron's adoption became legal, but the powerful family overseas was hostile.

So the youth, hardly speaking German at all, decided to go to Berlin to win over his foster-relatives, and—incidentally—to look for a German bride of noble birth to carry on the Von Blomberg name.

By Baron W. T. (Bill) Frary von Blomberg.

MY FOSTER-MOTHER, Baroness Adelheid, gave a parting admonition to my secretary before we sailed for Germany, which I had occasion to remember throughout my uncertain mission in the land of Chancellor Hitler.

It was when she said goodbye to us. She drew Paul Files, the young Dartmouth graduate she had selected to accompany me on the trip, to one side and said to him in a low voice: "Stay with Bill always."

I did not show her I had heard, for I knew I was not meant to hear. Yet I entered Germany with some trepidation. I was told on the boat by a German acquaintance that I had about a 75 per cent chance of not returning to the United States at all!

RECEPTION GIVEN TO BARON VON BLOMBERG

Mrs. Snow Hostess to Baroness and Protege at Cape

HIS ADOPTION IS LEGALIZED BY JUDGE DOW

"Baron Bill" Now Mingles with the Cream of Boston Society. Here Are the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovich of Russia and Mrs. Curtis Guild, Who Introduced Bill to the Baroness. She Is Wearing the Diamond Dog Collar Necklace, Brooch and Rings for Which She Is Famous.

My foreboding were based on the same information the Baroness knew. I was entering a strange country, in which I had no blood ties whatsoever and few friends, to plunge into circles where political tension was strong. My objective was to see and win over foster-relatives, strangers to me, who were part of the highest officialdom of the country, and who had definitely shown they did not want Bill Frary in their ancient and honorable family. I had also to meet a noble-born girl, one of two my foster-mother had selected in advance, subject to my approval—and further, as best I could, form an alliance between us.

I sat in the railway carriage, en route from Brussels to Berlin, staring gloomily out of the window at the countryside, while I pondered all the counts the von Blomberg family in Germany might have against me. Reflection deepened my gloom.

I was not only not a von Blomberg by birth, but not a German at all; neither by ancestry nor by naturalization—for I had jealously guarded my American status. I am not of the von Blomberg religion; I am a pacifist; I am a member of an international organization looking toward unity of all peoples and all faiths; and I am an officer in an organization for the advancement of colored peoples.

I HAD tried to offset these qualifications—as the von Blombergs of course considered them—by offering some time before to sign away my financial rights in the von Blomberg inheritance, save for the castle I was so anxious to see. But the family hostility remained. What was wrong with me, in the eyes of these German relatives was something I could not change by will.

It was not until we crossed the border at Aachen that I began to realize the great power and prestige of the von Blomberg name. There I did not have to say a word to officials. I was accepted as one who belonged in high rank, because my passport bore the name of "von Blomberg." It gave me a thrill.

The day I arrived in Germany was a hectic one. The body of General Paul von Hindenburg was being taken to Tannenberg for interment. The streets were crowded with mourning and excited citizens. Around the railway station the soldiers had gathered, to facilitate the departure of dignitaries.

All the members of the government were there when I arrived. My foster-cousin, General Werner von Blomberg, Minister of Defense and right-hand to Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself, was among those who were leaving for Tannenberg.

I became rather excited, realizing that I— an American bearing the same name, a stranger in Germany, yet the future master of Blomberg Castle—had been thrown by accident right into the midst of this assemblage. I tried to get to General von Blomberg. I kept saying to the guards: "I am his cousin! I am his cousin!"

BUT they did not understand my faulty German, or else they did not believe me. They paid no attention to what I said and held me off.

Disheartened, I went to my hotel and waited until the General returned from Tannenberg. Then I went to call on him at once in his office at the Reichswehr. The name von Blomberg had no magic here. I had great difficulty in getting to his office at all and once there, his secretary told me he would not see me!

The curt answer crushed me. Had I traveled all these miles for this rebuff?

I went back to my hotel and sent over to the General an eight-page letter from Baroness Adelheid, which I had intended presenting in person. Almost at once, an official car came for me! I was formally presented to the Chief of Staff of Germany's Army within a few moments.

To this day I do not know if he had a sudden change of heart, or if my impulsive first call, without due warning, had offended German convention.

It was a stiff, formal meeting between us. I came in, bowed, said the usual things—with difficulty, for I am by nature an informal person—and he inquired about the Baroness' health. His bearing was military. He made no mention of future meetings between us; indeed, he did not refer to my adoption by his cousin at all.

Two things he spoke to me about. One, if I would care to use an official car while in Germany—and this pleased me very much, of course. I said, "Yes, thank you." Then he remonstrated with me for my work with liberal organizations, and asked me to cease my activities in them. I said yes with my fingers crossed, for I will never allow my family to dictate to me. This family have dominated their younger members for years, as I have seen in the Baroness' case, and they are not going to dominate me.

The only disagreements Baroness Adelheid and I have had have been over the domination of her by her family.

Next, I went to call on Baron Gustav von Pohl, in whom I had two interests. He was the head of the branch of the Blomberg family which had most actively opposed my adoption. Besides this, he was the uncle of one of the two girls whom my foster-mother had suggested as possible fiancees.

The Baron was very frank.

"We were all surprised at Adelheid's action in adopting you," he remarked. "But"—he shrugged—"a little fight makes for fun."

He offered me a cigar. I declined it. He asked me what I wanted to drink, and I said: "Nothing, thanks."

"What kind of man are you, anyway?" demanded the Baron in surprise.

I explained that Baroness Adelheid had asked me not to drink or smoke while I was in Germany. As a matter of fact, I had sampled the beer already, for I wanted to know what real German beer tasted like. But I did not drink anything else.

THE Baron invited me to his country house for a week-end, and there I had a taste of German country house life. I enjoyed the Baron's company, but was disappointed that his niece was not there.

I do not think I would like the life permanently. Too many things are "verbotten." Everywhere you turn someone says: "No!" But more about that later.

I was approaching the climax of my journey, my meeting with the Countess. From the first I thought of her as the more appealing of the two girls selected. I met the other one, whose name I prefer to keep to myself, a few days after I arrived in Germany, and abandoned all idea of seeing her again. We just didn't get along with each other. So everything depended on a comradeship with Countess Hedwig.

Imagine my excitement when one morning my German secretary, Fraulein Hannah Stein, said to me:

"The Countess Hedwig von Pohl is telephoning from her home in Dachau. She is coming to Berlin and would like to meet you."

IT WAS arranged through Fraulein Stein, who had been selected for me by Baron von Pohl—and a competent secretary she was!—that the Countess was to meet me at Kranzler's Cafe, the famous meeting place on Unter Den Linden. She said she would be wearing a gray traveling suit with an orchid in her lapel, and I would know her from that description.

I arrived at Kranzler's early and stood in front of the place, looking into the faces of all the girls who passed. What would Hedwig be like? I was hoping she would be attractive; not necessarily beautiful, for a fascinating personality is worth so much more! But there are certain characteristics a girl must have, to make my marriage with her possible. She must be dark, tall and slim; she must be interested in the same things as I—going out and mixing with people, charity work; she must be socially prominent or able to become so, else the Baroness' plans would be spoiled; she must be a good dancer and not more than ten years older or younger than I.

I was in the midst of these thoughts when I saw a girl in a gray suit approaching. I strained my eyes—yes, surely that was an orchid in her buttonhole!

"Pardon, Fraulein—"

She drew back, very much insulted. It was NOT the Countess Hedwig!

CHAGRINED, I stood there a while longer, afraid to speak to several girls who passed and who looked like my idea of the Countess. I consoled myself that they were not attractive enough, anyway. Then a second girl in gray—with a flower—passed. I spoke again. Another wrong shot!

This time, I was let down. I decided to wait until a girl in gray spoke to me. But I would not have had to go to all that trouble, had I known that the Countess was coming accompanied by two Americans whom I had met in the United States, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Petersen. Her secretary also came along.

What a relief! She was tall and dark and slim, really quite beautiful. I was instantly attracted to her. She is a little older than I, about 31, and somewhat sad by nature. We could not talk very much, for her English was as scanty as my German, and when I asked her to dance, she refused, saying: "Germany is too preoccupied to dance today. We have so many serious things to think of." This was quite a different type of girl from those to whom I was accustomed.

Plain Irish Boy Transformed Into a German Baron

n BLOMBERG (FORMERLY BILL FRARY)

How a Young American Miraculously Acquired an Ancient German Title— and Powerful European Enemies— TODAY: "Baron Bill" Invades His Foster-Family's Homeland Strongholds—and Gets a Chilly Reception

OULD HEDWIG BE LIKE?" the Girl Who Might Become ached the Wrong Girl! He Wearing Gray with Orchids, Countess Hedwig.

he is entirely unlike Frances adger, my American pal, for in- ance—the best company and best ancer I know. Yet I was definitely interested her. She had a subtle fascination for me.

I only stayed twenty minutes that first visit, ut it was arranged that I should come to achau for three or four days, after I had been visit Blomberg Castle in Weimar. I looked rward to both visits.

Blomberg Castle impressed—really awed— e. It is a beautiful gray stone building, with ide terraces around it. Its sixty rooms are mpty and gave off a lonely air as I walked rough them. I could imagine living there part f every year. I would never want to stay in ermany all the time, anyway; but part of each ear at Blomberg Castle would be wonderful.

The next day I flew to Dachau—everyone avels by air in Germany. Servants met me at e airport and drove me to a rambling frame ouse where the von Pohl family lives. This was be my taste of country life, and—I hoped—a hance to get really acquainted with the ountess. I walked into the house with my heart my mouth. The Countess, in a crisp white immer frock, met me at the drawing room oor. We said, "Hello," a little ill at ease. Be- ore we could say more, other guests wandered i. The conversation became general.

STAYED at Dachau three or four days. Every day the Countess and I met at mealtime, at tea, n walks in the garden. But NOT ONCE DUR- NG MY STAY WERE WE ALONE. We never njoyed a private conversation. We had abso- itely no opportunity to get acquainted as young ien and women do in the United States.

It is the unchangeable custom for girls in ermany to go about heavily chaperoned at all mes. Apparently there would be no opportu- ity for friendship between us of the sort mericans are used to. I was disappointed, for think our liking for each other was mutual— nd how could either of us tell if it were pos- ble to fall in love, until we knew each other?

I am going back to Germany this year. I m hoping to be able to see more of the fascinat- g and gentle Countess. The Baroness is in no urry for me to marry, but she would like to be pared to see my wife, she says as her health frail.

The Baron von Pohl constituted himself my nofficial sponsor in Berlin. Through him I met any important people, including Prince August Vilhelm, second son of the Kaiser; also Herr aul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, nd—finally—Chancellor Adolph Hitler, himself.

It was a peculiar meeting with the chief actor the Nazi drama. I went along with the aron von Pohl while he "sanified" the hancellor's house. You remember the Baroness delheid had been interested in the Society of odwalkers? I found the Society is recognized Germany, much respected and very popular. he Baron, a leading member, went through the hancellor's house with a divining rod, and when the rod moved it meant an injurious ray was present. He recommended Herr Hitler's bed be moved from one side of his room to another, to avoid such rays.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler walked up and down and talked very fast while I was there, so fast I couldn't understand him—a mile a minute. He shouted and seemed like an actor going up and down on a stage. He has a magnetic personality. I liked him, yet I feared him, too.

Yet, when I left Germany, I had learned one thing for all time. I can never dodge my obligation to carry on the name of Blomberg in the manner the Blombergs expect, with its full measure of dignity and honesty. It is a family truthful almost to a fault. Dutiful. Sincere. I think the Baroness knew I would realize this, when I saw the family.

An ironically humorous note was struck when, upon leaving, I was told—although I knew already—that no one is really recognized as a Baron in Germany, because all "distinctions and privileges of rank" in 1919 were abolished by the republic. Titles are no more official there than in America.

I came back still an American Baron von Blomberg, and yet somehow changed. I knew now that my life had altered completely. More than just a name had been transformed. My whole philosophy of life trembles in the balance.

I face a possible international marriage, one that, even if love enters into it, has been prearranged as marriage is in the Old World. The Baroness does not mean to interfere with me, but she lives in a different atmosphere than that I was used to in Lynn.

She talks to me often about falling in love "suitably."

"Love? Of course you must love the girl you marry," she says. "But you could not love certain types of girls. You could not love a girl who has no background. What would you do if a girl never said a single worthwhile thing?"

Many of my American friends she dismisses with: "But her lips are painted!" She has an aversion to the use of lipstick. Some she dismisses with: "Sweet, but not the girl for you."

Instead of rebelling absolutely, I listen and wonder. I am not yet in love.

Choosing between an American and a German girl seems inevitable. If I am to please the Baroness, a German girl would be best. How would she do in the United States? I think Germans are sadder by nature than Americans. I remember Countess Hedwig said something once about all the fine young men of Germany having been killed in the war. I was going to dances in America then. Could I understand a German wife?

There are more problems in being a Baron than I realized before I became one.

It isn't smooth sailing ahead yet.

I can only hope that I will be able to live, to love and to marry as my kindly foster-mother would have me live, love and marry. It's as simple as all that.

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

Dead Hypnotist Called Instigator in Bombing Of the Orient Express

By PETER LEVINS.

THE Orient Express, crack train of Europe, had just crossed the Yugoslav border and entered Hungary. It was 11 p. m., September 13, 1931, a dark, stormy night. Eighty passengers reposed in their comfortable compartments as the train, which runs between Constantinople and Paris, hurried along the shore of the Danube toward Budapest.

Belching smoke and sparks, its whistle wailing, the locomotive rounded a curve and headed across a bridge near the little town of Biatorbagy. The engine had reached about the middle of the viaduct when disaster suddenly halted its swift progress. A terrific explosion blew it off the track and flung the string of cars into the valley below. Twenty-eight persons were killed and scores gravely wounded.

Even as the train crashed, and the screams of the victims filled the night, a ghastly bit of byplay was enacted by an onlooker hidden near the bridge. Wielding a pocket knife, the man cut himself in the face, smeared the blood over his cheeks, and then ran down the embankment to the scene of destruction.

He was one of the busiest of the rescuers. Tirelessly he helped clear away the wreckage and extricate those still alive. Survivors recalled his stern and commanding voice as he insisted that the children should be the first to receive medical attention. Several heard him remark that by some miracle he had escaped with only a few cuts about the face. He even mentioned his name—Sylvester Matushka.

Recall Similar Wrecking in Germany.

Investigators quickly reported that the Orient Express had been dynamited. Police remembered that, only a few weeks before, a train had been dynamited at Jueterborg, south of Berlin, Germany. The explosion had derailed the train and 108 persons had been wounded. Police of Austria, Germany and Hungary speculated whether both crimes had been committed by the same man or group of men. As for the motive, they were completely at a loss.

Three days after the disaster Sylvester Matushka, a well-dressed man of about 40, called at the office of the Hungarian Railroad in Vienna, Austria, and filed a claim for 200 Pengoes (about $40) which he said he had carried in his wallet lost in the wreck. Railroad officials demanded proof that he was on the train, and he became most indignant. He would get a doctor's certificate that he had been hurt in the wreck, he declared.

Subsequently (September 21) he did call upon a physician in Vienna, seeking a certificate. To his annoyance, the doctor also asked for proof that he had been on the train. Matushka stormed about, waving his arms and pounding the doctor's desk. How dared any one doubt his word! He was on the train, he was cut about the face, he toiled for hours at the scene. Ask any of the survivors!

The Vienna police, celebrated in criminology for generations, heard about all this, and on October 1 they took him into custody and questioned him.

But the evidence at this time seemed meager. Matushka could not prove that he was aboard the train, yet neither could the police prove that he wasn't. He answers were given in a straightforward manner; there was no attempt at this time to subject him to a third degree.

Matushka told them he was a native of Csantaver, Hungary, that he was 42 and that he had been a teacher. At the outbreak of the war he had quit his profession and enlisted in the Austro-Hungarian army. The police were able to verify the fact that he had won an honorable discharge as a first lieutenant. In 1919 he had married Helen Der, also a teacher, and they had a 14-year-old daughter.

He was released.

* * *

But then Dr. Josef Schweinitzer, captain of the Budapest police in charge of the Orient Express investigation, learned a few additional details about the behavior of Matushka at the scene of the bombing. He rushed to Vienna and at his insistence Matushka was again summoned for questioning. He appeared at headquarters in Vienna October 7.

The questioning now became more pointed. Austrian and Hungarian officers took turns in grilling the suspect.

And finally he confessed.

"I did it but I am not to blame," he said. "It was the eyes of Leo that made me do it!"

"What do you mean by that statement?" he was asked.

"Leo hypnotized me. He was one of the greatest hypnotists in Europe. He made me do it!"

"A likely story!" scoffed an officer. "Where is this Leo?"

"He's dead. His body is dead but his power lives. His eyes follow me everywhere. I was helpless under his spell."

"Even after he was dead?"

"Yes."

A likely story. . . .

But the police investigated and discovered that there had been such a hypnotist, and that he had died in Budapest on May 13, 1930. Starting with this fact, the detectives pieced together a most fantastic story.

Leo was not his real name, but John Kiss. He had come from a small town near Budapest, the son of middle-class parents. As a boy he showed a nervous restlessness. First he wanted to be a physician and attended medical school in Budapest. But after only two years of study he quit school and began some medical researches on his own.

Before long he was in Berlin, Germany, where one evening he wandered into the Wintergarten, famous cabaret, which at that time presented the leading entertainers of Europe. John Kiss witnessed the performance of Svengali, the magic hypnotizer, and made his acquaintance.

Becomes Understudy To Famed Hypnotist.

Svengali completely captured the imagination of the high-strung and ambitious youth. Attracted by the man's fame as well as his mystic powers, John Kiss became his understudy. Within a few years, under the name of Leo the Hypnotist, he himself was making theatrical appearances in various European cities.

But eventually public interest in hypnotism waned, and in 1929, broke, aged and ill, he returned to Budapest.

It was then he and Matushka became acquainted.

Before Sylvester Matushka encountered the Eyes of Leo, his life had been quite normal. Like so many others disorganized by the war, he did not care to resume his teaching career after the great conflict ended. The career of a teacher now seemed too insignificant. He craved success, power, renown. He tried his hand at several enterprises, and in 1929 he was doing well in the real estate business.

From the first the ailing hypnotist—he was suffering from stomach ulcers—and Matushka entertained a strange friendship. It was a bizarre combination of two personalities, one accustomed to wield power over fellow humans, the other burning with a desire to achieve fame—what the psychoanalytically-conscious criminologists of Vienna described as a frustrated vanity complex.

According to Matushka, Leo's influence began many years before they actually became friends. He said he first saw him in 1911, while he was a student at Teachers' College, at Kalocsa, Hungary. Leo delivered a lecture on hypnotism before the student body and after it was over he looked into Matushka's eyes and said, "You will become very famous."

The prisoner insisted he had never been the same since.

"Leo promised to make me famous," he said over and over again, both to the police and later to the judges at his trial. He said that after he and Leo became intimate friends in Budapest he lived in a constant trance, subject day and night to the Eyes of Leo. Even after the hypnotist died, the eyes constantly spoke to him, compelling him in all his actions.

Incidentally, Leo died in a rather peculiar, almost comic, manner.

At that time, the spring of 1930, Europe was overrun with hungry entertainers. At Budapest an Indian fakir astonished the well-nourished burghers by fasting 10 days, and then 12 days. Leo heard about the feat and immediately challenged the Indian to a hunger contest. After 18 days of self-starvation Leo's life began to ebb. He passed into a coma. Doctors said there was no hope.

Just before he died, Leo's eyes fluttered open and he muttered, "I would have won but for my stomach trouble."

* * *

Matushka confessed that it was he who had dynamited the train at Jueterborg. That was on the night of August 9, 1931, his wedding anniversary. He had used seven pounds of dynamite. Before that, he said, he had fruitlessly attempted to blow up the Vienna-Berlin Express at Anspach, Austria. That was on his namesday December 31, 1930.

From Jueterborg he went directly to Budapest and began preparations for the Orient Express bombing. For this job he had used 15 pounds of dynamite.

Although he insisted in his trial that he had no motive in these crimes, and that he was at all times entirely under the control and direction of Leo, the police declared he had hoped through causing wrecks to interest the railroad companies in a semaphore device he had invented. The police at all times ridiculed the hypnotism defense.

Months of investigation failed to disclose any accomplices. The Budapest authorities wanted him, of course, for the Orient Express crime, but Vienna held onto him and in June, 1932, he was tried for the unsuccessful attempt to bomb the Vienna-Berlin Express at Anspach.

During a long examination by the president of the court, Matushka knelt in prayer, sobbed and continually muttered to himself in Hungarian. He answered the judge's questions in a high, excited and expressive voice. Early in the examination, when asked his occupation, he said, "Lastly a trainwrecker; before that a merchant."

Hungary Borrows Bomber for Trial.

He still insisted that it was the spirit of Leo that drove him to his crimes.

On June 17 he was convicted and sentenced to six years in prison.

He had served three years of this term when Hungary succeeded in its efforts to "borrow" the bomber for a trial in Budapest. Accordingly he was removed to the Hungarian capital and on November 6, 1934, the proceedings got under way. The trial was conducted by a tribunal composed of three judges and no jury, according to the Hungarian system. The presiding judge was Dr. Albert Marton, the prosecuting attorney Dr. Charles Gotz, and the counsel for the defense, Dr. Tibur Levei.

Matushka again muttered and prayed and trembled. The prosecution asserted he was feigning insanity. One observer remarked that the defendant appeared perfectly normal when displaying insanity, and that when he dropped the mask of madness he appeared the true maniac.

Early in the trial the prosecutor submitted a poster as evidence. The poster turned out to be an advertising placard that Leo the Hypnotist had used. It showed his head, eyes staring intently, and below the face the name of the theater where he was scheduled to appear. Matushka fastened his eyes upon the poster, then he began to tremble. His whole body shook and he whispered, "It is him!"

Among the witnesses was Kalmar Kiss, a city official of Eger, who had known the defendant as a child. He testified that as a boy Sylvester used to fool around with sulphur which he placed on the railroad tracks. When the wheels struck the sulphur, Sylvester's eyes gleamed strangely in the bright sparkle of the ignited chemical. The assumption apparently was that Sylvester was still a mischievous boy at the age of 42.

Other witnesses told of the relations between Leo and the defendant. The two had often been seen together in Budapest cafes. Defense witnesses testified to the strange power the hypnotist exerted over his friend. One said he heard Leo boast that he could make Matushka blow up the Hungarian parliament.

This particular witness was Ernest Daranyi, a newspaper man. He said that one day in 1929 he met Leo and Matushka in the Cafe New York, in Budapest. Leo hypnotized Matushka and caused him to carry out various orders. "You see!" exclaimed Leo triumphantly. "If I wanted to, I could make him dynamite the Hungarian parliament!"

Angered When Audience Is Small.

Others testified that after Leo's death Matushka lost something of his usual verve and activity. He began to occupy himself with an intense study of chemicals and explosives. He displayed a sudden interest in certain phases of railroad engineering, such as the width of the rails, the structure of locomotives, etc.

Matushka seemed more interested in the audience his trial was attracting than in the evidence. One day when there was not the usual crowd he expressed anger, saying, "What is this? Don't I interest any more?"

On November 20, after 13 days of trial, the defendant was found guilty and sentenced to death. Dr. Marton took seven hours to read the court's finding.

The presiding judge pointed out that, although Matushka undoubtedly appeared to be mentally unbalanced, yet he must be held responsible for his deed. The court discounted the theory that the man was acting under a hypnotic spell. On the contrary, the court held that a business motive was the real incentive.

Among his papers, Dr. Marton said, the police had found many blue-prints and notes pertaining to further intended dynamite attacks on trains near Amsterdam, Paris and Milan. Moreover, Matushka had in his possession inventions, not yet patented, designed to minimize the possibility of railroad accidents. The court expressed the conviction that, by bombing trains, the defendant had planned to create a market for his devices.

Although the sentence was death, Matushka will escape capital punishment, due to the fact that there was no death penalty in Hungary at the time of the crime. He will serve life instead.

Meanwhile he still insists Leo the Hypnotist inspired the crime, and his lawyers are appealing on the ground that the prosecution has not disproved this defense.

Frau Helen Matushka, wife of the defendant, entering court.

Was this man the actual instigator of the train bombing in Hungary? (By Globe) This is Leo the Hypnotist, who exerted a strange power over Matushka, and though Leo died many months before the crime, the defendant insisted that THE EYES OF LEO still controlled his every act.

View of the Orient Express wreck the morning after the tragedy that took twenty-eight lives. Matushka hid near the bridge and, daubing his face with blood, dashed down the embankment and became one of the busiest rescuers. The shattered locomotive is shown in the foreground.

Wrecking crew is shown at work in the deep valley into which the crack train plunged after the locomotive struck the charge of dynamite half way across the viaduct. Sylvester Matushka confessed that he was driven to bomb the train by the spirit of a dead hypnotist. Defense witnesses backed up his story at the trial. Police asserted he wrecked trains in the hope that the railroad companies would buy a semaphore device he had invented.

Lost Continents Live In Legend

MAN'S steady progress in mapping the unseen world beneath the oceans by means of echo soundings, sheds occasional tantalizing glimmers of light on the extravagant but haunting legends or scientific theories of lands that vanished under the sea.

On the floor of the Indian ocean a British oceanographic expedition recently discovered a submarine plateau and two buried mountain ranges separated by a deep valley. Immediately men wondered whether these were vestiges of a hypothetical continent, "Lemuria," assumed by the late Ernst Heinrich Haeckel, German naturalist, to have existed in this very locality, in order to explain the distribution of the monkeylike lemurs.

Stories of World-Wide Floods.

The captain of an American naval vessel, on sounding duty in the Pacific for years, has pieced together the outlines of a huge continent-like mass lying deeply submerged between North America and Asia, raising again the question of the one-time existence of a continent in the largest of oceans.

"Since the days of Plato—and probably even before—the imagination of men has been stirred by tales of a whole continent, freighted with humans, suddenly going down by the head like a stricken ship," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"In the folklore of peoples in many parts of the world survive stories of widespread inundation—prototypes, perhaps, of our own Biblical account of the Deluge and Noah's Ark.

"That immense changes have taken place in the distribution of land and water areas in the long life of our planet, has long been known, of course, to students of science. Even elementary students of geology know that our great mountain ranges are largely composed of rocks laid down on the bottoms of vanished seas and then up-raised. The recent discovery of submerged river valleys off Cape Cod and nearly three miles below the surface of the sea in the Bahamas region gives proof that many areas of the present ocean floor were once dry land.

Islands Have Sunk in Modern Times.

"Many islands are known to have disappeared suddenly. Among them is little Sarah Ann, in the mid-Pacific. Scientists expected to use it as a grandstand from which to observe the solar eclipse of 1937, but recently United States naval vessels sought it in vain. The island had vanished. Thousands of lives were lost when Tuanakai in the Cook group was swallowed by the Pacific in 1836.

"But wherever the changes in the face of the earth and sea have involved large areas, they are believed to have come about with the slowness of time itself. The northeastern coast of the United States, for example, is supposed to be sinking at the rate of two feet a century.

"Atlantis is the most famous land lost in the sea. The poignant and fascinating story of Atlantis was given to the world by Plato who had it from Solon who in turn had heard it from a priest of Egypt.

Atlantis Story Preserved in Ocean Name.

"The great Greek wrote of a civilization which flourished some 9,000 years before his time on an island of continental size called Atlantis, which lay beyond Gibraltar, the 'Pillars of Hercules.' A mighty war ensued between Atlantis and Greece. After a fierce battle 'there occurred violent earthquakes and floods' and 'in a day and a fatal night' the rich and populous Atlantis 'disappeared and was sunk beneath the sea.'

"Much of the conjecture since has centered around the Azores which stand on a huge elevation of the ocean floor, the Mid-Atlantic Rise, extending with two short breaks from Iceland to the latitude of Cape Horn, and lying about midway between the Old and New Worlds. Some reputable scientists have maintained that some islands near the Azores may have disappeared, perhaps catastrophically, as late as the human period, thus giving rise to the legend. Others dismiss the whole story as pure fiction.

"At any rate, the name of the 'lost Atlantis' survives in the name of the ocean—Atlantic."

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes.

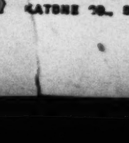

DR. T. J. Rastelli, famous English scientist, Doctor of Medicine and Surgeon, says: "You can't feel well if your Kidneys do not function right, because your Kidneys affect your entire body."

Your blood circulates 4 times a minute through 9 million tiny, delicate tubes in your Kidneys which are endangered by drastic, irritating drugs, modern foods and drinks, worry, and exposure. Beware of Kidney dysfunction if you suffer from Night Rising, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Acidity, or Loss of Pep.

Dr. Walter R. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: "Insufficient Kidney excretions are the cause of much needless suffering with Aching Back, Frequent Night Rising, Itching, Smarting, Burning, Painful Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Headaches, and a generally run-down body. I am of the opinion that the prescription Cystex corrects such functional conditions. It aids in flushing poisons from the urinary tract, and in freeing the blood of retained toxins. Cystex deserves the indorsement of all doctors." If you suffer from Kidney and Bladder dysfunction, delay endangers your vitality, and you should not lose a single minute in starting to take the doctor's special prescription called Cystex (pronounced Sis-tex) which helps Kidney functions in a few hours. It starts work in 15 minutes. Gently tones, soothes, and cleans raw, sore membranes. Brings new energy and vitality in 48 hours. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up and make you feel like new in 8 days or money back on return of empty package. "The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures"

From "Icones Biblicae," Swiss Etcher Matthew Merian's Chronological Story of the Bible, Published in 1625, in Germany

No. 140—"Micah Foretells the Birth of Christ."—Micah prophesied during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, being a contemporary of Isaiah. He is referred to by Jeremiah in Jeremiah xxvi, 18, who tells of an appeal to the precedent of Micah the Morasthite. The seven chapters of the Book of Micah fall into three sets of prophecies. Micah i-iii denounces the sins of Israel and Judah; Micah iv-v promised restoration of Zion, of its temple and of its people, with a gathering in of all nations under the sovereignty of the Messiah. The birth of Christ is foretold. "But thou, Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall He come forth unto Me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting. Therefore will He give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth; then the remnant of His brethren shall return unto the children of Israel. And He shall stand and feed in the strength of the Lord, in the majesty of the name of the Lord His God; and they shall abide: for now shall He be great until the ends of the earth." Micah v, 2-4. In the two concluding chapters of the Book of Micah, Israel is reproved for her sins, particularly her injustice, and her punishment is prophesied. The lack of righteous men and the corruption of Israel are lamented; Micah comforts Israel, promising that she will be restored to her land and will triumph over her enemies: Micah, like Isaiah, particularly attacks the false prophets.

No. 141—"Habakkuk Asks God How Long His Chosen People Must Suffer."—The brief Book of Nahum contains a prophecy concerning the overthrow of Assyria and the destruction of Nineveh, its capital, from which Judah had suffered so severely. He says very little concerning Judah itself. Of the personal history of the prophet Habakkuk we know nothing, and the three chapters of the Book of Habakkuk deal mainly with an appeal which the prophet makes to God concerning the sufferings of His chosen people from cruel oppressors. "O Lord, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not save! Why dost Thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention. Therefore the law is slacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore wrong judgment proceedeth." Habakkuk i, 2-4. Habakkuk iii is a psalm reciting various theophanies, describing God's war-like power, which bends earth, mountains and rivers to His purpose—yea, even the sun and moon, in behalf of His people. The song concludes with a declaration that though the blessings of nature shall fail in days of dearth, the singer will rejoice in the Lord. Zephaniah prophesied in the days of Josiah, the son of Amon, king of Judah. The three chapters of the Book of Zephaniah contain a denunciation of the idolatry of Judah and a description of the day of Jehovah; a call to repentance so that the Israelites may escape the judgment that is to fall on other sinful nations; and promises to Zion of a day of restoration.

No. 142—"Zechariah Exhorts the Israelites ... was a contemporary of Zerubbabel and Joshua, who led those that returned from Babylon, and of the prophet Zechariah, with whom his name is mentioned in Ezra v, 1, and in Ezra vi, 14. His prophecies were designed to rouse the people to support Zerubbabel and Joshua in restoring the temple. Zechariah, the son of Berechiah and the grandson of Iddo, the prophet, a contemporary of Haggai, prophesied during the time of the restoration of the temple. His first utterance was a call to repentance, "The Lord hath been sore displeased with your fathers. Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Turn ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the Lord of hosts." Zechariah i, 2-3. In a series of night-visions Zechariah receives eight symbolic prophecies, and in the ninth chapter of the Book of Zechariah is recorded an important prophecy, the prophecy concerning the coming of Christ and his peaceable kingdom. "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy King cometh unto thee: He is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass. And I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem, and the battle bow shall be cut off: and He shall speak peace unto the heathen: and His dominion shall be from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the ends of the earth." Zechariah ix, 9-10. Malachi, whose Book is the last in order of the prophetical books and the closing book of the Old Testament in the King James version of the Bible, records the affection of God for Judah, rebukes the Israelites for their sins, predicts the coming of a faithful messenger who shall purge Israel, and bids the Israelites look forward to the advent of the Elijah before "the great and dreadful day of the Lord."

A TOUGH-LUCK HAND.

BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

ALTHOUGH I am usually very intolerant of bad playing and bad bidding, there are occasionally bad results which must be condoned. North and South reached a contract of seven spades on the hand below. They had to lose an ace and further needed a three-two trump break to avoid going down more than two, and yet it would have been very difficult for the North-South pair to keep out of this unmakable grand slam. The moral of this story is that one hand out of every thousand or so which comes up is just too tough for even a fine bidding partnership to get around.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

1—A perfectly sound opening bid.

2—South when he picked up his hand started inwardly debating with himself whether or not to open the bidding with two because of the distribution. His partner's opening bid therefore came as a shock to him and he naturally immediately suspected a psychic. However, his two-spade response was absolutely forcing and he hoped thereby to gain additional information.

3—North naturally shows his other suit.

4—South now knows that his partner's opening cannot be psychic as with a psychic North would have responded with two no-trump or at the most rebid the diamonds. South restrained himself from immediately jumping to seven in an effort to find out whether or not his partner was completely void in spades.

5—North now naturally wishes to sign off and does so by bidding three no-trump. His bid cannot be misleading as he at least has something in each of his partner's suits.

6—It did not occur to South not to bid seven at this point. It was purely and simply a matter with him of what suit to choose. South saw no point to bidding four no-trump in the hope of getting a conventional five no-trump response showing the two additional aces, as he did not need both aces to bid a grand slam. The singleton king of diamonds is what sold South on the seven-bid. His partner's opening diamond bid, missing the king, certainly seemed to indicate the ace of that suit and there would be no way for South to find out to the contrary. South decided that even if he did bid four no-trump, and his partner signed off with five clubs, that he would still bid seven—or not bid seven again as long as he lived. It seemed absurd to him merely to invite seven by a long series of bids and then give his partner a chance to stop at six.

South did have two alternatives. He could have bid seven hearts or seven spades and finally decided on the later bid, realizing that to bid seven hearts would give his partner too strong a guess as to whether or not to return to spades with a singleton spade or even a doubleton spade and three or more hearts. On North's three no-trump bid South knew North could not be absolutely void at the worst, a three-two spade break would be needed.

Of course, I need not tell what happened. West cashed his ace of diamonds and then the Declarer still needed a trump break not to go down more than one. Usually when a player contracts for seven and needs a good division to go down only one, the partner has considerable to say. However, North looked at the rest of South's hand after the cards were thrown in and admitted he could not criticize his partner's bid in the least. North had the worst possible hand he could have on the bidding and the ace and king of clubs were absolutely useless.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION.

A correspondent submits the following:

Question: Both sides were vulnerable and the bidding proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1◇	1♡	2♣	3♡
4◇	4♡	Pass	Pass
5◇	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Holding the following cards, what should West lead:

♠ J 7 4
♡ K Q J 5 3
◇ K 8 6
♣ A 5

Answer: A low spade. A careful review of the bidding should make this lead quite obvious. After East has supported West's heart suit when vulnerable (obviously not holding much honor strength), the latter can feel fairly certain that Declarer has at the most one heart loser and probably none. If he has one heart trick to lose, West can always take it after getting in with either his ace of clubs or king of trumps. However, if Declarer has no heart loser, which is more than likely West's only hope of building up the setting trick is in the spade suit immediately while he still has two almost certain cards of re-entry—that is, the club ace and the diamond king. If East has the queen and ten of spades, the queen and nine over Dummy's ten or some similar holding, and Declarer has three cards of that suit, West will have set up his spade trick in time to defeat the contract.

Paris in Full Season

DILKUSHA FOURRURES MAX

JEAN PATOU

Striking Furs and Lavish Draped Effects Lend Rich Variety to the Gay Holiday Mode

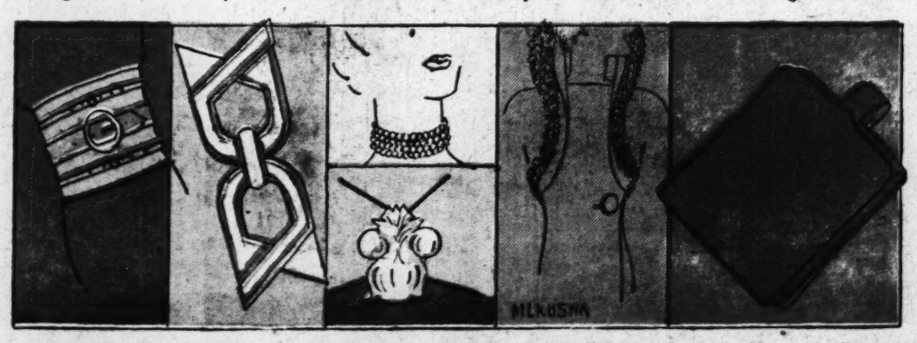

LONG, SLIM LINES Fashion the Black Broadcloth Coat, Trimmed So Adroitly in Gray Astrakhan, Seen on the Left of the Group Sketched Above. It Displays a High Standing Collar Edged With Fur and Fastened With One Button, As Shown in the Small Sketch at the Botton of the Page. In the Center, is Patou's Blue Velvet Ensemble, Fitting Almost Like a Girdle at the Hips and Jauntily Buttoned There. With it is Worn an Astrakhan Shoulder Cape. At the Extreme Right, is the Dress of This Ensemble, Edged at Neck and Sleeves with White Organdy, Crisp Against the Velvet. The Skirt is Split in Three Places, with Neatly Rounded Corners.

NOW, with society in full swing—at the opera, the cafes, the salons of Paris—every-day and every-night fashions are on constant parade. No more Winter surprises. One sees at important functions the prevailing mode, delightfully freshened or adapted to suit the individual. Here we picture a few typical examples.

Dresses that sweep the ground in back and wraps that dip somewhat to conform with them; wraps that give a circular line about the shoulders and upper arms are rich in fur. Collars stand high in back and outline the face like a picture frame; wide girdle-belts cleverly made of silk and leather, resemble in tailored form a toreador's sash. Hats are pert and brimless, usually trimmed with fur to match the coats, while hostess gowns, with dripping, glistening sleeves of the "moyen age," are everywhere that well-dressed women are.

One of the best colors, unusual, too, for Winter, seems to be blue, a vivid electric blue. It is good for evening wear in silk or velvet and, even, in a few cases, in wool. It is also popular for suits and afternoon dresses. Combinations of black and gold or black and a fur with a yellow cast (like leopard) are favored. And nothing, not sashes nor skirts nor sleeves, are made simply this year It is a season of swirling materials.

ACCESSORIES—That Pinched-in Look is Guaranteed with the Belt, at the Left, Made of Material to Match the Dress and With Three Leather Belts Appliqued to It. Next Is a Belt-Buckle in Gold and Silver by Bruyere. Center; a Pearl Choker for Evening Wear and Smoked Crystal Ornament on Black Cord. Next, a Front View of the Black Broadcloth Coat Shown Above and, at the Right, Shiaparelli's Calf Handbag in Unusual Shape.

GORGEOUS COSTUMES FEATURE NINE O'CLOCKS ANNUAL NEW YEAR CELEBRATION AT THE PIEDMONT DRIVING CLUB

(Photos by Kenneth Rogers)

FRANK HAROLD carried off first prize for men with this quintuplet costume. Miss Betty Van Bibber is the "nurse." Many elaborate and original designs were paraded before the judges at the Nine O'Clocks New Year ball. It is one of Atlanta's most brilliant annual society events.

WHO WOULDN'T BE IN FAVOR OF SLAVERY?—Miss Betty Timmons, in the costume of a Christian slave girl, was one of the striking figures at the Nine O'Clocks ball.

MISS FRANCES WEINMAN in the handsome costume of an English equestrienne, caught by the camera at the Nine O'Clocks New Year ball. She was awarded first prize for the most striking ladies' costume.

MISS CAROLINE NOBLE JONES, wore the colorful dress of a Spanish senorita at the Nine O'Clocks New Year ball.

ALL OF THE DAINTINESS and charm of the land of cherry blossoms was vividly portrayed by Miss Louise Calhoun at the Nine O'Clocks New Year ball.

WRECKAGE OF A UNITED AIRLINES PLANE after it crashed into trees during a snowstorm in a Chicago suburb. Pilot David L. Behncke and his co-pilot, Kenneth Quayle, suffered serious injuries.

MRS. WALTER P. CHRYSLER, left, New York social registerite, shown with Mrs. Beatrice Bixby as they arrived at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, to attend the opening performance of the 52nd season.

AN UNUSUAL CONTROVERSY HAS BEEN SETTLED in Philadelphia by a court decision instructing the parents of Mrs. Elsie Grone, 14-year-old bride, to allow her to live with her 23-year-old husband—provided the husband hands his $20 weekly salary over to his parents-in-law.

IT'S A SWAN—NOT PALM — DIVE. Katherine Rawls executing the graceful swan dive at Miami Beach. Miss Rawls holds the national low and highboard diving championship and is preparing for the indoor title meet.

CAPITOL'S "HELLO" GIRLS HANDLE 30,000 CALLS DAILY. These telephone operators at the national capitol handle an average of 30,000 calls daily to senators and representatives.

ORR-ROANE WEDDING PARTY—Principals in the recent wedding of Miss Eleanor Orr, of Newnan, and Charles Moseley Roane, of Palmetto, photographed just before the ceremony. Left to right, Miss Emma Orr, maid of honor; Ben S. Orr, Tom Arnold, best man; the bridegroom, the bride, I. N. Orr, father of the bride; Ann Freeman Lee, flower girl; Daniel Braxton Blalock and Mrs. Dora Orr Wilkinson, matron of honor.

REVEALED FRANCO-RUSSIAN WAR AGREEMENT—Leon Archimbaud, of the French finance committee, who announced recently that in case of war with Germany, Russia had agreed to help France.

AMELIA EARHART MAY FLY PACIFIC. Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic and trans-continental pilot may add the Pacific ocean to her air conquests. She is shown above with Paul Mantz, another pilot, who will accompany her.

BERNARD M. BARUCH, New York financier, caught by the candid camera at the house foreign affairs committee hearing in Washington. Mr. Baruch urged the government to buy and store thousands of tons of tin for use in the event of another war.

THESE CADDIES in their snappy Scotch costumes will lend a festive air to the opening of the Pasadena open, which leads off Southern California's winter golf season.

A MOUNTAIN OF WATER is about to sweep over the forward deck of the S. S. Europa as the great liner plunges about in the storm that sank two ships and cost a score of lives. This picture was taken on the voyage to New York from Europe.

ERICH VON STROHEIM, who once held the distinction of being the costliest motion picture director, not only is without a job, but his bank account is two dollars overdrawn, he testified in a Los Angeles court.

TROUSERS FOR TRAVEL—Judith Allen, the actress, shown as she disembarked at Newark after arriving from the west coast. She startled onlookers with her beige and white checked tweed suit with trousers.

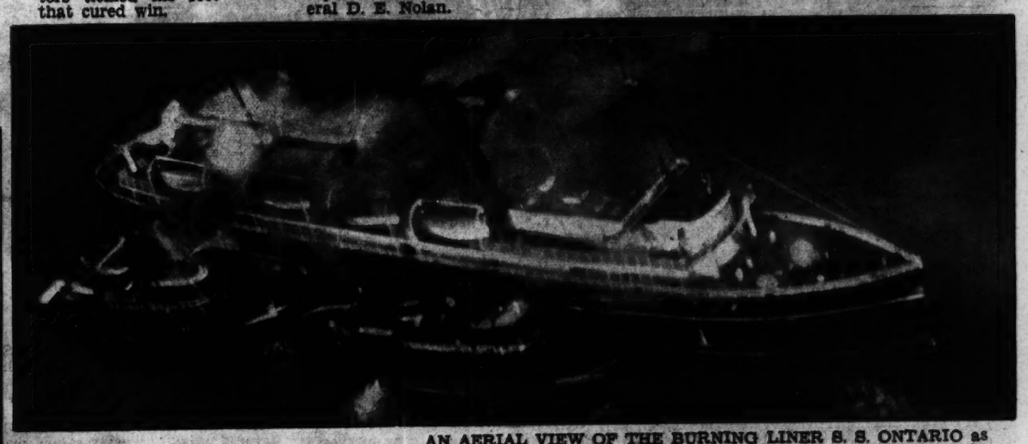

RUDY'S FATHER BUYS FIRST "LEGAL LIQUOR" IN MAINE—Charles A. Vallee, father of the radio favorite, had the distinction of making the first purchase under Maine's new "wet" law. The state had been dry for 75 years.

GEORGE VAN CLEAS Chicago policeman started yawning and couldn't stop. He yawned all night and the next day—about 20,000 times in all. Then doctors tickled his feet—that cured him.

GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING, commander of the American Expeditionary Force during the World War, (right) as he returned to New York from Europe. With him is General D. E. Nolan.

AN AERIAL VIEW OF THE BURNING LINER S. S. ONTARIO as she was towed through Boston harbor to Governor's Island to be beached. Efforts to extinguish the fire proved fruitless.

ROBERT W. BINGHAM, American ambassador to the Court of St. James, and his wife, are shown here as they returned to the United States to spend the holidays. Judge Bingham is a part-time resident of Georgia.

INTERNATIONAL GOLF GAME — A quartet of the world's foremost diplomats forget their trials on the golf course at Walton, England. And a little thing like a rain storm doesn't ruffle them a bit. Left to right, Norman Davis, American ambassador-at-large; Admiral Stanley of the United States navy; Sir John Simon, of England, and Ambassador Matsudaira, of Japan.

AND NO PLACE FOR POOR LI'L LETTERS! — The city of Pittsburgh finally got itself a nice new post-office building, costing many millions of dollars. Only one trouble has developed — the architects forgot to include a place to mail ordinary letters!

TERMITES GO IN FOR HIGHER EDUCATION—Shock troops of the FERA have been sent to California libraries to battle the deadly termite. The little boring bug has been destroying many valuable books as shown here.

LARGEST AMERICAN AIR-LINER. This new giant Martin seaplane designed for trans-oceanic service, is shown on Chesapeake Bay. The plane weighs 25 tons.

WORN BY MISS KATHERINE HIRSCH, the great-great-granddaughter of the woman who made it, this prim calico frock was stitched up in 1840—and every stitch is still good. "Great-great-grandmother Sara Rogers was wise in the ways of sewing," says her descendant proudly, "she knew what women of today know—that J. & P. COATS best 6-cord thread seldom breaks—while you're sewing, or afterwards."

GEORGIA ORANGES—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith, prominent Savannahians, inspecting one of the heavily-laden Satsuma trees on "Lebanon," the estate of Mills B. Lane, near Savannah. (Kenneth Rogers)

GEORGIA EXPERIMENT IN ORANGE GROWING continues to be successful. Several years ago, Mills B. Lane, of Savannah, set out an experimental Satsuma grove on his estate near that city. The quantity and quality of the fruit have justified his confidence. Miss Rosa Carson, Mrs. George Cope and Miss Jaime Hancock are shown with one of the trees. (Kenneth Rogers)

PEACHES BROWNING, with her new husband, Bernard J. Hines, New York theatrical man. "Peaches" made national headlines in 1925 when she married the late millionaire, Daddy Browning.

LOCOMOTIVE EXPLODES — Fifteen men were killed when the locomotive of a work-train exploded near Powellton, W. Va., recently. The men were miners going to work. Photo shows remains of the cars.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THEY ARE CATTLE—Highland cattle off to an agricultural and livestock show, near London.

MENTAL MARVEL—Little Miss Sedell Gould, age 19 months, of Detroit, remembers the names of all visitors to her home, can pick out any letter of the alphabet and does many other astonishing things.

SURPRISE — Anne Gould, beautiful daughter of the wealthy and socially prominent Jay Goulds, of New York, who eloped and was married recently to F. Spencer Meador, of Texas. The chief of police and town clerk of Harrison, N. Y., were witnesses of the nuptial ceremonies.

WHAT YOU WILL WEAR THIS SPRING—White Panama trimmed in black designed for spring and summer wear. The edge of the brim is black straw and across the top is a black ribbon tied in a bow.

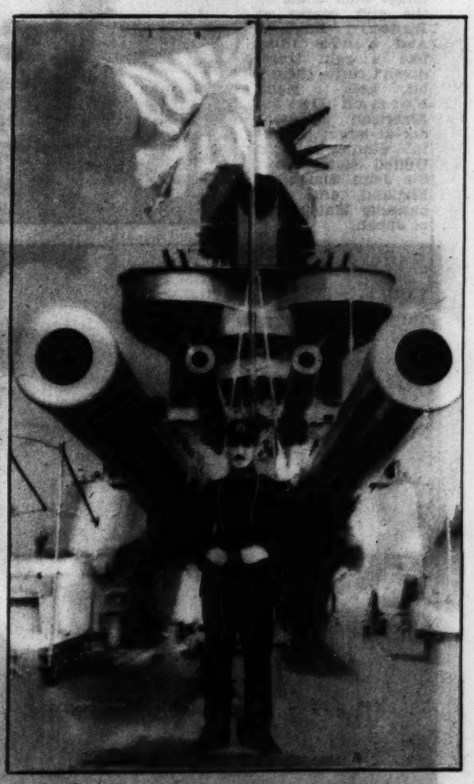

BETTY GOW, the last person to see Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., alive, returned to the United States recently to participate in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

A FAR CRY FROM 1917!—British troops in the Saar for the purpose of policing during the plebiscite period are making great friends with the residents.

MISS ISOBEL STELLE, 24, a violin student, returned to the United States, recently after an eventful round of experiences that started with her arrest in Berlin. She was thrown into a nazi prison camp charged with being a spy and remained there for four months before being released.

"BIG GUN" OF JAP NAVY—Admiral Sankichi Takahashi, new commander-in-chief of the combined fleet of Japan. He is making full preparations for the coming, so-called "emergency period" of 1935.

Many an American youth, with democracy's passion for reaching the unreachable, dreams of being a knight—a nobleman—with great estates and power to do good and a place in lofty social and political circles. It is usually merely a dream, but a Boston boy whose wildest dreams came true, found himself when full grown, transformed into a Prince Charming by the wand of a fairy godmother who bestowed her own name and title upon him, bequeathed him rights in her great estates in far-away Germany and entrusted him with the duty of carrying on her ancient line! "Baron Bill" tells in today's Constitution Magazine how he met the countess and was inspected by his new family, and by Hitler himself, in Germany.

BE SEATED, GENTLEMEN. I CAN TALK TO YOU WHILE I FINISH SHAVING OFF MY BEARD.

I CALLED YOU IN FROM THE DIFFERENT CITIES WHERE YOU WERE STATIONED TO TELL YOU OUR PRESENT PLANS TO BLOW UP THE MONEY VAULTS ARE TO BE POSTPONED! WE HAVE A MORE IMPORTANT TASK TO DO FIRST!

AS YOU KNOW, I SHOT MY WAY OUT OF DETECTIVE HEADQUARTERS AND ESCAPED FROM THEIR ACE, TRACY, ONLY BY THE SKIN OF MY TEETH! THREE OF OUR BROTHERS WHO ATTEMPTED THE GETAWAY WITH ME WERE UNSUCCESSFUL.

WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS, A-1?
WE'RE SIDETRACKING EVERYTHING UNTIL WE HAVE REMOVED THE DETECTIVE GET IT?
HE STANDS IN OUR WAY!

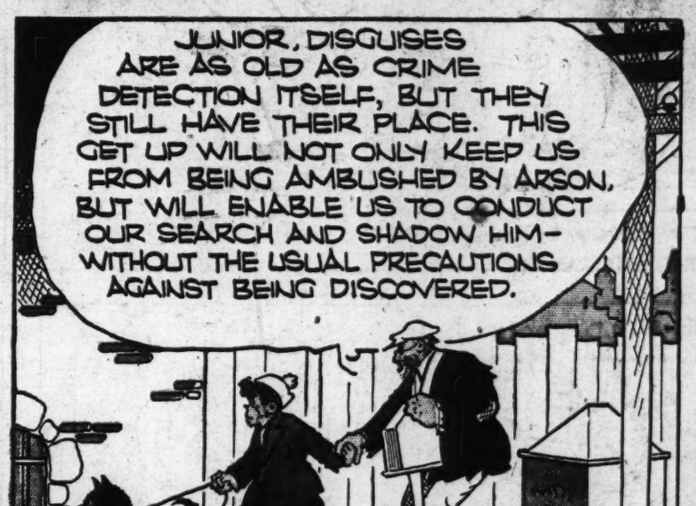

I HAVE SHAVED OFF MY BEARD TO CHANGE MY APPEARANCE - AND YOU MEN ARE UNKNOWN TO HIM - SO WE SHOULD BE ABLE TO GIVE HIM THE SLIP WHILE WE'RE CORNERING HIM.
BUT A-1 - WHAT ABOUT THAT WOMAN - THE MAID WHO STOLE YOUR BLUE-PRINTS AND TIPPED OFF THE GOVERNMENT?

AHA! SHE WILL BE TAKEN CARE OF IN THE SAME MANNER AS THE DETECTIVE, BUT ONLY AFTER HIM! WE CAN CHECK ON HER LATER - SHE UNDOUBTEDLY IS UNDER OFFICIAL PROTECTION!

MEANWHILE
HOT DOG! AT LAST, TRACY - AT LAST I'M GETTING TO PLAY THE PART OF A REAL DETECTIVE WITH YOU.
QUIT TALKING SO MUCH - AND GET INTO THAT OUTFIT WHILE I FIX THIS PUTTY NOSE OF MINE
WIG

GEE WHIZ! BORIS ARSON OR ANYBODY ELSE WOULDN'T KNOW YOU IN THAT GET UP!
YEAH? WELL MAYBE "OSCAR" WILL TAKE A BITE OUT OF ME - HE'S GIVING ME A DIRTY LOOK.

NOW REMEMBER! FROM NOW ON - I'M A BLIND MAN AND YOU HAVE TO LEAD ME EVERYWHERE WE GO.

JUNIOR, DISGUISES ARE AS OLD AS CRIME DETECTION ITSELF, BUT THEY STILL HAVE THEIR PLACE. THIS GET UP WILL NOT ONLY KEEP US FROM BEING AMBUSHED BY ARSON, BUT WILL ENABLE US TO CONDUCT OUR SEARCH AND SHADOW HIM - WITHOUT THE USUAL PRECAUTIONS AGAINST BEING DISCOVERED.

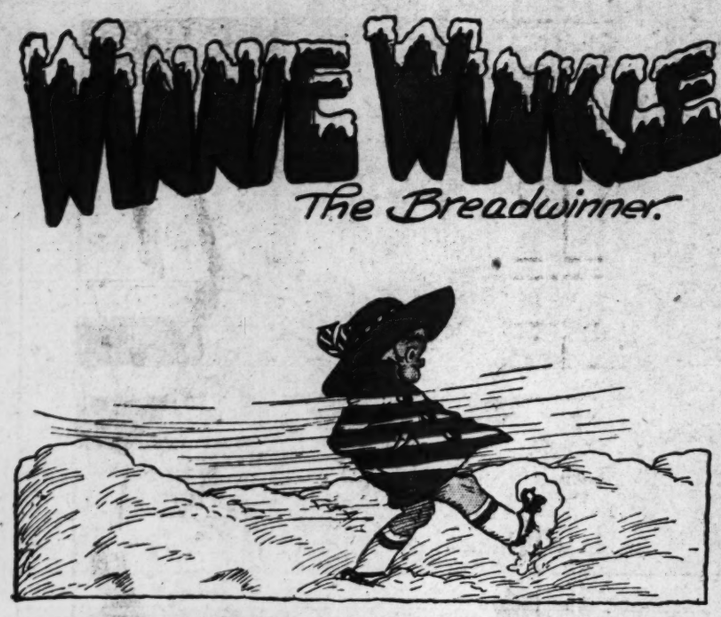

ALL RIGHT, MEN - DRAW A NUMBER FROM THE HAT. THE LUCKY NUMBER DOES THE JOB! AND REMEMBER - IT'S TO BE AN ASSASSINATION - NOTHING LESS.

WELL B-6, YOU GET THE JOB.
HOW AM I TO KNOW THIS FLATFOOT? WHAT DOES HE LOOK LIKE?
HE IS VERY EASY TO RECOGNIZE, B-6 - I SHALL GIVE YOU ALL THE NECESSARY INSTRUCTIONS.

AND AT THIS SAME TIME IN WASHINGTON.....
MRS. STEELE, AS LONG AS YOU INSIST ON BEING ON YOUR WAY - THIS WILL HELP YOU - IT'S A CHECK FOR FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS. EVEN THOUGH BORIS ARSON IS STILL AT LARGE, YOUR TIP WAS INSTRUMENTAL IN THE BREAKING UP OF HIS RING - THIS IS YOUR REWARD.
THANK YOU SO MUCH.

While poets and song-writers have penned many a romantic verse celebrating the changeableness of the feminine mind, how does the modern, sophisticated man of the world react to this ancient female prerogative? Does he, too, concede to woman the right to say "yes" one moment and "no" the next, or does he rail against this habit and demand that she become what he considers a rational being? Read "No Limitations On the Female's Right To Change Her Mind," on Page 3 of today's CONSTITUTION MAGAZINE.
